

WHITE MEN MUST LEAVE
Orders to Clear Rosebud Agency of the Pale Faces.

VALENTINE, Neb., July 1.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—A government employee, formerly carpenter from Rosebud agency, just in states that Agent Wright received official orders to-day to expel all white men not married to Indian women from the agency. All government employees not so married will be compelled to leave, the stock inspector not excepted. Companies H and F of the Fourth infantry, leave for Fremont, to join other portions of their regiment for the west to-night. The town is full of officers' friends, bidding them good-bye. Universal regret is expressed at their departure.

The Assembly Opens.

CRETE, Neb., July 1.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The Cret Chautauqua grounds present to-day a very busy but interesting sight. About fifteen hundred people are already on the grounds, most of them busily engaged in preparing for the coming days. A vast amount of hurry and bustle are involved in the migrating of several thousand people from one place to another, even though the place to which they go be a camp-ground. Hack and dray men are to be seen in every direction bringing with them the necessities of comfortable tent life. About twenty-five hundred men have come, and the managers have been abridged to provide for extra accommodations. The first meeting of the assembly was held to-night, and was opened by prayer by Dr. Lyman Abbott. Dr. W. W. Mayo and others will come to E. F. Foss. Charles E. Batton then delivered his interesting lecture with stereoptican views of the British Isles.

Davitt Will Come.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 1.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The president of the Irish national league to-day received from Dublin a cable message stating that Michael Davitt, the honored founder of land rights, would speak at the Irish national convention to be held in Chicago on the 18th and 19th of August, bearing with him the hearty approval of Mr. Parnell. Mr. Egan also expects a strong delegation composed of some of the best men of the parliamentary party.

Lincoln Brings Up the Rear.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 1.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The second game of the Lincoln-Topeka series was played on the home grounds to-day, resulting in an easy victory for Topeka on a score of 10 to 4. The base ball enthusiasts of the capital now gaze upon the record of their club bringing up the rear in the western leagues.

Nebraska Central College.

CENTRAL CITY, Neb., July 1.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—J. B. Maxfield, D. D., was unanimously elected president of the Nebraska Central college for the ensuing year at a meeting of the board of trustees held at the college last night.

Brown's Defense Closed.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 1.—The impeachment court met at 2:30 p. m., continuing Mr. Brown on the witness stand. After a short cross-examination, covered yesterday by the direct, the witness was excused, and the defense announced that they closed the case. In rebuttal the managers called Hon. W. P. Wolf, ex-speaker of the house of representatives, who testified to the explicit agreement entered into between Governor Sherman and Mr. Brown in his presence, that Brown should be impeached and removed from office, and received also a deposit covering the amount received for bank examinations, which was the subject of a division by the supreme court. That when this was done, the governor was compelled to resign his office, and Mr. Brown commenced to make the affidavits agreed upon, but seeing a newspaper article which he claimed misrepresented him in reporting the interview at which the agreement was entered into, he stopped the work, which refusal resulted in his suspension from office.

Forger Arrested.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., July 1.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—Sheriff O. C. Reynolds, of Lake Benton, Minn., and C. M. Moore, a member of the Pinkerton Chicago detective force, arrested here to-day a man named James Thompson, who is wanted in Lincoln county, Minn., for forgery. It seems that the police of that section had traced a check to the account of a certain lady and sold the property for $1,400. Pinkerton's agency was applied to, and Mr. Moore has been engaged some days finding a clew and working up the case. Thompson is a man of about thirty-five years of age and he claims that there is some understanding regarding the sale of the land and that he is not guilty.

The Whisky Fight Progressing.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, July 1.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The only new development in the whisky prosecution to-day was the serving of notices on John Orion, being but the processes of law indicated by yesterday's dispatches. The first cites him to show cause of violating the state laws, and the other asks for a perpetual restraint upon his business. The first was issued out of Judge Lewis C. Hayes, and the latter from Judge Wakefield's court of this city. Orion will be brought to issue on the 6th and 7th insts., when there promises to be some lively skirmishing.

Bright Denounces Home Rule.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 1.—John Bright addressed a large and enthusiastic audience at Birmingham to-night. Up to his speaking he was cheered for several minutes. He said he had believed that his time was coming to retire. For twenty-nine years he had served Birmingham. But in the face of the question of great magnitude no consider his duty to remain at the front. He said he was against anything in any shape called parliament at Dublin. (Cheers.) He was also opposed to the monstrous proposition to purchase estates. But for the bill to revolutionize Ireland, nobody would have dreamt of so extravagant a proposal. The legislation Gladstone proposed was only a step forward in the march through rapids to break up the kingdom. (Cheers.) And the astounding proposal was that the conspiracy be dignified by the name, form and power of parliament.

A Horrible Double Murder.

