William S. Bush, a farmer near Oakland, was taken ill about four weeks ago, and his mind is so affected that yesterday the commissioners decided to have him taken to the asylum for treatment.

Mr. Beecroft, the 'bus line proprietor, will run a bus to Lake Manawa and only charge 25 cents for the round trip, provided he can get from thirteen to fifteen passengers who will all return home at the same hour.

Justice Schurz, who is occupying Judge Avies worth place for a few days, yes-terday sentenced two vagrants to ten days each in the county jail, the board to be bread and water. It seems that the usual warnings to leave the city do not cause the number of tramps to diminish. The bread and water dist is now to be The bread and water diet is now to be tried as an experiment.

The Congregationalists have for nearly a year had their socials and entertain-ments sadly interfered with by rain. The drought has been so great that they have yielded to the pleadings of the dry and thirsty ones, and have set a date, next Friday night, for one of their sociables. If they succeed in bringing the desired rain they will have the thanks of all, and the public gratitude will doubtless be so great that there will be no difficulty in raising funds for the building of a new church

Chris Olsen was arrested by Officers Martin and Unthank for being drunk. He was crazy with drink and the officers had a hard tussle with him. He is the same fellow who lately raised a row on Wil-low avenue and had to be clubbed freely before he would go along with the offi-cers. Last night as on the previous occasion he succeeded in breaking the chains used as come alongs. He has broken four chains, and boasts of his record. One citizen seeing the officers wrestling with him offered his assistance, as he did not want to see the fellow hurt or The kind-hearted citlzen took hold of the fellow's legs to help, but the legs shot out with a kick from the knee, the feet being planted in the citizen's stomach, knocking him over into the gutter. His milk of human kmdness quickly soured, and he shouted, "Take the son of a gun along anyway. Club him." He was clubbed.

It is proposed to have all the boats gaily decorated with various colored lights, flowers, bunting, etc., and to open the carnival with a Dserpentine display, the boats passing and repassing each other, making a brilliant showing. If the plans now being discussed are car-ried into execution the event will prove a great interest and draw a large crowd to both cities.

A subscription list is being circulated to raise money, from people interested, to put the road from Marks' landing around to Manhattan Beach on Lake Manawa in better condition.

Vic Keller, of the livery firm of Keller & Harle, yesterday drove around in com-pany with W. H. Ware, exploring the land for a better road, and in a day or so it will be completed, if money enough is subscribed. It is to be by the shortest route possible to the beach. The pro-posed route will make Manbattan Beach accessible by a drive of about five miles

Waiting for a Report.

Considerable curiosity is felt to know just what report will be made concerning the recent investigation of the charges laid by citizens of Council Bluffs before the Iowa railway commissioners against the Union Pacific. It is predicted that the report will sustain man, of the charges of discrimination against Council Bluffs. The details have already been given in connection with the report in the daily papers, as the investigation progressed and witnesses were called on to testify. That there have been causes for complaint on the part of Council Bluffs there is little doubt. The more important query asked by many, is, what are they going to do about it? There have been complaints made before, and sustained by evidence, but little seemed to be accomplished. Perhaps the city has some new twist on the Union Pacific by which it will be enabled to get some satisfactory changes now, but it seems that if such changes are brought about it will be from such a twist, rather than from the finding of the commissioners. The city council has at times passed various resolutions and manifestoes, and has warned the Union Pacific that its right of way over Union avenue would be forfeited and its street charter taken away, but nothing has come of these threats and resolutions. It seems that so far as the report of the railway commissioners is concerned, its main purpose will be to satisfy the curiosity of the citizens. If Council Bluffs is to do anything to rem-edy the causes of complaint, it will have to rely on something stronger than such a report, however favorable.

The Common Carriers.

The common carriers' licenses expired on the 1st of July, and there seems to be much slowness in renewing them. A few have come forward promptly and paid their hard cash into the city treas ury, and now these prompt payers are roaring lustily because those who have not paid are allowed to run without any license. It certainly should be insisted on that all pay alike and with like promptness. The city marshal should and those who do not pay are protected, and those who do not pay are made to pay or quit running. No favoritism should be shown, and no occasion given for making any such claim.

