

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE BY Boggs & Hill

FARMS:

28 Improved Farms

Of 100 acres each, all leased for 5 years, and paying good interest on the investment, all fine land. Every farm has clear running water, rich soil, from 50 to 120 acres of breaking, meadows, etc.

ANY ONE To look at these farms, if you are looking either for a home or for a safe and profitable investment. Apply to

BOGGS & HILL, Real Estate, 1408 Farnam st.

Houses and Lots We Have in OMAHA VIEW!

And the 10 acre tract adjoining it, 28 1/2 a fine lots as can be found in the city, all of which we desire to put to drawing interest.

We therefore make this general offer to help you in your search for a home.

You can select your lot, get up plans and specifications for your house, make a small cash in hand payment, merely sufficient to insure a fulfillment of your part of the agreement, and we will build you a house to suit you, and let you have all the time you want.

WILL Build houses ranging in value from $800 TO $3,000.

OR IF parties prefer, they can build their own houses, and we will furnish the money to pay for same at 8 per cent interest.

Please Remember That both the red and green car line now run to within 4 blocks of

OMAHA VIEW; That this addition lies on the side hill at

Sloping East OMAHA VIEW towards the river; that it affords the and we take you to seek BOGGS & HILL.

Park Forest. The poor man's paradise. Read this for it may be the means eventually of your making a fortune.

PARK FOREST $250 to $300 Each on payments of

$5 Down and $5 Per Month, at 8 Per Cent Interest

To those only who want them for homes. We make these liberal prices and terms to give all poor men a chance to get a home.

These lots will increase 200 to 300 per cent in a few years, and it is one of the opportunities of a lifetime to get this kind of a chance to secure a home.

These terms will only hold good for a few days, and are offered with a view of clearing these all up without any delay

BOGGS & HILL, Real Estate, 1408 Farnam st. BOGGS & HILL'S ADDITIONS.

In our addition on Upper Farnam, Douglas and Dodge, we have about 25 to remaining unsold.

THIS PROPERTY Is rapidly becoming very valuable, and is right in the heart of the fine residence part of the city. Water, gas, pavements and street cars are now either there or to be placed there soon.

These Additions Prices Will Range from $1,500 to $2,300 per lot, according to location, and the lots will sell very rapidly at these prices

WE HAVE ALSO FOR SALE A very large list of Real Estate of all kinds scattered through the city, county and state which might be selected many most excellent bargains.

WE INVITE THE ATTENTION of those seeking investment and can as sure purchasers they will find it largely to their interest to call on us before investing elsewhere.

HOUSES WILL BE BUILT for all wanting homes on the most reasonable terms.

Real Estate, 1408 Farnam St.

LOUP CITY'S GREAT GALA DAY.

Five Thousand People Present to Celebrate the Railroad's Completion.

A GLAD AND MEMORABLE EVENT.

The First News Dispatch From That Point Sent to the "Bee," Telling of the Event—Other State News.

Celebrated in Style.

LOUP CITY, Neb., June 4.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The date fixed for the grand barbecue festival was a favorable one, indeed. Promptly at 11 o'clock the great excursion train pulled in here, the engine gaily festooned, bringing in all about fifteen hundred people. Nine coaches and two sleepers brought the delegations from Omaha, Lincoln, Grand Island, St. Paul and Columbus. Governor Ames, Auditor Babcock, Superintendent Dorrance and eight or nine of the city council of Omaha are present; also Assistant General Ticket Agent McCarty, C. F. Newton, supervisor of bridges and buildings; Mr. Capron, supervisor of track, and J. R. Manchester, of the railway circles of Omaha. The tables were filled with an abundance of eatables, containing about three thousand pounds of meats, pies, cakes and bread without number. The town is fairly burdened with decorations, and everyone is in good spirits and wandering how a town of 600 people could ever undertake the Herculean task of feeding 5,000 people, as that is the lowest estimate made of the number of our guests. Bands of music and loud fire arms abound. The railroad officials and Omaha delegation will probably remain until tomorrow. The enthusiasm is unbounded.

SIMPSON ARRIVES HOME.