NEW ORLEANS, July 1.—A special to the Times-Democrat from Meridian, Miss., says: A terrible tragedy occurred five miles south of Scoville, Kemper county, Miss., yesterday. The families of George M. Gullett and Barlow lived in the same house. The men were partners in farming, and while resting at noon Gullett fell asleep. An alteration occurred between Barlow and his wife and Mrs. Gullett, which aroused Gullett. He went into the room and asked what the master was. Barlow began cursing him, saying that he had wanted to kill him for some time and would do it again, then seized a gun at the same time. Gullett sprang to the bureau drawer for a pistol and shot Barlow in the neck. While he was in the act of firing Barlow dropped the gun and ran to the front door, where he picked up the gun and shot him dead. Turning he discovered Barlow's wife in the act of killing his wife with an axe, whereupon he fired the remaining cartridge at Mrs. Barlow, killing her instantly. Gullett surrendered to the authorities.

Edmonds Explains His Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—A reporter of the Associated press called upon Senator Edmunds to-day and asked him for an explanation of his bill introduced yesterday relating to the presidential appointing power, and of the results which were expected to follow its enactment into law. Mr. Edmunds said that the influence of the executive over the Senate and senators on account of the possession of vast patronage was so great that the president practically now had the power of appointment to all those offices which were not among the principal ones in the bill, and it was only in the recent instance of his discharge of his conduct and bad character that if had come to knowledge of any honest president himself he would have refused to make the appointment. Therefore Mr. Edmunds said that the object of his bill was to diminish the extent and power of presidential patronage as connected with its influence on the two houses of congress, and particularly the Senate.

SENATOR PUGH'S DAUGHTER.

She is Found in Omaha in Destitute Circumstances.

ANOTHER HIPPODROME FRAUD.

The Trotting Horse Breeders—Arranging for the Exposition—Coal for the County—Matrimonial—Other Local.

A Senator's Daughter in Rags.

A sensational affair was brought to light yesterday in the announcement of the fact that a daughter of Senator Pugh, of Alabama, had been rescued from a life of poverty and abuse which she has been forced to live in this city for more than a year with a brutal husband.

Something over two years ago, Nellie, daughter of Senator Pugh, of Alabama, was married to a then promising young man named Charles Elliott. Soon after their marriage Elliott turned out to be a worthless profligate and soon developed into a tyrannical husband and brute. The circumstances of their first troubles are not known, but something over a year ago Elliott and his wife came north and finally settled in Omaha. But little is known of their life here except that Elliott was employed during the winter on the construction gang of the Union Pacific bridge force, and lived in the southern part of the city. Nothing is known of Mrs. Elliott except that she remained at home all the time and had no relations with her neighbors. Elliott recently removed to Council Bluffs, where the knowledge of the man's conduct and the manner in which he had been rescued from the hands of his husband occurred. A few days ago Mrs. Elliott, by accident, obtained an audience with ex-Senator Geo. F. Wright, of Council Bluffs, and to him she told her story. She said that her husband kept her closely confined in her home, and had, by threats, absolutely prevented her from communicating with her father, who was unaware of her condition or whereabouts. Senator Wright at once telegraphed to Senator Gregg, who immediately wired to Senator Gregg, that he had no objection to the arrangement of the association.

This meeting, therefore, is worthy of patronage for at least three reasons, first of which is to encourage home enterprise, next that the entertainment will be an excellent character, and finally that it will be under the direction of honest men and that jockeying need not be apprehended.

The Bee, from time to time has published a list of events put up by various persons. This list has more than satisfied the anticipation of the managers and ought strongly to have appealed to the appreciation of lovers of horseflesh and sport throughout the state. It contains fifty-six entries, comprising races for two and three-year-olds, stallions and grand-free-for-all. The meeting will close to-morrow, when a magnificent bill will be provided for the meeting.

Last night a reporter for the Bee drove the ground and found will Billy Hussey, the right bower of Richard Wild, Esq., and got the best information concerning amateur horsemen in this section. The reporter had previously looked over the stock, and as others would have done, felt that bewilderment which ensues when a large quantity of first class material is to be assayed and commented. It is but repeating what has already been expressed a hundred times, that he would indeed be an expert who, armed himself with a revolver and drove directly to her home with the express determination of killing his brutal brother-in-law. As Pugh entered the residence Elliott escaped through the back door and came to Omaha, where he was a vagrant. The meeting between young Pugh and his sister was a most affecting one. He had her properly provided with traveling clothing and left on the evening train, taking her and her little child to her southern home.

ANOTHER HIPPODROME FRAUD.

Sprinter Gregg Threw a Race and Gets a Black Eye.

