

WHERE BREEZES HAVE BLOWN

Lincoln Glad of Clouds in Spite of Breath From Salt Creek.

ARTICLES OF CONSOLIDATION.

Union Pacific Branch Lines Amalgamated Under One Management - Gillespie's Candidacy - Arrested For Attempted Rape.

(FROM THE THREE LANCETS WEEKLY.)

When Lincoln people awoke yesterday under a cloudy sky and realized that the spinal column of the heated term was broken in twain, there was a sigh of relief heard upon the air like the exhaust of an ocean steamer. For three weeks the sun has risen a tall of brass in the east and disappeared at night with a color that promised warm times for the coming day, and through the weeks enumerated not a cloud was to be seen. It was not strange, then, that a cloudy day was a welcome sight to a long suffering community. However, Lincoln should not be classed as suffering from the heated term, for it is the only mineral watering place in the state. As a summer resort, the capital city should have a front seat for the breezes never fail to blow from off this great salt basin, and instead of consulting thermometers and exclaiming against the heat of the day, the good people clear their throats as though they were taking cold and remark concerning the chilliness that the salt creek zephyrs impart to people out of doors in light clothing. To be sure, the dust has been plentiful, but then it is from the grists of commerce, ground by the ceaseless traffic of a busy town. "Who ever heard of a dusty town if grass were overgrowing the thoroughfares?" So says the average Lincoln citizen, and for this reason he swallows his rations of pulverized earth, wipes the moisture of the dust from his eyes, and looks on the relative glow, and in the best of all weather descends upon the salubrious climate and the chequiness of his corner lots.

During the recent long heated term it is a matter of course that contractors have been reported. In many instances, on two or three different days when Old Sol was doing his best, workmen rested from their labor, and suspended operations for a few hours. The death of the city has, however, been fully up to the average during the heated period, and as high as three to five funerals a day have been held, owing, no doubt, to the much more rapid work of the old harvest when the thermometers register up in the nineties.

ARTICLES OF CONSOLIDATION.

Of the Omaha & Republican Valley railroad company, and the Niobrara & Black Hill railroad company into the Omaha & Republican Valley Railway Company of Nebraska, have been filed with the secretary of state. These articles consolidate the Omaha & Republican Valley railway station via Beatrice to the Kansas line, and the Grand Island branch north to Ord, and the Columbus-Norfolk branch into one corporation. As mentioned above, as all these lines are under the same management, the object of the change is not apparent, without it is to eliminate red tape in the workings. The capital stock in these united branches in the one route is fixed at $1,000,000, and the per cent of the completed line of the above constituent companies. This stock is divided into shares of $100 each, and it is to be issued in lieu of all the existing stock of the branch lines to holders of the old stock. Each stockholder in the several companies shall receive such number of shares in the consolidated company as will maintain his ratio of interest in the stock to be issued only upon the surrender of old certificates. These articles of consolidation name as the board of directors for the balance of the year the following gentlemen in Union Pacific circle: Charles Francis Adams, Jr., Elisha Atkins, Frederick L. Ames, F. Gordon Dexter, Ezra H. Baker, Sydney Dillon and S. R. Callaway.

THE BEE'S ANNOUNCEMENT

That William Gillespie would be urged by his friends for the nomination as one of the representatives in the coming legislature has been a subject of much interest and the political workers have added a new force of men and raised the schedule of wages, which mean promises as legal tender in payment. The fact is that Mr. Gillespie, who cared to risk his name in any position, and the powers that be cannot fail to recognize the fact that if every ward in the city presented such timber that their days of strength would be numbered.

THE HOUSE OF TUDOR.

A name not unfamiliar to history, perchance a lineal descendant of that house which furnished the Tudors of Lancaster county with headquarters at the town of Waverly, is in trouble. It seems that Tudor has been in the habit of amusing himself on these summer days in the brutal manner of beating his wife, a cowardly piece of business that has led to his arrest, as it should be so done. Tudor, therefore, was arraigned before Judge Parker, and the judge, on hearing the case, promptly sentenced him to forty days in the city jail.

FOR ATTEMPT AT RAPE.

