Is It Really Consumption?

Many a case supposed to be radical lung disease is really one of liver complaint and indigestion, but, unless that diseased liver can be restored to healthy action, it will so clog the lungs with corrupting matter as to bring on their speedy decay, and then indeed we have consumption, which is scrofula of the lungs, in its worst form. Nothing can be more happily calculated to nip this danger in the bud than is Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." By druggists.

English footmen are principally for ornament. Dressed finer than their masters, fed often as well—for they drink up the heel-taps at dinner, and pilfer the plates and jellies, no doubt, as they take them down stairs—they lead a lazy life, sitting on cushioned carriages, or lounging in front of shops and palaces, with benches placed for them on the pavements while they wait. They are always conspicuous figures on the drive or at dinner, at the opera or a ball. People in society see as much of the servants as of themselves, and the servants see all that their betters do, and mock and despise them while they bow and obey.

In making the assertion tha Pozzoni's medicated complexion powder is entirely free from injurious or deadly poisons, we do it upon the authority of a thorough chemical analysis. It is one of the oldestface powders in the American market, and is used in the families of some of our most prominent medical men who have personally acknowledged to the proprietor that they not only consider it harmless, but esteemed it highly beneficial in every respect, not only for the use of ladies and children but for the 'lord of creation' himself. Sold by druggists.

An American lady writing home from Tokio, Japan, says: The other day, on one of my rare visits to the kitchen, a hairpin became loosened and dropped without my notice. I had been seated in my own room only a few moments when my houseman entered, bearing a small salver, which he presented to me with many genuflections. Fancy my surprise to see a little hairpin upon it, and to learn from my proud but embarrassed servitor that it had fallen to the kitchen floor from my head. Afterward I found there had been a discussion as to who should pick it up, and almost a quarrel as to whom belonged the inestimable honor of bearing it to its owner.

Public speakers and singers find B. H. Douglass & Sons' Capsicum Cough Drops sure remedy for hoarseness.

A small bird, which accidentally discovered in a looking-glass in a paint shop at Visalia, Cal., its counterpart, pays daily morning and evening visits to look at its reflection. The local paper says that while before the mirror it resorts to all the coquettish acts by which a bird could render itself graceful and attractive. The habits of the bird are so methodical that the painters know when to expect it. The weather does not deter it from visiting the mirror, and it has become quite tame and is a favorite with the workmen.

"That tired feeling" from which you suffer so much, particularly in the morning, is entirely thrown off by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Sir Frederick Leighton, president of the Royal academy, is engaged on the decoration of Mr. Marquand's mansion in New York, and Mr. Alma Tedema is is designing furniture for its music room. The chief d'œuvre is the pianoforte case, which will be enriched by paintings from the hand of Mr. Poynter, R. A. The cabinet work is executed by Messrs. Johnstone, of Bond street, London.

Weighed in the balance and not found wanting,—St. Jacobs Oil. Price, 50 cents.

The ancient Egyptians were simple in their diet, as were the early Greeks. We know from Homer that his heroes ate like barbarians. In a later age professional cooks arose, some of whom could serve up a pig roasted on one side, boiled on another and so delightfully stuffed that the parts tasted like different dishes. Archestratus, a poet and epicure, traveled far and wide, enduring hardships and defying dangers, to add to the luxuries of the Athenian table.

Angostura Bitters, the world renowned appetizer and invigorator. Used now over the whole civilized world. Try it, but beware of imitations. Ask your grocer or druggist for the genuine article, manufactured by Dr. J. G. B. Siegert & Sons.

A map of the world made by Jodocus Hondius, at Amsterdam, in 1613, was found at Frankfort by a gentleman connected with the Alaska Commercial company, of San Francisco, and who has recently returned from Europe, and was brought by him to this country. It is about 6x7 feet, and on it are many portraits by hand of geographers and navigators. The new world is delineated with considerable imagination.

Hudson Stiles went to the boarding house kept by Mrs. Gilkinson, in Rochester, Indiana, and demanded lodging. He was drunk and boisterous. The landlady suggested that he pay for previous lodging. He made an insulting answer, and the angry woman promptly knocked him down with a poker. He was carried to the hospital and died, and the coroner's jury acquitted Mrs. Gilkinson.
