

SOME DAY I'LL WANDER BACK.

Mr. Haiman Lowy Brought to Omaha On a Criminal Charge.

HIS FIRST NIGHT IN JAIL.

A Bold Robbery—Police Court Notes—Fielder, the Accused Murderer—The Building Inspector—Minor Mentions.

Lowy's Return.

Yesterday at the usual hour the Q train from Chicago rolled into the B. & M. depot. It had hardly ceased its motion when Haiman Lowy stepped from the platform of the sleeper. He was followed by Deputy Sheriff Grebe, and the next instant the hands of Lowy and Counselor Woolworth met in a warm grasp. Smiles immediately irradiated the faces of both attorney and client, and all three walked towards the entrance to the depot.

Pulling a copy of yesterday's BEE from his pocket, Mr. Woolworth, with a smile upon his face which did not mean to be a smile, said: "I see the paper this morning has Tenny's circular to your creditors." At the same time handed the paper to Lowy.

"Which paper?" asked Lowy. "The BEE," responded Mr. Woolworth. "Why, I've just read the paper," exclaimed Lowy, "and saw nothing about it."

Mr. Grebe spoke in the same strain, and all three diligently sought the published document, Mr. Lowy's features still retaining the imperturbable composure which was first mentioned. Tenth street was reached and Mr. Woolworth suggested that Mr. Lowy might need some refreshments, but Mr. Grebe said in a mild, official way that he wanted to have the matter over as soon as possible, and for that reason wanted Mr. Lowy taken to the sheriff.

After a little talk it was decided to take a carriage. Accordingly all three jumped into the nearest vehicle, while the BEE reporter chartered a cab, and at times followed and at others led the great litigant to the court house.

When the carriage arrived at the court house, the occupants alighted. Mr. Woolworth offered a dollar of his great fee in payment of the ride, and received his proper change. When Lowy had been given into the custody of the sheriff, Mr. Grebe said, "I'll show you something now that that fellow in Chicago wanted me to do. But I didn't do it. He then pulled out of his pocket a pair of hand-cuffs, which the Chicago constable had suggested for Lowy. The latter smiled as he remarked that he had not worn them.

When Mr. Woolworth had gone, the BEE reporter approached Mr. Lowy and asked him if he had read Mr. Smith's story about not having got a cent out of the sale of his stock.

"Yes, sir, I have," replied Lowy. "Might I ask you what you have to say concerning his statement that he derived no advantage from the transaction?"

"It's a—well, that's what it is. It's gotten up to try and get money out of me because he thinks I have got some left. But he won't get it. It's simply a game of black-mail."

"Where is Mr. Cole now?" "He is in Chicago."

"Will he also come here?" "He certainly will, if I desire him to."

"Where is Smith now?" "I don't know. I suppose he is in Canada."

"Since you read Smith's statement, have you written to or heard directly from him upon the subject of the sale?"

"Yes, sir, I have written to him before or since in an indirect manner."

"Yes, his attorney, or one of them, Tenny, of Chicago, wrote me and said that his wife wanted money, but I told him I would not give him a cent. Then Smith came out with his statement."

"You say then that is no truth in his letter?"

"I do, yes, sir, most emphatically."

"Is Smith to be brought here?" "I understand that he has been offered immunity, and that will probably bring him here."

"You say his sale to you was a bona fide affair, and you can prove it?" "Yes, sir, I can prove it."

"What will be the next step in your case?" "I can't tell you, sir. My attorney will be able to tell you all about that."

The Arrest of Lowy.

