The Several Different Clues Concerning the Murder.

THE FLIGHT OF YOUNG JAY BIRD.

Nothing to Attach - Matrimonial Hourihan at Home - Sporting Notes-The Genus Tramp-May Party-Minor Mention.

The Murder Mystery. The mystery of the murder of Christopher Ruble on Tuesday night, May 18, is still unsolved. The interest in the affair s rather increasing instead of diminishing, and the feeling is growing in intensity that the perpetrators of the horrible crime should, if possible, be run to the earth. A matter of general comment is the strange apathy of the city and county authorities in the matter. No rewards have been offered for the apprehension of the murderers, no steps have been taken to ferret out the crime, and altogether, nearly three days have elapsed since the discovery of the same, and the solution seems about as far off as ever. The authorities have been placed in possession of a very good description of two men who were last seen with Ruhle on the night of the murder, under suspications of the same ions circumstances, and who may reasonably be supposed to know something of the horrible affair. Yet not a single step has been taken to secure the apprehension of these men. An account of more than $600 stands to the credit of the dead man in the Omaha Savings bank, and the general feeling is that this money ought to be appropriated for the purpose of ferretting out the crime.

Yesterday the examination of witnesses was continued. The next important witness examined was John F. Day, the truckman in the employ of the Amer-ican express company at the B. & M. depot. He swore positively that on Tues-day evening he met Ruhle at the depot in company with two strangers and saw the three board the 6:25 train on the B. & M., for Greenwood. The taller of the two strangers was a villianous looking man with a long sallow face, heavy mustache and gatters, weighed probabl y about 180 or 190 pounds. He wore a dark suit of clothes and a slouch hat. Mr. Day stated that he did not notice the appearance of the smaller of the two strangers particularly, but could easily identify the larger of the two if he saw him. Other witnesses examined were Fred Wirth, proprietor of the City hotel, Fred Wuetrich, Scow, the baggageman of the B. & M. depot. The testimony was immaterial, and seemed to establish only one fact, that if Ruhle had any large amounts of money about him on the two days before his death, he certainly did not display it. The jury then took an adjournment un-

Zipps, who was with Ruhle on the night before the murder, John Sproule, John

A SECRET SESSION.

The coroner's jury held a secret session yesterday afternoon discussing a clue that promised to lead to the detection of one of the men who had been seen with Ruhle on Tuesday evening. The clue originated in the discovery of the party who had taken the valise, supposed to have belonged to Kuhle, from the saloon at the corner of Harney and Twelfth streets. The young man who took the valise was found by the authorities yes-terday. He is Charley Heller, a young man who used to board with Ruhle at the City hotel. He came in Tuesday night and left his gripsack at the saloon on Harney street, and then went out to spend the evening with friends at the corner of Thirty-first and Hamilton streets. He showed conclusively that the valise did not belong to Ruhle as had been sup-posed. He did not see Ruhle after Tues-day evening early. His connection with the affair has been shown to be satisfactory and he was released.

A MAN WHO SAW THE STRUGGLE. Another clue was sprung yesterday afternoon by Franz Darganysceski, a Bohemian who lives near the scene, who called upon the coroner and said that a man named Kuhle, who lived near the place, had seen Ruhle engaged in a hand o hand encounter with a man on the night of the murder Coroner Drexel went to the scene of the murder and sought out Mr. Kuble. The report of Kuhle's knowledge seemed to have orgi-nated in the minds of some of the women in the neighborhood, as Kuhle himself knew nothing of the affair until the next morning. Darganysceski testified that he heard the cries for help on the evening of the tragedy but did not leave his

Thus one by one the clues that have been discovered have been shown to be based upon report and idle talk. The man Noerelia who was with Ruhle Monday night and was seen to board the train with him on Tuesday evening, evidently had a leading hand in Ruhle's taking off, and if the earth had opened and swallowed him the clues to his present whereabouts would not be more vague and unreliable than they are at present. The county commissioners instructed Coroner Drexel to continue the investigation so long as any possible clue could

e found. But one point remains unexplained now in the minds of the coroner and his jury and that and his jury and that is in relation to the movements of Ruhle's baggage. His trunk was checked on Monday night to Greenwood, on the B. & M. The trunk was sent on to Waverly and was returned to Omaha on Tuesday night by the B. & M. from that place Who ordered the trunk returned is not known, though it is almost certain that Ruhle did not make the trip described by his baggage. Deputy Sheriff Grebe went to Greenwood last evening to find out by whom this baggage was claimed at that Point.

