Ames Big Block.

Among the real estate transfers published in the BEE of Saturday, the one that attracted the most attention was the following:

E. H. Callin (single) to Frederick L. Ames, part of H. 11, blk 130, Omaha, w 4—$10,000. Mr. Ames, as is well known, is one of the principal owners of the Union Pacific, and is one of the wealthiest men in the United States. This is his first investment in Omaha real estate, and it was negotiated during his recent visit to this city in company with Charles Francis Adams. At that time he made a careful survey of the city and was struck with its wonderful improvements during the last two years. He concluded to make a large investment in Omaha and erect a large block of four feet of the lot, this giving a frontage of sixty-six feet on Douglas and eighty feet on Thirteenth. It is the intention of Mr. Ames to tear down the buildings and erect in their place a six-story block to cost $100,000. This block is to be made the handsomest business building in Omaha. The plans are to be drawn by a Boston architect. It will be a fire-proof structure, and will probably be begun on it in a few weeks, and an effort will be made to have it completed next fall. The Omaha Savings bank, of which Hon. Guy Barton is president, has purchased the Ames block, and will probably be the first to occupy it. BATLEY'S BAD BREAK.

A. Y. M. C. A. Protests Robs His Benefactress of $200.

Geo. Batley is the name of a pale, mild looking young man who came to Omaha about four weeks ago and sought and gained the confidence of some of the good people of this city. He has played the part of the "viper in the bosom," and is now wanted by his benefactors, whom he has deceived and outraged most cruelly.

Batley came to Omaha, friendless, moneyless and without the prospect of obtaining immediate employment. He fell in with the leading members of the Y. M. C. A. here, who at once became interested in him and endeavored to procure him a situation. Mr. Joplin, the secretary of the local branch, was particularly kind to him and found him odd jobs about town, so that he managed to make a pretty fair living. He seemed to be a very honest young fellow (he gave his age as 19 years) and his story, to the effect that the great strikes in Chicago had deprived him of employment, was calculated to procure him a little sympathy for him. Several days ago, he was recommended to Mrs. Wood, living on upper Farnam street near Twenty-fourth, who needed a young man to do work about the house. THE JUBILEE.

Closing Scenes of the Methodist Revival.

Perhaps no service since the beginning presented the same measure of attraction as the closing exercises at the exposition building on Sunday night, which Pastor McKaig pleases to call the jubilee meeting. As a prelude a few songs were sung, and Rev. J. A. Brodbeck led in an inspiring prayer. Rev. Mr. Savidge then introduced Mr. R. C. Patterson, and the latter stated that he had been chosen by a committee to present an interesting feature, and one which appear of more interest after the people might know what it is. He stated that Mr. McKaig was impatient to get at the work of saving souls, and he must be quick in getting before the people the question of paying the remainder of the liability for the rent of the building now being used for the meetings. Mr. McKaig preferred paying the full amount unhelped, but we have taken the matter out of his hands, and the people will help. Mr. Patterson has more than common good gifts for such work, and displayed skill in getting the matter before the audience. The response from the audience was liberal and in a little while $700 was promised. This success seemed to increase the enthusiasm, and the singing following was rendered with good cheer, a large part of the audience participating.

Rev. Mr. McKaig followed this up with one of the most earnest and thrilling talks he ever made, and was repeatedly cheered in a very decorous manner, but it came from all over the house. He said: "I thought at first of taking a guarantee of the meeting to provide for the payment of the rent of this building, and what might remain I would pay myself. But in talking with some of the brethren, they preferred putting it off till the last service and take it all up at once." After this explanation he continued: "The jubilee of old had as a condition that every participant should be out of debt and free. I am glad we can say to-night we are out of debt and free! And that about four hundred people have given us their names and have had their debts forgiven." He gave an instance of a man in England who was saved and at once began preaching salvation. "At the first meeting the audience was disappointed because he was a poor talker. At the next so few attended that he concluded to invite persons to his office, promising to pay their debts, so that he

THE TITANS' STRUGGLE.

For Possession of the Lot on Leavenworth and Eleventh Streets.

The dispute between the Union Pacific and the gas company as to the ownership of the lot on the northeast corner of Eleventh and Leavenworth streets remains as it was on Saturday last. No incursion, as had been expected, was made by the Union Pacific forces Saturday night. The gas men are on hand in constant patrol of the company's property, while others are assigned to duty, and a few days everything will be placidly calm again. The sentiment among the better classes of the workmen there is very bitter against the red flag rioters, who, as they say, have done a great injury to the cause of honest labor. Chicago has learned a terrible lesson by this affair, and one which she will not soon forget. In the future, you may depend upon it, the anarchists are to be repressed.

