The boxes used in the American District Telegraph system here seem to be made for long, hard service. feetly received and quickly responded to. The American District Telegraph company has put in its 150th boy, and is startng in business with every assurance of the enterprise proving a success. The convenience of being able to call a boy at any time, and to use him for any kind of service, is alone a great one, but with the other uses of the system there is such a public accommodation at so little exense as to cause the business of the company to be large and profitable.

The chapel of the Baptist church has been greatly improved. Besides being re-roofed the interior has been papered and painted, and so beautified that it hardly seems that it can be the same room. The ladies give a festival there this evening to which the public is cordially invited. The proceeds go toward paying for the improvements made in the chapel. The improvements made in the chapel. The Baptist folks have done a good deal since the church was reorganized. The building has been so improved that it is one of the most attractive places of worship in the city. The membership has increased wonderfully and in all directions there are appearances of growth and increasing prosperity. The struggle has been a hard one, but under the wise and earnest leadership of Rev. Dr. Cooley as pastor, and with a noble rally-ing on the part of his people, great sucess is being won,

Down on the Union Pacific.

The investigation of the complaints made by Council Bluffs citizens against the management of the Union Pacific kept the Iowa railway commissioners busy yesterday. There was not much gleaned which was refreshingly new. What will it al. amount to? That is the query heard on every side. It is difficult to predict. The mode of procedure is simply to take what evidence there is presented on both sides. Then a time will be set for the making of arguments. In the meantime the notes of the short-hand reporter will be transcribed. The arguments will be in writing, and after all this is done then the commissioners will make up a report. It may be weeks or months before this report is made. Then there remains the question whether the Union Pacific will follow the suggestions made by the commissioners if unfavorable to their present policy of alleged discrimination against Council

Yesterday Mr. Kimball was examined further concerning the running of trains over the bridge and the shipment of stock. Mr. Dorrance, superintendent of the Nebraska division, also testified. Both claimed that no discrimination was shown against Council Biuffs. They were exammed closely concerning the way trains were made up, in order to see if they could not be made to admit that, practically, Council Bluffs was not made the terminus in accordance with the spirit of the mandamus. They explained that in accordance with their interpretation of the meaning of the mandamus they were complying with it. It seems that the whole of this part of the investigation hinges on the construction to be placed on the mandamus.

They claimed that there were no passenger trains to or from Omaha but what left and arrived in Council Bluffs. The freight trains were made up so that Council Bluffs shippers had equal accommodations with Omaha shippers.

More information was sought yesterday in regard to the stock yards. There It was conceded that the business mu been transferred to Omaha and that a large portion of the stock yards here had been taken up and moved over there; but it was claimed that in doing so the company was trying to meet the demands of the shippers themselves instead of hav-ing any desire to discriminate against Council Biuffs. They claimed that the stock yards here, or what there was left of them, were kept in suitable condition to meet all requirements. Superintendent Burns was examined at length yesterday afternoon. He admitted that the feed at the Council Bluffs yards had been poor on several occasions, but the cause of complaint speedily removed.

Samuel Haas, of this city, a well-known stock man, testified to the condition of the stock yards and gave in detail some of its faults, showing that they were not maintained in suitable condition.

Mr. Henry Swan, another extensive stock man, also testified and strongly so, in support of the complaint made by council Bluffs as to the poor condition of the yards, and the neglect and discrimi-nation shown by the management. Mr. George A. Keeline testified on the same subject. He had to pay as high as $20 a ton for hay at the Council Bluffs stock yards. He cited the instance in which he shipped cattle from Pine Bluff, consigned to Council Bluffs, the cattle being in charge of his brother. The trains were stopped at the South Omaha stock yards. His brother telegraphed him and he telegraphed to the manager of the stock yards in Council Bluffs and to the chief train dispatcher to have the cattled forwarded to Council Bluffs or he would sue the road. The dispatcher answered that the Council Bluffs stock yards were too crowded, and they had better remain at South Omaha. Mr. Keeline replied that the cattle must be shipped to Council Bluffs. On going to the yards he found there was plenty of room there for the cattle

Mr. George Keeline, father of the preeding witness, was the next witness. He testified that the yards here did not have enough men to handle the stock which would naturally come here, and that the feed and other facilities were

Street Shooting.

The trial of the case of the State vs. Mike Flammant occupied most of the time in the district court yesterday. The charge was that of assault with intent to murder. The affair occurred in Minneola, July 10, 1883, and the case was brought here from Mills county on a change of venue. It awakens considerable interest here, as Mr. Flammant lived here for a number of years, being employed by John Beno, Groveweg & Schoentgen and others. He was at one time a clerk in the postoffice, and was elected and served as county recorder for one term. After leaving Council Bluffs he opened a store in Minneola. On the day named a customer named Henry Deitzler came into the store to settle his account. Mr. Flammant told him the amount due, $62, and Deitzler flew into a passion, declaring there was no such amount justly due, but he finally paid it. In the afternoon Flammant and Deitzler met accidentally in a saloon. The quarrel was resumed by Deitzler and Flammant drew out a pocket. Deitzler and Flammant drew out a pocket knife to protect himself. Deitzer drew a revolver and an outsider grabbed him. As he did so the revolver went off, or was fired by Deitzler, the ball striking the floor. Flammant ran home, loaded his shot-gun and started out to find a constable to have Deitzler arrested. After getting the constable the two went down e business street, hunting for Deitzler. the business street, hunting for Deitzler. Flammant discovered him standing in a saloon door, and firing began. Each fired at least twice. One bystander was wounded slightly in the cheek, but neither of the chief participants was injured. As soon as Flammant had emptied both barrels of his gun he ran away. The prosecution claimed that Flammant armed himself to shoot Deitzler, and that he hunted him down and com-and that he hunted him down and com-menced shooting at him. Flammant claims that he was afraid that Deitzler would shoot him, and so armed himself for protection, and that he did not com-mence shooting until Deitzler began firing at him. A large number of witnesses testified that during an acquaint-ance of many years they had always found Flammant to be peaceable and law-abiding.