Unless some light is thrown upon the ease by this last movement the jury will close the case to-day The remains of Ruble were interred in Pleasant Hill cemetery yesterday after-

A CLEAN THEORY The testimony thus adduced warrants the suspicion that Ruhle was most foully and premeditately murdered. It is of such a nature also, as to justify the most strenuous efforts to be made in securing the man Norelia and the companion who is known to have been with him, some time before the commission of the some time before the commission of the deed. This man has been described as a tall, heavy man with black mustache, and coarse, broad black hat. It has also been shown that he and Ruhle had been together the night before the crime was committed and that Ruhle had agreed to pay for Norelia's lodging at the City hotel. One of the men whom Mr. Day saw with Ruhle at the B. & M. depot Tuesday night and whom he afterwards. Tuesday night and whom he afterwards saw jump with him on the train moving from that depot for Greenwood, accords with the description given of Norelia. Neither the latter nor Ruhie returned to claim their beds at the hotel, Monday claim their beds at the hotel. Monday night and yet with a third party, both are seen to leave on the train for the west. Four hours later, Ruhle is gashed to death. Since that evening at 6:30 Norsean and his other firiend have not been seen. Having been the last known to have been with the murdered man, it stands to reason that their knowledge of him is such as at present would be most

THE YOUNG JAY BIRD.

His Arrival in Omaha and His Peregrinations Around the Suburbs. After a ride around the city Thursday with Mr. S. H. H. Clark, during which the visitors expressed themselves amazed at the progress they had noticed the city had made, both Mr. Gould Son of Jay Gould and Mr. Kerrigan General Superintendent of the Missouri Pacific returned to their car, where they remained until yesterday. After breakfast, about 9 o'clock, the same gentlemen, under the guidance of Mr. S. H. H. Clark, took a carriage and drove along the Belt line, inspecting it at all points. One place to which considerable attention was given was the cut at Summit. At this point both the Missouri Pacific and B. & M. come close together, and to save expense, have jointly stood the cost of making the cut, which at some points is about fifty feet deep, and extends about 2,000 feet. The advisability of having both roads to occupy the same track was abandoned, and of each road using its own track was

The tourists returned to their cars at about 2 o'clock. Dinner was waiting, and after the transaction of a certain amount of business, the train was pulled out and the party started on their way to Lincoln, to inspect the line now being built into that city from Weeping Water, a distance of about thirty miles, which, it is expected, will be completed in about two months.

car and two coaches supplied with all kinds of conveniences for the accommokinds of conveniences for the accommodation of the train hands. The sleeper, "San Francisco," is for the accomodation of invited friends, while that of "Convoy" is reserved exclusively for Mr. Gould and his assistants. All these are furnished in the style and richness peculiar to Pullman cars, there being nothing of an extravagant nature to distinguish them from gant nature to distinguish them from other cars ordinarily used by the public. Mr. Gould was accompanied from Sedalia by Mr. F. B. Drake of that place He is one of the division superintendents of the Missouri Pacific, located at that place. He returned home this morning. W. A. Newman, general traffic mana ger of the Missouri Pacific, of St. Louis arrived this morning from the west, and waited at Mr. Gould's car until the latter's arrival, and with him went west yesterday afternoon.

NOTHING TO ATTACH.

Constable Karll Among the Curiosities of a Dime Museum.

Yesterdayan Italian named Rocco Toss appeared in Justice Helsley's court and swore out an attachment against the Harris' Dime museum, which has been for the past day or so at the corner of Ninth and F arnam streets. Rocco, so he alleges in his petition, has been turning the crank of the "wonderful musical machine" for the show, and his employers were delinquent in his wages to the extent of $6.

Constable Karl took the writ of artachment, duly made out by Justice Helsley, and went to the place indicated to seize some of the Dime Museum property, in satisfaction of the debt. He found the tent torn up, and the d. m. people about to move away. They denied owing the Italian anything, but on the other hand offered to prove that Rocco was in their debt. Constable Karl set aside these stories with contempt, and started to look around for something on which to levy an attachment. He failed to find it. The educated pig Bolivar grunted contentedly in one corner of the car in which the museum effects were packed, but the constable did not have the heart to seize the talented porker. The bearded lady sat in another corner, chewing a pine tooth pick, and fingering a greasy number of the Fireside Library. Constable Karl concluded that this was a piece of property unavailable for his purpose, and passed her (or him) by. The wonderful musical machine, a combination of the base drum, hand organ, life, jewsharp and bones-he passed with equal haste, with the remark that he did not care to satisfy a $6 judge-ment with a symphony in E flat. His search in other directions for something suitable to attach, was equally discouraging, and he was finally obliged to give up the search in despair. Rocco will look elsewhere for his $6.