The Defaulting Treasurer Reaches Nebraska City Safely.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., June 5.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The Kansas City train was late last night, but when it arrived, about midnight, it brought Duke W. Simpson, late county treasurer, accompanied by his wife and child, who is charged with being a defaulter in the county's funds over fifty-six thousand dollars. Sheriff McCallum, armed with warrants on complaints sworn by Per Vanantwerp, one of the county commissioners, led yesterday afternoon for Omaha, following a dispatch he had sent to Sheriff Coburn, of Douglas county, authorizing the arrest of Simpson. Late last night Deputy Sheriff Hubbs received a dispatch asking him to meet him at Dunbar, on the Missouri Pacific railroad. This was no doubt a ruse, as the somewhat aristocratic prisoner is said to have arrived by the Kansas City route. In fact the first view the BEB reporter had of him, after several diligent hours watching, was seated in a spring wagon between the sheriff and his wife and child, being seated in the second seat, while the driver, who was lashing his horses to their utmost speed, occupied the front seat. At this rapid gait they went up One street until reaching Sixth street, when, turning, they came on to Main street; then, turning, they followed by the BEB man on foot to Fourth street, where Simpson was taken to the jail at Eleventh street. From this point the reporter lost track of him, but it is thought that he will remain there for some time.

By all I mean if you want a home, look at OMAHA VIEW Before investing elsewhere.

and we take you to seek

BOGGS & HILL.

Park Forest.

PARK FOREST $250 to $300

$5 Down and $5 Per Month, at 8 Per Cent Interest

To those only who want them for homes.

BOGGS & HILL, Real Estate, 1408 Farnam st.

BOGGS & HILL'S ADDITIONS.

THIS PROPERTY

These Additions

WE HAVE ALSO FOR SALE

Real Estate, 1408 Farnam St.

LOUP CITY'S GREAT GALA DAY.

Five Thousand People Present to Celebrate the Railroad's Completion.

A GLAD AND MEMORABLE EVENT.

The First News Dispatch From That Point Sent to the "Bee," Telling of the Event—Other State News.

Celebrated in Style.

LOUP CITY, Neb., June 4.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The date fixed for the grand barbecue festival was a favorable one, indeed. Promptly at 11 o'clock the great excursion train pulled in here, the engine gaily festooned, bringing in all about fifteen hundred people. Nine coaches and two sleepers brought the delegations from Omaha, Lincoln, Grand Island, St. Paul and Columbus. Governor Ames, Auditor Babcock, Superintendent Dorrance and eight or nine of the city council of Omaha are present; also Assistant General Ticket Agent McCarty, C. F. Newton, supervisor of bridges and buildings; Mr. Capron, supervisor of track, and J. R. Manchester, of the railway circles of Omaha. The tables were filled with an abundance of eatables, containing about three thousand pounds of meats, pies, cakes and bread without number. The town is fairly burdened with decorations, and everyone is in good spirits and wandering how a town of 600 people could ever undertake the Herculean task of feeding 5,000 people, as that is the lowest estimate made of the number of our guests. Bands of music and loud fire arms abound. The railroad officials and Omaha delegation will probably remain until tomorrow. The enthusiasm is unbounded.

SIMPSON ARRIVES HOME.

The Defaulting Treasurer Reaches Nebraska City Safely.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., June 5.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The Kansas City train was late last night, but when it arrived, about midnight, it brought Duke W. Simpson, late county treasurer, accompanied by his wife and child, who is charged with being a defaulter in the county's funds over fifty-six thousand dollars. Sheriff McCallum, armed with warrants on complaints sworn by Per Vanantwerp, one of the county commissioners, led yesterday afternoon for Omaha, following a dispatch he had sent to Sheriff Coburn, of Douglas county, authorizing the arrest of Simpson. Late last night Deputy Sheriff Hubbs received a dispatch asking him to meet him at Dunbar, on the Missouri Pacific railroad. This was no doubt a ruse, as the somewhat aristocratic prisoner is said to have arrived by the Kansas City route. In fact the first view the BEB reporter had of him, after several diligent hours watching, was seated in a spring wagon between the sheriff and his wife and child, being seated in the second seat, while the driver, who was lashing his horses to their utmost speed, occupied the front seat. At this rapid gait they went up One street until reaching Sixth street, when, turning, they came on to Main street; then, turning, they followed by the BEB man on foot to Fourth street, where Simpson was taken to the jail at Eleventh street. From this point the reporter lost track of him, but it is thought that he will remain there for some time.

