LINCOLN GOES REPUBLICAN.

A Hot Contest at the Capital City Between the Three Parties.

THE RETURNS NOT COMPLETE.

State Veterinarian Gerth Resigns-The Omaha & Southwestern Incorporated-The Fire Record-Other Lincoln News,

FROM THE REP'S LINCOLN BUDEAU ] The election for city officers yesterday was strongly contested, a lively fight being waged at every polling place between the republicans, democrats and prohibitionists. As a consequence tickets were badly cut and mixed, and the judges had an all-night's job counting them. At 12:30 the returns were received only from the First and Second wards. which combined give Parsons, the republican condidate for police judge, 114 majority over Montgomery and George, the democratic and prohibition nominees. In the First ward Brock, the republican candidate for councilman, has 188 majority, John Fraas, republican, is elected in the second ward by 199 majority, and Shaberg and Magoon, republican candidates for school trustees, have 142 majority in the two wards. It is estimated that the Third and fourth will give about the same. This insures a clean sweep for the re-publicans on all the offices. The prohibitionists were out in force and took second place, outvoting the democrats and, in some instances, coming danger-ously near to the winning party.

RESIGNATION OF DR. GERTH.

The following letter of resignation was sent to Gov. Dawes yesterday morning by Dr. J. Gerth, jr., the state veterinarian:

LINCOLN, April 6.-To Gov. Dawes -Dear Sir:-It is with regret that I feel the necessity of tendering my resignation as veterinarian of the State of Nebraska. I do so after careful reflection, taking into consideration all things connected with the position as well as my personal wishes and the wishes of my family. The duties of the office are laborious, and it is to be regretted that under the present law competent expert assistants cannot be employed. It is with feelings of pride and pleasure that in retiring from the office I can state that with the active cooperation of, and the faithful work performed by the live stock sanitary commission, the veterinary sanitary work in this state, though limited, has been a suc-cess. With a tew amendments the prescess. - ent law can be made the most perfect of any in the United States. In tendering my resignation, I wish to express thanks for the kind and courteous treatment re-ceived at the hands of the commission Thanking you for the trust and confi-dence placed in my ability, and for the many kindnesses and courtesies extended to me by you during the short time I have been your official subordinate, I remain, yours most faithfully, J. GERTY, JR., D. V. S.

After consultation with the members of the commission, the governor decided to accept the resignation, with the understanding that Dr. Gerth, at the request of the commission, will remain until his successor is appointed, which he con-sented to do. What reasons, if any, be-yond a desire to get back to his old work and associations in the east, induced Dr Gerth to resign are unknown. The posi-tion is worth $2,500 a year, and while the duties are exacting and not always pleasant, it is considered one of the best within the gift of the executive. Dr. Gerth's determination to give it up dates the hands of the business men a large ast winter, w nen ne expr to the BEE representative a longing for the fleshpots of New Jersey, whither he will go as soon as his successor is in-stalled. Who that successor will be can only be guessed at. If Dr. Ramacciotti of Omaha will accept the place, however, of offinance with a dept the place, nowever, it is a safe wager that he will have an opportunity of doing so. FIRE DEPARTMENT WORK. FIGE DEPARTMENT WORK. Chief Engineer Quick and Warden Newbury, of the ire department, are at work on their annual report for the year ending April 6, 1886. The report will show a total loss by fires during the twelve months of $15,270, on which there was insurance to the amount of $14 150. was insurance to the amount of $14,150. The department responded to thirty-two alarms, of which twenty-seven were ac tual fires. Seventy per cent of the fires were started by defective flues and were started by defective flues and stove pipes projecting through roofs, 10 per cent by carclessness, and the rest by unknown causes. The water works have proven entirely satisfactory, there being an abundant supply and good pressure whenever needed. The engineer and warden will recommend that the mains and hydrants be extended on O street to Antelope bridge, in order to protect that fast growing neighborhood. The pur-chase by the city of a new Hayes truck, a hose-cart, 1,200 feet of hose, team of horses, and new bell for the engine house, will also be requested. The fire department and police force are now installed in the new building on Historical square, which is one of the handsomest and best arranged for the purpose in the United States. The ground floor is 60x70, and divided into two compartments. The south side is occu pied by the fire apparatus, and stables for the horses for the hose cart and Everything is worked by steamers. electricity so that by one pressure on small button the horses are released from their stalls, the harnesses dropped on their backs, and the doors swung open The north side is reserved for police headquarters and city jail. The guar dians of the peace have a neat room in front, while in the rear, partitioned off by an iron door, are five good cells, cells lined with four-inch oak planks, and furnished with iron grate doors. Up stairs the councilmen have a handsome, well-lighted room 33x35, in which to air their wisdom. and formulate laws for the government of the city. The city clerk, water commissioner, chief of police, and fire war den each have private offices, and the pri vates in the fire department have two large sleeping apartments with a reading-room attached. All the rooms are fur-nished with black walnut, the floors are covered with ingrain and Brussels car-pets, and all the modern improvements, such as closets, stationery, wash basins, etc., have a convenient place. The build-ing itself is of brick, with interior woodwork of Georgia or "yellow" pine, neatly oiled, and presents a very sub-stantial and honest appearance. THE OMAHA AND SOUTHERN RAILWAY, Messrs, Warren Cole, Robert Harrington, Joseph E. Young, A. Sherwood, sr., and John A. Yale, of Beatrice, have or ganized what they call the Omaha & Southern railway, articles of incorpora-tion on which were recorded in the secretary of state's office yesterday. The route of the new company is from Omaha to a point on the south line of the state in Jefferson county, running through the counties of Douglas, Sarpy, Cass. Otoe, Johnson, Lancaster, Gage and Jefferson. The capital stock is placed at $2,000,000. Beyond the fact that the papers were for-warded from Beatrice with a request that a certified copy be sent to S. B. Curtis, at Chicago, nothing is known as to the pa-ternity or relations of the road. SUPPLIES FOR THE STATE. Proposals for furnishing the supplies for the plumbing work in the new hospital for the insane at Norfolk, were opened yesterday by the board of public lands and buildings. The bidders were: F. W. Korsmeyer, Lincoln, $1,810.40; J. H. O'Neil, Lincoln, $5,18,43; Crane