There was a foot race at the Athletic Park yesterday afternoon which originally consisted of one hundred yards. It was prolonged to half a mile and finally ended on horseback, where, but few people know. The stakes were $25 a side. Jerome Pentzel was the stakeholder. The contestants were the Sprinter Gregg and James Stevenson—not the gentleman of livery fame. Hourihan seconded Gregg and some other body fondled Stevenson.

The race was uneventful until toward the close, when Gregg, who had apparently been distanced, shot to the front like a meteor and won the race by about a yard. He had scarcely crossed the line than he turned to run from the grounds. In doing so, he came within Stevenson's reach, and the latter dealt him a blow in the eye which altered its color and size in a prodigious manner in an instant. Excitement rose among the spectators. By this time some of them had begun to imagine that they had been duped, and that Gregg was the man who had duped them. Some of them sought Hourihan, Gregg's second, and warned him in a lively manner. In the meantime Gregg had run into the arms of Webb, of No. 3 engine company, and received another pummeling which detracted considerably from his facial beauty. He tore himself loose, however, and made for the gate. But Jack Galligan stood there. He had quickly seen that he had been deceived, and immediately closed the gate to shut off Gregg's escape. The latter, however, bolted for the north fence, followed by Jack Galligan with a drawn revolver. Gregg's fleetness and agility brought him over the fence, surmounted as it is by two rows of barbed wire. He landed in the field on the north, ran out on Sixteenth, overtook a wagon which was being driven northward, jumped into it and urged the driver to hurry his horses to enable him to escape from his pursuers. The horse was not able to go very fast, and had Gregg been compelled to depend upon the animal, he would have been overtaken in five minutes. He was救了, however, by a boy named Thompson who galloped up to him and induced him to jump into his saddle, which Gregg did and galloped over the prairie. By this time Webb succeeded in opening the heavy gate, and, jumping into a buggy in which Mr. William Houston and a Bee reporter were driving, asked to be driven after the retreating sprinter who looked like a circus performer in tight leaping over the prairie. His purpose was undertaken, and when Gregg disappeared around the brow of the descent leading to Sulphur springs, the buggy was left behind. Webb jumped out, followed the horseman down the incline, and when the Bell line was reached, the latter turned to the north and trotted in the ditch on the west side of the track, leaving Webb to the rear. Nor was he far from the scene. Gregg's departure was followed by a hasty visit of those who were suspected to have been in the secret of his perfidy. Among them was Pardo. He started south and east, with Gregg's clothes, and finally eluded pursuit on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Omaha track near Cut Off lake.

The whole affair was one of the most disgraceful hippodromes that ever took place in the Bee. Gregg induced some of his friends, among them Gilligan and Webb, to set on Stephenson, that he (Gregg) would throw the race. He had no intention, however, of throwing the contest, and secretly advised other friends to take the Gilligan, Webb and other bets. Instead of throwing Gregg won the race, and Gilligan and others lost. A sum total of the scheme (which was a secret) was $100. Webb paid off at 50 cents in addition to the price of admission. The carriages will be admitted free. Complimentary passes will admit to the grand stand.

Complimentary passes were ordered given by Mr. Mount to all citizens who had contributed to the fund of $500.

Dr. Peck and Messrs. Fry and Hayward were appointed judges of to-day's races.

Messrs. France, Peck and Hayward were appointed timers.

THE BLOODED STOCK MEETING.
Preparing for the State Meeting of the Association To-Day.

To-day the first meeting of Nebraska's blooded colts will take place at the driving park in this city. This meeting may justly be termed the first, for the reason that the one of last year was held in connection with the state fair, and the success of the one was in a great measure to be determined by that of the other. This year, however, the Nebraska association of Trotting Horse Breeders has wisely determined to hold their meeting independent of any other entertainment. In this determination they have been encouraged by the citizens of Omaha, who have subscribed liberally toward the success of the enterprise.

The least interesting feature of this enterprise is not the fact that it proposes annually to give the people of the state exhibitions of speed, but that in Nebraska's one of the youngest states in the sisterhood, there should at this day be fostered a love of fine blooded horses as has already been developed. To those who are already embarked in the undertaking there is nothing improbable that Nebraska is just as capable of giving to the turf horses as fleet as have ever yet flown over its surface. These men are not selected from among those whose reputations have not been improved by questionable transactions in connection with the track. They are drawn from the respectable business, the intelligent professional gentlemen, the honest bankers, stock-traders, and the managers have been abridged to provide for extra accommodations. The first meeting of the assembly was held to-night, and was opened by prayer by Dr. Lyman Abbott. Dr. W. C. Crook, cor. 16th and Chicago. Do not fail to attend the great Bankrupt sale this week at 1014 Farnam street.

