THE property owner in the business part of Omaha who is short-sighted enough to build a four-story building on a six-story lot will confess himself to be the worst fooled man in the city two years from now.

AN excuse has been found at Washington for the removal of Agent McGillicuddy. Those two ardent humpbacks, Dr. Bland, of the Council Fire, and Red Cloud will now have a scarp dance over the remains of the best agent in the Indian service.

MR. EDMUNDS has listened to the delegation from the board of trade in advocacy of the Union Pacific relief bill. Much as we should be glad to see the measure pass, there is a long distance between the committee room and the engrossing clerk.

SIXTY per cent increase over last year was the record of Omaha's clearings for the week ending Saturday last. "Business is business," and Omaha is getting her due proportion of the same, with her official standing set down as twelfth in the list of financial centers of the country.

SPAIN is rejoicing over the birth of a royal prince who is heir apparent to the throne. The pope has consented to stand as god-father to Queen Christina's boy, and all Catholic Europe is preparing to send congratulations to the queen-mother over the happy event, which cuts off the youthful nose of the princess royal.

THE Long Pine Bugle blows a fearful blast. The following specimen bugle note leads to the natural inference that the mouth from which this terrific blast was blown had been drawing inspiration from a whisky jug:

We hear the beating of drums, see the marching of forces, hear the cannon's roar, and see the troops arrayed in line. Van Wyck was killed in the heat of the battle!

MR. GLADSTONE has determined to appeal to the country in case home rule is defeated by a strong majority in the present commons. Her majesty, the queen, has seen fit to take a hand in the matter, and the royal wish that parliament should not be dissolved on this issue was brought by the queen's secretary to Mr. Gladstone on Monday. Victoria has made it her business for years to snub the premier, and Mr. Gladstone probably feels under no pressing obligations to yield to her majesty's whim especially as such obedience would be to hand over the government to Lord Hartington and a Tory coalition. So the country will be given an opportunity to express its approval or disapproval of the ministerial policy at the polls. John Morley has already notified the liberal union to prepare for another election, which is a significant hint that the government is prepared for defeat and ready to face the issue on an appeal to the country. Ready aim, fire! Van Wyck was killed in the heat of the battle!

The Irish Famine.

We have received a circular from Patrick Ford asking us to lend a voice in favor of the Irish famine fund now being raised by the Irish World to relieve the great distress in western Ireland. Mr. Ford writes:

The condition of the people along the coast of Galway, Mayo, and Donegal, is reduced to absolute destitution. Whole communities are without food or fuel. Thousands of persons are almost in a state of nudity, number of young children thus forced to keep within doors, having been obliged to pawn the scanty clothing they had to purchase something to eat to preserve life.

Most Rev. Dr. McEvilly, archbishop of Tuam, Michael Davitt, and all the priests in those localities verify these terrible statements, and have made most piteous appeals for relief. It is certain, that those people will die if assistance is not given promptly.

It is, sir, with a sense of humiliation that I, or any man of spirit of the Irish race, must thus expose the wretchedness of Mother Land. I had almost registered a vow never again to see the Irish people.

The natural wealth of Ireland is great, the labor is there, and the will is ever present to marry both. Why, then, does poverty afflict that country, and hunger gnaw at the vitals of her children? It is almost superfluous to ask this question of any honest and decently informed man. Foreign rule is the answer.

The present, however, is not the time to philosophize. Men and women and innocent little children are dying of hunger, and the first thing to do is to save them.

I remit all collections weekly to Michael Davitt, who is on the ground, and who appoints the sub-committees in the most judicious manner. Would it be too much to ask you to announce to your readers that such of them as may feel disposed to contribute to this Famine Fund, you will be pleased to receive and forward to me their amounts with names, which will be duly credited.

The Bee cheerfully complies with the request. It will gladly receive and forward to all comers the actual average daily circulation of the Daily Bee for the month of January, 1886, was 10,375 copies; for February, 1886, 10,350 copies; for March, 1886, 11,587 copies; for April, 1886, 13,150 copies.

sham than the law creating the commission. It is true the railroad managers have given these clerks the use of directors' cars and dined and wineed them on their junketing trips. But in law and in fact they are nothing more than three clerks hired to collect statistics for the commissioners. Now where have the commissioners been all this time? Why have they kept themselves in seclusion? Do they imagine that the people will hold the clerks, whom they can hire and discharge at pleasure, responsible for squandering their money and making a huge farce of railroad regulation?

