GARDNER has come to stay. His title is no longer called in question.

POSTMASTER MORGAN is still hanging on the ragged edge. He is not yet confirmed, and he should not be.

MR. WISE has been confirmed postmaster at Plattsmouth. The P. H. bosses will claim a victory. So does J. Sterling Morton. It is a wise child that knows its own father.

JUDGE DILLON, the hired attorney of Jay Gould, advises the great railroad wacko to let the Knights of Labor for damages. Mr. Gould would have to buy the jury in every case in order to get judgment.

WE notice among the small confessions that of Jonathan F. Gardner as surveyor general of Nebraska and Iowa. If we are not mistaken, this is the same "must go" Gardner about whom the Herald has had so much to say.

THE Council Bluffs Nonpareil, says: "Keep a sharp lookout for Omaha spies." This is evidently intended to refer to Omaha citizens who have occasion to visit Council Bluffs. We cannot see why the ancient journal of the Bluffs should thus stigmatize visitors to that city.

GEORGE HEARST, the man who has been appointed by the governor of California to the United States senate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Miller, is a very rich man. His wealth has been variously estimated from $5,000,000 to $20,000,000. His fortune is the result of lucky mining operations.

AN Atlantic, Iowa, correspondent wants to know if the government owns the bridge between Council Bluffs and Omaha, and whether the government or a private corporation is building the new bridge. The present railway bridge over the Missouri at this point is owned by a bridge company, composed of the Union Pacific stockholders, and practically belongs to the Union Pacific railway company.

GOVERNOR MARSHALL, of Missouri, calls upon the railroads to resume traffic. This is proper. The railroads are public servants. Why should the public suffer because of the quarrels of the corporations with their employees? It is the business of the companies to settle disputes which interfere with the exercise of their functions as common carriers without putting the public to inconvenience and loss.

THE City Election. There is much to be said this year in the city election which comes off ten days hence. While we do not elect a mayor and full set of officers, we are to replace one-half of the city council and one-third of the school board.

THE French army has always been more or less a disturbing element in politics, and some of the most important wars were taken part in by France.

The Pierson Outrage.

The pretended discovery of the assassin of Watson B. Smith in the person of John Pierson was exploded several months ago by the last United States grand jury. After a thorough inquiry into the confession of Pierson, said to have been made in confidence to a fellow convict in the penitentiary, the grand jury failed to find any ground for an indictment, either against Pierson, Jack Nugent or Groomes, each of whom was said to be implicated.

What the city needs is responsible and reputable business men at the helm of public affairs. The trouble is that business men as a class take no interest in the city affairs. They are always indignant when anything goes wrong, but they are the last to make any sacrifice of their own comfort or convenience for the public good.

THE government has notified parliament that it has set April 1 as the day on which Mr. Gladstone will bring his Irish programme before the commons.

THE Canadian government is making arrangements for a lively season with immigration, the agents of the various colonies in the dominion having come together and held a conference to decide upon ways and means for carrying on the coming summer.

PROMINENT PERSONS. Dr. Leopold Zuz, the patriarch of Jewish literature, is dead.

THE American consul at Copenhagen furnishes some very interesting and suggestive facts concerning agriculture in Denmark.

Snake Tracks in the Sand.

General F. E. Spinner, the man who used to sign greenbacks, spends much of his time writing for the local papers of Florida. They can read his writing down. They are used to seeing snake tracks in the sand.

To Give the Jaw a Chance.

It was noticed that when the chaplain of the army prays against gambling of all sorts he very guardedly refrains to the wickedness of "money-making other than by the sweat of the face."

Advertised Quite Thoroughly.

"The right of suffrage was originally extended to women as a matter of advertisement for the territory," says ex-Delegate Paul of Wyoming.

Willow, Tit Willow.

A merchant alone in a desolate store sang "Willow, willow, willow." "I said to him, 'Why are you pining the floor?'"

Give the Girls a Business Training.

This is a practical world, and the demand is for practical men and women. On this account a thorough business training is the best discipline which our young can have.

Winter Enjoyment.

There is happiness in clinging To a garden gate and swaying On a balmy summer evening with a maiden.