Bros', manufacturing company, Omaha, $5,325; W. J. Cooper, Lincoln, $4,750.74; Welshans & McEwen, Omaha, $5,004.50; Cummings & Elliott, Omaha, $6,000; A. L. Strang & Co., Omaha, $4,863.61; U. S. Wind Engine company, Omaha, $4,901.20. Welshans & McEwen were the lowest bid; ders on the supplies needed, but they had unwittingly incorporated in their pro posal the price of some extras which was asked for Superintendent Hooper merely for information, and which made the gross amount greater than that named by the next lowest bidder, W. J. Cooper. The board held that their bid was an irregular one, and that it would be an injustice to the others to allow them to withdraw and modify it. Welshans & McEwen's representative acknowledged this, and the contract, was awarded to BRIEF MENTION. Mrs. Ara B. Jones commenced an action in the district court yesterday for a divorce from her husband, William W. Jones, to whom she was married on the 21th of June, 1883, in Lancaster county, Mrs. Jones alleges that the defendant is a man of brutal disposition and vicious habits, and has repeatedly assaulted her in a violent manner. Once, on the 1st of April, 1884, when she was sick in bed, he struck her in the face several times with his tist, and on the 1st of March last he assailed her in a similar manner. Plain-tiff asks for a divorce and division of property, and the custody of her two-year-old child.

The following officers have been chosen by the members of the German Mænnerchor: Vice president, H erman Zernecker; treasurer, Louis Veith; see-retary, Fred W. Brenner; archivar, Julius Ottens; director, Prof. Weber. At the meeting of the board of education Monday night it was resolved to build a new school on the C street

VALENTINE.

The Supply Town for the Rosebud Indian Agency and Fort Niobrara. VALENTINE, Neb., April 4.-|Correspondence of the BEE. ]-No town in Nebraska has gathered such a notoriety as Valentine and there are but few people in the northwest but have heard of the county seat of Cherry county. Although we call Valentine old it was only commenced to be built in 1882. The town has now passed its rough period, for which it was a few years ago noted, and is now inhabited by the refined people of which a model town is composed. After the railroad had passed on beyond and made Chadron the end of the division it was the natural supposition that Valentine's future prospects were blasted: but not so, the town now receives an immense trade, and is the only town along the line, (the road is not yet con-structed to Fort Robinson) which receives patronage from a government post. Fort Niobrara is only four miles from the town, and comprise five companies, which give Valentine a large trade, which but few towns receive. The settlers of Cherry county are also greatly benefitted by this location of the fort. For example, 35,000 cords of wood will be wanted this season, and at $6.00 per cord amounts to $21,000, all of which the granger receives, who, in time, converts this into the require-ments of life, most of which are pur-chased in Valentine, thus throwing into

The Notable Improvements that have Recently been Made-Convenient, Comfortable and Attractive Quarters.