A young man, yet a minor, named Frank Skinner, was brought before Judge Parker and lodged in the city jail. The man preferring the charge is the father of two bright little girls, about six and eight years old, who were Skinner's intended victims. The charge is that the little girls were gathered flowers along the road a short distance from home when Skinner, who had hid behind a tree, jumped out and caught them at the waist. He was only unsuccessful in his designs through the struggles of the children and their screams had good effect in frightening him. It is related on the streets that the same young scamp was whipped recently for attempting something of the kind on a member of the other family. Yesterday the case was set for hearing in Judge Farson's court, but Skinner's attorney obtained a continuance until Saturday, when it is said their witnesses will be secured to offset some of the damaging testimony of the state; meanwhile the little girls have been sent to the county jail for greater safety than the city lair offers.

ITEMS IN BRIEF.

An 11-year-old boy by the name of Beaman essayed to run away and visit his relations in Ohio. He was loaded with several bundles of clothes when he made his appearance at the depot and caught them at the pass. He was only unsuccessful in his designs through the struggles of the children and their screams had good effect in frightening him. It is related on the streets that the same young scamp was whipped recently for attempting something of the kind on a member of the other family. Yesterday the case was set for hearing in Judge Farson's court, but Skinner's attorney obtained a continuance until Saturday, when it is said their witnesses will be secured to offset some of the damaging testimony of the state; meanwhile the little girls have been sent to the county jail for greater safety than the city lair offers.

WHAT SHALL THE FARMER DO?

That Depends Entirely on the Energy and Foresight of the Farmer.

Notes from Various Points in Nebraska - Butter Making and Horse Training - Notes and Suggestions.

Nebraska Farm Notes.

Farmers' Signal: If farmers must try to raise wheat at all hazards, let it be fall wheat, for a fall crop is more frequently raised here than of the spring variety, and it matures before the early frosts do any damage. How long will farmers continue a practice that only results in loss? It has been proven beyond any question that spring wheat cannot be raised in this country profitably. Raise winter wheat and tame grasses, and it will soon be found to pay.

Nance County Journal: Nebraska can equal any county in raising raspberries. They yield abundantly and require comparatively little care or expense. This has been demonstrated thoroughly by the farmers of our vicinity. Mr. Tracy reports 100 gallons from a small piece of ground and we can testify to their excellent quality. The wild variety, found everywhere in the country, is inferior to any other. We will be glad to have further reports from the farmers relative to this and other small fruits, as it is of great interest to our readers.

Ulysses Dispatch: The lurid spectre of the threshing machine looms up red and ominous on the passing fall car. When we consider the Old country, we would forego any new threshing machines with their gaudy paint and deadly clatters. A state that can get along with a horse and a wooden threshing machine sets a grand example that should be widely commended and universally followed.

Butler County Press: Ruben Black, of the city, writes: "I have a hog cholera, we found that the farmer that township lost an average of thirty hogs a year. This would make 5,000 in that township. At $5 a head this would be $25,000. If this is a fair estimate, the total number of hogs lost would be about 50,000, or a loss to the whole county of $250,000. A quarter of a million is a large sum to lose, but it is not very far from the fact."

WHY COWBOYS HATE MORMONS.

Twenty-five Thousand Bachelors in Montana Who Can't Get Wives. Miles City correspondent: The climate of Montana is not particularly healthy for Mormons, principally, I believe, because the soil contains so many wideawake bachelors who are badly in need of wives themselves. The royal cow-punchers of Montana, and the Mormon male as they do a snipe. Being unable to get a single helpmeet themselves, although able to support a dozen where a Mormon cannot support one, it rises them to have some one else to do the work. They are with four, five, and possibly six wives, and settle down with the utmost gall and cheer on a government claim. There are about 25,000 more bachelors in Montana than there are wives. They are all together. Nearly all of these bachelors have splendid ranches, farms, or claims of some kind, and need only a wife to complete their cup of happiness.

Hints on Horse Handling.

American Cultivator: In training a vicious horse it may be necessary at times to put on cord bridges, but their use is not to be overdone. The animal will give full control of the animal by the force it exerts on the angles of the mouth and the upper jaw, and the pressure on the top of his head, yet it is for the riding horse, and not for the harness horse, the means of saving him from much vice that might otherwise harm both himself and his master, and will also abolish the necessity for such cruel means of restraining him. It is a needless bit that tear horses' jaws apart and mangle his gums and teeth.

Forty Years Ago.

