THE FAREWELL MEETING TO-DAY.

What the Rock Island Has Been Secretly Doing - A Stockman Crushed to Death at Falls City-State News.

Drawing to a Close. Chete, Neb., July 9.—|Special Telegram to the Bee. |-We begin to realize as we see the various preparations for home going on the grounds how near the end of this assem bly feast of good things is. Sunday, July 11 a five day service of gospel meetings begins. These meetings will be in charge of the diferent ministers of the state and a good time s expected. All on the grounds are cordially invited to remain. Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, of lowa, left this morning for Topeka, Kan., where she is expected to speak. Dr. Alden with his wife (Pansy) and son, left this afternoon. Clara B. Colby, of Beatrice, who is vice-president of the National Universal Suffrage organization, came in this morning. The Nebraska News association have agreed, If a lot be provided them, to put up a building costing about $300 furnished with a telegraphic instrument and operator. The morning was given up to the examination of the children's normal classes by their various teachers. Professor Sherwin put the finishing touches on his choruses and gave his class some excellent advice for the future. The lecture by Dr. Meredith on 'Christ as a Teacher' was especially for the teachers. He says of this class of workers "Christ as a Teacher" was especially for the teachers. He says of this class of workers that before they can properly teach the truths of the Bible they must make those truths real to themselves. Dr. Meredith is personally and so decely interested in the subject of the necessary qualifications of Sunday school teachers that he never fails to bring the truth of what he says on this question right home to the hearers. The grand social and instrumental concert in the evening was one of the arsent attractions of the assembly. The choruses were especially good. Among the special features were vocal solos by Mr. F. A. Ricker, Miss Handlin and Miss Cora Gates, a violin solo by Forrest Cheeny, and a recitation by Miss Parker. After the concert a very hearty vote of thanks was tendered the ladies of the dining hall, also to the president of the assembly, Mr. F. I. Foss. A farewell meeting will be held to morrow morning at 8 o'clock, which all will wish to attend.

The assembly has been a magnificent success, and all who attended this year will wish to come next year. They will be heartly welcomed.

INDIGNANT AT HALL.

Iowa's Delegation Denounce His Action on the Des Moines Bill. WASHINGTON, July 9.— Special Telegram to the Bre.]—Considerable indignation is being shown by the Hawkeve delegation on account of the action of Representative Hall, of the First Iowa district, on the Des Moines river land bill, when it was before the house the other day for passage over the president's veto. It was generally supposed outside of the Iowa delegation that Hall was a friend of the bill, and this Impression allowed him to do considerable harm. A member from New York says that Hall not only did not work for the bill, but did all he could against it, and that he (New York member) was in part induced to vote against the passage of the bill by representations made to him of Hall's position on the measure. None of the Iowa democratic members have any apology for Hall's dodge, of the vote on this bill, while all the republicans condemn his

His friends say, and Major Holmes will prove, that Harrington acted in self-defense, and is now Insane and in an asylum.

BAYARD WANTS TO BE A JUDGE.

It is learned to-day on unquestioned authority that Secretary of State Bayard is ambitious of serving upon the United States supreme bench. When Mr. Bayard accepted the portfolio of state he used all the means at his command to secure the election of Mr. Gray as his successor for the remainder of the unexpired term. More than that, he assured Mr. Gray that the same influence should be exerted to insure his re-election for the full-term, which commences March 4, 1887. But for this promise Mr. Bayard himself would endeavor to succeed Senator Gray, for it has been an open secret for months that he is dissatisfied with his present surroundings. Next to a seat in the senate Mr. Bayard would prefer a seat on the supreme bench. He has communicated this desire to the president within the last week, and received in reply the assurance that should a vacancy occur before the close of the present administration his wishes shall be compiled with.

RALIROAD LAND GRANTS.

"It is my opinion that there will be no forfeitures of the Pacific land grants by this congress," said an old railroad attorney, now a member of congress. "The trouble is," continued he, "that the railroad companies have just enough friends in the house and senate to defeat the final passage of any bill."