A special telegram to the BEE from Chicago, dated June 15, gives the following particulars of Lowy's arrest in that city on Monday by Deputy Sheriff Gebe:

"It was simply a case of kidnaping, and the whole scheme is one for black-mail," said Attorney Frank P. Reynolds this morning. He referred to the arrest of Haiman Lowy, a wealthy money lender, on a requisition from the Chicago constable, taken away before a writ of habeas corpus could be served in the case. About 11:20 o'clock yesterday morning Deputy Sheriff Gebe, accompanied by Henry Grebe, deputy sheriff from Omaha, arrested Lowy at the office of his attorney, Grebe was around with a requisition from the governor of Nebraska, where Lowy is wanted, on the charge of being an accessory before the fact in the fraudulent transfer of Loyal L. Smith's stock of merchandise. As soon as the arrest was made, officers placed Lowy in a carriage and conveyed to the noon train of the Burlington railroad, and at 12:15 he started on his western trip. Reynolds filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, which was granted by Judge Collins. The writ was issued but it came too late, as the train had departed. The attorney caused telegrams to be sent out on several roads, thinking to intercept the officers and Lowy and induce them to return and test the strength of the habeas corpus proceeding. Whether they received any of the telegrams is not known as they made no reply. It is true, however, that they did not return toward their flight. The smooth manner in which the arrest was made and the swiftness with which it was planned so as to catch the west-bound train before the writ of habeas corpus could be brought into requisition, completely surprised Lowy and his friends, who had no time in which to obtain proceedings which would interfere with Mr. Lowy's distasteful western excursion.

Grebe's Story.

Deputy Sheriff Grebe is care-worn. He has been away from here since Friday. He left on that day for Chicago, with a requisition from Governor Dawes requesting the delivery of Lowy from Illinois on the charge of kidnaping, and procuring the disposition of goods and chattels with intent to cheat and defraud creditors." The requisition was procured by General Cowin. Grebe reached Chicago on Saturday. Wednesday morning Grebe, with Chicago constable named Matson, drove to the Equitable building on the corner of Dearborn and Washington streets. The latter was armed with a warrant and went straight to Lowy's office, while Grebe who knew that Lowy knew him, remained in the carriage. In half an hour Lowy and Matson appeared and without any delay, the carriage was driven to the depot. The train was taken and before Lowy's wife knew what had taken place her husband was being rapidly whisked to this city.

The Information.

The information filed by District Attorney Estelle is a voluminous document. It bears date of June 2, 1886, and has since that time been slumbering in the office of Clerk Iiams. It sets forth the indebtedness of L. L. Smith, late of this county to the extent of at least $100,000; of his possession of a certain amount of goods valued at least at $5,000, and charges him with a sale to Lowy to defraud said creditors, and informs against Lowy in such purchase as an aid and abettor of the said Smith in the attempt to defraud.

Lowy in Jail.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Woolworth, Mr. Lowy's attorney, made application to Judge Neville to have the prisoner admitted to bail. The application was granted and the bail fixed in the sum of $10,000. After the disposition of the other business of the day Judge Neville held court open until nearly 7 o'clock. At that time Mr. Lowy's bail had not been secured and court adjourned. Mr. Lowy was kept in charge of the sheriff until 7 o'clock when he was taken to the county jail where he spent the night. It is stated that the required bail has been secured and will be offered to the court this morning.

Hon. James Woolworth.

Mr. Woolworth was seen by a BEE reporter and said that the first thing to be done would be to enable Lowy to procure bail. Judge Neville would be in court during the day, and it was thought probable that the application would be granted. Smith's story about about it. If there is such a thing as justice in Douglas county, Lowy can be convicted."

Has anything been done towards bringing Smith back?

"I can't tell you anything more about it."

General Cowin.

This gentleman was seen yesterday and asked if he had anything to do with Lowy's return. He smiled significantly, and said that he guessed he had. He had procured the requisition, and when asked if he thought Lowy could be convicted, he replied that he would not doubt about it. If there is such a thing as justice in Douglas county, Lowy can be convicted."

Some Opinions.

The arrest of Lowy was the theme of general conversation yesterday, and revived the expression of the opinions of belief or distrust in the affidavits of Smith to the effect that the sale of his store to Lowy was a fraudulent one. With a great many it was merely a matter of choice as to whose affidavit should be believed. The story about about it. If there is such a thing as justice in Douglas county, Lowy can be convicted."

Lowy Has the Property.

