AN ABANDONED BABY FOUND

Bids Fair to Create a Sensation in High Up Capital Circles.

A SCIENTIST IN THE CITY.

Dr. Billings Comes to Consult With the University Regents-United States Offenders Sentenced -Social Notes.

[FROM THE BEE'S LINCOLN BUREAU.] Detective Littlefield, of the Law and Order League, is at work on a mystery which, if unraveled, will make a pig sensation in the "high up" circles of society in the capital city. Thursday night a child about two weeks old was found in a barn at the corner of G and Fourteenth streets, where it had been left by a well dressed man who was seen lurking about the neighborhood just after dark. The child was comfortably clothed and wrapped in a drab mohair shawl. No one appearing to claim it yesterday morningit was sent to the Home for the Friendless. Elder Howe, it is understood, had posted Littlefield some time before that matters were not just as they should be in certain quarters, and the detective is now trying to connect this information with the incident of Thursday night. He has ascertained that arrangements were made for procuring an abortion, but the birth of the child a little before it was expected upset them. This child, if alive, would be about the age of the one found. Thursday night. The publicity given the case yesterday attracted the attention of many charitable people, and the police were deluged with offers of adoption.

A SCIENTIST'S ARRIVAL.

Dr. F. A. Billings, the celebrated pathologist, arrived in Lincoln yesterday to consult with the regents of the university about the starting of a school of veterinary science in connection with that institu-tion. Dr. Billings, it will be remembertion. Dr. Billings, it will be remembered, is the gentleman who accompanied the four children from Newark, N. J., to Paris, in January, to be treated by Dr. Pasteur, for hydrophobia. He is a man of 40, but with a very youthful countenance, wearing a sandy mustache closely cropped, and with hair plentifully streaked with grey. His appearance is not coned with grey. His appearance is not conducive to great trust, but in the east, where he is well known, his opinions on the several special lines which he has studied are regarded with great favor, and he is looked upon as a savant by men and he is looked upon as a savant by men many years his senior. In speaking of the Doudna case yesterday Dr. Billings said that he did not believe the Windsor house engineer was bitten by a mad dog at all. "My study of rabies," said the doctor, "has led me to believe that it is the rarest of diseases, and at times I almost doubt whether it exists. At the most, the number of deaths from so-called hydrophobia in this country does not exceed twenty-five yearly, which, in a population of 55,000,-000, is infinitesimal. It is now known that the four children whom I took to Paris were not bitten by a mad dog but by one which had been dosed with drugs and, of course, acted strangely As some well-authenticated cases of hydrophobia among dogs were supposed to exist near Newark, however, the parents of the children were justified in taking all possible precautions."

Just now Dr. Billings is interested in hog cholera, which he thinks is not a plague, as many believe, but is communicated to herds by actual contact with germs carried by animals from infected localities or hy men hired to see the second calities or by men hired to attend them. Strict quarantine, with the killing of all diseased swine, will in time eradicate the complaint, as glanders is gradually being being fought out of the older communi-

THREE PRISONERS SENTENCED. In the United States court yesterday morning Judge Dundy called up for sentence the prisoners convicted at the present term. Sylvester Yundt, found guilty of conspiring with Frank P. Swindler and others, to defraud the United States by bogus land entries in Nebraska, was ordered to pay a fine of $100 and costs and to be imprisoned for four months, dating from the 1st of December last. This gives Yundt about infteen days in jail, which he will serve in Omaha.

Erwin B. Heath, the young man convicted of stealing registered letters from the postoffice at Kearney, while employed as clerk by Postmaster Morgan, was given two years in the house of correc-tion at Detroit, from the 1st of December, James Van Len, who for the third time had been found guilty of selling liquor to Indians at Pulo, was sentenced to six months imprisonment, and fined $100 and costs. Van Len took the matter very philosophically, and when advised by Clerk Frank to warn his friends to ab stain from their evil ways, said: "Not by a d—d sight. They can find out the folly of it just as I have."

Bloody Dick Seymour, a supposed pal of Swindler and Wells in the crooked land transactions, refuses to squeal and will be held in jail until the next term of SOCIAL AND PERSONAL. The progressive euchre party given by Dr. and Mrs. Hart, Tuesday evening, was one of the largest and most thoroughly enjoyable of the many similar affairs in the capital city this season. The list of guests was unusually large, and all who were bidden responded. The royal prize for gentlemen was won by Mrs. Kiers, who entered the contest with the sterner sex, and defeated them. Mrs. Cropsey was the winner of the ladies prize, while our young friend E. B. Coons and Mrs. Espes were rewarded with the goose egg

After eighteen hours deliberation the jury in the case of Rowena Young vs John C. Deputrin and others came into court at 11:30 to night with a verdict for the plaintiff, finding her entitled to all the premises in dispute. The property consists of eighty acres of land south of Lincoln valued at $90,000. Rowena Young claimed title direct from the original coin valued at $90,000. Rowens Young claimed title direct from the original owner, Mrs. Irvine, while the present owners, John C. Deputrin, Harriet M. Leighton and the Lincoln Driving Park association, had a deed from Mrs. Irvine's attorney, James Donovan. This verdict will eject the defendants and put Young in possession.

The Hard Old Man.

"A hard old man," the townsfolk said,
"Yes, a hard old man is he;"
And sighed for the doleful life he led in his lonely house by the sea,

A hard old man, with searching eye And flowing beard of snow;
With never a kind word in reply
To the greeting of high or low.

With never a word or smile for any, He lived to himself as a miser may; And gave of his cheer not even a penny, To enrich the world from day to day.

One night a gallant barque, storm-driven, In winter's cold and gloom, Her stout old timbers rent and riven, Then up he rose, that hard old man,

With iron face and form; And launched his boat upon the wave In all that blinding storm. And through the midnight, and the roar

Of breakers on the sand; He rescued all that drowning crew, And brought them safe to land, "Twas a noble deed and nobly done,"
"Tis thus the townsfolk say;
And the hard old man of yesterday
Is the "brave old man" of to-day.
