ENTHUSIASM OF THE ORDER.

Parade-Route of Same-Accommo dations on a Large Scale-History of the LO. O. F.

The Celebration.

This is the sixty-seventh anniversary of the organization of Odd Fellowship in this country. The occasion will be celebrated in this city by a procession of members of the order, their entertainment here and that of citizens who may desire to be present. Invitations have been sent to lodges of the order throughout the states of lowa and Nebraska. A number of responses have been received. and, though the number of visitors may not now be foretold, it is expected to be unusually large. At the last reckoning, twenty-four lodges had consented to come from Western Iowa, while several lodges were anticipated from Lincoln, Hastings, Nebraska City, Beatrice, Plattsmouth, Springfield, Fremont, Kearney, West Point, and a number of other places. They will bring their regalia with them, and a mong them their regalia with them, and among them will be several uniformed cantons.

Last night several advance couriers of the coming brothers had arrived in town and gave assurance of the excellence in number and quality of the representa-tives which are to come from their dis-

The vistsing lodges will commence to arrive this morning. They will be met at the several depots by home detachments and escorted to the Exposition building, which will be the headquarters of the order during the celebration. It is expected that by noon all the visiting lodges will have arrived. At that hour, dinner will be served in the exposition. It will be served until 2:30 in the afternoon, at which time the ton and parade the principal streets of the city. After the parade the lodges will repair to the exposition build-ing where Mayor Boyd will deliver his address of welcome to visiting delega-tions. Music will then be rendered by the orchestra, after which the anniversary ceremony, a colloquy on Odd Feilowship between the noble grand and vice grand master. This will be followed by

The orator of the day, Rev. S. S. Hunting, P. G., of Des Moines, will then deliver his oration. A second ode will follow, and then benediction will close the afternoon exercises.

In the evening there will be a grand reception and ball in the exposition building. Supper will be served from 10 to 12 o'clock. The price of this meal as also that of dinner already mentioned, will be fifty cents per couple.

The Procession.

The following orders for the government of Odd Fellows participating in the parade on the occasion of the sixty-seventh anniversary of Odd Fellowship in America, to-day, have been issued to-day by E. G. Ryley, the grand marshal, and must be strictly complied with:

The Exposition Building. This magnificent place will to-day be put to uses for which it is excellently intended. It will be the rendezvous of the assembled brothers. In recognition of this fact it has been placed in readiness for their reception A large stage has been erected on the north side of the building, and about mid-way between altogether? For if the viaduet is built, the eastern and western extremities. It is carpeted, and large enough to accommodate all the officers of the visiting lodges and others who may have business there. Around it are ranged chairs to the number of several thousand, and capable of accommodating even a laager gathering than that which attended the Hauk concert. Behind the stage and extending across the sections formed by three of the massive are gracefully festooned a pair of U. S. flags. Nestling in the folds of these are two floral wreaths, and these serve as frames to portraits of Thos. Wildy and James Ridgely, two of the most NOTABLE FOUNDERS of the order, the latter of whom filled the position of grand secretary to the sovereign grand lodge for thirty years. Suspended from the roof and hanging over the stage is an immense frame of iron and wire, the border of which is eneased in evergreen. In this space are displayed in large gilt let-ters "I. O. O. F.," while beneath are the three links of the order, emblazoning 1886 and 1819; the latter being the year of the institution of the society. Graceful carlands of evergreen run round the building, being looped at every post, Immediately above the loop on each post, is a wreath of the same material, in the center of which rests a pretty bouquet. All these bouquets are the work of Mamie Fraser and Ettie Nichols. This was quite an excellent piece of work for the little misses. The atter mentioned is the daughter of

The lodges interested in this big undertaking are: Omaha lodge No. 2, Allemannen lodge No. 8. Hesperian encampment No. 2, State lodge No. 10, Beacon lodge No. 20, Ruth Rebecca lodge No. 1, and Canton Millard lodge No. 1.

These are represented by the following COMMITTEE,

John W. Nichols, chairman; N. B. Heim, secretary; Ernest Stuht, treasurer; Frank M. Wooley, Peter Oleson, G. Strioler, William F. Lorenzen, William H. Whitson, T. G. Cliff, William A. Kelley, W. R. Pruitt, Werner Boehl.