The following telegram from Chicago gives the ruling of a tribunal in that city detrimental to Lowy's case:

CHICAGO, June 15.—The demurrer in the creditors' bill of D. K. Tenny, trustee, against Haiman Lowy and Lowy's estate to recover judgment for $125,000 was overruled by Judge Barker today. The judgment was reversed and the case set aside. Lowy is charged with making a sham sale of $200,000 worth of goods, purchased on time, to Lowy. The demurrer was sustained because Lowy had made no effort to collect the judgment from Smith, and that the subject matter was pending in the federal court of Nebraska. The court held that it was too apparent that Smith possesses nothing and that the property is held by Lowy & Cole.

Personal Paragraphs.

Mrs. Joseph Beck went east on a short visit last evening.

Otto Maurer left yesterday for Chicago on a pleasure trip of several days.

The Hon. J. C. McBride, of Lincoln, was in the city yesterday on his way west.

W. D. Hill, of Beatrice, state agent of the Pennsylvania Fire and North American insurance company, is at the Paxton.

J. Hess and wife, who made so many friends here during the late musical festival, left for Chicago on the Rock Island last night.

A. D. Breemer, of Breemer, editor of the Times, Miss Zentmeyer and son of the Times, left for Chicago on the Rock Island last night.

Dr. Crowell and bride arrived here yesterday afternoon via the Wabash. They were met at the depot by the brothers of the doctor and welcomed to Omaha.

Frank Parmas and George Kaw, representative agents of the city, left yesterday for Burlington, Iowa, to attend the state tournament of the Hawkeyes.

O. F. Davis and wife went east last evening to "sail the seas over." A pleasant cruise of four or five days is expected.

Miss Alida Minor left for her old home in Connecticut last evening for a summer vacation. At the depot she was joined by Mrs. Alice Davis and two children, of Denver, Colo., who are also destined for a season's pleasure in New England.

Frank Dunigan, baggage and express agent at Siouxon, Idaho, and family, who have been here a few days in the city, leave this morning for Cleveland, Ohio. Frank has been connected with the Union Pacific for thirteen years, and popularly passed in this city.

President Moffat, of the Denver & Rio Grande, once a popular resident of Omaha, arrived on the overland last evening. He is on his way to Omaha on business connected with the railroad interests. President Dave does not travel on a "special," as officers of far less importance generally do, but is satisfied with the accommodations of the Pullman car "Merlin." A cordial reception was given the reporter for the BEE, but Mr. Moffat had nothing in the way of news that he wished to give the public. His faith in the grand fortune of the Rio Grande is still of the strongest kind, notwithstanding the financial clouds that seem to hover over its operations. Everything looks bright for the road at this time, and it is not likely that many moons before the steel clad carrier of Colorado's commerce will be away up among the big quotations.

The Sioux City route line will commence running its Council Bluffs and Spirit Lake sleeper Saturday, June 19th, running daily thereafter, leaving Council Bluffs at 6:25 p. m., arriving at Hotel Orleans, Spirit Lake, 7:40 a. m., leaving Spirit Lake daily at 7 p. m., arriving at Council Bluffs at 9:35 a. m. The sleeping car fare each way per double berth, $1.50. Transit ticket rate, Council Bluffs to Spirit Lake, $9.00.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following transfers were filed June 14 with the county clerk, and reported for the BEE by Ames' Real Estate Agency:

Ralph W. Breckinridge and others to Chas. H. Sullivan, lot 4, blk. X, Shinn's 3d add, Omaha, w. d. $1,000.

Henry D. Rhoades (single) to Robert Rosberg, lot 2, blk. 28, W. A. Redick's add, Omaha, w. d. $1,200.

George Armstrong and wife to Loren Larsen, 1/2 of lot 5, blk. 7, Armstrong's 2d add, Omaha, w. d. $1,000.

Hans Johnson and wife to Christian Peterson, w. d. of w. d. 32-16-11, Douglas Co., w. d. $1,000.

Bernard Maglinis and wife to Jane S. Rogers, lots 2, 3 and 4, blk. 13, West Omaha, w. d. $1,000.

Fred Schlemme and wife to Gustav Buhlmann, w. d. of lot 65, Okonaha, Douglas Co., w. d. $4,000.

