LAUER GETS A NEW TRIAL

Manager Boyd's Benefit-Distinguished Celestials-Rifle Practice-Wasted Affections-More School Facilities,

Lauer Gets a New Trail. Judge Neville rendered his decision in the Lauer case Saturday sustaining the motion for a new trial. The following is the text of his opinion. State vs. John W. Lauer. This case is before me on a motion for This case is before me on a motion for a new trial based upon alleged errors in instructions to the jury, undue influence by the presence of ladies especially and demonstrations by the citizens present at the trial. Also it is asked upon the ground that manslaughter, which was the yerdiet, could not be sustained by the evidence, although the court might think there was evidence to sustain a higher grade of homicide.

As to all of the alleged errors except the last I should feel justified in leaving them to the supreme court to say whether any prejudice grew out of such adeged errors or, not, feeling that the defendant had a fair and unpartial trial of his case as to those matters.

I did not see any demonstrations on the part of any lady or ladies which were in the least objectionable, and I must say that the same number of men crowded into the court room as these ladies were would have been far more susceptible to demonstrations, and to that extent they were a benefit to the accused. The only demonstration that I heard or saw came from a few inconsiderate men in the rear part of the room, and I could not identify them, but this demonstration came as applause to defendant's counsel as well as

Now I have to stay as to the bare pres ence of a large number of ladies, that the laws of our state requires that the trials shall be public and not private to any class or sex, and if the Inlinite has given an influence in woman's presence which will prompt courts and jurors to a realization of duty, I hope they will step into the court rooms of our land whenever they feel justified.

The last proposition of the defendants is that manslaughter is not a proper verdict, even if a higher grade could be sustained by the court.

Under the common law manslaughter under the common law mansiaughter was the necessary part of the crime of murder and the doctrine that the less was always included in the greater in the common law definition of manslaughter and murder, the courts were compelled to hold that if the verdict was for manslaughter, although the evidence showed murder, that the verdict is sustained by the evidence. Our statute defines manslaughter as follows: "If any person shall unlawfully kill another without malice, either upon a sudden quarrel or unintentionally while the slayer is in the commission of some unlawful act, every such person shall be deemed guilty of manslaughter." This statute is exclusive. That is, it excludes all offenses of manslaughter under the common law, and makes a separate and distinct offense, for this reason that under this statute manslaughter can only exist where the killing was done in a sudden quarrel while the slayer was in the performance of some un-lawful act. * * * The statute having made manslaughter not a necessary part of murder, the jury when they find manslaughter must so find because the facts sustain such offense, not because they may think that the higher crime is proven as they could do under the com-mon law. * * * When the common law made manslaughter a necessary and gral part of murder, then the court tence under verdict of manslaughter where the evidence sustained murder, but when the statute made manslaughter not a necessary and integral part of murder, then the jury must find whether or not the facts constitute manslaughter, as an independent offense upon a state of facts which sustain manslaughter, before the court has legal authority to sentence. Then the case resolves itself into the proposition whether or not the facts and circumstances proven show, sufficiently strong that the killing was done upon a quarrel and so conclusive that a court manslaughter. The killing upon a sudden quarrel, without malice, which is contemplated by our statutory manslaughter, means a killing so suddenly and without time to deliberate, that no malice could be entertained. The proof is overwhelming that the object was heard, seen, the revolver deliberately leveled, and the trigger pulled at the object. It is, therefore, gravely doubtful if the crime can be reced to mansiaughter if the defendant would feel bound to sustain a verdict of knew what he was shooting at.

I very much regret the conclusion to which I am forced in this case, but it is one fairly deduced from the law as I view

It is not necessary to review the facts as they are familiar to all interested in the cause. It is sufficient for me to say that the proofs bore upon murder either in the first or second degree with much more force than they did upon man-slaughter. And there is not sufficient proof of a killing upon a sudden quarrel given at the trial at this time to sustain Believing as I now do, that at a second trial a result can be had which will be more satisfactory to the state and de-fense, and the law in my judgement requiring it, the verdict must be set aside and a new trial ordered.

