Mayor J. F. Evans. In accordance with the call for a special meeting of the city council to elect a mayor to fill the office made vacant by the death of Colonel Chapman, every alderman was present Saturday night.

This action of the council will meet with the general public approval. While there are naturally personal preferences which might not be unanimously in favor of Mr. Evans, still there seems to be no desire to hang to such preferences so strenuously as to mar the era of good feeling which is characterizing the management of local affairs.

There being some questioning as to whether Mr. Evans would accept the proffered position, a Bee reporter called upon him yesterday and asked him the direct question.

"I can hardly say whether I will accept or not," said Mr. Evans. "I really do not see how I can give it the time necessary. I was planning to be away a good deal of the summer, and it seems to me that any one who takes the position should give it time and attention. I just got home Saturday, and when I went to the office for my mail, I was approached on the subject by Alderman Shugart and others, but I did not think that the council was going to choose me. Had I thought so I should have refused to have my name used. They have gone ahead and elected me, but not by my seeking or consent. It cannot but be at a personal sacrifice if I accept. I remember, however, that I urged some of these young men to accept the position, to sacrifice personal interests for the good of the public, and insisted on their serving, and I am disposed to be consistent and take my share of sacrifice and responsibility. My personal interest is such that I do not see my way clear to give the office the time and attention which it seems to me it requires. I do not really know what the council expects of me. If the resignation is not accepted, I cannot accept. I want to consult with the aldermen, and I will do so early to-morrow morning, and then I shall decide what to do."

"If you accept the position will you make any special changes in the policy or the organization of city affairs?" "Certainly not. The citizens seemed satisfied with the administration of affairs. Mayor Chapman had outlined a policy which seemed to meet the views of the citizens, and the city government had been well organized, and everything moving along well when Mayor Chapman was taken away by death. So far as I have been able to learn, by expressions before and since his death the people were well pleased with his policy, and with the actions of the city council, and the many expressions of sorrow on the part of Mayor Chapman, as an official, losing Mayor Chapman, as an official, outside of the matter of friendship, convinces me that the people want to see matters move along the same line on which this new city government has started out. The appointments made also to be satisfactory, and if I should accept, I would not feel like making any changes until really necessary demanded. I know that when a convention nominates a man and that man declines to accept, the confusion and causes more trouble than in the first place, and I fear that if I should decline to accept the office, it might make it more difficult to get someone else. I am anxious to do what I can if too much is not expected of me. Before I say whether I will serve or not, I want to learn just what the council will expect of me."

"Do you understand whether it is the intention of the council to have you serve until the next spring election, or only until a special election can be called?" "I don't know a thing about it. The notice I got was that I was elected until an election by the people was had, but it does not state when that election is to be. I do not know what the law is on this point, but I think that if a special election is held, it should be held before the city election next spring, or if there are any rights of the city which are to be jeopardized, or its credit hurt in any other way, by holding a special election, I should certainly object to there being a special election. I do not believe the city should run any risks about legality of proceedings for the sake of keeping me or any other man in office for a single day. It is a question on which I am not posted, and if there is any doubt about whether a special election should be held before next spring, the city council should call it."

Personal Paragraphs. Charles Bolink of Jefferson, Iowa, was in the city yesterday. Mrs. Dewey, of Hogland, Mo., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Durgan. F. J. Swenning of Panama was in the city yesterday enroute to Chicago.

Rest and Recreation. HOTEL ORLEANS, SPIRIT LAKE, June 23.—The season here has not fairly opened and the people of any particular prominence have yet arrived, although a larger number, by far, than at any time during the three previous years' existence of the Hotel Orleans are in communication with the management, and in consequence the success of the season is assured.

During the week there have been several parties from Council Bluffs and Omaha who have taken an opportunity to come up here and fish in connection with whom were J. S. McCormack and M. W. Kennard, of Omaha, who made a trial trip on Mr. McCormack's new yacht, Mark Dunham and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Meyer, child and nurse, of Omaha. Mr. Meyer returned to his business after enjoying a couple of days' recreation and Mrs. Meyer will remain during the season. Mrs. Andrew Rosewater, wife of the city engineer of Omaha, child and nurse arrived this morning and have taken a suite of rooms for the season. Colonel L. W. Tulley and J. N. Brown, of the banking house M. Burdham, Tulley & Co. Council Bluffs, spent two days fishing at Arnold's park and returned to their home on Friday.

A peckered, black, rock and silver bass, croppies, perch and shiner extension being caught in large numbers. Colonel Tulley landed several ten-pound pickered while here. Mrs. Van Cott is holding camp meeting at the town of Spirit Lake, two miles distant.

It is not generally known to the public, but nevertheless a fact, that mail to reach here promptly should be addressed to Minnie Dickinson, Dickinson county, which is at the Hotel Orleans, otherwise all mail sent to Spirit Lake will be detained at the town by that name from six to twelve hours.

The season will open July 1, when many will begin to arrive, but not until after the Fourth will the rush come. Colonel J. W. Hutchison, proprietor of the Hotel Orleans, informs the Bee correspondent that he is in communication with a number of Omaha and Council Bluffs people, many of whom have spent part of previous seasons here and are coming again. It is certain that a more lovely location in which to spend a few days' vacation can be found without traveling a much farther distance and entailing much larger expense.

From Omaha or Council Bluffs this place is of easy access. A through stage leaving early leaves the transfer over the Sioux City route every evening, arriving at the Orleans hotel at 7:00 o'clock in the morning, thereby not causing the tourists to feel fatigued upon arrival. The hotel is charming in every respect, the service perfect, and the management beyond description.