By all I mean if you want a home, look at OMAHA VIEW Before investing elsewhere.

A MOTHER'S LOVE FOUND HER

An Erring Woman Traced From Ft. Sully to Omaha.

CORRUPT MARTIAL RELATIONS.

He Tried to Kill Her—Falling Walls—She Slapped Him—Confidence—Sharks—The Slopman Failure—Brevities, Etc.

A Woman's Story.

Yesterday a well dressed woman, about forty-five years of age, in talking to the young ladies of the Union Pacific lunch room, attracted the attention of a BEB reporter. Her clothes were new, of rich pattern, and she looked like a woman who had been subjected to many worldly tribulations. She carried a small, battered dressing case with her, and three purses of design and material uncommon in the United States. Tears flowed from her eyes, and when engaged in conversation she would tell a tale which left her heart broken and her peace of mind and home of her daughter. She spoke with fluency and intelligence between her sobs, and asserted she was on her way to Ft. Omaha and that she was going to Florence, and that she had an officer, who she claimed had run away with her daughter. She came all the way from Fort Sully, she said, and had tracked the man who ruined her peace of mind and home of her daughter. She said that a year or more ago her daughter who she named Mrs. Arnd, is a commissary sergeant in the army, and had left her home accompanied by her four children, deserted her husband and parents and ran away with an army officer. For the past year the family had been searching for their erring daughter, and had but received information which led them to think that she was in Omaha. She wanted an officer to accompany her and make a search of the city for her missing daughter. Officer Turbull was summoned, and at Mrs. Mulligan's request summoned a cab and started out on the search without any apparent clue. At Mrs. Mulligan's request, she accompanied the officer. Here the lady made inquiries which led her to believe that her daughter was living in Florence. She ordered the cab to be driven to the house adjoining the Saratoga school building, the direction was obeyed, and the cab halted in front of a small white cottage of three rooms, before which a couple of ragged urchins were playing. Officer Turbull knocked at the door, which was opened by a small, sickly looking, poorly clad woman, who meekly inquired what was wanted.

"Your mother is here and wants to see you," said the officer, but she simply shook her head gently to the woman. The little woman started with a look of surprise, and almost fainted as she fell into the arms of her mother, who had followed her from the door. Before the first sad greeting was over Officer Turbull withdrew, leaving the mother and erring daughter alone.

Mrs. Arnd has been living, it is understood, with a soldier named John Murray for the past year. Her mother said that she had fallen heir, by the recent death of a relative, to an estate in England valued at $20,000, and that she had been promised to marry her mother to be returned with her mother to be returned in Omaha living as she has during the past year, remains to be seen.

TRIED TO KILL HER.

Mrs. Alice Cody accuses her husband of an attempt to poison her.

Mrs. Alice Cody, a healthy looking Irish woman, made the sensational complaint in police court yesterday afternoon that her husband, Richard Cody, a painter employed in the Union Pacific shops, had been trying for some time to kill her by various methods. She told the police that her husband was paying attention to another woman, and had made three or four attempts to murder his lawful wife. She said that several times during the past month she had awakened in an almost strangled condition and was sure that the cause had been caused by chloroform or some other opiate administered by her husband. On Monday night last she alleges that she awoke and found her husband holding a glass to her mouth, and that she was sure she detected the odor of chloroform and that she suffered for several hours from the effects of the drug. She stated that she had been married to her husband for twenty years and that their family was composed of six children. She has had frequent domestic troubles with her husband and has been separated from him three times. Her husband's reputation has been affected each time, and they have continued to live together.

The woman's peculiar manner led the police to doubt her story, and she was sent to the lunatic asylum. To this gentleman she told a different story. Her eyelashes have been almost entirely destroyed by some disease or accident, and she caught on to the fact to secure the physician's belief in her story, and alleged to him that her husband had been trying to throw dirt in her eyes to blind her. She also alleges that she has several times been strangled by her husband, and that she has been separated from him three times. The physician is of the opinion that the woman's mind is deranged, and that she should be placed in charge of the authorities.

She is now confined in the lunatic asylum at 517 North Fourteenth street.

A Falling Building.