Port Deposit (Md.) Call. Men sieged up in the beds, the canvas covered wagon was not to be seen. Brawn and brains went hand in hand. We were still a nation of hard workers. The day's journey was so weary and the highways were dusty and populated. No house contained a sewing machine. The canvas-covered wagon was the ark of trade. The turnpike was still the great artery of trade. There was not a mow or harvester in existence. The land was lighted with candles after nightfall. Butter was unmarketable 100 miles from the dairy. The steam saw mill had just begun to devour the forest. The old-fashioned farmer sat with his harvesters at dinner. The day began with the dawn and not with the train's arrival. The spinning wheel and shuttle sounded the alarm of the house. He who counted his possession by the square mile kept open house for the wayfarer. The telegraph had begun in Washington, and ended at New York twelve months before. The rich were lavish in an abundance which was not yet coveted by the keen eyes of the poor. From east to west was the pilgrimage of a life; from north to south was a voyage of discovery.

Why He Didn't Find It Stow Work.

London Times: Hardly had he ordered a large seltzer with brandy and no ice, than an old friend hailed him. "What, my Arthur?" "Good gracious! Who'd have thought of seeing you in those outlandish parts? Where do you live?" "About six doors down the street over yonder, with two sixes."

Not a Bit of It, dear boy.

"Not a bit of it, dear boy," replied the other; "they're not my sisters."

INVALIDS.

All those whose systems are run down need a medicine that will act upon the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is the best. It is a blood purifier and a blood builder. It is a tonic and a restorative. It is a medicine that will act upon the blood. It is a blood purifier and a blood builder. It is a tonic and a restorative. It is a medicine that will act upon the blood.

A Home Remedy.

It is a home remedy for the cure of various ailments. It is a blood purifier and a blood builder. It is a tonic and a restorative. It is a medicine that will act upon the blood. It is a blood purifier and a blood builder. It is a tonic and a restorative. It is a medicine that will act upon the blood.

STATE AND TERRITORY.

Nebraska Jottings. Nebraska City takes water in her horn. Song for Tecumseh prohibits: "Oh, we had a July Time!"

The Seminary at Millard is blossoming into summer resort proportions. The Centenary A. E. church of Beatrice, which cost $30,000, was dedicated Sunday.

Grand Island has organized a "Young Men's Republican Club." Veterans and amateurs are admitted on an equal footing.

Annle Morrison, a five-year-old, was bitten by a rattlesnake near Republican City, on the 8th, and was a corpse in a few hours.

Pat Twoboy, a Union Pacific official, slipped from a moving freight car in Grand Island and had an ankle crushed by the wheels.

The Elkhorn Valley road is to be built a round house at Scribner, and visions of a division headquarters float before the eyes of the citizens. The road is to be built a round house at Scribner, and visions of a division headquarters float before the eyes of the citizens.

Nebraska City wheels into the progressive procession of cities by deciding, 12 to 1, to invest in waterworks. Plattsmouth is still two lengths ahead.

Mrs. Martin Miska, of Grand Island, was thrown out of a wagon by a runaway team, breaking her spine and three ribs. Her condition is precarious.

Al Fairbrother, ex-editor of the Nebraska City Press, has shaken the dust of Ohio and pocketed some, and is now starting a location in Nebraska.

The first annual show of the Chadron gun club resulted in the riddling of nineteen pigeons out of a possible 128. The spectators were well sheltered and escaped injury.

A pocketbook containing unissued drafts to the amount of $3,500 was picked up on the Elkhorn Valley track near Fremont Monday. It is supposed to be the remnant of a robbery.

The young heir to the throne of Thomas Stagel of Lawrence, Ohio county, was dressed in a loaded pistol and shot a bullet through his stomach. His life is a question of doubt with the doctors.

A large and varied list of premiums has been arranged for the Elkhorn Valley gun club. The prizes are to be given to the best shot in the county.

The street railway connecting Blue Springs and Wynona is to be improved by the construction of a trolley line between the two cities. The curves and twist will be taken out of the line and connection made with the railroad depot.

Jimmy Bruska, a resident of Friend, old enough to know better, got into the police station of a loaded pistol. There is no such word as fail in such cases. The bullet entered his skull near the left eye, and the chances of life and death are even.

Ed Arndt, of Friend, is a rapid believer in iron rules. He embraced his wife with an iron hoop and polished her skull with a hatchet. A petty justice leveled on him for $50 cash and thirty days in jail.

The Fremont city council has reached an agreement with C. H. Godfrey, the drive wheel contractor, the latter giving a bond to produce a satisfactory road in the wake of the big canal. The town has claim to the title of the Minneapolis of the Platte Valley.

