COUNCIL BLUFFS.

THURSDAY MORNING, FEB. 18. OFFICE, NO. 12, PEARL STREET.

Delivered by entrier in any part of the city a twenty cents per week. H. W. TILTON, · · · Manager.

BUSINESS OFFICE, No. 43,

MINOR MENTION. Pants to order, from $5 up, at Reiter's.

The city council is to meet at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Gilbert & Utterback are adding agricultural implements to their business. Prayer meeting will be held this evening at the Union chapel. All are invited.

The mayor is off on another trip-hunting up liberty lovers or looking after his new book. In the circuit court yesterday a divorce was granted in the case of Frank Riddle vs. Ada Riddle.

In the circuit court yesterday lengthy arguments were made on the motion to appoint a receiver for Cocke & Morgan. Maggie Mitchell is to appear at the opera house on the 23d. Although she has been so long before the public she is still a transite.

William Henny was yesterday fined for being drunk, and enjoyed the distinction of furnishing the only case for the supe-

James H. O'Neil and Lena Miller, both of Council Bluffs, were married yester-day at the residence of Mrs. Roberts on Mynster street, Justice Schurz officiat-Matrimonial permits were issued yes-terday to G. S. Scott and Josie Hanifan of Omaha, John T. Clark of this city and Orphie I. Waldo of Crescent, W. W. Whipple and Sarah Lake of Hancock.

The legislative committee which has been examining into the affairs of the institution for the deaf and dumb here, has returned to Des Moines and promises to have a report ready in a few days. Michael Strogoff is to be presented at the opera house this evening. It is one of the linest spectaculars, when properly presented, but there is little to it besides that. If the play is mounted elaborately and has the proper scenic effects it is grand.

The junior class of the high school has organized as a literary and social club. and had its initial gathering at the home of Miss Dora Grass Monday evening. The evening was very pleasantly spent, the literary portion of the entertainment being confined to the works of Scott.

About 6 o'clock last evening a man named George Gleason was injured by a dirt bank falling upon him. He was covered up to his head. His hip was dislo-cated and he received other injuries. He was driving a dirt team for Mr. Woliger, and was at work on a bank near Bord-

A good joke is quietly going the rounds of some of the young society gentlemen in this city, the joke being one that was played a short time ago on a young man by some young ladies and his sister. During his absence they sewed incon-venient seams in all his clothing except his dress suit. He found it out when trying to "enter" another suit.

Mr. J. J. Brown is being named as a Mr. J. J. Brown is being named as a possible candidate for mayor on the democratic ticket. He is a man who would run like a deer if he would accept the nomination. The citizens are talking now-a-days of some pretty good man for that office, and it looks as if the voters would be relieved from the usual necessity of choosing between two evils.

A preliminary citizens' boom started yesterday in favor of Colonel John W. Chapman for mayor. It is understood that the attempt will be made to call him out by offering him the support of citizens of both parties. It is not known whether he would allow his name to be used, but so there are many who would rally in his favor, and some democrats are named as among the number.

The snow still holds good on Graham avenue, and crowds still gather there nightly to coast. The new traverse, Bliz-zard, seems to have turned out to be the "Boss of the Bluffs," it having "went around" the Aligator, and on Tuesday night made the longest run even made by any traverse-over the second hill away down to the front of Mrs. Walker's residence, where it was stopped on bare ground.

It is understood from those who ought to know that it is useless to talk of Mr. Lucius Wells for mayor. He is at present absent from the city seeking recuperation and restored health, he having been obliged to seek relief from the rush of business, which has taken his strength and jeopardized his nervous system. He would make an excellent mayor, and would receive the hearty support of many of the best citizens of both parties. Could Council Bluffs secure—such—a man for its mayor it would be a prize, but in view of his physical condition, and the demands of his private business, it is said to be useless to talk of it.

A Forgotten Law.

It may be a good deal of a surprise to many to learn that in the ordinance in regard to the fire department the following section occurs:

"No spirituous, fermented or malt liquors shall be permitted in any engine house or other house used by the depart-ment. Any member found drunk shall be discharged."