Shortly before 10 o'clock last night the walls of the old frame building adjoining the Metropolitan hotel, on Douglas street, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, fell in with a crash, starting the neighbors and bringing a large crowd to the scene. The first floor of the building was occupied by James McVey as a blacksmith shop. The second floor was used as a store room, and was filled with a lot of stoves and old furniture. A valuable horse, the property of Mr. McVey, was in the shop when the building fell, and although the structure was completely wrecked, the animal escaped without a scratch. A blacksmith, named Brown, who was in the shop, but fortunately he was not in at the time. The building was completely wrecked.

The Slopman Failure.

The Bradstreet agency would seem to occupy a position similar to that of the gentleman who stood between the devil and the deep sea. Morris Slopman, of the late firm of Slopman Bros., threatens to sue the agency for sending out reports of the firm, which, it is alleged, hastened their creditors in closing in upon them. On the other hand, the report has spread that some of Bradstreet's subscribers are going to sue the agency for sending out too favorable reports of the firm's condition. Mr. W. O. Taylor, local manager of the agency, places no credence in the latter report, as he says he withdrew the rating of Slopman Bros. three months ago, and that should have been warning sufficient for the firm's creditors.

It is understood now that Slopman's

A MOTHER'S LOVE FOUND HER

An Erring Woman Traced From Ft. Sully to Omaha.

CORRUPT MARTIAL RELATIONS.

He Tried to Kill Her—Falling Walls—She Slapped Him—Confidence—Sharks—The Slopman Failure—Brevities, Etc.

A Woman's Story.

Yesterday a well dressed woman, about forty-five years of age, in talking to the young ladies of the Union Pacific lunch room, attracted the attention of a BEB reporter. Her clothes were new, of rich pattern, and she looked like a woman who had been subjected to many worldly tribulations. She carried a small, battered dressing case with her, and three purses of design and material uncommon in the United States. Tears flowed from her eyes, and when engaged in conversation she would tell a tale which left her heart broken and her peace of mind and home of her daughter. She spoke with fluency and intelligence between her sobs, and asserted she was on her way to Ft. Omaha and that she was going to Florence, and that she had an officer, who she claimed had run away with her daughter. She came all the way from Fort Sully, she said, and had tracked the man who ruined her peace of mind and home of her daughter. She said that a year or more ago her daughter who she named Mrs. Arnd, is a commissary sergeant in the army, and had left her home accompanied by her four children, deserted her husband and parents and ran away with an army officer. For the past year the family had been searching for their erring daughter, and had but received information which led them to think that she was in Omaha. She wanted an officer to accompany her and make a search of the city for her missing daughter. Officer Turbull was summoned, and at Mrs. Mulligan's request summoned a cab and started out on the search without any apparent clue. At Mrs. Mulligan's request, she accompanied the officer. Here the lady made inquiries which led her to believe that her daughter was living in Florence. She ordered the cab to be driven to the house adjoining the Saratoga school building, the direction was obeyed, and the cab halted in front of a small white cottage of three rooms, before which a couple of ragged urchins were playing. Officer Turbull knocked at the door, which was opened by a small, sickly looking, poorly clad woman, who meekly inquired what was wanted.

"Your mother is here and wants to see you," said the officer, but she simply shook her head gently to the woman. The little woman started with a look of surprise, and almost fainted as she fell into the arms of her mother, who had followed her from the door. Before the first sad greeting was over Officer Turbull withdrew, leaving the mother and erring daughter alone.

Mrs. Arnd has been living, it is understood, with a soldier named John Murray for the past year. Her mother said that she had fallen heir, by the recent death of a relative, to an estate in England valued at $20,000, and that she had been promised to marry her mother to be returned with her mother to be returned in Omaha living as she has during the past year, remains to be seen.

TRIED TO KILL HER.

Mrs. Alice Cody accuses her husband of an attempt to poison her.

Mrs. Alice Cody, a healthy looking Irish woman, made the sensational complaint in police court yesterday afternoon that her husband, Richard Cody, a painter employed in the Union Pacific shops, had been trying for some time to kill her by various methods. She told the police that her husband was paying attention to another woman, and had made three or four attempts to murder his lawful wife. She said that several times during the past month she had awakened in an almost strangled condition and was sure that the cause had been caused by chloroform or some other opiate administered by her husband. On Monday night last she alleges that she awoke and found her husband holding a glass to her mouth, and that she was sure she detected the odor of chloroform and that she suffered for several hours from the effects of the drug. She stated that she had been married to her husband for twenty years and that their family was composed of six children. She has had frequent domestic troubles with her husband and has been separated from him three times. Her husband's reputation has been affected each time, and they have continued to live together.