Augustus Pratt and wife to Geo. W. Ames, 1/2 of lot 1 and 1/2 of lot 2, blk. 59, Omaha, w. d. $1,000.

Augustus Pratt and wife and others to Eliza DeCaen, 1/2 of lot 2, blk. 59, Omaha, w. d. $1,000.

KNOCKED OUT RIVALS.

Usher & Russell's Great Cable Line Contracts.

They Beat All the East.

It was an excellent piece of information which was yesterday brought to the notice of the BEE, and which was given by the leading founders of the county. The world-famed works of the Pullman car company, at Pullman, Ill., with another large institution at Louisville, and a third one at St. Louis, with a reputation all over the country, were among the competitors. Each of these had learned of the fact of Usher & Russell locating in this city, and immediately became employed with the idea of doing them up. They thought, and rationally, too, that it would be a master stroke of rivalry if they should be able to beat Usher & Russell on their own ground, and divert to another center the money for the inception of the cable line, which must depend upon Omaha for its support.

But Usher & Russell knew with whom they had to deal, and knew the facilities of their competitors. They also knew their ability to stand an order upon which they might get considerable advertisement if but little money. Accordingly, they set their price at a height which while actually the lowest, were yet of such a nature that they could make money in the job while their eastern competitors would lose it. This fact, therefore, is one which persons needing iron work in his state may well be proud of. It is indisputable in its force. It demonstrates that as iron makers and workers, Usher & Russell can not only compete with, but even outdo eastern competitors. The fact will become more patent day by day, according as this excellent firm have their name extended throughout the territory west of us. It is for that reason that they are building the trade they will get. Just as sure as the grocery jobbers of this city have driven the Chicago houses from Nebraska and the far west, so sure will Usher & Russell drive the eastern foundries from within the same territory.

The work of making the castings, the yokes, the bearings, the shaves and columns will be entered upon immediately. It is in active demand and is needed for laying this summer. The reliability of Usher & Russell in getting the material out at the earliest day and before the time expires for the same will be another evidence of this excellent firm's ability to practically a great world west of them to depend on.

High School Commencement.

The graduating exercises of the high school will take place at the opera house this year on Thursday evening of next week. There will be eighteen or nineteen graduates, which is not certain owing to the fact that one scholar is straining every nerve to "make up" in her studies in order to graduate with the class of this year. It is yet uncertain whether she will be able to accomplish the task.

There will be no regular manual training exhibition this year, though Professor Bumann, who has charge of this branch of the work, will try to have a sort of informal collection of the pupils' work placed on exhibition for the benefit of those who want to see the practical advance made by the young carpenters and joiners.

Superintendent James is very enthusiastic over the result of the manual training experiment. "The pupils who have been at work but nine months are now able to turn out work," he said, "which would reflect credit on the teacher and carpenter. Some of the articles they turn out are marvellously constructed. Another thing I have noticed is that the experiment has succeeded admirably in keeping the boys from loafing. In former years many of them have become dissatisfied and fallen out before the end of the year. Now, however, of the seventy-nine boys who commenced in the high school last year, thirty-three still remain. They see and appreciate the beauties of the manual training system, and are contented and happy."

Sweeping Sign of Omaha's Growth.

There are many little things that present themselves in detail which show that Omaha has ordered its metropolitan wedding garment and that it will be ready for delivery very soon. Leviathans in building construction and manufacturing establishments are not always necessary to show the transition from the "little" to the "great" city. For instance, the appearance of a "rozier" Lunum chimney sweep" was quite a metropolitan straw for a trans-Missouri municipality. The fact that he has so difficulty in securing patronage was also significant. On the top of a chimney that stood on a one-story house, corner of Jones and Thirteenth streets his first operations began. He smeared and besmudged he plied his hose, the rope with cleansing attachments scientifically going up and down, and soiling the walls. He had a comical cap attracted attention, and the fact that he harangued the gathered crowd with well-timed remarks on the utility of chimney cleanliness added interest to the scene. Suddenly, the sweep was the sensation of the hour on Thirteenth street, and he will probably create a larger crowd when he visits more aristocratic localities, for high living, it is said, does not neglect the chimney, no matter what the other effects may be.

