W. H. Beck, "Texas," who has Lucy's old place, has fitted up a very cosy reading room, where he keeps files of all the leading papers.

Manager Lott of the telephone company, has secured a new power generator which has been put in, and now the operators in the telephone central office will be able to do all of their ringing by push buttons.

The lack of rain has caused a petition to be started for the Driving Park Association to set a new day for some races. A few dollars spent in advertising races for Council Bluffs would bring rain, when all else fails.

Charles Loffert, of the Nonpariel, had to look to his neighbors and friends yesterday, some sneak thief having completely emptied his ice box, which was at the rear of his home, and well filled with provisions and delicacies.

The case against George Wells for hitting the crazy man at the Driving Park about ten days ago, was yesterday dismissed. Wells, the assaulted man, has been taken to the asylum in Illinois, and it appears that he will be the aggressor, and that he was coming for Wells with a hatchet when Wells hit him.

Joseph Boje claims that his daughter, Emma, a robust and sixteen, will insist on running away from the parental roof, and he wants her sent to the reform school. She says she has been at work in the country, and that she is not a bad girl, and don't want to go. The father will have a chance to show up his proof in court to-day.

A plain, neat and easy design for ladies bathing suits, which can be made of any material desired, is a belted Mother Hubbard reaching half way to the knee, with pants of same material to the knee, to meet stockings; short or long sleeves, high or low neck according to taste of wearer. Trimmed with braid or plain. Bathing slippers and large straw hat complete the entire costume.

W. R. Vaughan has just received a commission as a member of the board of curators of the State Historical society, his appointment being for two years. There has been little interest manifested in this section in gathering up material for preserving the history of the state, and if Mr. Vaughan goes into this work with the same enthusiasm which he has manifested in other fields, there will be an awakening of public interest in this important feature of the state organization.

J. Anderson, the popular dining car conductor on the Rock Island railway, has purchased the Reynolds house at Atlantic and has refitted it and refurnished it, making it one of the best houses in the state. The house is to be heated with gas during the winter and cooled by Manilla waves during the summer. John Anderson, my jo, John, will find his friends crowding in on him in droves, and if he does not reach for the pen, the time he ought to be filled by Mr. C. W. Taylor, who has been chief clerk of the Commercial hotel in Chicago. He has had experience with his pen as a worthy successor to the popular man who has resigned.

Keith Still in the Ring. The fact that A. B. Keith, of the Bulletin, had been brutally assaulted at Denison, has been already made known through the telegraphic columns of the Bee. Keith has many friends throughout the state, and in both political parties, who have grown sympathetic for him, and the public generally will be equally indignant over the outrage. Keith has been engaged in a bitter war over local matters at Denison, and there has been a good deal of bad blood and much meanness. The personal assault upon him is not only unjustifiable and brutal, but is a foolish way of trying to silence him. He is too nery a fellow to be scared out, and with public sympathy turned in his favor, by reason of the assault if for no other, he will dip his pen afresh in gall, and make his enemies wish they had taken some other course than brute force. It doesn't prove Keith to be a liar to knock him down, and does not prove the other fellows to be saints. Knock down arguments generally turn the sympathy toward the fellow who is knocked down. Keith gets up smiling and says: "Slightly disgraced, but still in the ring." He then gives the following details of how it happened.

James Williams, a republican politician of Denison, made a murderous assault upon the editor of the Bulletin. Williams, who by occupation is a butcher, is a skillful pugilist, with a record as a fighter and weighing nearly two hundred and seventy pounds, seems to have been selected for the evidently premeditated attack upon Mr. Keith. He followed Keith into the European restaurant and engaged him in conversation on matters relating to the Denison postoffice, finally asserting that he (Keith), had "acted the part of a— in the matter of location." This was so evident a challenge to a quarrel that Keith remarked: "Mr. Williams, I'll have nothing more to say to you, or to do with you," and turned to walk off, thinking that course would end the matter then and there. He had taken but one or two steps when Williams exclaimed: "You'll never put my name in your paper again!" This to Keith's unutterable surprise, was instantly followed by a powerful sledgehammer blow in the back of the head, which knocked him down. Before he could recover his feet, Williams seized him by the neck and dealt him another blow upon the side of the head that partially dazed him, and left him helpless as an infant in the hands of the burly butcher. In this condition he was dragged and jerked into the back room by Williams, to complete the murderous work without further delay from the news. He was terribly punned by Williams before the fellow was finally pulled off. His clothes were torn and bloody, and above the left temple was a cut an inch long.

