EXCITEMENT IN LIVE STOCK.

Scenes in the Cattle Market Recall War Times—Countrymen Warned, However, Not to be too Sanguine—Hogs, as Usual, Dull.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 7.—[Special Telegram.]—WHEAT—Interest continued all day to be centered in wheat. There was active trade, but an unsettled market. Based on opening figures, there was a very fair degree of strength if it can be judged by the fact that the range over all the contracts was a little greater than the fall below them. When trading began there was nothing in sight to encourage belief in any higher prices. Nearly everybody appeared to be a seller. Jones and Cuddey were said to be unloading liberally, while Reams' name was also mentioned as a heavy seller. Crop reports were generally favorable. From an opening at 75 1/2 June wheat picked up to 75 3/4, but at this point they weakened and under heavy selling dropped back to 75 1/2. At 12:30 p. m. there were telegrams on the floor announcing that thirty-four boat loads were taken at New York yesterday and estimating 40,000 bushels of wheat to go out this week. This brought out a good line of local buying, and June wheat once more started on an uptick, this time advancing to 75 3/4. But it was followed as usual by a reaction. The morning session closed steady and about firm at quotations. Northwestern advices are that receipts at Duluth and other points are decreasing and next week are expected to be considerably lighter than this. Hog profits was undoubtedly very poor, corn opened at $9.12 1/2 and fell to $9.00 without any large amount of trading. Corn was also lower, to the extent of nearly 1/2 cent. 2:30 p. m.—Wheat was firm and steady. Certainty that export movement had again started hardened values materially. Twelve boat loads were taken at New York yesterday and thirty-four yesterday. No change of importance in other commodities. 4:40 p. m.—Puts on June wheat 75 1/2, calls 75 3/4.

Chandler-Brown Co.'s Report.

The following report is furnished by Chandler-Brown Co., of Chicago and Milwaukee:

No new features were developed in the wheat market to-day, and the market was fairly active. June wheat opened at 75 1/2 and sold 3/4, closing at 75 3/4 at 1 p. m.

Receipts at primary markets, 143,000 bushels; shipments, 321,000 bushels. Corn and Provisions—Weak and lower. 2:30 p. m.—Everything quiet and steady.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, May 7.—[Special Telegram.]—CATTLE—There were extraordinary scenes in the cattle market this morning, reminding one of the struggles and scrambles for fat cattle during war times, when anxious contractors did not often hesitate to bid against each other to the extent of $1.00 to $1.50 per 100. Buyers were in the saddle, looking for stock over as early as 10 o'clock, and before 8 o'clock they were weighing their purchases. Such scenes of activity are seldom witnessed in the market, and prices were 1/2 cent higher than yesterday, and a good 1/2 cent higher than Monday. Countrymen are warned against rushing in stock next week, as everybody anticipates a big break. Elliott bought seven loads within range of $3.00 to $3.50. A few oxen were bought for export at $4.75. Light little steers sold all the way from $4.00 to $5.50. Of distillery stock Morris & Greenbaum had forty-three loads from Iowa. There were also 100 head of 100 cows in from the city distilleries. Forty cars of Morris' cattle were forwarded on to New York, and from there to the coast. 100 cows in from the city distilleries. #### MONTHLY HONORS.

The Last to be Conferred This Year in Creighton College.

An account of their work during April was given to the students of Creighton college yesterday afternoon. This is the last of its kind for the present term, the next being the annual commencement which will take place about the last of June.

FINANCIAL.

New York, May 7.—MONEY—On call, easy at 10 1/2 per cent. Last loan made at 1 per cent.

PRIME MERCANTILE PAPER—4 1/2 @ 5 per cent.

STRENGTH EXCHANGE—Dull but steady; 84 1/2 for sixty days; 84 1/2 for demand.

GOVERNMENTS—Dull but steady.

STOCKS—Stocks were firm throughout the day, subject only to slight fluctuations. Prices at the opening were somewhat irregular, but generally firm, and advanced slowly during the forenoon. There was exceptional strength in Laclede on active trading. A slight reaction followed by a steady tone until after 1 p. m., when in sympathy with a decided weakness in Western Union, the whole list yielded fractions, but in the last hour again became strong and closed at or near the best figures of the day for the most active.

THREATS OF LYNCHING HEARD

A Prohibition Crank in Serious Danger of Having His Neck Stretched.

BRAVE ACTION OF A SHERIFF.

Des Moines Much Excited Over the Liquor Question—A Case of Shooting Leads to a Small-Sized Fight.

A Prohibition Crank.

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 7.—[Special Telegram.]—Shortly after noon today a large crowd gathered in the court house yard, and shouts of "Hang him," "Lynch him," and other excited exclamations were heard. The object of the attack was a man named Harry Lloyd, who was safely lodged in the jail behind the court house, was a special constable named Pierce, who attempted to make a search for liquor south of the city, and being resisted, shot a man. He immediately jumped into his wagon and drove back to town, followed by an excited crowd, and was once arrested and locked up on charges of assault for clubbing a man last night who resisted his search warrant. Crowds hung about the jail all the afternoon and much incendiary talk was heard. Some trouble is feared to-night. The man who was shot, Harry Lloyd, was the bartender, and Pierce claims that he was shot by mistake, and afterwards being introduced by Wyatt, the proprietor of the saloon, who came in with a shot gun. Wild stories are afloat that Lloyd was a man who was shot by Wyatt, the proprietor of the saloon, who came in with a shot gun. Wild stories are afloat that Lloyd was a man who was shot by Wyatt, the proprietor of the saloon, who came in with a shot gun.