FORT NIOBRARA, Neb., April 5 .- [Correspondence of the BEE] .- This post enjoys a reputation for comfortable. quarters not often surpassed in the army. The neat block houses, all on one floor, built in pairs, with broad porches and low roofs, present an attractive appearance outwardly, which is not contradicted by the interiors. Eight-foot halls run from front to rear. In the main building there are three rooms tifteen feet square, well supplied with closets, and a bath room and small dressing room adjoining. In the rear L are a dining room, kitchen and servant's room. The pairs of houses stand about 70 feet apart, giving good space for grass plats and flower beds in front, and kitchen gardens and outbuildings in the rear. Civilians might not be awestruck at such accommodations, but an army officer accustomed to frontier posts think them palatial. During the past autumn and winter, however, six new sets of officers' quarters (three double houses) have been constructed on the same general plan as the older buildings, but with improvements and adornment, which make them marvels of achievement for the money expended.

The total appropriation for the enlargement of the post, for 1885, was $30,000 more than half of which was required for new barracks and stables, leaving less than $14,000 for the six setts of quarters. The high price of freights and of skilled labor on the frontier reduces materially the purchasing power of money, as compared with more settled regions; yet, under the wise administration of Gen. Brisbine, commanding the post, and the conscientious fidelity of Mr. Geo. H. Jewett, of Sidney, Neb., con-tractor, the new houses are not only superior in construction to the old ones, but such economy has been used in essentials, that a neat surplus was avail-able for decorations and for out-buildings. The main hall is made to open on the rear porch, instead of having the din-ing-room a thoroughfare. The hall floor is laid in narrow boards of hard pine, the alternate boards stained black walnut. The transom and side lights of the front door are filled with stained glass, and a permanent curtain pole is set at a convenient distance from the front entrance, for screening of the rear hall. All the walls, in the main buildings, are finished in paint, a different tint being used for each room, and the wood-work grained to harmonize, with wide cornices and ple-ture mouidings. The parlors have a pro-jecting chimney, breaking the line of sight, and affording convenient recesses for book case or lounge. The parlor mantles are of marbleized slate. with open fire-places and steel grates, and the parlor windows are fitted with metal cur-tain rods. The dining rooms are separ-ated from the kitchens by short passageways, with door at each end, flanked by china closet and butler's pantry on either side. A barn, with stalls for horses and cows, is attached to each set of quarters, and the grounds are graded up with rich soil, and enclosed with open-work fences. Three new sets of barracks, with stables, have been erected. The most no-ticeable improvement on the old barrack cultural country, and with equity we can say it has the notoriety of being the finest farming and grazing country in the whole northwest. The Spring is situated on the F. E. & M. V. R. R., and has a prospect of attaining a line of the B. & M. in the near future, which will then give it the appellation of a "railroad center," together with the "agricultural city of the northwest." The village IS INCORFORATED.

IS INCORPORATED. and compares, in every respect, favor-ably to the eastern New England town of the same size. One church society- Congregational—is already established, and the Catholics will also soon organize and build. It will be thus seen that the good cause of religion is gradually, but slowly, working its way westward. There has also been crected a building in which to teach the "young idea," and it will be readily observed that the advantages of the eastern town are no better than those offered here. There is now plenty of FREE GOVERNMENT LANDS in Sheridan county and in the Box Butte country, and a land-seeker could do no better than to stop at this place and journey into the Irurals, and take up a quarter or half section of land. Monied men looking for investments can specu-late every day to an advadtage, and the inducements offered by Hay Springs are certainly worthy of investigation. Among the business interests of the town we mention the following LEADING FIRMS.

in general merchandise: Watterman & Co. and A. McKinney, lead the trade. The former carries a stock of about $6,000 and the latter about $10,000. Both are thorough business men. Mr. McKinney is at present county treasurer, and an able officer.

F. E. Bryson, druggist, has a stock of $8,000, and his improvements are first class.

In hardware Thompson & VanVoorhis and E. C. Brewer are the leading firms, and both firms have contracted costly buildings in which to carry on their business. The former firm has also an agricultural implement establishment at this plac

J. F. Powers, real estate agent and furniture dealer, does an extensive business.

The bank of Glover & Martin, with James F. Smith manager, is a strong institution.

Hay Springs has also all of the different business houses usually found in a town of the same size, among which is a carriage factory, harness factory, etc The latter business is conducted by Me Donald & Heek.

Hay Springs now has three hotels, among which is the City hotel, owned by Bartlett & McNair, and a first-class house in every respect, and worthy of the pa tronage of all classes.

All business houses are doing a rushing business, and a building boom is in progress. There are now from ten to twelve buildings under construction. During the month, from the first, nearly seventy cars of immigrant stock and goods have been landed at this place, and the daily number of cars are rapidly increasing. The present population of Hay Springs is about 500, and ere many months we think the town will show a census of 2,000 or more.