In addition to the blows upon the face and head Mr. Keith was severely injured through the breast and back. Drs. Wilkinson and Wright were in attendance until 9 o'clock the following morning. Mr. Keith suffered internally, and hypodermic injections of morphine were given and chloroform administered to relieve him. He was unable to eat a morsel for three days after the injury, and spied considerable blood, but he is now improving and hopes to be at the Bulletin helm in a few days, despite the burly bulldog and the little litter of mangy pups that glory in his curme.

Begged a Burglar. Captain James Anderson, of the merchants' police force, made an important capture between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning. He noticed a suspicious light in the rear of Judge Kane's house and creeping up to it found that there was prowling about inside, with a little piece of lighted candle. The fellow had gained an entrance through a window which he had pried up. Outside the window he had left his shoes and a basket, together with a little bundle. The burglar put out the light and crawled out, and went over to the next residence, occupied by Mr. Brown, the cashier of the Council Bluffs National bank. He went up onto the rear porch and was preparing to make an entrance through the door when Anderson, thinking matters had gone far enough, came onto him with a demand, "Throw up your hands." The fellow jumped off the porch, grabbed his bundle and basket and as he started to run Anderson called on him to stop or he would kill him. The man turned, but his hand behind him as though about to draw a revolver, and Anderson grabbed him. He yielded, and Anderson soon found that the move was a bluff, the fellow having no gun. He then took the fellow up to the city jail and had him locked up.

An examination of the effects on the prisoner disclosed the fact that he had a quantity of jewelry, mostly second hand. There was a silver watch, a gold neck-chain, cuff buttons, bracelets, breastpins, a gold pencil, three rings and other articles. He had some letters, evidently written by him, and ready to be mailed. It appeared from the paper he had used that he had been stopping at Kie's hotel, but this he denied. It was learned that he had been stopping about the city for several days, and that he had two small valises. When these were found more may be learned about him. He has been representing himself as an insurance man, and he gave the name of T. W. Bartlett. He was very reticent, the only thing that could be learned from him being the statement that he was from Kansas City, and that he had no pals working with him.

He is a young man, slight built, sandy complexioned, a small moustache, receding forehead and chin. He was brought before Judge Aylesworth yesterday afternoon, and his case set for to-morrow for preliminary hearing. Anderson has made a good capture, and the service of the Merchants' police will be more appreciated for this showing of what it accomplishes. Judge James was in the house, when the burglar was prowling about. His family were away, and he was unable to identify the articles found in the fellow's bundle. It is thought the plunder was gained somewhere else. The case is still being worked upon, and more is yet to be revealed about the young man.

The Richmond Here. Mr. Lewis H. McCullough, superintendent of the Richmond fire alarm company, arrived at the Pacific house yesterday. An exhibit of the workings of this alarm was made here some time ago, and the city was about to close a contract for it, when the friends of the Gamewell made a request to have a chance to make a showing and do some figuring. The Richmond company proposes to put in a combination by which the system will not only furnish a complete fire, but also a police call system. Mr. McCullough has come here prepared to show up the workings of the instrument system, if necessary, and to exhibit the system in full, and to give the proprietors a strongly guaranteed system, and if it does not work satisfactorily to take it off the city's hands. The time for closing up the matter is fixed for to-day. When the Richmond has many friends here, and the competition between it and the Gamewell will be sharp, the Gamewell being urged by many on account of its old and enviable reputation. There seem to be doubts in that both are good systems, the main question being which is the best, and which all things considered is the cheapest. The council will move slowly and surely in the matter, and both sides will be given an abundant opportunity to explain their different claims to merit and superiority.

Personal Paragraphs. Mrs. H. Friedman has returned from a visit of several weeks to Chicago. Frank Yennawine and wife have returned from a two weeks visit to Spirit and Okoboji lakes. Mrs. A. L. Manning, of Dunlap, and her two sons have gone to visit relatives in Washington territory.