The strict enforcement of this part of the ordinance might put a stop to many street rumors, which are often passed about in an exaggerated form, and growing in the passing. When there is a laxity of discipline innocent members of the department have to suffer with the others, and the reputation of the department as a whole rapidly goes down.

The New Volume of City Ordinances Being Inspected and Criticised.

Trade Topics-Cracked Chinaman-Dead Drunk Ordinance-Charity Concert-Talking Temperance to a Cold Water Town.

The $1,500 Book.

The recently published volume of city ordinances is still being inspected, the council not having decided what to do about paying the bill, which amounts to over $1,500. The mayor, who does not have any love for the Globe, which did the printing, nor for Colonel Keatley, who did the compiling, has had a printer at work reading every page of the book for errors. Thus far a goodly number of typographical errors have been found, but not more, perhaps, than would naturally occur in publishing a book of this size. The most complaint found is that there has been an apparent disposition to make as much "fat" as possible. The contract was to furnish 500 books at $1.50 a page, so that the number of pages has a good deal to do in settling the amount of money to be got out of it. There are nearly 700 pages, so that the cost of the printing bill is over $1,000. There are thirty or more pages on which there is not a line of printed matter. These will serve as convenient for making a memoranda, perhaps, and there is not much complaint made about these. The last compilation of the city ordinances, in-cluding the publication of the city char-ter and other matters, made a volume of ter and other matters, made a volume of about 450 pages, so that the present one is fully 250 pages larger. At this rate of enlargement the city ordinances, by the opening of a new century, will form a pretty good sized library.

The chief complaint about the book seems the work of the compiler. There are ordinances printed in the volume which have been repealed. For instance, there is an ordinance providing for a city jailer and defining his duties. Then there is printed another ordinance, a later one, repealing the first and providing for two repealing the first and providing for two jailers. Still further on in the book appears this latter ordinance, again given in full. There are two or more ordinances in regard to water works, which are said to be dead and of no earthly account, or heavenly either, which are published in full, taking much space, for which the eity has to pay and which lumber up the volume. Where ordinances have been passed amending some other ordinance, the original is published, and then the amendatory ordinances, instead of publishing the ordinance as amended and noting the amendments by putting the words in italies and noting the date of amendment in a side note. The publishing of all these ordinances in this way makes a fat book for the printers, but makes an unwieldy and inconvenient one for reference. The index is also criti-cised as being quite bungling and misleading.

Colonel Keatley was to be paid $500 for his work. This makes the work cost the city over $1,500 for the 500 volumes, or over $3 a volume. The committee are examining into the matter closely to see whether the work is according to con-tract. It is quite likely that the present council will put off the settlement of the bill till after election, so that the new council may have to shoulder the responsibility, and the amount will not be counted in to this year's city expenditures. There has been so much legislation by the council the past few years, and so much tinkering of ordinances, that the work of getting the city law in intelli-gent, convenient shape was a difficult one, but so long as the city was to expend any such large amount for this purpose, it should see to it that the need is met.

In Social Circles.

At the residence of John T. Oliver, No. 331 Park avenue, on Tuesday evening, Miss Mand Oliver entertained very elegantly about thirty of her triends. The amusements of the evening were dancing and card playing. The Misses Anna and Barbara Merkel, Nettie Gerner, Ida Tostevin and Blanche Oliver rendered vocal selections, much to the delight of the guests. Refreshments were served at 11 o'clock. Among the guests present were the Misses Anna Merkel, Barbara Mer-kel, Lu Tostevin, Ida Tostevin, Kitty Conover, Anna Bowman, Lotta Forman, May Forman, Clara Beck, Katie Gerner, Ida Myers, Nettie Gerner, Clara Myers, Messrs, Walsh and Holsheimer of Omaha, Frank Miller, Ed Bowman, Oscar Kee-line, John Pusey, Perry Badolette, Walter Smith, W. There was a brilliant social gathering at the elegant residence of General Dodge Tuesday evening, it being a tea and an evening reception given by Mrs. R J. Montgomery, assisted by Miss Neilie Chapman. The attractiveness of the luxurious home was made still greater by special decorations, while taste and hospitality characterized every detail of the arrangements for the entertainment of the guests. At 6 o'clock there was an the guests. At 6 o'clock there was an elegant tea party, at which the following ladies were present; The Misses Wadleigh of Clinton, Miss Gage of Lyons, Miss Stone of Madison, Wis., and the Misses Haas, Jones, Richardson, Stewart, Larmer, Gilbert, Brown and Bebbington. As the guests left the dining room each was presented with a handsome favor, hand-painted, of unique and artistic design.