Isn't it about time for the commissioners to materialize and let their three clerks take a back seat in the cars in which they travel? It is bad enough for the people of Nebraska to be cursed and taxed with a commission when they voted it down by an overwhelming majority. But to be imposed on by a set of chumps whom the commissioners have employed as clerks is rubbing it in a little too hard.

Trade and Traffic. The quieting down of labor troubles throughout the west during the week has been followed by a general recovery from the depression of the past month. The effect is seen in the bank clearings which show a heavy increase. Omaha takes her position as twelfth in the list of cities, with an increase of more than 60 per cent over those of the corresponding week of last year.

In the east the trade situation has not materially improved. The distribution of merchandise has been chiefly in small lots, and the requirements of wholesale dealers and jobbers are naturally smaller, now that the spring season is so far advanced. The actual obstruction to trade and industrial operations by strikes and lockouts has been less serious than in recent weeks, but is still an important hindrance to the free flow of business in many departments, and the moral effect of the agitation continues to discourage new ventures or any tendency to an expansion of activity in legitimate trade or speculation.

Business failures in the United States and Canada numbered 178 last week, as against 192 the week preceding. The wool trade is in a sluggish, unsettled condition, but the sales have been increased a little by price concessions which some holders have made in order to unload before the new clip comes on the market. Shipping has been delayed in some sections by unfavorable weather, and where a clip is off and ready for sale, operations have been very moderate, as growers' views of value are above a parity with prices in the seaboard markets. The distribution of dry goods has been collectively fair, but made up chiefly of small lots for necessary re-shipment. There have been no important changes in values either in cotton or woolen goods. Wheat prices declined 1/4 and 3/8 cents per bushel at the close of the week under general pressure to sell, influenced by the near approach of harvest and the prospect that a large surplus will be carried over from the last crop.

There was a fair business for export, but it has been insufficient to check the downward tendency of values. Crop conditions continue excellent. The average condition of winter wheat has advanced from 92 a month ago to 95, and so far as can be judged at this early date, the outlook for spring wheat is favorable for a yield of about 150,000,000 bushels, which will swell the total wheat output for the year to about 450,000,000 bushels, as against 357,000,000 bushels in 1885 and 512,000,000 bushels in 1884. The corn market has been comparatively well supported, and is a shade stronger than last week. The firmness is due mainly to the fact that receipts are not grading up to the contract standard, and parties who had sold futures against the expected arrivals of No. 2 corn have either settled their outstanding engagements or face the unpleasant alternative of covering their sales in a market comparatively bare of the grades wanted.

McGillicuddy's Removal. Agent V. T. McGillicuddy has been suspended from the charge of Pine Ridge agency and will shortly be replaced by a successor who is more in harmony with the ideas of the interior department. It is gratifying to the friends of the best agent in the service to learn that the cause of the doctor's removal is his refusal to submit to the change of chief clerks at the agency. Dr. McGillicuddy took the stand that as he alone was held responsible for results at Pine Ridge he must be allowed to choose his chief subordinate. He firmly declined to yield the point and his suspension naturally followed. The peculiar circumstances in the case of the agent at Pine Ridge ought to be presented to the secretary through the proper demand. The chief clerk at that agency had been for years the trusted friend and advisor of the agent. It was he who organized and controlled largely the Sioux police and whose administration of the police force has made it the best drilled and most efficient of any located at agencies throughout the country. Chief Clerk Brown was a veteran sergeant in the regular army when Dr. McGillicuddy called him to his assistance at Pine Ridge and he has proved an invaluable acquisition to the government in his dual capacity as clerk and superintendent of the Indian police.

There will be general regret throughout Nebraska and Dakota over McGillicuddy's departure. Since his arrival at Pine Ridge agency he has qualified every sign of disorder among the Ogalala, Sioux and Cheyennes, fought off the gang of dishonest traders and contractors, and maintained his position against the host of enemies which his honest and efficient management of agency affairs brought down upon him. Under his vigorous and arbitrary rule, the Sioux have been kept at peace, factionalism has been made harmless, schools have been built and filled with children, and many of the Indians have become largely self-supporting. Dr. McGillicuddy falls a victim to a new-fangled system of pretended reforms which he cannot approve because in his case he knows its application would be injurious to the interests of the government.

