The Western Executive Committee of the Knights of Labor in Omaha.

A SECRET SESSION LAST NIGHT.

Disaffection Among Union Pacific Employees the Cause—A Conference With Callaway To-Day—The Striking Butchers.

Seeking Arbitration.

Last evening the western executive committee of the Knights of Labor, headed by Thomas Neasham of Denver, arrived in Omaha, and secured quarters at the Canfield house.

While Mr. Neasham, as chairman of the committee, and the other members are generally reserved about their mission in Omaha, the object thereof is believed to be this:

On the first of March the Union Pacific put into force (experimentally, it is believed) a new system of pay affecting the trainmen on the main line and all branches of the road.

The general opinion of the Rock Island road will soon be moved into the Rock Island building.

There is nothing new about the Missouri Pacific situation, locally speaking. No freight trains were moved in or out on that road.

A happier gathering never filled Germania hall than that which assembled Sunday evening to witness the marriage ceremony which united Mr. Dave Brown, of this city, to Miss Sarah Wise, of New York.

The groom is well known in this city, having lived here almost from infancy and having been for a number of years in the employ of Schlatter & Prince.

The bride is a young woman who accompanied by the parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. L. Brown, and attended by the little Misses Bertie and Lena Newman, who acted as bridesmaids, appeared before Rabbi Benheim, who in the impressive and beautiful ceremony of the Hebrew religion, made the two one.

Following the ceremony and congratulations of family and friends, the company adjourned to the spacious supper room and there did ample justice to the bountiful repast set before them.

A number of telegrams from friends in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and other places were then read.

The bride and groom were then escorted to the church by the groom's father, Mr. L. Brown, and the bride's father, Mr. J. H. Brown.

The ceremony was a most successful one, and the company dispersed with many wishes for the happiness of the bride and groom.

The Law and Order League has decided to protest against the issuance of a license during the coming year to the Slavin house, on account of the disgraceful row which occurred down there last week.

The league has filed a formal protest with the city clerk.

The league has also decided to protest against several other saloonkeepers being allowed a license.

Not the Man Wanted. William Harrison, who was arrested and held on suspicion of being Jack Lawler, the Chicago murderer, was released yesterday afternoon by Judge Stenberg.

A number of men who had known Lawler at various times visited the central police station yesterday and were positive that Harrison was not the murderer.

Lawler had a heavy scar on his upper lip, which Harrison did not have, but in other respects they bore a remarkable resemblance to each other.

The Slavin House Rioters. Officer Charles Bloom, the policeman who was so brutally assaulted by a gang of toughs at the Slavin house a week ago, yesterday afternoon for the first time, his face bears some terrible marks of his ill-treatment, but he is improving rapidly.

An effort is being made to secure sufficient evidence against the men now in jail to send them to the penitentiary for long terms.

Army Briefs. Lieutenant Chase, General Howard's aide-de-camp, returned yesterday from a trip to the Flandreau Indian agency where he witnessed the issuance of annuity goods and agricultural implements to the red skins.

Not Newton. Editor BEE: In the BEE of March 12, in the article "General Pope's Successor," I notice a mistake in speaking of General John Newton as the commander of the first corps at Gettysburg.

This he did not do; our commander was John Reynolds, who was killed in the first day's fighting, and General Doubleday then took command.

ONE OF THE BOYS. AMUSEMENTS. The sale of seats for Mary Anderson's engagement at Boyd's next Monday and Tuesday, will open on Thursday morning at the box office.

The prices of seats will be $1.50 and $1, according to location. Miss Anderson will be in "Pygmalion and Galatea," and "Comedy and Tragedy" on the first night, and "As You Like It" the second night.

Wanted to exchange for stock of Hard ware and general merchandise, 500 acres of fine Thayer county (Neb.) land, five lots in Genoa (Neb.), good store building (best corner), good dwelling (best location) in Essex (Iowa), also eighty acres one-half mile from town of Essex (Iowa), seeded in blue grass. Ben Butler in Omaha. General Ben Butler is expected to pass through Omaha on Monday, today or Wednesday, in company with a number of distinguished gentlemen, the party being en route to the Pacific coast.

Arrangements are being made to give the general a warm reception about his stop over in this city any length of time.

Wait! Hake & Palmer, Howard and Fourteenth streets, will give for sale on and after April 1 the largest stock of horses and mules in the city.

Furniture. When you buy furniture get prices at Howe & Korr, 1510 Douglas street, opposite Falconer's.

RAIL NOTES.

Rates to Chicago Restored—Matters Personal and General.

The various agents of the lines between Omaha and Chicago received notification yesterday that the old rates from this city to Chicago had been restored—namely, $12.75. There has been considerable cutting going on for the past few days, and the rates had dropped as low as $8 and $10.

"There is nothing new to tell about the Pacific coast war," was the remark which greeted the ears of the reporter as he dropped into the general passenger office of the Union Pacific yesterday.