The woman's peculiar manner led the police to doubt her story, and she was sent to the lunatic asylum. To this gentleman she told a different story. Her eyelashes have been almost entirely destroyed by some disease or accident, and she caught on to the fact to secure the physician's belief in her story, and alleged to him that her husband had been trying to throw dirt in her eyes to blind her. She also alleges that she has several times been strangled by her husband, and that she has been separated from him three times. The physician is of the opinion that the woman's mind is deranged, and that she should be placed in charge of the authorities.

She is now confined in the lunatic asylum at 517 North Fourteenth street.

A Falling Building.

Shortly before 10 o'clock last night the walls of the old frame building adjoining the Metropolitan hotel, on Douglas street, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, fell in with a crash, starting the neighbors and bringing a large crowd to the scene. The first floor of the building was occupied by James McVey as a blacksmith shop. The second floor was used as a store room, and was filled with a lot of stoves and old furniture. A valuable horse, the property of Mr. McVey, was in the shop when the building fell, and although the structure was completely wrecked, the animal escaped without a scratch. A blacksmith, named Brown, who was in the shop, but fortunately he was not in at the time. The building was completely wrecked.

The Slopman Failure.

The Bradstreet agency would seem to occupy a position similar to that of the gentleman who stood between the devil and the deep sea. Morris Slopman, of the late firm of Slopman Bros., threatens to sue the agency for sending out reports of the firm, which, it is alleged, hastened their creditors in closing in upon them. On the other hand, the report has spread that some of Bradstreet's subscribers are going to sue the agency for sending out too favorable reports of the firm's condition. Mr. W. O. Taylor, local manager of the agency, places no credence in the latter report, as he says he withdrew the rating of Slopman Bros. three months ago, and that should have been warning sufficient for the firm's creditors.

It is understood now that Slopman's

A MOTHER'S LOVE FOUND HER

An Erring Woman Traced From Ft. Sully to Omaha.

CORRUPT MARTIAL RELATIONS.

He Tried to Kill Her—Falling Walls—She Slapped Him—Confidence—Sharks—The Slopman Failure—Brevities, Etc.

A Woman's Story.

Yesterday a well dressed woman, about forty-five years of age, in talking to the young ladies of the Union Pacific lunch room, attracted the attention of a BEB reporter. Her clothes were new, of rich pattern, and she looked like a woman who had been subjected to many worldly tribulations. She carried a small, battered dressing case with her, and three purses of design and material uncommon in the United States. Tears flowed from her eyes, and when engaged in conversation she would tell a tale which left her heart broken and her peace of mind and home of her daughter. She spoke with fluency and intelligence between her sobs, and asserted she was on her way to Ft. Omaha and that she was going to Florence, and that she had an officer, who she claimed had run away with her daughter. She came all the way from Fort Sully, she said, and had tracked the man who ruined her peace of mind and home of her daughter. She said that a year or more ago her daughter who she named Mrs. Arnd, is a commissary sergeant in the army, and had left her home accompanied by her four children, deserted her husband and parents and ran away with an army officer. For the past year the family had been searching for their erring daughter, and had but received information which led them to think that she was in Omaha. She wanted an officer to accompany her and make a search of the city for her missing daughter. Officer Turbull was summoned, and at Mrs. Mulligan's request summoned a cab and started out on the search without any apparent clue. At Mrs. Mulligan's request, she accompanied the officer. Here the lady made inquiries which led her to believe that her daughter was living in Florence. She ordered the cab to be driven to the house adjoining the Saratoga school building, the direction was obeyed, and the cab halted in front of a small white cottage of three rooms, before which a couple of ragged urchins were playing. Officer Turbull knocked at the door, which was opened by a small, sickly looking, poorly clad woman, who meekly inquired what was wanted.

"Your mother is here and wants to see you," said the officer, but she simply shook her head gently to the woman. The little woman started with a look of surprise, and almost fainted as she fell into the arms of her mother, who had followed her from the door. Before the first sad greeting was over Officer Turbull withdrew, leaving the mother and erring daughter alone.