SOME of the members of the police are fixing around and kicking over the traces about the ordinance to uniform the police. It is high time that there should be a thorough reorganization of Omaha police on a business basis. The system here is chiefly remarkable for the lack of system. The police are selected largely on the grounds of porsonal favoritism, without regard to physical or mental qualifications, and are placed on the same level, with few inducements for hard work or prospects of preferment. Every applicant for a position on the police force should be made to pass a physical examination. No man who is over thirty-five years of age and who is not sound in mind and limb should be accepted. Officers who are to enforce the law ought certainly to be physically able to command respect and obedience. The rate of pay should also be graded. A probation of six months on a salary of $50 with subsequent advances to $60 and $70, if the officer is found intelligent and faithful, would do much to increase the efficiency of the force. As matters now are, a position on the police is a soft job held until the officer commits some outrageous breach of the regulations and is quite independent of any qualifications of the incumbent. The ordinance uniforming the police is a step in the right direction. It will compel neatness in the first place and will assist in commanding respect for the men inside of the blouses. Having reformed the uniform, the council should next take steps to regulate the wearers of the blue and buttons.

REV. MR. BITLER denounces the Omaha reporters because, as he says, they did not report his meetings correctly. Mr. Bitler cannot charge the partial failure of his revival upon the reporters, who gave him more space than he deserved. One of the reporters for the Bee, by the way, was an enthusiastic participant in the revival, and did not in any way need the prayers of Mr. Bitler. That reporter can make as good a prayer or preach as good a sermon as Mr. Bitler any day in the week. The fact is that the revival meetings were very correctly reported, except as to the number in attendance, which was greatly exaggerated in order to help the enterprise along, and this was done with the knowledge of some of the prime movers. That was about the only incorrect reporting that was done.

A MISSING merchant of Claremont, N.H., has been heard from by a letter dated from London, England, in which he explained that seven weeks ago he found himself aboard an English steamer, 120 miles from New York, with his baggage and $5,000 in money, all safe, but he had no recollection of leaving New York or how he got on the steamer. Claremont whisky must be even worse than the average in prohibition states.

MR. CLEVELAND has vetoed the bill making Springfield, Mass., a port of entry. Omaha passed through the same experience a few weeks ago.

THAT cable line ought never to be permitted to switch off of Farnam street.

SENATORS AND CONGRESSMEN. Senator Mitchell, of Pennsylvania, is rapidly recovering his health. Senator Allison, of Iowa, inherited the greater part of his wealth.

Senator Palmer, of Michigan, accumulated his fortune in the tobacco trade. Senator Pike has gone to New Hampshire, and will probably return this session. Congressman Moffat says the Republicans will carry Michigan this year by 5,000 majority.

It is said that Congressman Reed, of Maine, has the largest feet of any man in the house. Senator Ingalls of Kansas burns the midnight oil far into the small hours, but it is a great man's weakness.

Senator Joseph E. Brown, of Georgia, is hard at work on a book showing the material and social progress of the south since the war. Representative Anderson, of Kansas, is the only ordained clergyman in congress, and it sticks him sometimes beyond measure.

Congressman Mitchell, of Connecticut, resigns because he has enough of congress, and prefers looking after his own private business. Senator Edmunds appeared in Washington a few days ago wearing a straw hat, and an hour later the town looked like a harvest field.

Congressman Reed of Maine, who had a republican faction opposed to him at the last election, thinks he has clear sailing ahead this time. Senator John L. Mitchell of Pennsylvania is slowly but steadily improving, but will not attempt to return to duty at Washington this session.

Congressman Louttit of California claims to have been born in a stable, which explains perhaps why his hairs are so very distinctly heard in the house. The Philadelphia Press says: Congressmen Glover and O'Neill of Missouri have quarreled, and never speak as they pass by. The vetoed secretary from boycotting each other is vividly picturesque.

Yes, But Don't Forget It. Chetwode's bomb-throwing settles one thing in this country. There is to be no more red-flag business. Is This a Free Country? St. Louis Republican. Herr Most says he thought this was a free country until he was arrested for free speech. There are numbers of this kind who have yet to be taught just how free this country is.