For the Pythian Prize.

The coming meeting of the supreme lodge of the world and competitive drill of the Knights of Pythias at Toronto, Ontario, promises to be the most important event yet known in the history of this worthy organization. Every place of note in the United States and Canada will be represented, and Omaha will send a corps of scientific marchers that will undoubtedly do the city credit. Myrtle, Lily and Douglas divisions of the unformed rank are working hard, and the best men will be formed into a company to contest for the honors at Toronto. Nearly every city and town in Nebraska where there is a Pythian lodge will send delegations to Toronto, and it is expected they will rendezvous in the city for the forward march.

The U. S. Court.

Yesterday in the United States circuit court the cases against John Bell, John Ball, W. F. Robb, Isidore Holberg, Myron Thomas, A. Johnson and Larry Larison were dismissed. These men were connected with the "eggand" matter. They were convicted of conspiracy and then turned states evicted.

A suit has been begun to compel Rainforth who was quartermaster in the army in 1864, pay for a delinquent book place then. He lives near Hastings. Suit has also been commenced against Barrett Scott as principal and William D. Matley and D. L. Darrow as sureties, of O'Neill for $2,000 damages sustained by failure to keep contract to furnish Fort Niobrara with hay.

Dr. Lee extracted from the thumb of Mrs. Fred M. Youngs Wednesday an ugly three-barb fish-hook, which had become imbedded there.

PAXTON & VIERLING IRON WORKS

What They Are Doing for Omaha.

A reporter of the BEE being informed the other day that all of the foundry, machine shop and architectural iron work formerly ordered from abroad for use in the city was now manufactured by the Paxton and Vierling Iron Works, made a visit to the works on the U. P. by on 17th st. to see how it was done.

He was met by Robt. Vierling, Vice Pres., and A. J. Vierling Mgr., and by them was shown over the premises. The changes made by the new management are apparent from 17th st. The office building which formerly stood near the machine shop, has been moved out close to the street to give more room for buildings, required for the manufacture and storage of work on hand and that awaiting shipment. The main buildings have been added to and have undergone extensive repairs. In every department something new in machinery and fixtures meet the eye, and everywhere there is evidence of unusual activity and enterprise. The foundry has been extended to more than double its former capacity, is now with added appliances, much better adapted to speedy and first-class work. Along the U. P. track are bins and buildings, filled with sand from Illinois, Iowa and Missouri, coming from Pennsylvania and coal from Nebraska and Iowa, unloaded directly from the cars. Huge piles of pig iron shipped from the south and east and unloaded close to the track, give some indication of the amount of machinery required to carry on a business so extensive. The machine shops are 40x100 feet and are occupied by a perfect net-work of belts and machinery in motion. About 100 men are engaged in all the departments and a much larger number will be employed when further extensions and improvements have been completed. To the east of the main buildings are manufacturing departments for the construction, lamp posts and other work for the city and gas company, massive beams and columns for the board of trade building, columns, beams and even plates for the Grating bridge building being erected north of the Millard hotel, and the Barker Bro.'s hotel on Thirteenth and Jackson streets; also a variety of other structures being erected in different parts of the city. Fred Krug, A. J. Poppleton, P. Manning, John Frank, Max Meyer, Geo. Giacomini and others too numerous to mention. The contract for the new iron work on the large new McGavock warehouse has just been signed and work commenced. Heavy shipments are being made to outside points, as, for instance, to the active demand, and even in the case of the Grating bridge being constructed there by the Standard Cattle company, of Cheyenne, Wyo., and on the track ready to go out are live heavy battery trams, manufactured for Raymond Dodge. Stenborg saw at once that the inquiry from parties who have had work done as to its character, the BEE man was informed that it is superior to anything shipped from the east, and is delivered in perfect condition, and in advance of the date fixed by the contract, and the vexatious delays so common have wholly disappeared. The encouragement given to this new enterprise is somewhat of a mystery, but it is known due to some extent to the fact that every enterprise with which Mr. Paxton is connected means business from the start.