It seems to be the general opinion of the officials in the passenger department that peace and harmony will be restored before the end of this month.

The second class and emigrant business on the Union Pacific is very large at present. Settlers in the west are taking advantage of the cheap rates to visit old homes and friends in the east, while emigrants are flocking to the west.

The general office of the Rock Island road will soon be moved into the Rock Island building.

TOBACCO CAUSES TROUBLE.

A Circular Letter on That Habit Calls a Church Meeting.

TO THEIR LAST RESTING PLACE.

The Remains of the Late Senator Miller Pass Through Omaha in Charge of a Congressional Delegation.

Trouble in the Baptist Camp.

The large congregation at the First Baptist church Sunday morning was somewhat surprised to see Mr. W. T. Seaman seated in the pulpit beside the pastor, Rev. J. W. Harris.

After he had finished, Mr. Harris read a notice calling a meeting of the church members for to-day night to take action in regard to selecting a new pastor.

A number of members of the Baptist church were seen by a BEE representative yesterday, and while all were very guarded in their remarks the opinion was generally expressed that there would be no change in the pastorate of the church.

"We consider," said one, "Mr. Seaman's action very ill-advised, to say the least, and there is no doubt in my mind but that Mr. Harris will be retained. He has been here six years and has the hearty support of the church membership. I am very sorry that any publicity should have been given to the affair, as I believe the right way for Mr. Seaman to have done under the circumstances would have been to have talked with Mr. Harris in private, instead of hitting him a back-handed slap by publishing his reprimand and scattering it broadcast."

The Honored Dead. The Remains of Senator Miller Pass Through Omaha.

At half-past eight o'clock last night the special funeral train bearing the remains of Senator Miller arrived in Omaha, having made the trip from Washington in about forty-eight hours.

The train was composed of the burial car, in which lay the remains of the dead legislator, and two Pullman coaches, jointly furnished by the Union Pacific and Central Pacific roads.

The body lay in a hermetically sealed casket, which was enclosed in a box of polished cedar. This latter was draped in the heavy folds of a flag, which was in turn, covered with a profusion of flowers and floral designs, scattered foot-deep from end to end.

The coach next to the funeral car was occupied by the relatives of the deceased, Mrs. Miller, the widow, Miss Dora Miller, her daughter, and J. N. Miller and H. G. Miller, brothers, and Major O. T. Miller, cousin of the deceased.

The rear coach was occupied by the congressional escort, composed of Senator J. B. Jones, of Nevada, Representative J. B. Loutin and J. McKenna, of California, Polk Laffoon, of Kentucky, S. L. Millikin, of Maine, J. B. Morgan, of Mississippi, Thomas Sprague, of New York, W. P. Hepburn, of Iowa, and Charles Jones, chief clerk of the senate.

In addition there were Lieutenant R. Clover and F. B. Loomis, representing the Brooklyn Times, Senators Butler, Cullom, Fry and Gray were also to have accompanied the party, but business in Washington prevented them from going.

At ten minutes to 9 o'clock the whistle sounded and the train started on its way westward. The party will arrive in San Francisco on Friday, and on Sunday the funeral will occur from Trinity Cathedral, Bishop Hippen's church. The remains will be interred in Laurel Hill cemetery, near Frisco.

The senatorial escort will return via the Southern Pacific, landing in Washington two weeks from next Sunday.

A Dakota Man's Mistake. Estelle (Dak.) Belt: A man from Illinois got on the Northwestern train at Estelle the other day and met an old friend now living in Dakota.

"How's old Jim Stanford prospering out here?" asked the Illinois man.

"Jim's gettin' along poorly, very poorly. You see, Jim made a mistake and it set him back."

"How'd he make a mistake?"

"Set his house on the ground with no underpinning" under it.

"Well, s'posin' he did, I don't see what hurt it would do."

"Of course you don't—you live in Illinois."

"Well, what hurt did it do?"

"Why, hang it all, pardner, this Dakota soil is so darned fertile that the house took root and grew."

"If it did, well, admittin' it's so, I should think it would have been better; he'd had a bigger house."

"Yes, that's what Jim 'lowed at first. He had a nice two story, then a three story one, and pretty soon a five story one."

"I don't see anything bad about that."

"No, course not; but when he got up there, instead of headin' out with a French roof and a lightning rod, the blasted house took to branchin' out with bay windows and piazzas, and pretty soon the whole thing blowed over and killed a yoke of brindle oxen for Jim. I should think it would have been better; he'd had a bigger house."

John Was Late, Even in Death. "What's this newspaper article about the late John Smith?" inquired old Mr. Badger. "Is he our John?"

"Guess he is."

"Well, well, he alters was slower'n strength and wholeness. He never was on time in all his life, and they used to say he wasn't to his own wedding till the day after the ceremony, and now the day after his death they call him the late John Smith. It tells all how these newspapers do learn so much about a person."