A Loud Mouth and a Craven Heart. Chicago Times. In the presence of danger Parsons cowardly shrunk out of sight and Most crawled under the bed. Of such valuable stuff are the exponents of the dynamite doctrine made. A loud mouth is generally the oracle of a craven heart. Don't Do It. Baltimore Herald. Put no tax on immigration. The glory of America is that she has always been the refuge of the poor and oppressed. Let it so continue to be. The public socialism may now and then be heard in the land, but its fangs are already pulled and its hiss can do us no harm. Not Too Severe. St. Paul Pioneer Press. The interior department timber-felling regulations are not too severe. They are perfectly intelligible to the simplest mind, and should be rigidly enforced. The one deficiency of the order is that there is no provision made for planting trees to replace those cut down. The Future Metropolis of the West. Lincoln Journal. It sometimes happens that the shearer returns home short. An association of eastern capitalists went into Kansas and bought a lot of land right in the center of the state. They laid off a town and called it Kanopolis. They advertised it far and wide and whooped up things, to the enjoyment of local business and the replenishment of the coffers of divers newspapers. A great free excursion and free lunch were announced on the day of the grand sale of lots. The future metropolis of the west lay smiling and basking in the rays of the May sun. The crowd came and enjoyed the excursion and the lunch, and didn't buy a lot. One lot was knocked off to the capper that started it.

An Object Lesson in the Museum. Boston Herald. In the National Museum at Washington there is a rife that belonged to John Brown, and the rife taken from Jeff Davis when he was captured. They are labeled "the beginning and the end of the war." A good many people need some such object lesson as this to teach them that the war has really ended.

Altogether Too Easy. St. Paul Pioneer Press. To let Herr Most off on $1,000 bail is tantamount to giving him encouragement to go ahead with his pistol boom, and club program. Most is at least as hard a case as any one of the hooded aldermen, and their bail was fixed at $15,000 to $30,000. It would be well to treat such men as Most at least as severely as a hooded alderman.

Is the President to Marry Mrs. Folsom? WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9.—A gentleman who is on very intimate relations with the president, and who ought to know the facts if any one does, says that it is true that the president is to be married, but not to Mrs. Folsom, the bride-elect is Mrs. Folsom, the mother of the Folsom, a widow of 45; and that the president is very much amused at the current reports, and especially at the glibness of the Folsom family in the country.

A Western Boy's Lament. Chicago News. I wish I lived away down east where codfish sell the sea. And where the folks have pumpkin pie and apple sauce for tea. Us boys who's livin' here out west don't get nothin' but slaw. We don't have nothin' else to do but just to sort o' grow. Oh, if I wuz a bird I'd fly a million miles away. To where they feed their boys on pork and beans three times a day. To where they call the Injuns gives out his slippy shoes. And where the folks—so rather says—is mostly women folks.

Nebraska Jottings. Wayne real estate is higher than the town. Holdredge farmers are harvesting potato bugs. The taloned Dakota City Eagle is ten years old. The West Point paper mill is now running day and night and it will take all summer to catch up with orders. Burglars tapped the safe in the B. & M. office at Junita Saturday night and the sheriff explained with his boot and the crowd dispersed.

Residents affirm that the petrified remains of snakes recently discovered near Chadron were confined in the boots of tenderfoot correspondents. Mr. and Mrs. H. Brown, of Hastings, have been presented with a handsome China bedroom set by the G. A. R. post and relief corps of that city. A Bostonian threatens to scour Plattsmouth with a soap factory. The Journal Times says that the nation is needed as it "would pay a handsome profit."

The Fremont water works are rapidly approaching completion. The contractor expects to start the machinery next week and make an informal test of the plant. Thieves broke into the office of Superintendent Hall, of the Elkhorn Valley road, in Fremont, Saturday night, and secured booty to the amount of two weeks' salary. Five hundred Sioux citizens excused to Covington last Sunday and disposed of several dozen kegs of beer and other lubricants. It was a full-bedded protest against Sunday closing.

Harding's Dairyman is the title of the latest addition to the weekly press of the state. As its name indicates it is devoted to dairy interests, and is published by Harding Brothers at Wisner. Clarence Barbee, the kidnaped Nickel Plate agent, who appealed to the police of Fremont for protection, has been sent home to his parents in Savannah, Ga. Sheriff Curran accompanied him.

The highest postoffice in the country and probably in the world is in Sioux county, this state. The Chadron Democrat says: "The Bordeaux postoffice has been removed to the switch about seven miles above the water tank." Rouben Stover, of Fairbault, has a curious case of dwarfism. He weighs only thirty-three pounds and measures twenty-five inches in height when standing. The sire and dam are both good-sized horses. MacDonagh, of the O'Neill Tribune, pretends to run on his slaps for the next legislature. Mac's understandings would cover and crush a multitude of rivals, while his lung power is simply unlimited.

