Leslie's Slayer Tells the Story.

Yesterday morning the defense in the Powell murder trial continued the introduction of testimony.

Stray Leaves From the Reporters' Note Books.

In speaking of the number of children, especially boys, who are constantly running the streets of Omaha and committing numberless crimes, Judge Stenberg remarked yesterday that there was an outrage that many of them had not been sent to the reform school at Kearney.

Ernest Brandt, who owns a saloon at Florence, testified that on the night of the shooting, Leslie had come into his place and taken several drinks, and as he started out said: "Let's go out and do up the..."

John W. Timmons, Archibald Tuttle, John Tuttle, George C. Gribble and Andrew Testified to the circumstances attending a fight between Powell and Leslie in September previous to the shooting.

Rev. A. C. Smith was then called and was questioned as to Leslie's dying statement, which had been given by Dr. Solomon, Lawyer Baldwin of the counsel for the state strenuously objected to the evidence being admitted, but the court overruled the objection, as Dr. Solomon and sworn that Mr. Smith was present when the dying statement was made.

Orin J. Shipley was also called and testified in regard to the former trouble between Leslie and Powell, corroborating the evidence of the previous witnesses.

Powell was then placed on the stand in his own defense. He told the story of the shooting in a clear, straightforward manner, and also related how the other fight took place in September. He said that Mrs. Timmons had told him that Leslie had threatened to kill him, and he asked her if she thought Leslie meant it, and she said she did not.

A rigid cross-examination followed, conducted by Mr. Baldwin, but the witness answered clearly and to the point, and was not at all disconcerted. His entire testimony was without a contradiction, and evidently told in his favor with the jury.

At its conclusion court adjourned for the night. The counsel for the state has expressed its intentions to introduce witnesses in rebuttal, but it is expected that not much more time will be consumed in taking evidence. The arguments will be made on both sides tomorrow, and it is confidently expected that the case will be given to the jury late this afternoon.

MISPLACED CHARITY.

The Aid Association Disgusted with the Women's Christian Association yesterday announced their intention of ceasing to dispense clothing and provisions to the poor with the funds provided them for that purpose from the proceeds of the charity ball. The reason given for this action was that they had been imposed upon to such an extent as to entirely discourage them in ascertaining who the worthy poor are. They have been constantly in receipt of applications for aid, and have endeavored to relieve distress to the utmost of their power. It has come to their knowledge, however, that a number of people who have been thus helped are entirely unworthy of assistance, and have squandered and sold the money for other purposes in riotous living and debauchery. Being unable, they claim, to ascertain who are worthy and who are not, they have reached the conclusion that the funds can be better used in other ways, and have by persons more experienced with the class of people with whom it is necessary to deal. They have referred the matter to the managers of the charity ball for their consideration.

He Pleads Not Guilty.

Yesterday morning, Glover the negro stabber was brought into court. When the judge told him that he was accused of committing upon Myrtle Grant an assault with intent to kill he replied sullenly that he had not done it, and was not guilty of the charge. Stewart, the negro whose wife keeps the house in which the woman was stabbed, stepped up at this juncture and asked to be allowed to testify. He stated that Myrtle had sent him up to tell the judge that Glover ought not to be prosecuted as he did not do the stabbing. She declared that she had snatched the knife from the table, intending to cut Glover with it, that she had made a thrust at him which he threw off with his arm, that he tried to wrest the weapon from her, and to prevent his doing so she had put the knife behind her, and falling backward had plunged it into her side. Stewart further testified that he had once before noticed this same knife in Myrtle's possession, and had tried to get her to give it up, but without success. He had notified Glover, he said, to take it from her, but he had failed to do so.

An Obstinate Jury.

The jury in the case of Gansner vs. the Omaha Belt railway, which was out all Wednesday night, came into court yesterday morning and reported that they were unable to agree. Judge Wakeley ordered them to return to the jury room to further consider the case, but at 5 o'clock last evening they were still unable to agree. He then ordered them to be locked up in the jury room, and if they should agree before court reconvened in the morning they should prepare a sealed verdict.

ODDS AND ENDS.

road work during the coming season. The bid of Mr. Congdon, which caused so much discussion and hesitancy on the part of the commissioners, was rejected, and the contract was awarded to B. P. Knight. According to the calculations and measurements made by the commissioners, Mr. Knight's bid is considerably lower than Mr. Congdon's, and Mr. Timme yesterday informed a Bee representative that the letting of the contract to Mr. Knight would result in a saving to the county of about $1,800. The fact was yesterday discovered that while the board has been figuring on Mr. Congdon's bid at ten cents a yard for a five hundred foot haul, the bid was in reality eleven cents for that distance. How the mistake occurred is not known. Mr. Knight yesterday agreed to accept the plan of measurement which the commissioners propose, and the contract was thereupon awarded to him.