The warmer weather often has a de pressing and debilitating effect. Hood Sarsaparilla overcomes all languor and lassitude.

cash trade, which they would not other wise receive. What Valentine now needs is a flour mill. Breadstuffs for the soldiers and settlers, as well as for the inhabitants of the towns, numbering 2,000, are shipped here from the east, and as the settlers of Cherry county are now raising grain to the amount of 30,000 to 50,000 bushels, there is no reason why a mill could not be located here at a profitable investment. In addition to the patronage received from the fort, Valentine is the location of the United States land office, which bring transients every day in large numbers, giving the town a lively appearance and giving the town a lively appearance and the hotels an immense trade. Though some advocating has been done for the removal of the land office, Valentine has possession, and probably will have for future time. Messrs. Cornell and Sparks were delegated by the citizens to visit Washington with a remonstrance against the removal, have returned, and report that a call on Senator Van Wyck and Congressman Dorsey convinced them that Valentine would still hold the land office in the future as it has in the past. Besides the above large patronage which this place is credited with, Valentine has the supply depot for the Rosebud Indian agency. About 10,000 of these dusky crea-tures get their supplies here, and bring to the town their trade, which is no small item. As we have heretorfore stated, many predicted that after Valentine had ceased to be the terminus of the railroad it would never be a permanent business center, but in this they have been agreea-bly disappointed, for while its old time "boom" has gone further westward, tak-ing with it the rougher element, the town is doing a large business, as is evidenced by the mammoth business establishments, as that of Thacher, Cornell & Co. and Truesdell & Fenner, who carry heavy stocks of general merchandise. The for-mer establishment are also post traders at Fort Niobrara. Mr. Cornell is also president of the Cherry County bank. We also noticed an exclusive grocery and flour and feed store, of which E. Elsey was proprietor, and is doing a large busi-ness, as are most of the business houses of Valentine. Those acquaint-ed with the world growth and sat ed with the rapid growth and set-tlement of the country and its boom are the land agents and hotel men. The old-est land agent of Cherry county is Mr. Dennis Daly, whose business is exceed-ingly good. Mr. E. P. Warner, attorney at law, does a large business at his lega work and a person to whom we are indebted for much information regarding the town and county. The large tran-sient trade is also attested by the register of the Valentine House and the Ray House. The latter business is conducted by Dr. N. B. Ray, who is also a leading physician of the town. Both houses are irst-class and furnish excellent accommo dations for the weary travelers. The Valentine House is managed by landlord Donaher. Owing to the increased rain-fall the county, which heretofore has been styled with such epithets as "Desert and Hills" has been redeemed, and now the land of northwest Nebraska and especially Cherry county, is capable of producing as large crops as any in the state. Although this country is being rapidly settled up there are still thousands of acres of land rich and fertile, subject to government entry, and those persons contemplating taking the advice given by Greeley years ago "Go west young man and grow up with the country," could do no better than to settle in Cherry county. The superin tendent of post schools has never asked twice for any facility which it was in the power of the commanding officer to furnish. The Sunday night service at the post has been made "choral," and the men sing the Litany, Creed and Lord's Prayer with great spirit. There are many fine voices among the colored troops especially, and they have a natural talent for rhyme and time. The musical responses to the Litany from a hundred men's voices would do credit to a eathe-dral. J. V. Lewis, Post Chaplin.

HAY SPRINGS. A Booming Town in Sheridan County -Its Growth and Future

Prospects. HAY SPRINGS, Neb., April 3.-[Corres bondence of the BEE.] - While other towns in the northwest are advertising their booming and flourishing condition it is but right that Hay Springs should Omaha, have its say. This place is one of the many towns in northwest Nebraska whose future success is inevitable. A genuine marvel is the towns that have sprung into existence west of the sand hills, not the mushroom camps with a number of saloons in tents and the usual class of population of which they are composed, but good substantial towns, with handsome buildings, large stores well stocked with goods and having from the begin-ning an immense trade, and Hay Springs is one of the latter class. Although this place has experienced the misfortune of a severe conflagration, which destroyed nearly one-third of the town, the inhabi-tants soon to rebuild large costly buildings over the charred ruins of those which were consumed and now the town presents a much better appearance than before. Hay Springs is situated in the western part of Sheridan county — a county which is 69 miles long north and south by 36 miles wide east and west, and a county which for fertility of soil is unexcelled. The soil is a dark loam, easily brought to a high state of cultivation and capable of producing either grain or fruit. The town now commands the trade of the famous