Mrs. Arnd has been living, it is understood, with a soldier named John Murray for the past year. Her mother said that she had fallen heir, by the recent death of a relative, to an estate in England valued at $20,000, and that she had been promised to marry her mother to be returned with her mother to be returned in Omaha living as she has during the past year, remains to be seen.

TRIED TO KILL HER.

Mrs. Alice Cody accuses her husband of an attempt to poison her.

Mrs. Alice Cody, a healthy looking Irish woman, made the sensational complaint in police court yesterday afternoon that her husband, Richard Cody, a painter employed in the Union Pacific shops, had been trying for some time to kill her by various methods. She told the police that her husband was paying attention to another woman, and had made three or four attempts to murder his lawful wife. She said that several times during the past month she had awakened in an almost strangled condition and was sure that the cause had been caused by chloroform or some other opiate administered by her husband. On Monday night last she alleges that she awoke and found her husband holding a glass to her mouth, and that she was sure she detected the odor of chloroform and that she suffered for several hours from the effects of the drug. She stated that she had been married to her husband for twenty years and that their family was composed of six children. She has had frequent domestic troubles with her husband and has been separated from him three times. Her husband's reputation has been affected each time, and they have continued to live together.

The woman's peculiar manner led the police to doubt her story, and she was sent to the lunatic asylum. To this gentleman she told a different story. Her eyelashes have been almost entirely destroyed by some disease or accident, and she caught on to the fact to secure the physician's belief in her story, and alleged to him that her husband had been trying to throw dirt in her eyes to blind her. She also alleges that she has several times been strangled by her husband, and that she has been separated from him three times. The physician is of the opinion that the woman's mind is deranged, and that she should be placed in charge of the authorities.

She is now confined in the lunatic asylum at 517 North Fourteenth street.

A Falling Building.

Shortly before 10 o'clock last night the walls of the old frame building adjoining the Metropolitan hotel, on Douglas street, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, fell in with a crash, starting the neighbors and bringing a large crowd to the scene. The first floor of the building was occupied by James McVey as a blacksmith shop. The second floor was used as a store room, and was filled with a lot of stoves and old furniture. A valuable horse, the property of Mr. McVey, was in the shop when the building fell, and although the structure was completely wrecked, the animal escaped without a scratch. A blacksmith, named Brown, who was in the shop, but fortunately he was not in at the time. The building was completely wrecked.

The Slopman Failure.

The Bradstreet agency would seem to occupy a position similar to that of the gentleman who stood between the devil and the deep sea. Morris Slopman, of the late firm of Slopman Bros., threatens to sue the agency for sending out reports of the firm, which, it is alleged, hastened their creditors in closing in upon them. On the other hand, the report has spread that some of Bradstreet's subscribers are going to sue the agency for sending out too favorable reports of the firm's condition. Mr. W. O. Taylor, local manager of the agency, places no credence in the latter report, as he says he withdrew the rating of Slopman Bros. three months ago, and that should have been warning sufficient for the firm's creditors.

It is understood now that Slopman's

A MOTHER'S LOVE FOUND HER

An Erring Woman Traced From Ft. Sully to Omaha.

CORRUPT MARTIAL RELATIONS.

He Tried to Kill Her—Falling Walls—She Slapped Him—Confidence—Sharks—The Slopman Failure—Brevities, Etc.

A Woman's Story.