"But the senate has passed a bill, and it is now before the house forfeiting about three

"But the senate has passed a bill, and it is

"But the senate has passed a bill, and it is now before the house, forfeiting about three millions of acres," I suggested.

"True," replied the statesman, "but the bill is amended so that it can never pass the senate, The house wants to forfeit all of the Northern Pacifie grants, or pretends that it does, when it knows full well that it can never make the senate agree to it. Those are the factics of the railroad men in the house, Nearly every man in the house who is making so much fuss about land forfeitures is afraid there will be forfeitures, and every one is demanding more than he knows the senate will grant. What must be alone to get back these unearned lands in piese meal work—take a little at a time, if we can't get more. I know these pretended cifthis lasts are saying that to take a part of the grants is to contirm the balance, and that therefore we must forfeit at to take a part of the grants is to confirm the balance, and that therefore we must forfeit at one-time all we expect to forfe t. That is another line of foxy argument by the railroad members. The bill passed by the senate has a clause in it 'providing that this forfeiture shall in' nowise affect the other portions of the grant or grants. Besides, the house can make that faint as clear and strong as it wishes and the senate will concur. But mark my words: When you see a member, or senator, either, clamoring for a 'clean sweep,' a forfeiture of all grants, to a road, you can set him down as a friend of the road and an enemy of the forfeiture, likewise a demagorue. It has been the practice of the Pacific companies for many years, and I know it, because it was a long time my business—to go so far as to ruin legislation and defeat forfeiture altogether. If we ever get any land from the Pacifics it will be by small amounts."

ONE GOOD TRAIT.

The country, irrespective of party, should unite in praising President Cleveland for at least one thing, calling a halt on the custom of using the appropriation bills in the house as a leverage to control legislation, resulting in prolonging the first session of a congress. in prolonging the first session of a congress for from two to four months, at a cost of mil-lions of dollars. It is believed that the first session of the next congress will be at least two months shorter than this. To show what can when it must be done, the house— and senate, too,—accomplishes the same work on appropriation bills at the second session of a congress in eight weeks that it requires six or eight months for at the first session. The second session ends, by provision of the constitution, on March 4 is the

A SUMMER RESORT SCHEME. A SUMMER RESORT SCHEME.

It is amusing, the devices thrown out by proprietors of summer resorts to get an advertisement by having the entertainment of President Cleveland and wife. Having met with uniform rebuffs by extending direct initations, they have been engaged in doing so through congressmen, governors and distinguished private citizens. The scheme is to get Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland to visit a private citizen near a summer resort not well advertised, and then have the citizen take his guests over to the resort for a few days—all at the expense of the proprietor aforesaid. The president is not hasty in making replies to invitations, and in considering them inpures into the geography of the adjacent country.

"SMELLS TO HIGH HEAVEN"

Serious Charges Made Against the Omaha Medical College.

DEATH IN THE COUNTY JAIL.

Hurt in a Runaway-Court Notes-Building Permits-A Man Missing-Brevities and Various Local Matters.

Sweet Scented Labors. A party of city councilmen, consisting of President Beehel and Messrs, Lowry, Lee and Schroder, accompanied by two reporters, one of them a representative of the BEE, might have been seen toiling up the Tenth street hill south or the depot, about two o'clock yesterday The party was bound for the corner of Eleventh and Pacific streets for the express purpose of investigating a horrible stench—or rather medley of stenches—said to arise from the dissecting room of the Omaha Medical College building which is being removed from the corner of Eleventh and Pierce streets to the corner of Twelfth and Pacific streets. The residents in this vicinity say that the odors emanating from the dissecting room of the institution are noxious and well nigh unbearable.

Arriving at the old site of the medical college the party gazed at the ruins of the foundation and wondered how and where they were going to commence their investigation.