Memorial Day. To the Editor: The Nonpareil of May 26 contains the following: "While the question of the propriety of conducting memorial services of the Sabbath is being discussed, the following may be of interest:" Then follow three passages of Scripture taken from Matthew, Luke and John, referring to the visit of the disciples to the tomb of their crucified Lord, carrying spices, etc. Our friend of the Nonpareil has forgotten one or two quite important facts in connection with that subject. In the first place, the "first day of the week" on which those memorable visits were made was not celebrated as the Sabbath until after the resurrection of our Lord, and the holy day was changed from the seventh to the first day, by the early disciples, to commemorate that event. Therefore, going to the tomb on the morning of "the first day" was equiv-alent to our going on Monday morning. Again, they went quietly, two or three together, with sad hearts and hushed voices, and not in noisy crowds in gala dress, headed by bands of music. Quite a difference, you see.

If there were no moral objections against using the Sabbath for memorial services, there are certainly physical reasons. People who labor six days need the peace and rest of the seventh to re-cuperate their bodily strength, which they cannot do if several hours of the day are spent in the excitement of a busy throng, in the open air, under the broiling sun of a hot May day,

Crystal Wedding at Walnut. WALNUT, Iowa, May 25 .- [Correspondence of the BEE.]-On Thursday May 20, 1886, a very specessful and pleasant surprise was meted out to Amon L. Allen and his good lady, who reside a short distance southwest of Walnut, Pottawattamie county, Iowa. It was arranged by their friends and neighbors in honor of the fifteenth anniversary of their nuptials, which were first celebrated March 8, 1871, in Washington county,

The friends on this occasion began to assemble in the forenoon, bringing want them a large tent, which was soon erected in the beautiful lawn before the residence of Mr. Allen. In the shade of the tent tables were set, which at noon fairly groaned beneath their load of the delicacies and necessaries of life. Just before these were enjoyed the attention of the company was directed to Mr. and of the company was directed to Mr. and Mrs. Allea, who, in an appropriate way, renewed the pledges of their first marriage and received the congratulations of their friends. The company then repaired to the dining tent and the divine blessing was invoked by Rev. R. E. Fickinger, of Wamut. Everything was well arranged, and this open air arranged, and this open air feast was one long to be remembered by all who were present. About 4 o'clock in another company of young folks assembled in the evening.

Among the gifts presented were a set of silver knives and forks from friends in Washington county, Iowa, a large, ex-tensive table and cloth, a set of china disnes and a variety of other table furni-

Walter is a boy who was charged with so having beaten and kicked a playmate, son of J. W. Morse, as to cause his death. It was claimed that the Allen boy had on several previous occasions beaten and abused the Morse boy. J D. McKinney's boiler shop was broken into recently and about $75 worth of tools taken. Up to the present time no clue has been found which would lead to the recovery of the goods or the perpetrators of the theft.

The saloon question is at present the all absorbing topic of conversation. Last week secret warrants were sworn out against all the saloons, and but very little 'budge' was found. The reason of this is probably from the fact that the samen are expecting such raids and keep but small quantities at the saloons After the seizure was made the "find" was deposited in the basement of the billiard hall of Harmon & Carlton. During the night it was spirited away and deposited in a box car, but the night watch "caught onto" the game and got it back again. The city authorities refused to allow it to be placed in the calaboose and it was taken to the residence of Mr. Cole, who lives about half a mile from town, where it was supposed it would rest in safety until the day of trial, but when the morn-ing dawned, lo! and behold, it had mysteriously disappeared again. The question now is, who stole the "forbidden?" The temperance people claim it was the saloon men, and they claim it was the "fanatics" who stole it from themselves and are laying the blame on them. Who ever it was, one theory is certain, its gone, as effectually so as if had disap-peared down the throats of the thirsty. When the inquors were seized the saloon sympathizers declared they would sign the remonstrance to the removal of the county seat, but this is probably "chaff." It has been currently reported that the Loganites, for the purpose of creating dissension in Missouri Valley on the county seat question, but when the citizens see how they have been victimized by this kind of a scheme the religion will go the other way.

It humorously referred to a visit of McCarthy to the editor with a demand to know the writer of the first article for which suit was brought, the commissioner saying h would break his neck if he found It then proceeded to say that it had no hesitation in telling the commissioner who the writer of the objectionable article was. It was Charles Mitchell, the puglist, who had just knocked out Jack Burke and if the commissioner was still desir ous of twisting anybody's neck he would be accommodated if he called on Mitchell The sickly human pervading the paragraph was not appreciated by Mr. Mitchell, as yesterday's suit shows.