Yesterday a well dressed woman, about forty-five years of age, in talking to the young ladies of the Union Pacific lunch room, attracted the attention of a BEB reporter. Her clothes were new, of rich pattern, and she looked like a woman who had been subjected to many worldly tribulations. She carried a small, battered dressing case with her, and three purses of design and material uncommon in the United States. Tears flowed from her eyes, and when engaged in conversation she would tell a tale which left her heart broken and her peace of mind and home of her daughter. She spoke with fluency and intelligence between her sobs, and asserted she was on her way to Ft. Omaha and that she was going to Florence, and that she had an officer, who she claimed had run away with her daughter. She came all the way from Fort Sully, she said, and had tracked the man who ruined her peace of mind and home of her daughter. She said that a year or more ago her daughter who she named Mrs. Arnd, is a commissary sergeant in the army, and had left her home accompanied by her four children, deserted her husband and parents and ran away with an army officer. For the past year the family had been searching for their erring daughter, and had but received information which led them to think that she was in Omaha. She wanted an officer to accompany her and make a search of the city for her missing daughter. Officer Turbull was summoned, and at Mrs. Mulligan's request summoned a cab and started out on the search without any apparent clue. At Mrs. Mulligan's request, she accompanied the officer. Here the lady made inquiries which led her to believe that her daughter was living in Florence. She ordered the cab to be driven to the house adjoining the Saratoga school building, the direction was obeyed, and the cab halted in front of a small white cottage of three rooms, before which a couple of ragged urchins were playing. Officer Turbull knocked at the door, which was opened by a small, sickly looking, poorly clad woman, who meekly inquired what was wanted.

"Your mother is here and wants to see you," said the officer, but she simply shook her head gently to the woman. The little woman started with a look of surprise, and almost fainted as she fell into the arms of her mother, who had followed her from the door. Before the first sad greeting was over Officer Turbull withdrew, leaving the mother and erring daughter alone.

Mrs. Arnd has been living, it is understood, with a soldier named John Murray for the past year. Her mother said that she had fallen heir, by the recent death of a relative, to an estate in England valued at $20,000, and that she had been promised to marry her mother to be returned with her mother to be returned in Omaha living as she has during the past year, remains to be seen.

TRIED TO KILL HER.

Mrs. Alice Cody accuses her husband of an attempt to poison her.

Mrs. Alice Cody, a healthy looking Irish woman, made the sensational complaint in police court yesterday afternoon that her husband, Richard Cody, a painter employed in the Union Pacific shops, had been trying for some time to kill her by various methods. She told the police that her husband was paying attention to another woman, and had made three or four attempts to murder his lawful wife. She said that several times during the past month she had awakened in an almost strangled condition and was sure that the cause had been caused by chloroform or some other opiate administered by her husband. On Monday night last she alleges that she awoke and found her husband holding a glass to her mouth, and that she was sure she detected the odor of chloroform and that she suffered for several hours from the effects of the drug. She stated that she had been married to her husband for twenty years and that their family was composed of six children. She has had frequent domestic troubles with her husband and has been separated from him three times. Her husband's reputation has been affected each time, and they have continued to live together.

The woman's peculiar manner led the police to doubt her story, and she was sent to the lunatic asylum. To this gentleman she told a different story. Her eyelashes have been almost entirely destroyed by some disease or accident, and she caught on to the fact to secure the physician's belief in her story, and alleged to him that her husband had been trying to throw dirt in her eyes to blind her. She also alleges that she has several times been strangled by her husband, and that she has been separated from him three times. The physician is of the opinion that the woman's mind is deranged, and that she should be placed in charge of the authorities.

She is now confined in the lunatic asylum at 517 North Fourteenth street.

A Falling Building.

Shortly before 10 o'clock last night the walls of the old frame building adjoining the Metropolitan hotel, on Douglas street, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, fell in with a crash, starting the neighbors and bringing a large crowd to the scene. The first floor of the building was occupied by James McVey as a blacksmith shop. The second floor was used as a store room, and was filled with a lot of stoves and old furniture. A valuable horse, the property of Mr. McVey, was in the shop when the building fell, and although the structure was completely wrecked, the animal escaped without a scratch. A blacksmith, named Brown, who was in the shop, but fortunately he was not in at the time. The building was completely wrecked.

The Slopman Failure.

The Bradstreet agency would seem to occupy a position similar to that of the gentleman who stood between the devil and the deep sea. Morris Slopman, of the late firm of Slopman Bros., threatens to sue the agency for sending out reports of the firm, which, it is alleged, hastened their creditors in closing in upon them. On the other hand, the report has spread that some of Bradstreet's subscribers are going to sue the agency for sending out too favorable reports of the firm's condition. Mr. W. O. Taylor, local manager of the agency, places no credence in the latter report, as he says he withdrew the rating of Slopman Bros. three months ago, and that should have been warning sufficient for the firm's creditors.

It is understood now that Slopman's

A MOTHER'S LOVE FOUND HER

An Erring Woman Traced From Ft. Sully to Omaha.