REACHING FOR PROPERTY. The U. P. Anxious to Secure a Lot

Which the Owner Will Not Sell. Lot 8, on the northwest corner of Leavenworth and Eleventh streets, lies adjacent on the east to the property of the gas company. Some time ago the gas company, it is claimed, bought the parcel from Frank Murphy, who has owned it for a number of years back. Saturday presuming on their ownership of the property and five of the houses situated upon it, the gas company ordered some of its men to demolish a frame barn in the rear, opening on the alley north of Leavenworth. The work had not been quite completed when, at about 5:30 p. m., a gang of men raised in the middle of the lot two piles of railroad ties and strung others out from one end of the lot almost to the other, and then threw rails upon them as if about to build a track. By 6 o'clock the gas company had col-lected a goodly number of men upon the ground, who were ordered to resist any further energeshment months property ur ther encroachment upon the property Last night these men were supplied with weapons and ammunition and stationed around the lot and in one of the old and untenanted houses near the corner. During the night a number of men prowled around the place, presumably mployes of the railroad company, wait-ng to see if the gas company should attempt to throw off the track material already deposited upon the ground. The les and iron, however, were numolested. It is believed it is well they were not, be-cause the gas men were ordered, if necessary, to use force to keep off the treas-passers. Judging from the appearance of the men who held the fort Saturday determined resistance could have en made which would have had, doubtless, a not very happy termination.

The Union Pacific claims to have a right to the lot in question, the prospect Bound for China.

A distinguished party arrived in the city Saturday and quartered at the Millard It was composed of Cheng Tsao Ju, the ex-Chinese minister to the United States; Tsai Krook Ching, his private secretary; Sin Shin Man, an attache; Ching Hanson, the interpreter, and Tony Lum Lee, a young servant.

A reporter for the BEE sought an interview with the distinguished Mongolian, but found the ex-minister too indisposed to talk even through his interpreter. He is a tall, portly man, weighing something over 200 pounds. He is dressed in the flowing silken costume peculiar to his na-tion. His interpreter, Mr. Hanson, (who is a very bright and intelligent young man, speaking English with remarkable fluency), explained that the ex-minister had been suffering for some months past, and was at present in a very had state of and was at present in a very bad state of health indeed. For the past year he has been unable to discharge the duties of his office, and most of his work has devolved upon his attaches. His successor is Chang, who passed through Omaha three or four weeks ago, on his way cast. Ching Tsao Ju has been minister to America now nearly four years and a half, and has accomplished much for those of his race in this country. He expresses himself as glad to return once more to his native

The party left Saturday evening on the overland for San Francisco, by way of Ogden, sailing thence to China. They made the trip from Chicago on the Bur-lington, under the care of W. W. King, traveling passenger agent for that route; KATE CASTLETON.

The Star for Manager T. F. Boyd's

Benefit Monday Night.

Kate Castleton is, beyond a doubt, one of the most captivating actresses who visits Omaha. Her presence is attractive and her manner fascinating, while her acting is such as to disarm criticism. These are well recognized facts and her appearance here this evening will afford our people, for the second time this season, the rare pleasure of again witnessing this popular rayorite.

There is an increased interest in Miss Castleton's appearance this year in the fact that she is to appear for Manager T. F. Boyd's benefit. Mr. Boyd's management of the opera house is something in which everybody is interested. If it were unsuccessful it would be a public calam-ity. Being all that could be desired, it is a source of public congratulation. Such being the case, Mr. Boyd, to whom this is all due, deserves the kindly attention of the pairons, a circumstance which can-not always be credited to theatrical managers. Secure tickets, therefore, for Kate Castleton and Mr. Boyd to night.

Exchanging Regiments. Gen. Crook received Saturday from Lieut. Gen. Sheridan order for the exchangeof the Fourth and the Second regiment of Infantry, stationed respectively in the departments of the Platte and Columbia. The Fourth regiment under the command has its headquarters at Fort Omaha, with several companies at Forts Niobrara and Robinson. It has been in this department for fifteen years or more. The Second infantry, which will be transferred to the Department of the Platte, is now scattered through Oregon, California and Idaho. It does not follow that this regiment will succeed the Fourth at Fort Omaha. It will in all probability be stationed at some western post, while some regiment now in the west—possibly that of Col. Morrow, the Twenty-first—will be sent to this point.

The same general order provides for the exchange of the First and Eighth regiments, respectively, of the Departments of Arizona and California. The move in both cases will commence on July 1, 1886.

The Elevator Fell.

At half past one o'clock Saturday the elevator at the Millard hotel fell from the fifth story to the bottom floor, Though it contained six persons at the time, no one was injured and the elevator was not damaged in the least. The occasion, it might be remarked, was the testing of the Ellithorpe air cushion, which has recently been put in, and the experiment was a complete success. The elevator was suspended from the top of the shaft, and when the rope was cut, it descended so lightly that not the slighlt-est jar was feit by the passengers. The fall of 85 feet was made in less than two seconds and a half, and when the car reached the first floor the jar was so slight that the passengers hardly realized that they had "touched bottom." One dozen eggs which made the trip with the passengers remained intact. Besides the car itself, which weighed 2,000 pounds, there were several passengers who added to the weight as follows: A. E. Marriott, 150; W. H. Bartle, 170; R. R. France, 140; E. C. Snyder, 180; F. T. Ellithorpe, 180; H. B. Woodbryde, 153.