W. P. Taylors and family left yesterday for the east, intending to spend some time at Chautauqua. Miss Page, who has been visiting Mr. Stacy's family for some time, has returned to her Chicago home. L. H. Lussell is the "only and original" maker of Panama, this town having just incorporated as a city.

Charles Mackenzie, who has been practicing law in Dunlap for some time, has gone to Dubuque, intending to open a law office there. Mrs. and Mrs. F. W. Olmstead have started for Spirit Lake to camp out there for several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hart expect to join them soon. Mrs. F. M. Gault, Mrs. D. W. Businell, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Jackson and Miss Mollie Rice left last evening for the ranch of Mr. Jackson in Wyoming territory, for a few weeks recreation. W. L. Baughin, of Harlan, with his wife, came to town Wednesday evening. Yesterday Mr. Baughin saw his wife safely crossing the Union Pacific bridge for the Yellowstone park, where she will spend the summer.

amount, in all about one thousand dollars. What has become of the money is not known, but it is supposed that the young couple have been throwing it about in riotous living. Riggs sent word here for the police to look out for the couple, and by means of photographs the officers gained a very good idea of the parties wanted. The young woman was found at a late hour Wednesday night in a house in the eastern part of the city. When the train was about to leave for Omaha shortly before midnight the man was noticed just getting on. He was taken to the city jail to await the arrival of the officers from Corning. The young woman, before leaving home, had induced her husband to put up a $100 bond for her, but she had pawned here, raising $4 upon it, and of this amount she retained only thirty cents. Keith claims to have an abundant number in his possession a number of keys of the B. & M., Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and Kansas City roads.

Ripples From Lake Manawa. The new driveway around Lake Manawa is about completed, and by this evening will be used by a large number of people who are rather timid about crossing the lake in the crowded rowboats, and have been waiting for the driveway to be opened. Quite a number went around last night, there remaining only a distance of about thirty rods of sand through which one has to drive to reach the beach. By this route the beach is about an hour's drive from Broadway.

Three gentlemen have clubbed together and yesterday telegraphed for the price of a steam launch capable of carrying twenty or thirty persons, and they intend to put it on the lake by Mr. George W. Thompson, who is now in Chicago for that purpose.

Several gentlemen who have visited the lake and beach and know the lay of the land are quietly talking among themselves of the advisability of erecting a small hotel, or club house, on the same spot as to put on a large additional next spring, and with other improvements make a resort that can accommodate the families of merchants and business men.

Everybody who goes over to the beach praises it in the highest terms, but those who only reach Wray's landing and cannot see anything but a small body of water can't see any reason for so much talk about Lake Manawa or Manhattan beach.

A large party in buggies left the city about 5:30 o'clock last evening to drive around onto the beach and spend the evening. They took their supper with them. The better class of people are the ones that frequent the beach, and it is a noticeable fact that they are beginning to take their children with them. No liquor or beer is allowed on the beach and the lessees propose to have the beach run in a respectable manner.

A Brutal Mother. Little Bennie Ewing appeared in court yesterday, and bared his back, showing how he had been shamefully beaten. He said it was his mother, and not his stepfather, "Doc" Scott, who had so numerically whipped him. The charge against Scott was therefore dismissed, and a complaint filed against the mother, Mrs. Ewing. She did not deny having whipped the boy with a rope, but said the boy was hard to manage, and that he had to be severely whipped to keep him from becoming a chronic thief. The judge could see no excuse for beating a boy's back in that kind of a way, and told the mother that if it had been done by anybody but a woman he would make the penalty the severest one under the law. As it was he would fine her $25 and costs, and let her stay in jail until she was paid. The mother now insists on sending the boy to the reform school, and protests against allowing any family to take him. The poor little fellow evidently has not the least chance of a chance to become anybody, and if he is what the mother pictures him as being, it seems that a large share of the blame must be laid at the maternal training, or lack of training.

Fatally Injured. Geo. Pickering, aged about seventeen, met with a serious accident on the incoming Chicago & Northwestern train last evening. His father is one of the oldest engineers on the road and was pulling the train when the accident occurred. Young Pickering was standing on the platform between the smoker and the first passenger coach, and just as the train had passed through the bridge coming into Loveland, he leaned out and looked back. As he was in this position the back of his head struck a switch, knocking him from the train, and he fell into Loveland, and just as he came near dying just the same.