Councilman Schroeder was just about to suggest that all hands adjourn to get a glass of beer, when Mr. H.P. Birket, who lives in the neighborhood, put in an appearance and volunteered to show the party of city tathers something about the grounds of complaint. He escorted them first to a large pit in one corner of the foundation, which he said the college professors were in the habit of throwing the dead bodies into. This pit connected with the dissecting room by two trap doors and as soon as the dissectors were through with the corpses, the mangled remains would be dumped without further geremony into the pit. Workmen exeavating on this spot had unearthed he endayers of a large number of infants in all stages of dissection, as well as the corpses of several full grown subjects. The stench from this pit was simply horrible until it had been covered up with the dirt. Even then, at close range, it was appalling. Mr. Burket also pointed out a corner of the lot in which the medical college formerly stood. He said that he had witnesses to show that the authorities were in the habit of burying their half dissected victims there a few inches below

The next visit was made to the medical college which was on wheels at the corner of Eleventh and Pacific streets, being in process of removal by Baldwin & Behm. From the building, the doors and windows of which were open, Mr. Birket asserted that the most nostril-rending stenches proceeded, greatly to the detriment of the health of the people in that vicinity. "There is the corpse of a man lying in there on the dissecting table now, half cut up, disembowelled and trepanned, which is almost in the last stages of decay," said Mr. Birket. "I will show it to you—

"No, you won't," said the foreman of the moving gang, blocking up the doorway as Mr. Birket and the city fathers were about to enter the building.

"What! what!" gasped that gentleman.

"I've got orders to keep everybody out of this building," said the foreman coolly.

"I guess the members of the city coun-I guess the members of the city coun cil have got a right to enter," put in a city father at this juncture.

"That's all right," returned the fore-man stubbornly, folding his arms. "I've got my orders, and I am going to obey Besides that, there ain't no decaying corpse in the dissecting room. But Mr. Birket was sure that there was. A short consultation was held, and it was agreed that the city council ought to uphold its authority. Accordingly a policeman was sent for and about three o'clock the obstreperous foreman was set

The committee then made an examination of the building, making discoveries which were followed by the circulation of a petition, which resulted in the calling of a special meeting of the council which was held at 8 o'clock last evening. All of the aldermen were present except Got Iman and Ford, President Beche ca led the council to order and stated that the object of the meeting was to consider the advisability of declaring the Omaha Medical college a nuisance on account of charges which had been made by citizens living in the vicinity of the

Ernest Stuht, who lives near the colege, was first called upon to inform the council upon the state of affairs existing at the college. He said that this nuisance had been going on ever since the college was started. He lived in the rear of the building and last winter, one cold night, he climbed out upon his roof and looked over the window into the dissecting room of the college and there saw the doctors and students at work upon a subject. He was in the building a day or two ago when they commenced to move it and saw a part of a subject dried up, lying on the dissecting table, with ribs and bones and old clothes scattered around the

C. P. Birkett was called out and detailed at length his knowledge of the college dis-secting room. He grew cloquent in giving an account of the berrible condition of the dissecting room which he pictured as "filled with evidences of dead mortality." He said that when the col-lege was located there six years ago it was with the distinct understanding that the dissecting room would be kept in a condition that would not give rise to any unpleasant odors. Of late the residents of the vicinity had been troubled about a fearful odor which has pervaded the neighborhood but could not trace it to its origin until on Wednesday when the college building was placed on wheels for removal to its new location. Mr. Birket then visited the place and found that the cellar place under the building had been used as a place to deposit the surplus flesh as it was cut from the bones of the subjects for dissection and that the stench was so neauscenteing that he could not star near the place. The doors of the building were open and he entered and went into the dissecting room. were scattered rags and remnants of clothing which he thought had come from dead men who had never been ac-corded a christian burial. On the table was the frame of a human being. head had been out off and the body dis-embowelled. All of the parts were lying on this table in their naked ugliness, emitting an odor that was noxious sickening. wanted the college removed outside of the city limits. The citizens would eternally protest against its relocation in the part of the city where it now is. Alderman Leo said he was astonished at the revelations which had been made. He didn't think it possible that a class of educated people like the doctors of Omaha would so neglect the laws of health and decency as to cart dead people through the streets of Omaha in open houses. He thought it was a blanked nuisance and an outrage.