Hotel Orleans runs east and west; is 384 feet long, with an extensive extension 170 feet long by 150 feet wide. The hotel fronts on Spirit Lake, which is 200 feet distant, while East Lake Okoboji is at the rear, or, more properly speaking, the south front, some 100 feet distant. The lawns are nicely laid out with promenades, and flower beds in different directions.

Grace chapel will next week be completed. It is not sectarian, and the pulpit will be occupied by any pastor who may see fit to hold religious services. A fine band of music has been engaged and will be in attendance at the Orleans after June 30. Dancing will be indulged in every evening, and no doubt the regulars on Wednesday and Saturday evenings will be as popular as in past seasons.

Verandas, sixteen feet in width, extend around the entire building on each floor, and every room in the house has a door opening into the veranda, which is well supplied with easy-chairs. The doors and windows are well screened and ventilation could not be better. All kinds of amusements that are usually found at summer resorts, such as bathing, boating, fishing, bowling alleys, billiards, livery, etc., etc., are all handy here and under the very shadow of the Hotel Orleans.

The dining room occupies part of the extension to the main building. In it 250 persons can comfortably be seated at one time. The waiters, this season, are colored, and have been selected from the best and largest hotels in St. Louis, Chicago, New York and other eastern cities. The kitchen is well equipped, and "as neat as a pin," in other respect it is unlike many a so-called first class hostelry.

Arnold's park is five miles drive from here or seven miles via Okoboji lakes on the steamer Ben Lenox, of which Alex May is captain. It is a beautiful trip for tourists to take, as is also a sail on the steamer Queen on Spirit Lake.

C. H. Judson of Council Bluffs will spend August at Arnold's park camping out. A. Miller and family of Council Bluffs will spend several weeks here. The Iowa State Fair association, instead of taking a long trip, will spend a week at Spirit Lake at the Orleans.

Frank L. Yenawine, wife and child, of Council Bluffs, will arrive the coming week. Senator C. H. Gatch and family of Des Moines will occupy a suite of rooms next week. A. W. Pullman of the Nebraska & Iowa Insurance company, Omaha, will spend July at hotel Orleans in his family.

Mrs. Sidney Barkal and children of Omaha have engaged rooms at the hotel Orleans, and will arrive on July 1. Robert Hawk of Nebraska, City will spend July at Hotel Or, sex fo.

A Pleasure Ride Ends With a Probably Fatal Accident. A runaway accident that will probably prove fatal to a young lady occurred on Bremer street last evening. A young man named Reese, a clerk in Taylor & Cole's grocery, was out riding with a young lady, Miss Haake, of Streetville, driving a spirited horse from Field & Cole's livery stable. As they were coming up Bremer street the horse took high action, became unmanageable and ran away colliding with another buggy that was going down the street. In the crash both Reese and his companion were thrown from their buggy and hurt. Reese was slightly injured. Miss Haake, however, was found to be in an unconscious condition. She was removed to the residence of Mr. Jones, on Bremer street, and medical attention summoned. She appeared to be suffering from internal injuries, and up to late hour all efforts to revive her have proved futile. Her recovery is a matter of grave doubt.

The Muever Mode Co. is preparing for the largest wholesale holiday trade this season. The stock they have ordered is simply immense.

The Decorative Art. Mr. P. C. Wilder has returned from the east, where he has been hunting up the novelties in the decorative line and studying the latest designs. He has brought back a varied stock of paper mache designs, figures in bold relief, which can be finished in any coloring to suit. These paper mache designs are superior to freestone, and combined with Linerust at Walton makes the handsomest finishing and decoration to be had. Mr. Miller has supplied himself with many novelties and new designs, and those who are contemplating interior decorations should call upon him and see them. He found that a great deal of these paper mache designs being used in the finest rooms in Chicago.

Uncertainties of Physiognomy. Philadelphia North American: "Did it ever strike you as a bit of wisdom, that in thing to judge a man's occupation by his appearance," said John Dash to his friend David Blank.

"Easiest thing in the world," replied Blank, with an air of wisdom. "This fine-looking, portly gentleman coming down the street, for instance, is a well-to-do grocer, probably retired from business, but I'll bet he knows all about success and failure."

"Dead wrong," said Dash; "that's M. Hall Stanton, baker, gas trustee and politician. Now, tell me how you would size up this man with the Napoleonic mustache and chin beard?"

"H'm, well he stumps me," remarked Blank, his confidence wavering a little, and then, jocularly, "He must be a fire-works manufacturer."

"That's a pretty good guess, for while the great and only James Matlack Seovel, of Camden, is not exactly a manufacturer of fire-works, he manufactures a great deal of pyrotechnical oratory."

Emboldened by his success, Blank cast his eagle eye in the direction of a gentleman whose most prominent feature was a profuse waist. "It's a shoemaker," he said.

"Sh," warned Dash. "Why, that's John Dunn, one of the managers of the house of correction, and night mayor at the Central Station. Well, that's the first time I ever mistook the nightmare for a shoemaker. But this man with the sundyed looks is a farmer. Can't you fool me on farmers?"

"That's Scott! That's Senator Tom Cooper, the invincible field marshal of the republican forces of Pennsylvania. But look at this man with the smiling countenance. Who is he?"

"A Sunday school superintendent, perhaps; if not that, at least a good man with a good conscience."