"Not Guilty, Your Honor." In district court, before Judge Neville Saturday District Attorney Estelle arraigned the following prisoners: Harry Ward, colored, charged with the burglary of James Connelly's saloon on April 5, and the larceny therefrom of two bottles of champagne and 45 cents in eash; George Duval, colored, charged with the larceny of a gold chain from Chris Erickson; Anna Johnson, colored, charged with the larceny of $65 from James Gillen; John Cavanaugh, charged with breaking into G. Anderson's house with intent to commit burglary. These prisoners all plead not guilty, and were remanded to jail to await trial, the first week of the district court.

Caddie Butts and Ella Berlyn, charged with robbing a victim, who had visited their place, were discharged at the instance of the district attorney.

Rail Notes. The brakemen on the Wyoming division Saturday followed the example of their brethren on the Western Nebraska divisions and resumed work at the old rates of pay. No trouble was reported except at Eagle Rock, Idaho, where some of the strikers stopped a train which had on board several deputy United States marshals on their way to Dry Creek to arrest some rioters. The strikers greatly outnumbered the deputies and compelled them to turn back. On the Utah & Northern the strikers are still out and profess to be unwilling to go back to work at the Wasted Affections.

N. E. Applin, salesman in a furniture store on Fifteenth street, was arrested Saturday on complaint of Mrs. Dr. F. Hendy for annoying her daughter. It seems that Applin has been paying attention to the young lady for some time past. Of late his attentions have not been acceptable, and she requested him to cease calling on her. Nevertheless he refused to drop his suit, and continued to follow her about. On several occasions he tried to force his way into the house, though positively denied admittance. Finally the annoyance grew so great that Mrs. Hendy determined to have him arrested. He is still in jail, having as yet failed to give bonds. It has developed that he is married to a lady in the east, from whom he is now trying to procure a divorce.

Floral Friday.

The "Festival of Flowers" at Long school Friday afternoon was an event that will not soon be forgotton by the litthe people of that district.

The unanimous choice of the 600 pupils for "Flower Queen" was Mercy Salisbury, a dainty little miss of five years, who, with charming unconsciousness, re-ceived the floral offerings and greetings of the enthusiastic subjects.

The exercises consumed about one hour and were participated in by the entire school, each department appearing in their turn before the little queen with flowers and appropriate songs.

For an impromptu affair it must be voted an entire success, not only in making the children happy, but as an aid toward maintaining the usual excellent record of the school.

Old Folks' Concert.

"Ye concert," after the fashion of one hundred years ago, which is to be given this evening at the Seward Street M. E. church, promises to be very this interesting. The costumes are both varied and elegant, as such things went in the olden time, and almost all styles prevalent at that period will be represented, from the old-style Quaker to the gorgeous continental soldier. A solid week has been devoted to practice, and the music of the old masters will be rendered as near as possible, the same as in the days of yore. A cordial invitation is extended to all the friends of the church to come and have a good time.

A Mother-in-Law in the Case. Charley Kluge sued out a writ of replevin from Justice Berka's court last week for the possession of a lot of furniture and household traps which were in the possession of his devoted wife and his mother-in-law. Kluge alleges that his wife asked him for money the other morning with which to purchase meat for the noonday meal. When he returned at noon from his work he found that his wife had used the meat money to hire an expressman to remove all the family furniture to her mother's. Kluge don't seem to mourn the loss of his better half any, but insisted upon obtaining possession of his property, which he did.

Rifle Practice. General orders from the War department gives the standing in target practice for the year 1885. Out of the eight departments, the Platte is third; out of 40 regiments, the Fourth infantry is 39, Fifth infantry 20, Seventh infantry 9, Ninth infantry 7, Twenty-first 11, and Ninth eavalry 23. B company Ninth infantry stands No. 3 in skirmishing and 20 in general standing out of 455 companies, troops and bands. Camp Medicine Butte stands I in skirmishing and 5 in general standing, and Fort McKinney 9 and 25 respectively out of 118 posts; the lowest post, Robinson, is 95.

Running Notes.

D. J. Ross has sent a note to E. Lippincott, of Columbus, Neb., who, a short time ago, expressed his willingness to run anybody hereabouts for any distance. Ross claims he has offered to run him any length, from one to ten miles, and suggests that if Lippincott means business he write immediately and be accommodated.

It is rumored that Webb, Ross and Cunningham, all fleet-footed men, the last mentioned of Kansas City, are to run with Waterloo, Ia., team, in the Dubuque tournament June 8, 9, 10 and 11,