Talks About Trade. "What are the business prospects in Nebraska for the coming season, Mr. Thompson," said a BEE representative to G. W. Thompson of the firm of Van Brunt, Thompson & Co., in that firm's office yesterday, "I understand you have been over a large portion of that state since your absence?"

Mr. Thompson replied: "I think she'll carry off the palm. I believe everybody selling goods in Nebraska this season will do well, trade there will be more satisfactory than in almost any other state in the union. Every indication points in favor of a fine trade."

The BEE man then met H. H. Van Brunt, the senior member of the same Brunt, the senior member of the same firm, who returned yesterday morning from a business trip east. In reply to the business outlook and feeling where he had been he said: "Things are mighty quiet. The prospects east for business this summer are very poor. They hope for business to pick up but guess trade through Iowa and Nebraska will be quite brisk before long; indica-tions out here are favorable."

Just before leaving the office A. A. Parsons was spied by the BEE man who received his opinion in the following words: "I've only made a short trip west lately and don't know hardly what the outlook is, but one thing certain, business since January 1st has been very dull, owing to the fact that produce BRILLIANT SOCIAL EVENTS. dull, owing to the fact that produce could not move on account of the snow. Prospects are fair and I think fully as good, if not better than they been for several years.

Cracked China. At the transfer yesterday a crazy Chinaman caused quite a little excitement. He first snatched the cap off the head of a C., B. & Q. conductor, and as he demolished that Officer McMillan tried to stop him. He quickly tore the golden star from the breast of the gallant officer, and was getting away with the gold watchehain of a bystander when he was overpowered. Officer Smullen brought him up to the police station, where he was registered as "Lee John Fu, Cheynemann." It was difficult to determine whether he was crazy or wild from drink or opium, but the physician called in to attend to him was of the opinion that opium or drink had nothing to do with his actions, but he was straight erazy. A feliow countryman who resides here was called in also, but could learn little from him in regard to where he came from or whither he was going.

The Charity Concert.

The committee started out yesterday to sell the tickets for the charity concert Saturday evening, and met with extraordinary success. The gentlemen having the matter in charge are devoting much time and labor, and the business portion of the city will be thoroughly canvassed by them. The tickets are only 50 cents each and everybody almost can afford at least one. The following ladies and gentlemen, all home talent, will take part: Misses Anna and Barbara Merkel, the Misses Gerner, Miss Ida Tostevin, Miss Fanny Westcott, Mrs. J. Roff, Miss Katie Edingar, and Messes I. M. Treynor. W. H. Treynor, D. Stubbs, F. Stubbs, J. Roff, D. Roff, F. Badollet and Prof. Dalby.

A Cold Water Town. SHENANDOAH, Iowa, Feb. 16.-Your correspondent had the pleasure of listening to a very interesting lecture here by Mrs. J. Eilen Foster. A large audience of the best citizens of Shenandoah gathered in the opera house to hear her speak on the temperance question. There was less need, perhaps, for such a lecture here than in many places. Very little whisky is sold here, and no saloons are allowed to rua. For all this it is a lively business place, with a good, intelligent class of business men. There are two good hotels, of which the Blodgett house takes the lead, Father Blodgett being a great favorite with the boys. The BEE is the favorite daily here, and is being read by more people than any other.

HOW SOME RICH MEN BATHE.