HORNY HANDS. One Important Essential of a Tramp's

Calling. "One of the essential points of succes n my profession," said a dilapidated old tramp who was talking to a reporter from behind the bars one of the cells in the city jail this morning, "is to keep the hands in good order. You don't understand what I mean, ch? Well, gimme a chaw of terbaccer and I'll explain imy-

The scribe produced a liberal chunk of the weed, and after his trampship had sunk his teeth in the same, and torn off several liberal bitee, he proceeded.
"You see, what I mean by keeping the hands in good order is this: Of course, in tramping from town to town, a man is liable to be arrested for vagrancy at any time. He must tell a story of how he has just been thrown out of work, and is looking for employment, which, as yet, he has not been able to yet, he has not been able to find. In nine cases out of ten the judge will ask him to show up his hands, and when he does produce them, they must be horny and towilorn. Catch on, do ye? So you see it part of my business to keep my hands looking as though they belonged to a man who was accustomed to work 365 days in the year. For that purpose I carry with me this small piece of hickory wood which is round and very smooth. About twice small piece of mekory whole which is a day I take it between my palms and rub them so that the friction will make them hard and callous. In that way, you them hard and callous. In that way, you see, I produce the 'real result' with very little trouble and annoyance. There is a bottle of brown hquid which I occasionally use for staining the back part of my hands a beautiful sun brown color, and there you are. When I show up my hands and tell the judge that I am a hard workingman, thrown out of employment by the strikes, what can he do but believe me? The trick has saved me many a day in jail and I fatter. saved me many a day in jail, and I flatter myself is a strictly original idea, though it is spreading rapidly. The profession, you see, is beginning to realize that it will never do to show up to a hard hearted police judge a pair of tender lily white hands. Hast du gesehn?"

TRAMP! TRAMP! TRAMP! The Genus Home That is New Paying

Attention to Omaha. The rumor, to be found in another part of this issue of the BEE, that a man was found murdered this morning in the southern part of the city, was readily credited by a number of people who happened to live there. They were predisposed to this belief because of the presence of a number of tramps who are now circling the suburbs. A number of these fellows have been in town since the beginning of spring, and have given the police a great deal of annoyance, while they have also aroused the fears of the people around whom they wander. They become easily embroiled in quarrels among themselves, and if they commit it; Smith, 10.

A Pupil Tells How it Was Enjoyed by St. Patrick's Scholars.

At an early hour Thursday morning, the pupils of St. Patrick's school might be seen hurrying to the church to assist at the holy sacrific of the mass, previous to setting out on their picnic. After mass the statute of the Blessed Virgin was crowned by the May Queen, Miss Maggie Rush. She was then crowned by Rev. J. J. Jennette, as the fairy queen. Miss Nora O'Donovan was also crowned. After the ceremony and the singing of some appropriate hymns, the pupils formed in ranks and accompanied by their beloved pastor and kind sisters pro-ceeded to M. Donovan's beautiful grounds on Thirteenth street. The day was spent in a most enjoyable manner. There were many games, prominent among which were foot racing for boys and girls and a sack race for girls. The most fortunate of the competitors were Masters Willie Sweeney, John McAuliffe, Patrick Callaghan, J. Mulick, Missess Katic Connell, Tony Mulick, Maggie Rush, Mary Maher and Roste Durr. At about 5 o'clock the children formed in line, and in good spirits returned to the school, and dispersed wishing they could have a pic nic every day.

Rotundas. Mr. John Snodgrass, Kimball: [Mr. S. has for years been one of the leading ranch foremen in this part of the country.] I am on my way to Springfield, in this state, where I have bought a farm which I intend to use for stock purposes. Antelope doesn't any longer exist. It has been changed to Kimball, and the place has changed greatly since you saw it. We have got a town of about 700 mhabitants with a bank and a paper known as the "Observer." We are satisfied that the ground can be used for farming, with-out irrigation. The Bay State Live Stock company have now had the Creighton ranche for some time, and are doing considerable to improve the land for agricultural purposes.

Sporting Notes. The Athletic base ball club will leave this morning for Fremont, where they play the Greys of that city. The they play the Greys of that city. The conditions were 100 yards, pestal start, for $20 a side, Meldrum was etegantly dressed in a pair of red silk tights, and silk stockings, with fancy dancing slippers and red cap to match the general gorgeousness of the costume. Bracy was plainly attired. He weighed nearly 225 pounds, while his antagonist, Meldrum, tapped the beam at only 140. The race was a tie, both men crossing the line at was a tie, both men crossing the line at precisely the same instant. A Sweeping Denial. An article appeared in the Herald yesterday under the head of "RUINED HER HUSBAND," wherein Mary A. Messrs, Morin & Quinn absolutely deny the charge, and say that they never furnished him sufficient quanties where by he became intoxicated, and that he never became intoxicated on any liquor he got at their place of business. They also emphatically deny ever having re-ceived any warning either by letter or in person from Mrs. Huber not to give iquor to her husband, and as to treating her with contempt, they say they have not had any conversation with her on the subject.