Nat. Brown, C. E. Mayne, A. J. Popple, J. S. Caulfield, of Omaha; M. C. Robinson, Blair; George C. Smith, Nelson; A. J. Briggs, Superior; O. J. Stowell, Auburn; J. W. Sulter, Oscoda; Isaac Dillon, North Platte, were elected members.

It was ordered that the association charge nothing for stall rent. Adjourned till to-night.

A MERCHANTS' EXHIBIT.

An Attractive Feature of the Coming Fair and Exposition.

Pursuant to the published call a number of representative citizens met at the Paxton hotel last evening to confer with a committee from the Fair and Exposition association with reference to the arrangements for holding a merchant's exhibit at the exposition building during the coming fair. Mr. F. Copeltz presided and read the report for the meeting which had been sent out by the secretary of the fair association. Secretary Wheeler stated that the fair association had decided to introduce a new feature the year in the form of an exhibition of men's goods and services to be made at the exposition building during the fair. He had mailed several hundred letters to interested parties in Nebraska, Dakota, and the western territories, asking them to arrange for exhibits of agricultural products, ores, metals, woods, building material, etc., from their vicinity, and promising them space in the building and the influence of the association in securing reduced rates of transportation to and from the exposition. He said that the association had done this in order to have something more than a horse show and the races. The success of these features were already assured, and the races would be the largest ever held in the west.

The plan was cordially endorsed by the business men present. It is proposed to divide the Exposition building into departments that will provide exhibit rooms for representatives for every branch of business in the city. The rooms will open each evening from 5 o'clock until nearly midnight and will furnish an evening attraction for the visitors to the fair.

The fair committee is composed of Messrs. N. B. Faleone, R. Kitchen and J. G. Clark. To act with this committee in arranging of space for the exhibits a committee of merchants was appointed consisting of Messrs. W. V. Morse, Lewis Bradford and M. H. Bliss.

The meeting then adjourned.

Coal For the County.

The county commissioners yesterday opened the bids for the contract of furnishing the county two hundred tons of hard coal for the coming year.

The contract was awarded to the Nebraska Fuel company at $6.70 per ton, the coal to be delivered on or before December 1.

Matrimonial Prospects.

Permits to wed were granted yesterday as follows:

Charles N. Spill, Omaha..... 21
Miss Jeannie Houwer, Omaha..... 18
John Wilson, Omaha..... 40
Miss Jennie Houle, Omaha..... 28
J. W. Berry, Florence..... 29
Miss Felita Rogers, Florence..... 16
Seigmund Hirschberg, Omaha..... 23

The Opera House Damage Case.

The last jury case of the present term that will be heard by Judge Wakely is that of Woody vs. Boyd, which will be called to-day. This is a suit for $5,000 damages brought by Woody, a colored man, against the manager of the opera house, who refused him admittance to the house.

Bridge Building.

The county commissioners yesterday awarded the contract for the construction of an eighty-foot bridge across the Papillion, between Douglas and Washington counties, to Z. T. Brunton of Blair.

Brevities.

Twenty-four permits were issued in the month of June for the erection of buildings, which will have a total estimated value of $20,075.

Saigurd Hirschberg, a clerk in Dorman's Thirtieth street store, was united in marriage last evening to Miss Ross Kline, Rabbi Benson officiating.

The work on the new board of trade building which has been somewhat delayed by a shortage in the supply of stone, will now be pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

The county clerk's force is happy over the action of the county commissioners in supplying the office with a type writer. Commissioner Corliss is going to buy one for his own use as soon as he learns to spell more than one way.

Free Text Books.

The question of furnishing the city schools with free text books will be disposed of at the meeting of the school board on next Monday night. A large number of proposals have been received from the various publishing houses for the contract of supplying the required books.

The Ashburn Babies.

Robert Ashburn, who commenced habeas corpus proceedings in the district court the other day to get possession of his two children, little girls, who have been cared for the past two years by John Shepard, appeared at police headquarters last night and said that Shepard had left the city, taking the children with him.

Inane Inklings.

John Wigg, a Swiss laborer, who lives on California street, was sent to the county jail yesterday, having been adjudged violently insane by the commissioners.

Joe Montague, the crazy Italian fruit vendor, who has been in the county jail for three months, has been turned over to some of his friends, who will send him back to sunny Italy.

Incorporated.

A meeting of the directors of the Nebraska association of trotting horse breeders, was held last night in room 42 of the Paxton hotel. There were present J. O. Frantz, of Friend; Henry Fry, of York; M. L. Hayward, Nebraska City; T. Hill, Syracuse; D. B. Johnson, Weeping Water; W. H. Brown, Aurora; E. P. Holloman; D. T. Mount and J. P. Peck.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report, showing $1,093.95 to be on hand was read and adopted. Mr. Mount, from the citizen's committee, setting forth that $30 had been subscribed and $475 collected.

Messrs