Arthur Sydenham, of Nebraska City, proposes to fill a long felt want in the Platte valley. His individual watershed is named the "Indestructible," and is warranted not to rip, tear or loan itself to a stranger. If Syd would turn his power to producing a satisfactory road in the wake of the big canal, the town has claim to the title of the Minneapolis of the Platte Valley.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

Nebraska Jottings.

Nebraska City takes water in her horn. Song for Tecumseh prohibits: "Oh, we had a July Time!"

The Seminary at Millard is blossoming into summer resort proportions. The Centenary A. E. church of Beatrice, which cost $30,000, was dedicated Sunday.

Grand Island has organized a "Young Men's Republican Club." Veterans and amateurs are admitted on an equal footing.

Annle Morrison, a five-year-old, was bitten by a rattlesnake near Republican City, on the 8th, and was a corpse in a few hours.

Pat Twoboy, a Union Pacific official, slipped from a moving freight car in Grand Island and had an ankle crushed by the wheels.

The Elkhorn Valley road is to be built a round house at Scribner, and visions of a division headquarters float before the eyes of the citizens. The road is to be built a round house at Scribner, and visions of a division headquarters float before the eyes of the citizens.

Nebraska City wheels into the progressive procession of cities by deciding, 12 to 1, to invest in waterworks. Plattsmouth is still two lengths ahead.

Mrs. Martin Miska, of Grand Island, was thrown out of a wagon by a runaway team, breaking her spine and three ribs. Her condition is precarious.

Al Fairbrother, ex-editor of the Nebraska City Press, has shaken the dust of Ohio and pocketed some, and is now starting a location in Nebraska.

The first annual show of the Chadron gun club resulted in the riddling of nineteen pigeons out of a possible 128. The spectators were well sheltered and escaped injury.

A pocketbook containing unissued drafts to the amount of $3,500 was picked up on the Elkhorn Valley track near Fremont Monday. It is supposed to be the remnant of a robbery.

The young heir to the throne of Thomas Stagel of Lawrence, Ohio county, was dressed in a loaded pistol and shot a bullet through his stomach. His life is a question of doubt with the doctors.

A large and varied list of premiums has been arranged for the Elkhorn Valley gun club. The prizes are to be given to the best shot in the county.

The street railway connecting Blue Springs and Wynona is to be improved by the construction of a trolley line between the two cities. The curves and twist will be taken out of the line and connection made with the railroad depot.

Jimmy Bruska, a resident of Friend, old enough to know better, got into the police station of a loaded pistol. There is no such word as fail in such cases. The bullet entered his skull near the left eye, and the chances of life and death are even.

Ed Arndt, of Friend, is a rapid believer in iron rules. He embraced his wife with an iron hoop and polished her skull with a hatchet. A petty justice leveled on him for $50 cash and thirty days in jail.

The Fremont city council has reached an agreement with C. H. Godfrey, the drive wheel contractor, the latter giving a bond to produce a satisfactory road in the wake of the big canal. The town has claim to the title of the Minneapolis of the Platte Valley.

Arthur Sydenham, of Nebraska City, proposes to fill a long felt want in the Platte valley. His individual watershed is named the "Indestructible," and is warranted not to rip, tear or loan itself to a stranger. If Syd would turn his power to producing a satisfactory road in the wake of the big canal, the town has claim to the title of the Minneapolis of the Platte Valley.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

Nebraska Jottings.

Nebraska City takes water in her horn. Song for Tecumseh prohibits: "Oh, we had a July Time!"

The Seminary at Millard is blossoming into summer resort proportions. The Centenary A. E. church of Beatrice, which cost $30,000, was dedicated Sunday.

Grand Island has organized a "Young Men's Republican Club." Veterans and amateurs are admitted on an equal footing.

Annle Morrison, a five-year-old, was bitten by a rattlesnake near Republican City, on the 8th, and was a corpse in a few hours.

Pat Twoboy, a Union Pacific official, slipped from a moving freight car in Grand Island and had an ankle crushed by the wheels.

The Elkhorn Valley road is to be built a round house at Scribner, and visions of a division headquarters float before the eyes of the citizens. The road is to be built a round house at Scribner, and visions of a division headquarters float before the eyes of the citizens.

Nebraska City wheels into the progressive procession of cities by deciding, 12 to 1, to invest in waterworks. Plattsmouth is still two lengths ahead.

Mrs. Martin Miska, of Grand Island, was thrown out of a wagon by a runaway team, breaking her spine and three ribs. Her condition is precarious.