Prohibition Doesn't Prohibit.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 7.—The city council to-night passed an ordinance fixing saloon license at $25 a month. Since prohibitory law went into effect saloons have been paying no license. There are about 100 saloons in the city.

The Bricklayers to Consider.

The resolution adopted at the meeting of the contractors Wednesday night, with reference to asking the bricklayers to appoint a committee to meet a similar committee to arbitrate the question of wages, was handed to the officers of the union yesterday. To consider the question proposed at a meeting of the union was held in the morning at 8 o'clock, at the rooms of the association, corner of Fourteenth and Douglas streets. A committee was appointed to confer with the contractors upon the question proposed.

A committee was appointed to notify the contractors that the association would be pleased to meet them in the afternoon. At that time, accordingly, both contractors and bricklayers met, and the former were represented by Messrs. Ittner, Withnell, Johnson, Olsen and Livesey, about sixty of the latter being present.

A long talk ensued and was finally closed with an understanding that the wages demanded, namely $4.50 for nine hours work on full days of the $4.50 for eight hours on Saturday, was acquiesced in by the contractors. The latter in turn demanded that they be permitted to decline to hire any except men whom they considered capable of doing a full day's work, valued at 50 cents per hour. This was also agreed to by the bricklayers.

This closes the question, and to-day some of the men will go to work, while others will wait for Monday.

Fantasmas.

The Hantons have never been identified with an indifferent show. Their success of the past have been of the most pronounced order, and resulted in the heaviest returns of both fame and money. But of all their achievements none has been as successful as that of Fantasmas, which was produced at the Boyd last night. There are but two speaking characters in the piece, and yet there are about forty persons in the company. Every one of those is accomplished, and the variety of the accomplishment was displayed in almost a hundred characterizations. Fantomine, of course, predominated, and made laughter resound through the house from the beginning to the close of the piece. The scenery was magnificent, and the transformations were rich, gorgeous and most excellently designed. The same piece this afternoon and evening.

Mikado Fans.

Every lady visiting J. L. Brandeis' sale to-day or next week will be presented with a handsome Mikado fan of their own importation. Read their advertisement on the fifth page of this issue.

$500 IN JEWELRY.

Go to That Home Whence no Traveller Returns, Except in Charge of the Police.

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 7.—[Special Telegram.]—A Creston special says: Charles Smart, night clerk in the Revere house, left suddenly carrying with him a sample case of jewelry belonging to George W. Cheney of Lincoln, Neb., who was a guest at the hotel. The case was valued at $500. No clue to the whereabouts of the ascending clerk.

Thrown Into the River.

DUNQUOIE, Iowa, May 7.—Harry McFadden and Miss Axie Taylor, both of Savannah, Ill., while taking a pleasure ride last evening from Savannah to Beaverville, got their horses entangled in the brush close to the river bank and were tipped over, horse, buggy and both occupants being thrown into the river. The drowned bodies of the couple were found this evening.

Ministerial Ducats.

It is within the power of a certain divine in this country to say that, for one year, he received as salary, the princely sum of $90,000. But neither that divine nor his congregation resides in Omaha. In the matter of salaries, the congregations of this city have seen fit to draw a line and they have drawn it, leaving considerable margin this side of $90,000. At least, such is the impression made by a cursory inquiry as regards the remuneration of our spiritual advisers. Despite this fact, the churches thrive, and, if the number of mortals who are to be saved from eternal loss does not increase, it certainly is not because $90,000 shepherds are not standing around ready to do the smothering. Our divines have learned to labor and to wait, and the ease and grace with which some of them accomplish the latter, is somewhat remarkable. There are about fifty places of divine worship in Omaha, and the pastors of most of these have become most accomplished in the art of preaching. Rev. A. F. Sherrill has waited. But he waits no longer. His seventeen years have not been spent in vain in Omaha. He has not lost the grace of motion, the elasticity of youth, the raven darkness of his hair, for nothing. He waited. He came to the front. He climbed the height of congregational appreciation, and now draws yearly $9,000. He does not dispose of it with the liberality which he receives it. He has no carriage. He uses not the weed, neither looks he upon the wine when it is red. He lives in keeping with his position. His home is a large, comfortable and well-furnished one, and he is shared with him only by his wife and an adopted child. His left does not always know what is done with his right, but poor people do, who assert that perhaps a third of his wages is devoted to their comfort.

Rev. William E. Copeland, of the Unitarian church, is voted $1,500 per year. He is also given house rent free. But he has not yet been able to get the full amount of the good intent of his people. His people are few, and they are mainly poor. When he gets $1,300 yearly he is doing well. He strives to supplement it by sundry efforts on the side, such as striving after the secretaryship of the board of education, and again the assistant secretaryship of the same board. He is still striving. He writes book reviews for the Republican, the remuneration of which is problematical. He edits Progress, with a pecuniary return of about $15 per week. If there are other roads leading fortunes to him it may not be necessary now to mention them.

Rev. W. J. Harsha, of the First Presbyterian church, is paid $2,400 a year. He is a very wealthy son and son-in-law. He is independent of his salary. He is also independent in his opinions of recreation. He has his horses, and carriages, and babies. He also owns a gun, a pair of waders, a corduroy outfit, and a trace of settlers. He takes several of the mentioned things with him when he goes hunting, which he does sometimes with the hope of seeking innocent recreation and doing good to himself at the same time. But every one of his flock possesses these possessions of the