This undertaking is the most demon-

This undertaking is the most demon-strative one ever attempted by Omaha Odd Fellows. It is a commendable one, and aside from that, the energy with which it has been carried out makes it worthy of success.

Historical.

Lodges of Odd Fellows were established in New York as early as 1806, but had a brief existence. On April 26, 1819, Thos. Wildey and four others, established Washington lodge, No. 1, in Baltimore. The object of American Odd Fellowship is to visit the sick, relieve the distressed, bury the dead, and educate the orphan. It seeks to improve and elevate the character of man, imbue him with proper conceptions of his capabilities for good, enlighten his mind, enlarge the sphere of his affections, and lead him to a cultivation of the true fraternal relation designed by the Great Author of our being. Its motto is, "Friendship, Love and Truth." It is divided into lodges and encamp-It is divided into lodges and encampments. All members of lodges must be white, of good moral character, have attained their majority, and believe in a truly personal God. To become a member of an encampment, one must have taken the three degrees in the subordinate lodge. In 1875 there were 34 grand lodges, 6,558 subordinate lodges, 463,087 members. The receipts were $4,590,000. members. The receipts were $4,590,000, 38,400 members were relieved, 6,000 widowed families relieved; and for burial of dead, help of widows and education of orphans $1,590,000 was paid out. Later showing is still more satisfactory.

Where to Drive To-morrow.

To-morrow will be a bright, sunshiny and balmy day. Every horse, buggy, barouche and phacton in public and private stables will be in use. The best road for a drive will be out Cuming or Hamilton streets to Orchard Hill where the roads are good the air clear and the the roads are good, the air clear and the view entrancing. Thence up Sherman avenue or Saunders street through Fort Omaha, taking the Boulevarde west of the latter funning along the top of the bluffs at that point. These are 200 feet higher than the city, and the view to be obtained from them is beyond a doubt unequalled in loveliness or extent in the state of Nebraska. Take the drive once and you will never forget it. You will then buy one of the acre lots in Belvidere or Newport for from $250 to $475, or a lot in Orehard Hill for from $450 to $650 of C. E. Mayne who will sell it on easy

The Cable Railway. To the Editor: The movement now on foot to defeat the cable line in the effort to cross the Eleventh street viaduct is of so threatening a nature to the vital interests of South Omaha, and particularly South Eleventh street, that I wish to appeal to the people who are opposing the grant of franchise to the cable company under a misapprehension. The first uestion that they are confronted with is that the cable company want a privilege which they mean to use in a distant day, at no expense. Now if that were true, then of course 1 should oppose such a grant, but as the very first step requires the cable company to pay $11,000 or more to the bridge company to change the plan for that particular purpose, it is clear to any one that they would not throw money away now for distant speculation. Then again, even if they did not intend using the bridge their tracks will be available for horse cars and no possible harm could follow. So it is quite clear that they surely do mean business. Second—It is urged by opponents of the cable company that they should be required to build threequarters of a mile south of the viaduet this year. This any man who reflects a minute can see is an idle proposition, unless it be to force the cable line on South Tenth street instead of directly on Eleventh street. For everyone knows a cable line costs $100,000 or so per mile, it requires a double track and an oval sewer under each track. No cable line can be built on a street till its grades are permanently established and carried out. Eleventh street cannot be so done until the end of this year, so that a cable line could not begin construction before next year, when the street is in shape for it. Hence to force construction three-quarters of a mile south this year means to force the line on Goodman's and Kountze's territory on South Tenth street, which is graded.

Do the people of South Omaha want to be tied down to one street, in the interest without provisions for a cable road, South Omaha people may rest assured that their last chance for many years to get such excellent facilities is gone. No member of the council, who has the interest of the whole city at heart, and not simply a local and personal interest, can afford to vote against the cable franchise. I have fought out the interests of South Omaha, on the line of the Eleventh street viaduct, and now I propose to keep it up in the same line if it takes all summer.