A Bold Robbery.

James Mathewson reported at police headquarters yesterday that he had been "held up" in broad daylight, near the Slaven house, this morning, and robbed of $6 in money. It seems that two men approached him for money to buy something to eat with, and he responded by loaning each of them a quarter. He then went into an outhouse in the rear of the hotel. He was followed by four men, two of them being the burglars to whom he had given the money. The couple had been following him through the streets, and when they saw the opportunity, they stepped forward and searched his pockets, taking every cent they could find. They then released him, but before he could give the alarm they had escaped. One of them, however, in keeping the boys down, was recognized and arrested by Officer O'Grady on the positive identification of Mathewson.

Officer O'Grady arrested two fellows who were suspected of having committed the robbery, but as the victim could not be found the men were discharged. Later on the same fellows were arrested by Officer Horrigan for fighting with a woman, and the station were identified by the victim as the men who had robbed him.

The Building Guardian.

George C. Whitlock, the newly appointed superintendent of buildings, has secured official quarters in the southeast corner of the city hall, with the chief engineer, gas and boiler inspectors. It is supposed that his knowledge of the stability of structures at once suggested the duty of getting out an accident policy before he selected his business rooms in the "old shell." He is required to issue all permits for the construction, repair or betterments of buildings, to examine the same when work upon them is being done, to inspect public manufacturing and other structures whose safety is questioned, etc. The chief engineer of the fire department, Mr. Butler, and City Engineer Rosewater, with Mr. Whitlock, constitute the building board.

Opel's Hotel, Lincoln, Neb., opened March 15th, first class in every respect.

William Partridge, aged fifteen, had an old man named Barnum arrested yesterday for refusing to pay $2.75 borrowed money. The couple had been following through Iowa and were westward bound. Barnum said the shoe was on the other foot, and that instead of borrowing any money from Partridge he had fed him and aided him on his journey. Judge Stenborg saw at once that there was no ground to hold the old man and he was discharged.

Revivites.

Graham, the scenic artist, arrives this week to give the opera house a dozen new scenes.

The Union Pacific will have a match game at Athletic park on Sunday with the St. Joe Reds.

William Norris, the well-known surveyor of this city, is now in Kansas City, where he is engaged in working on the cable line extensions in that city.

The remains of the Reimsels boy, the skeleton who died at the county jail on Monday was taken by his father yesterday for burial near the north of the city.

Passengers from Denver yesterday reported a severe hail storm in that city Monday night. They got their sky donations in a frozen form, while the liquid style was good enough for Omaha.

In Kansas City, on Sunday afternoon, Dan Ross won a one-mile race for the championship of Kansas City against twenty-three competitors. The race was run in 4:46.

Mr. H. J. Wooster of the store department of the Union Pacific returned yesterday from Kansas City. He was on the cable car on which Dr. Munford, Lawyer Carlisle's victim was at the time of the shooting on Monday. Mr. Wooster had just stepped off the car and when the hitting opened he made a bee line for a point of safety.

Mrs. Spalding, mother of Will Spalding, of Boyd's packing house, and who was severely injured by being knocked down and gored by a cow last Saturday, is reported as a better yesterday. Her injuries are quagging and besides being the sufferer from several ugly wounds made by the cow, she has a broken leg, and her internal injuries may complicate the case.

The well known and popular Mr. John Nordwall, clerk in the freight auditor's department, Union Pacific railway, and his estimable wife, were agreeably surprised last Saturday evening by their many friends, the occasion being Mr. Nordwall's forty-fourth birthday. The members of the Svea-Norra order were present in full force and presented Mr. N. with a beautiful meerschaum pipe. Mr. A. Sjoberg, of the Swedish Tribune, Chicago, also presented him with three valuable pictures, being three scenes of Bellman, the Swedish poet's life. Professor G. Lindquist sang an excellent song, composed for the occasion by himself, of forty-four verses, one for each year of Nordwall's life in his usual entertaining and happy manner. After interchange of congratulations and partaking of all the good things that the always thoughtful lady members of the