The matter was disposed of by a resolution offered by Mr. Daily and adopted by the council that the matter of a nuisance being maintained by the Omaha medical college be referred to the board of health with instructions to abate the

THE DOCTORS SPEAK.

Drs. Leisenring, Carter and Ayres, members of the Omaha Medical college, members of the Omaha Medica! college, were seen by a Bee reporter last evening. They stated in substance that there were no grounds for the charges made. Last winter the college had a janitor who was careless and did not properly cleanout the dissecting room, but he was discharged and the place filled by a more responsible party, since which time there has been no trouble whatever. Dr. Ayres stated that the fuse had all been raised about some succimens that belong to the about some specimens that belong to the medical museum, most of which were prepared in Philadelphia. The body re-ferred to, he said, was perfectly dry and had been painted, ready to be piaced in a

DIED IN THE COUNTY JAIL. The Career of Tom Boyle Brought to a

Sad and Sudden Ending. On last evening Tom Boyle, a young man well known in Omaha, where he was born and reared, died a fearful death in the county jail under the most distressing circumstances imaginable. He was arrested on Tuesday evening while suffering from an attack of delerium tremens and placed in the city jail. Here he spent a night of untold agonies, fighting the imaginary demons that were tormenting him. Medical attention was given him without the desired effect and his ravings continued through the night. From sheer exhaustion he became quiet on Wednesday and was sent to the county jail to sober up.

He appeared to be resting easily during the day and on Wednesday night, but yesterday the reaction set in and it soon became evident that he could not recover from the terrible effects of the debauch which had brought on the attack. Physicians were powerless to aid him, and he sank rapidly until 8 o'clock last evening, when death ended his sufferings. He was at once removed to the undertaking rooms of Drexel & Mant, where his remains were prepared for his burial, which will take place at 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon from the residence of his parents on Chicago street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth.

The deceased was a young man but twenty-eight years of age. He was par-ticularly bright, and for a number of years held a position of trust in the freight department of the Union Pacific. He fell a victim to drink, however, ruined his own prospects in life, broke the hearts of aged parents and brought on his own sad and untimely death. Deep sympathy prevails for the unfortunate young man's parents and brothers, who are so sadia

MALARIA

"If people could only know what a plendid medicine Simmons Liver Regulator is there would be many a physician without a patient and many an interminable doctor bill saved. I consider it infallible in malarial infection. I had for many years been a perfect physical wreck from a combination of complaints, all the outgrowth of malaria in my system, and ven under the skillful hand of Dr. J. P. Jones, of this city, I had despaired of ever being a well woman again. Sim mons Liver Regulator was recommended to me. I tried it; it helped me. and it is the only thing that ever did me any good. I persevered in its use and am now in perfect health. I know the medicine cured me, and I always keep it as a reliable 'standby' in my family."