Teams Beating Union Pacific Time. William Van Dohren, of Millard, Neb., was in the city yesterday with his team to get and take out to Millard a St. Paul harvester. He could not wait the slow and discriminating movements of the Union Pacific, and says he saves three days at least by taking it by team in-stead of having it shipped by rail. The attempt has been made before to ship a

HARVARD. Students Who Spend Individually

Boston Herald: There seems to be danger that Harvard university will suf-fer in its intellectual standard unless some effort is made to counteract the exclusive social tendencies which are there gradually developing themselves. The university offers to those who choose to come within its walls better opportunities for instruction than can be found in any other seat of learning in this country; and, with such inducements, it ought to attract the ablest and the most promisattract the ablest and the most promis-ing of the coming generation. But, un-fortunately for the general popularity of Harvard, the belief has become quite widely diffused that the standards estab-lished there—of course, among the stu-dents—are largely determined by the wealth, or, if not by the wealth, by the extravagance of the undergraduates extravagance of the undergraduates. There is, of coarse, nothing to prevent a young man of humble means from living during his four years' stay at Harvard University as been talked of here, and the Gamewell company does not propose to have it put in, if it can be helped. Mr. Chandler comes prepared to make figures, and to show up the workings of the Gamewell in comparison with the Richmond. Such an exhibition of the workings of the two alarms will probably be arranged. The city council is inclined to move slowly and surely in the matter, and get as good a system at as low a price as possible This city needs an alarm badly, and with sharp competition it ought to be able to get a good one at a low price. Mr. Chardler is well known here, and his friends are enthusiastic in favor of the Gamewell. A strong pressure is being brought to bear in its favor, and yet the Ricamond advocates urge that while it is a newer alarm it is equally as good and much less expensive.

Petitions For Permits.

Judge Henderson, in the Warren ircuit court, has decided a case which is of interest to those here who are seeking permits to sell intoxicating liquors. The case is one in which the plaintiff, a registered pharmacist, made application to the board of supervisors for a permit to sell intoxicating liquors under the pharmacy act, all the requirements of the law having been met. Objections were filed and the board refused the permit. The plaintiff instituted proceedings for a writ of mandamus compelling the granting of the permit, claiming that when a petition was presented comply-ing in form with the law the board had no discretion and could not inquire into the truthfulness of the statements made in said petition. The court held that mandamus could not issue, that the board had the right to inquire when objections were made, as to the facts certified to in the petition.

The City Council.

The city council met last night. Aldermen Shugart, Hammer, Keller and Bennett were present.

The minutes were read up to date, cor rected and approved.

The matter of selecting members of the board of registry for the coming special election was put over until to day.

The engineer reported an estimate on Mitchell Vincent's contract, and an al-lowance of about five hundred dollars was voted.

The city attorney reported on the rights of the city to the alley south of Broad-way, running from Main to Pearl street. He declared it to be a public alley, sub-He declared it to be a public alley, sub-ect to the control of the city, it having been used as an alley for twenty years.

Placed on file. N. G. Gaines petitioned for an allow-ance of $500 damages, claiming that in 1880 that he was given by the city engi-neer the grade for building a residence at No. 718 Third street, and that the grade given him was three feet low. Referred to city engineer. The city council then adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning, when the selec-tion of boards of registry will be made simply and economically as he chooses; but there are feelings of personal pride common to most Ameri cans which make it extremely distasteful for them to place themselves in positions that are considered degrading by those with whom they are forced to associate. The American notions of equality con-tain in them a great deal that ministers to individual pride, and on this account, other things being equal, a young man of great mental ability, but with limited material resources, would prefer to go to a college where his merits, such as they are, would receive due recognition. rather than to one where he must count himself almost entirely out of the social community in which he is supposed to be living. In this country probably the greater number of graduates from leading Amer-ican colleges have been the sons of men having but a limited income. But a change in this respect may take place, so far as Harvard university is concerned, unless some check is placed upon the disposition to exaggerate the social importance of the wealthy undergraduates. It is detrimental to the best interests of the college to have young men there who spend each year-as certain of them are currently reported to-from $12,000 to $15,000. A few young men of this type could not fail to have a demoralizing effeet; for, in consequence of their extrava-gance, the impression would be spread broadcast that unless a young man had a large fortune at his command he would undergo the risk of constant personal humiliation if he ever entered Harvard university; and hence the tendency would be to have men largely endowed with brains and possessing but a small supply of money choose other universities than that of Cambridge; while young men with more money than brains would seek to enter Harvard university as a congenial social centre. We think that the danger we have just pointed out is one against which immediate precaution should be taken. In what way those who control the destinies of this university should work to overcome what we believe to be an acknowedged defect is a question