West Point's water works have just been finished, but the final test has not been made. It is the stand pipe system, with a reservoir holding 3,000 barrels filled in three hours by two pumps. There is about 18,000 feet of pipe. The young Wan Tsin, who has a halo of leprosy beginning his brow, swallowed a liberal dose of opium at Chadron and fled to the spirit land. His remains were tenderly planted with sufficient grub to feed him for a month. The latest strike is reported from Beatrice. A lot of tramps in charge of an officer to serve out sentences under charges of vagrancy, refused to work on the streets unless paid for the work. At last account they were still striking.

During a recent thunder storm lightning struck the stables of Peter Ryan, near Inman, and burned them to the ground, together with the contents, consisting of four hundred head of cattle, grain, hay, etc. The loss was about $1,000. A promiscuous tough named Bill Ellis, is in jail in Kansas City for killing his wife. Last year Ellis was arrested for the murder of a woman, and was sentenced to the state penitentiary for a term of ten years. He was released on parole, but was arrested again for the murder of a woman, and was sentenced to the state penitentiary for a term of ten years. his neck and jump off will ever remain a mystery. Little Bertie Hymer, of Holdredge, had a narrow escape from death one day last week. He was kicked squarely in the face by a horse, his face being badly lacerated. This is the third time Bertie has reached for him. Once he fell head first into a cistern fifteen feet deep, and at another time he took a dose of deadly lead, but is again leading around and saving this world of casualties and liniments.

Iowa Items. The Corning creamery handles the product of 2,800 cows. The Farmers' alliance at Aurelia will build a grain elevator. A large number of farmers in the vicinity of Aurelia have gone into the raising of sweet potatoes. The fourth artesian well at Belle Plaine was struck on Thursday at a depth of 230 feet. It raises water 35 feet above the surface.

A year-old daughter of Henry Fifer, of Nevada, was seriously burned about the shoulders and face on Wednesday by her apron taking fire from a stove. William Mahaffy, who died recently near Oak, came to Montgomery county fifteen years ago with ten and $700. He left an estate valued at $40,000. The papers say a young man in Crawford county has invented a corn husker, which husks twelve ears a day, and that he has refused an offer of $50,000 for the patent.

When the wind storm struck Milton, Van Buren county, last Sunday, a funeral was in progress at one of the churches. The people became frightened and hurried to the safety of their homes, leaving the service alone in the church. A few old houses blown down was the extent of the damage. Last week, at Jefferson, a man secured a divorce from his wife and the next day a woman secured a similar decree from her husband. The next day the twins were married. The man had possessed four wives and presented his bride with six children as his proportion of the loak.

The News says that the citizens of Marcus are giving an hour each day to "cave practice," and are getting so that they can dive into a cyclone retreat with all the ease and grace shown by a professional acrobat. Johnnie Archer, a youthful plowboy living near Algona, startled the neighborhood as well as the sheriff by telegraphing the latter that the Algona desperadoes were in the vicinity and had shot at him. The sheriff and two deputies were promptly on hand, and a number of armed men stood ready to exterminate the ruffians at the bidding of the officers. When everything was ready for a raid, the boy confessed that he had been reading the exploits of the James boys, and wanted to see how it worked. The sheriff explained with his boot and the crowd dispersed.

For some time past the superintendent of the union stock yards in Sioux City has been missing lambs from among the large flock of sheep lately shipped in. Saturday it was discovered that a lot of the young children in that part of the city had been kidnapping the "kids" and carrying them home for pets, some families securing several in this way. The children talked of the matter at school, and told the more timid ones that the company didn't care anything about the lambs, and all that was necessary was to catch them. This advice has been followed until about 100 young sheep came up missing. Warrants were issued and several youngsters were rounded up by the officers Saturday, and the parents of the offenders paid war prices for their "pet lambs."

Dakota. A creamery is being built at Hurley to use the cream of 1,500 cows. The Rapid City Tin Mining company has been organized with $1,000,000 capital. Six Indians have formed a transportation company and are carrying freight between Buffalo Gap and Rapid City. Several horses afflicted with glanders have been discovered in Buffalo, near Sioux Falls. They have been ordered shot.

A large number of cowboys are in Pierre awaiting the arrival of 1,200 head of cattle for the King range on the Belle Fourche. The yearly imports and exports of Dell Rapids are about 2,600,000 feet. Fully 1,000 carloads of paving blocks have been shipped from that place during the year just ended. J. S. Kiddler, of Vermillion, has an incubator which is laying out chickens at the rate of fifty per day. He has now nearly 2,000 chickens, and expects to have fully 5,000 before the close of the season.