A Day of Bad Crop Reports From the Spring Wheat Begion - Corn Fails to Follow Suit-The Cattle Market.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Curcago, July 9 .- (Special Telegram to the BRE, -WREAT-Wheat opened No lower this morning on wel news from the northwest and depressed cables. Another fact that had an Important bearing on establishing the basis of value for early dealings was the knowledge that about 1,000,000 bushels of August wheat, bought yesterday morning at $40.825 c on account of E. L. Dwyer, would come on the market. Dwyer, who sisa recently elected member of the board of trade, yesterday morning telegraphed from New York, where he is sojourning, before the beginning of business, to "Buy the crop," and Underwood, Hovey & Robinson under took to execute the order. They succeeded in buying about 1,000,000 bushels at the top, and it was not until late in the afternoon that the brokers and commission men who had sold the stuff realized that they had been done for, no margin being put up. Dwyer dropped suddenly from sight. This morning the wheat was sold out at 78% #78%c, entailing a loss of about $35,000, which falls on those who had properly sold him. This deal having been cleared up, the market advanced, and trading, which had at first been confined almost wholly to August, spread out through other options. The course of the market was steadily upward for the next half hour, an advance of 14 octive being scored, August selling up to 70%, September to 81% and October to 82%. Advices from the northwest again turned hot. Duluth wired that the heat was intense and St. Paul telegraphed that a terrifically hot wave was sweeping south from Manitoba, more blistering than anything recorded. The Jim river correspondent wired Kershaw that the yield in that great fertile valley would not exceed seven bushels to the acre. Numerous dispatches were received on the floor that the late rains in the spring wheat country had been local and that only slight relief had been afforded in consequence. The rainfail had been followed by excessive heat, rendering the situation more critical than ever. At no time since damage reports over. At no time since damage reports began coming in has the news been so unanimously of injury to crops as to-day. Dispatches and letters poured in from hundreds of points, and the burden of the tate told therein was the same. To offset this were local Chicago showers, which dampened the spirits of the buils temporarily and in spirit the selling. The market was affected bearishly \(\frac{5}{2} \) fe by clouds that overhung the head of Lake Michigan, but those whose vision was not limited to the boundary of Cook county were undismayed. There was good, and at times, very large trading throughout the session, and the close at 1 o'clock was at an advance, as compared with the last official prices vesterday, of 1e for August, 1\(\frac{1}{2} \) e for September, and 1\(\frac{1}{2} \) for October. The feeling right at the close was exceedingly builish, and within two minutes after regular trading closed 80\(\frac{1}{2} \) e was bid for August, \(\frac{1}{2} \) e more and within two minutes after regular trading closed 80% was bid for August, $40 more than was offered at 1 o clock sharp. Clearing skies here had something to do with the firmness, but the unquestionably serious outlook in the spring wheat region had a hundred times more effect. It outweighed local weather influences enormously,

CORN—Speculative trading in corn was of smaller volume to-day. Comparatively speaking the folling under this head was weaker than in wheat, as the anxiety felt concerning the growing crop is not widespread or general. Leading futures opened $400 % clower than yesterday. Prominent local houses were free seliers early. A good cash demand existed and room was taken for 200,000 bushels. The feature of the cash market was firming up prices for "off" grades under sppirited competition between a few of the principal competition between a few of the principal buyers in the face of the decline in contracts. OATS—Oats were active in a speculative way and the market was irregular and unway and the market was irregular and unsettled. Provisions—Provisions sold down early, but later the whole list reacted sharply in sympathy with the advance in wheat, and pork closed 5a 10c higher than yesterday, lard 10c higher, and ribs 2½c higher, which was 20æ22½c above the inside prices for pork, 12½c for lard, and 10æ12½c for ribs. Lard showed more steadiness than any other line of the product. Speculative business was only of moderate volume, though occasionally con-On the Cubic Wheat was stronger after the close and advanced to 805fc for August, when it eased off to 705fc. CHICAGO, July 9.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—CATTLE—At the Union stock yards the receipts to-day as compared with last Friday showed an increase in cattle, a slight increase in hogs, and a large decrease in sheep. For the week thus far the receipts show an increase of 5,800 cattle, 600 sheep, and a decrease of $1,000 hogs as compared with the corresponding time last week. The cattle market to-day was quiet and unsatisfactory, but the slight improvement in the disposition to buy heavy cattle noted yesterday was not lost to-day. Fine fat cattle of light weight were in fair demand and sold a shade stronger. The hog market was dull and fully 10e lower than yesterday. Sheep sold slowly without change. The eattle receipts for the day were 7,500, making about 3,500 for the week so far. There was more life than on any other day this week, and a slight up turn as compared with the past Thursday.