Army Notes.

The excitement in army headquarters over the announcement of Gen. Terry's succession to the senior major-general, has in a measure subsided. There is a general feeling of disappointment and surprise, however, that Gen. Howard did not receive the appointment. The general himself yesterday had nothing to say about the matter, positively declining to be interviewed by a reporter.

The Blasting Accident.

The funeral of Matthew Hayes, the victim of the bridge blast at Valley, has been postponed until this afternoon. The remains were removed yesterday from the undertaker's to the residence of Mrs. Will S. Hayes, corner of Second, Tenth and Leavenworth streets, and will be taken to-day over the Rock Island road to Chicago for interment.

Wrangling Over a Brewery.

Victor Dreher commenced suit in the district court yesterday against Frederick Wagner to secure an accounting of partnership affairs. The petition of the plaintiff alleges that in November, 1881, he entered into a partnership with Wagner to run an ale and beer brewery in this city. Both plaintiff and defendant put in a certain sum of money and a building was erected on a piece of property owned by Dreher. Everything went smoothly until March, 1885, when it became necessary to pay the $1,000 license to the city. The partners consulted together and it was agreed that the business they were doing would warrant them in increasing the expense of the license. Accordingly they determined to lease the brewery to a saloon man named Lykke, for the nominal sum of $50 a year, and that he should run it under the regular saloon license which he paid to the city. In the meantime, Dreher accepted a position as foreman of a brewery in Fremont. Since that agreement was made the plaintiff alleges that Wagner refuses to make any accounting of the profits of the brewery, though he (plaintiff) has good reason to believe that the establishment is making money. Further, Dreher claims, he fears that Wagner is going to let the nominal lease of Lykke expire on March 29, 1886, will fraudulently dispose of the brewery property to him. For this reason Dreher asks the court to order Wagner to account for the money which he has received from the sale of the property until a full partnership accounting is made.

He Thought He Was Home.

A police call was sent to headquarters about 9 o'clock last night from Seventh and Douglas streets, and Officers Pieronet and Trimble were sent to ascertain the trouble. Arrived at the place named they found an inebriated individual stretched on his back in the snow softly humming "Home, sweet home." When shaken by the officers he awoke, and ordering the officers not to pull the beds clothes off him, and grasped in both hands the snowy sheet which enveloped his form. He was tenderly picked up and conveyed to the police station where he was given a warmer bed than his former couch of snow and registered under the name of "John Doe."

MORE OF "THE BEAUTIFUL"

The March edition of "Old Boreas" was a "hail" fell well met, or in other words the snow yesterday morning came in the night before with icicles. It was a sudden call for rubber boots and over-shoes, and the female walkers had no advantage over a damp rainy day—the curbstone audience had to indulge in the belief that distance lent enchantment to the latest style of history. The street cars did not come out with the lark. In fact some of the routes, like St. Mary's avenue, upper Farnam, lower Cummg and North Eighteenth streets had snow plows perambulating until the noonday hour.

Applying for Pensions.

Justice Anderson was busy yesterday proving up papers for the old soldiers who desire to secure pensions from the government. More than a dozen disabled veterans, some of them armless, some of them legless and others lacking in various other parts of the head or body, were accommodated. Pension-day is held once in three months, on the first day of March, June, September and December.

Not Expected to Live.

Mr. J. M. Wilson, whose case was mentioned in the Bee yesterday, has grown rapidly worse in the last few hours and is not expected to live. The severe internal injuries received in the runaway trolley accident with the milk wagon, in giving him a wrong dose of medicine, have caused a shock from which it is feared his enfeebled system cannot rally.

He is at Chadron.

F. P. Fosdyke, against whose property an attachment was issued in Justice Anderson's court Monday, writes to the Bee that he has not left parts unknown, but has bought a stock of goods and is now located at Chadron.

"With Sherman."