Al Fairbrother, ex-editor of the Nebraska City Press, has shaken the dust of Ohio and pocketed some, and is now starting a location in Nebraska.

The first annual show of the Chadron gun club resulted in the riddling of nineteen pigeons out of a possible 128. The spectators were well sheltered and escaped injury.

A pocketbook containing unissued drafts to the amount of $3,500 was picked up on the Elkhorn Valley track near Fremont Monday. It is supposed to be the remnant of a robbery.

The young heir to the throne of Thomas Stagel of Lawrence, Ohio county, was dressed in a loaded pistol and shot a bullet through his stomach. His life is a question of doubt with the doctors.

A large and varied list of premiums has been arranged for the Elkhorn Valley gun club. The prizes are to be given to the best shot in the county.

The street railway connecting Blue Springs and Wynona is to be improved by the construction of a trolley line between the two cities. The curves and twist will be taken out of the line and connection made with the railroad depot.

Jimmy Bruska, a resident of Friend, old enough to know better, got into the police station of a loaded pistol. There is no such word as fail in such cases. The bullet entered his skull near the left eye, and the chances of life and death are even.

Ed Arndt, of Friend, is a rapid believer in iron rules. He embraced his wife with an iron hoop and polished her skull with a hatchet. A petty justice leveled on him for $50 cash and thirty days in jail.

The Fremont city council has reached an agreement with C. H. Godfrey, the drive wheel contractor, the latter giving a bond to produce a satisfactory road in the wake of the big canal. The town has claim to the title of the Minneapolis of the Platte Valley.

Arthur Sydenham, of Nebraska City, proposes to fill a long felt want in the Platte valley. His individual watershed is named the "Indestructible," and is warranted not to rip, tear or loan itself to a stranger. If Syd would turn his power to producing a satisfactory road in the wake of the big canal, the town has claim to the title of the Minneapolis of the Platte Valley.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

It is not good policy to dry hay to brittleness, as the sugar is lost and too many of the stems together will not thrive unless the soil upon which they are grown is very fertile, the vines being grass feeders.

Nebraska Jottings.

Nebraska City takes water in her horn. Song for Tecumseh prohibits: "Oh, we had a July Time!"

The Seminary at Millard is blossoming into summer resort proportions. The Centenary A. E. church of Beatrice, which cost $30,000, was dedicated Sunday.

Grand Island has organized a "Young Men's Republican Club." Veterans and amateurs are admitted on an equal footing.

Annle Morrison, a five-year-old, was bitten by a rattlesnake near Republican City, on the 8th, and was a corpse in a few hours.

Pat Twoboy, a Union Pacific official, slipped from a moving freight car in Grand Island and had an ankle crushed by the wheels.

The Elkhorn Valley road is to be built a round house at Scribner, and visions of a division headquarters float before the eyes of the citizens. The road is to be built a round house at Scribner, and visions of a division headquarters float before the eyes of the citizens.

Nebraska City wheels into the progressive procession of cities by deciding, 12 to 1, to invest in waterworks. Plattsmouth is still two lengths ahead.

Mrs. Martin Miska, of Grand Island, was thrown out of a wagon by a runaway team, breaking her spine and three ribs. Her condition is precarious.

Al Fairbrother, ex-editor of the Nebraska City Press, has shaken the dust of Ohio and pocketed some, and is now starting a location in Nebraska.

The first annual show of the Chadron gun club resulted in the riddling of nineteen pigeons out of a possible 128. The spectators were well sheltered and escaped injury.

A pocketbook containing unissued drafts to the amount of $3,500 was picked up on the Elkhorn Valley track near Fremont Monday. It is supposed to be the remnant of a robbery.

The young heir to the throne of Thomas Stagel of Lawrence, Ohio county, was dressed in a loaded pistol and shot a bullet through his stomach. His life is a question of doubt with the doctors.

A large and varied list of premiums has been arranged for the Elkhorn Valley gun club. The prizes are to be given to the best shot in the county.

The street railway connecting Blue Springs and Wynona is to be improved by the construction of a trolley line between the two cities. The curves and twist will be taken out of the line and connection made with the railroad depot.

Jimmy Bruska, a resident of Friend, old enough to know better, got into the police station of a loaded pistol. There is no such word as fail in such cases. The bullet entered his skull near the left eye, and the chances of life and death are even.

Ed Arndt, of Friend, is a rapid believer in iron rules. He embraced his wife with an iron hoop and polished her skull with a hatchet. A petty justice leveled on him for $50 cash and thirty days in jail.