The Bath-Rooms of the Vanderbilts, Mr. Marquand, Mr. Garrett and Others. New York Star: The millionaire's bath-New York Star: The millionaire's bath-room marks the age. Nothing so gives the sign of the material prosperity of the country, the growth of luxury, the indul-gence of the senses. In the past few years there have been placed in private residences a half-dozen bath-rooms that are veritably palatial. In fact, the pre-vailing style of the bath-room of the money king has been suggested from those of royal palaces, and particularly from the famous one placed by Fran-cis I. in the cheateau of Chenonceaux on

The chateau of Chenonceaux is now he home of M. Daniel Wilson, the sonin-law of President Grevy, and the bath oom still remains one of the features of room still remains one of the features of the interior. The walls are covered with small beveled mirrors, scarcely larger than a span. Between these panels runs a slender line of gold, and at the inter-sections hang metal drops like tears, and just long enough to be reflected in the glass. The effect is most limpid and bril-liant, and the panels are so small that the liant, and the panels are so small that the purposes of a mirror are skillfully frusrated. The bath is of solid silver, with the water issuing from swan's heads, which, with a mirror behind, produces the illusion of swans on the surface of the water. All the other appointments are in keeping with this magnificence, even to an ante-room, where repose can be found with eigars atter the bath.

The famous bath-room in the palace of Fontainebleau was modeled after the Chenonceaux bath by Louis XVI for his Queen, Marie Antoinette. The bath, it will be remembered, is an alcove of the ante-room, and is just large enough for its purposes The walls are paneled in large mirrors of beveled glass, and on these are painted cupids with garlands of lace, above, around, about, and each as if about to leap from the air to earth.

This brings us directly to the present.

The late Mr. W. H. Vanderbilt's bath room is paneled in mirrors, but over these is painted a delicate lace-like design that is exquisite in effect, and de-stroys the power of the glass for reflection. Its magnificence, however, is ex-ceeded by the bath-room of his son, Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt. The walls here are paneled with mirrors, and on these are painted apple-blossoms, but by no means so thickly as to obscure the glass. The ceiling is in Henry II. panels of white and gold, with horses in the center. The bath is a solid block of marble, and the water issues from swans' heads, as in that of the chateau of Chenonceaux Above the bath is a niche with a marble Venus prepared for the bath. There is a Pompelian table of marble, handsomely carved, and a toilet adjoining of Ecaillon marble.

Mr. Henry Marquand has modeled his bath after the luxurious room in Jerome Bonaparte's superb house in Paris. In this the bath is sunk, Pompelian fashion, this the bath is sunk, Pompelian fashion, in the floor, and above in the ceiling is a beautiful summer sky. Mr. Marquand has had his walls wainscoted with cream-colored tiles. Above these is a painted frieze, representing flowers springing from a hodge-row; the arch of the ceiling springs from this frieze. This is given the semblance of the sky, across which birds are skimming. The marble bath is sunk several feet in the floor, and is reached by a descent of several steps. It is said that, exclusive of the artist' work, Mr. Marquand's bath-room cost $4,000 Works of art are considered nowhere

Works of art are considered nowhere Works of art are considered nowhere more appropriate than in the bath-room when their subjects are significant. In that of the late Mr. Charles J. Osborne, at Mamaroneck, there is a large frame overlooking the bath by Mr. George Maynard. The subject is inevitably yenus with loves at a fountain. The figures are life size in limoges tiles fired by the volkmar process. The walls otherwise are lined and ceiled with white enamel tiles, with a spotless porcelainenamel tiles, with a spotless porcelain-

To each chamber is attached a large, lofty bath room, with mosaic floors, walls lined with white enamel tiles, porcelain lined bath and marble toilet, and instead of works of art, the distinguishing feature is the exposure of all the plumbing.

The Proper Use of Sunday. "What is the proper use of Sunday?" asks a religious weekly. The answer is so numerous that we haven't space to print it. The woman with a new bonnet has one answer, the man who loves fish-ing has another, while the owner of a pair of fast horses may differ from both. The base-ballist seems to think that the proper use of Sunday in the west is to play a match game for the championship, but in the east he devotes the day to explain how the last four games lost by his nine might have been won. There is nothing so diverse as the diversity of opinion in regard to the proper use of Sunday. Man's Work Is Done. "What? Women overworked? Fudge! Think of the men!"

"Ah, but you know the old saying, 'Woman's work is never done."

"I know it, and that's the reason she oughtn't to complain. Now, a man has to do his work or lose his job."

The One Saving Grace. "Landlord," said a Wisconsin traveler, emerging from the dining-room after a long and fraitless struggle to secure a dinner—"Landlord, there's one thing you have here that's as good as the Palmer house, Chicago." "I am very glad to please you sir. What is it?" "The