Pittsburg Dispatch: Col. Hazard told us a couple of stories of Sherman which are new to me. He was in the same car with the hero of Georgia on their way home from some army reunion not long ago. The seat beside the general happened to be vacant for a time, and Col. Hazard, passing along the aisle, stopped and said: "General, may I share your seat?" Sherman glanced up through his iron-gray brows, and responded somewhat wearily: "Yes—if you ain't just going to say you were with me." Hazard hadn't more than fairly seen the point of the question until a stranger came up full of enthusiasm, and reaching out to shake hands, exclaimed: "Gen. Sherman, how do you do. Natural as life, I swear, was with you when the heart of the rebellion in twain." "I knew it," was all the answer he got, but as soon as he moved away the old general broke out emphatically: "They war'd all with me, and they are all with me yet. By heavens, if I had ever had half as many able-bodied men 'win me' as say they were, the war wouldn't have lasted a week."

Attachments Dissolved.

The attachments which were issued several days ago in the county court on the stock of Grege & Kuntze, saloon-keepers on Sixteenth street, were dismissed yesterday. Two of these attachments were in favor of Beekhoff & Mack, wholesale liquor dealers, and that firm yesterday took possession of the property and assumed the debts covered by the other attachments.

The T. A. M. club has postponed its party indefinitely on account of the weather. The city clerk says that all the warrants for last month's salaries will be ready for payment to-day. Mr. and Mrs. Clark W. Rodman gave a large and brilliant reception last evening at their residence on Izard street. A brilliant reception was given last evening to a large number of guests by Judge and Mrs. Doane at their residence. Yesterday was a great day for peacemongers in the county clerk's office, exceeding the record for any one day in the history of the county. Unity church will hold the regular social on Friday night at the residence of H. W. Cremer, southwest corner of Twenty-first and Webster streets. The plans for the new cemetery of the Forest Lawn association are nearly complete, and it is expected that active work will be commenced as soon as good weather sets in. The Loyal Legion held their regular meeting at the Paxton. The members gathered about the banquet board after business was disposed of and passed the time merrily until midnight or later. The north Omaha corner hotel will give a masquerade party at Crommie's hall on Monday evening, March 8. Grand preparations are being made for the event, and it will undoubtedly prove to be highly enjoyable. Miss Adie Hurlbert gave a select private soiree party at her residence on Saunders street last night. Those present were the Misses King, Wilson and Hurlbert, and the Messrs. Milligan, McNew York, chief clerk of the court, and John Nicholas, a butcher living on Twentieth and Pierce streets, was thrown from his wagon yesterday afternoon, and the heavy seat was pitched violently upon his head. He sustained several very severe bruises, though his injuries are not regarded as dangerous. A meeting of the railroad committee of the board of trade was called for yesterday afternoon to further consider the northwestern railroad proposition. Owing to the storm, however, not a sufficient number of members were present to transact any business. Rabbi Benson returned yesterday from Hastings, Neb., where he succeeded in effecting a permanent Jewish association. A burial ground will soon be purchased, and a religious school for the young will be established shortly. This is the second meeting of the kind which Dr. Benson has organized within a short time. The next lecture of the course at Seward street M. E. church will be delivered this evening at 8 p. m. by the Rev. T. F. Clark, the "Pilgrim preacher" of New York, on his "tour through northern India and China." Mr. Clark is one of the most pleasant and successful speakers now before the public, and is heartily endorsed by the leading papers throughout the country, such as the Chicago Times, Buffalo Courier, Albany Journal, etc. The Chicago Times of April 9, 1884, says: "The interest of the audience was fixed and intense from beginning to end. The sermon was listened to breathlessly as some magic word picture was painted, and then an amusing sketch provoked everybody to irresistible laughter." The Seward street people have the reputation of always giving more than your money's worth, so it is safe to say it will pay to go and hear Mr. Clark.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE CHICAGO TIMES ON SEFFREYS LEWIS. Speaking of Miss Jeffrey Lewis, who appears at Boyd's opera house to-night in "Forget-Me-Not," the Chicago Times of last Sunday says: "The performances of 'Forget-Me-Not,' by Miss Jeffrey Lewis at the Chicago opera house during the past week have been thoroughly worthy the attention of admirers of strong dramatic ability. Miss Lewis is an actress who adds to natural fitness for dramatic representation the willingness to work, to study, the resources of her art, to follow out the minute details of its expression, and at the same time while searching out these details not to lose sight of the symmetry and proportion of a representation as a whole. She knows, too, how to combine close attention to details with an appearance of spontaneity, which serves to carry her auditors along with her as if they were looking in upon scenes in actual life and not upon a mere stage play. 'Black Crook' grand production of the spectacular drama a great treat at Boyd's opera house next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.