McNaily, the O'Neill prize fighter, has at length been placed in position to make some money out of his thereulean proportions and boxing skill. He struck Rising City, Dak., some time ago in JOHN W. NICHOLS, chairman of the committee on arrangements and leader of the Millard canton.
In the corners of the gallery a number of foreign flags are nicely disposed, and attract the attention of the persons of those countries. Nearly 1,700 feet of evergreen graneyard is well fitled with occupants who went to sleep with their boots on. McNaily knew this, but accepted the proffered position. To-day he is city marshal: He has risen from the ranks. In the gallery seventy temporary tables have been built, with a seating capacity of $15$ at one time. These are on both of $15$ at one time. These are on both of $15$ at one time. These are on both found any person, so the story goes, who is city their trip.

required arrest, he "stripped" and called upon the offender to do likewise, take his punishment or cease quarreling. McNally's success in these little affairs was such that a cessation of quarreling was deemed a diclate of policy. To-day law reigns supreme. Great is the law and McNally has his profit.

ALMOST THE JAWS OF DEATH. But It Turns Out to Have Been a Harmless Leap.

The fine bay team of H. C. Metealf, while being driven by a colored man east on Douglas street yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, got beyond control of the driver. They rushed around the corner on Thirteenth, and made directly for the stairs leading to the Millard house cellar under Rogers' drug store. Here they encountered an iron rail two inches in diameter. This they broke at both ends and bent into the shape of a letter V. They then plunged down the narrow stairway, the outside animal vaulting over the other, and thus changing posi-tions at the tongue. In this manner they reached the bottom of the area, which reached the bottom of the area, which is scarcely wide enough for a single horse. The buggy hung over the edge of the sidewalk with the driver in it. The pole was the only thing broken. The horses were cut from the tangled harnesses, led into the basement and then led up the stairs. They were unburt in every particular, though the heroes of of the narrowest escape on record.

Beating a Detective. Yesterday morning about 12:30 o'clock, H. Siddals, of the Western Detective Agency, was coming south on Sixteenth, when, near the corner of Cuming, he was set upon by a gang of unknown fellows and beaten about the head. He had just managed to get out of their hands when Block-Watchman Hollo appeared. The bruisers fled and left Siddals to fall into the former's hand, by whom he was put under arrest. Siddals is offended with Hollo's conduct, claiming that he was the injured party and not the man to be arrested. He was bailed out yesterday.

The young lady who gets to own a piece of real estate is bound to have a home before a girl who relies upon some-body providing it. The ladies who have bought lots of C. E. Two-Score and Ten. On Tuesday, April 20, Mr. Robert Weidensall, western secretary of the international committee, Y. M. C A., celebrated his fiftieth birthday. On the evening of the same day, a number of people in Chicago and elsewhere met in the Y. M. C. A. to congratulate the gentleman upon the happy event. Letters and telegrams of congratulation were also received from a number of people abroad, among them being Drs. Denise and Leisenring, and A. J. Poppleton and Warren Switzler. C. E. Mayne has the largest number of houses and lots for sale, employs the largest number of salesmen, the largest number of clerks, type writers, abstracters, owns the largest number of teams, carries on the largest correspondence, does the largest business and makes more money than any real estate man in A Busy Treasurer. County Treasurer Bolln and his deputy, John Groves, and assistants are being

Land League.

The regular meeting of the Land League was held yesterday afternoon in Cunningham's hall. J. A. McShane presided. It was decided to make special efforts to hold a rousing meeting of the organization next Sunday, to which the general public shall be invited, and at which Judge Savage will deliver an address. The address of yesterday was delivered by John Rush. It was an excellent presentation of the question of home rule as it is understood by the people of Iraland and the relation it has save the Ireland and the relation it bears to the bill recently introduced by Mr. Glad-stone. The League desires returns for the tickets of St. Patrick's night entertainment.

A dastardly outrage was perpetrated in South Omaha in the early part of last week, but it has not been made public until the present. On Monday night A. Savage, the proprietor of a grocery store on South Thirteenth street, left his horse well and hearty in a stall in the basement of his store. Tuesday morning, when he went to the stable, he found the animal with a pitchfork imbedded in its right side, and, of course, suffering severely. The times were withdrawn and the wound doctored, but the animal died in four days. Some of Mr. Savage's friends fear that some cowardly individual to be revenged on the former, inflicted this horrible cruelty upon his beast.