U. J. Tate, Nebraska City, Neb.: "The Shellenberger tragedy? There is nothing especially new about it that I can tell you. The first feelings of righteous indignation against the father and mother of the dead girl, Maggie Shellenberger, are gradually cooling down. The first supposition that the parents—at least the mother—are guilty have crystallized into firm belief. The threats of lynching, which were in the beginning freely expressed, are now unattempted, and it is probable that the law will be allowed to take its course."

Gen. N. Bliss, St. Louis: [Mr. B. represents a large wholesale firm of the "Future Great," and is in Omaha looking after his business interests here.] "Our city is plodding along, growing some every year, and has now, I think about 47,000 inhabitants. The fair this year, to be held in connection with the exposition, will be on a grander scale than ever, while the Veiled Prophets' parade is to be an especial feature of the 'Carnival Week.' It is said that it will eclipse anything ever before attempted, and I presume that such will be the case. No, we have no anarchists in St. Louis—at least not in alarming numbers, and the scenes which occurred in Chicago last week could not be enacted in our city."

Kennedy's "Bright Lights" who appear at the People's to-night and during the week are recognized as one of the strongest companies upon the road, and have appeared in all the leading cities during the past four seasons. The Dalton brothers, who are well known to the amusement public of Omaha, occupy a leading place in the company, and as artists acknowledge no superiors. Allen and Burns are equally well known, while the Coyne brothers, the Misses Hamilton and Brower, as well as the other members of the company, have all been selected with care especially for this organization. Prof. Kennedy, the renowned mesmerist, appears at every performance, exhibiting exhibition of mesmeric power is simply unsurpassable. All who would enjoy a most pleasant evening should miss the meritorious entertainment at the People's the present week.

German Theatrical Companies.

The season of the Molehin-Selig German Dramatic company has come to a close at the Stadt theatre, and for the next three Sunday nights will give performances at the opera house, supporting Miss Von Hoffstetter and Mr. A. Varena in a series of entertaining comedies. It is understood that Mr. Molehin will leave Omaha at the conclusion of these entertainments and go to some of the eastern theatres. He has played in Omaha for a number of years, and has been one of the most successful and popular actors we have ever had amongst us. On next Sunday night the Stadt theatre will re-open with a new comedy company, consisting of Emil Puls, Elise Laurits, Mr. and Mrs. Lindemann, Edward Schmitz, Jean Baureis and H. Horsk. They have secured the theatre for four years.

Building Notes.

Krug, the brewer, is excavating on Farnam street, near Tenth, for a double three-story brick store 44x130. The design is of a beautiful style, in which artistic arches and ornate trimming appear. The material will be brick and blue stone. The building will cost $25,000. Krug is also to build a two-story brick barn on the corner of Jones and Eleventh street, immediately south of his immense brewery. It will be 36x50 feet, and complete the brick front from Jackson to Jones.

Medical Matters.

Drs. Coffman, Neville, Denise, Swetnam, Moore, Galbraith and Link have returned from St. Louis, where they went to attend the session of the United States Medical association. "I want to express my opinion on behalf of my associates that St. Louis is the best place in the world to be entertained," said Dr. Coffman. "St. Louis has more handsome women than any city in the country, except Omaha," incidentally remarked the doctor, who is a good judge of female beauty. "The meeting of the association next year," continued he, "will be held in Chicago. The International Medical congress will also meet next year in Washington." Dr. Davis, of Chicago, is president of the International Medical congress, and Dr. Hamilton, of the navy, is secretary. The best medical talent of the world will be in attendance, and will be an important meeting. Congress should make suitable appropriation to pay the expenses, as the results of this assembly of eminent medical men will be a benefit to the world in general. Among other matters that will be discussed will be epidemics and quarantine regulations.

That Maudamus.

General Cowin was not able to argue the mandamus case of Brennan against the city, on Saturday last, neither was he able to argue it yesterday. The district court having adjourned, nothing can now be done in the premises until next Monday or by bringing the matter to the supreme court, which, however will not convene

RECEPTION DAY.

Yesterday was Police Judge Stenberg's reception day for the women of the town who call upon him on the tenth of each month to pay their fines. There are at present 300 names on the list of fallen women contributing to the social evil fund of the city. This is the largest number ever registered in one month in the history of the city. The landladies of the different houses of ill-fame are required to pay a fine of $10 each, while girls are fined $5. The total amount collected in this way this month will closely approximate $1,500.

Short Interviews Gathered in the Hotel Rotundas. O. N. Hally, Chicago, Ill.: "The excitement in our city, caused by the recent anarchist riots, is fast dying out, and a few days everything will be placidly calm again.
