

DILKE GETS DEMORALIZED.

Sir Charles on the Stand in the Crawford Divorce Trial.

HE TELLS SOME FUNNY STORIES.

The Cross-Examination Leads to Some Very Curious Answers Which Do Not Have a Good Look For Dilke.

The Chastity of the Classes.

LONDON, July 16.—[New York Herald Cable-Special to the BEE.]—Sir Charles Dilke, who lost his seat in the house of commons on account of Mrs. Crawford, gained a seat today in the witness-box on the Crawford divorce trial.

CLASSES AND MASSES PRESENT.

The "classes" filled the witness-box on the Crawford divorce trial, and the "masses" crowded the gallery.

THE SCENE SO DRAMATIC.

In its surroundings, there was Mr. Crawford, re-elected, seated by his counsel, Inderwick, who bears a striking resemblance to Elliott T. Shepard.

EXCHANGING MEANING GLANCES.

With her gallant solicitor, George Lewis, one of these was especially noticeable when Sir Charles swore emphatically, "certainly not," when asked if he ever made love to her.

SAT IN THE ROOM ADJOINING.

his office with the door open. Sir Walter Phillimore, also seated for the house of commons, was not far from the parties, appearing so near and slight with a Cassin Dilke, who sat each side of her.

WORKING IN A RINGER.

Professor Beesly, a great friend of Dilke, and recently beaten as a candidate, was sworn, but Inderwick, soon discovering this, challenged the witness.

A THIN, PILING VOICE.

much like Robson. His text was that the direct witness before the Crawford trial was the jury for the reason that at the first trial the court was not supplied with proper evidence.

CONFESSIONS WERE FALSE.

His opening practically amounted to this: "I shall prove to you that Dilke is guilty of adultery with Mrs. Crawford."

ACTOR UNDER STAGE LIGHT.

But he was not to be taken for granted, for the Crawford witness looked like a member of the Crawford family.

THREATENED FOR PERJURY.

"Why did you send her away?" "I was told she was threatened with prosecution for perjury."

HE SWORE THEM DOWN.

In platoon and in single file, aided by the extremely leading questions of Phillimore, his demeanor and voice, however, assumed both aggressive and defensive methods when, to cross-examine, one of the new members for Birmingham, Henry Matthews, queen's counsel for the injured husband.

FACING THE FOOTLIGHTS.

The following immediately occurred: As he faced the turned up footlights, flashes flew from the eyes of the three sisters. He said:

HE WAS PRESENT AT THE TRIAL BEFORE JUSTICE.

But, I heard the whole of Mr. Crawford's evidence. I had known the purport of that evidence a day or two before it was given. I had a month to think of it. I believe at the time of the last trial Mrs. Crawford was in her sound mind, and I do so now."

HE DIDN'T TELL HER HUSBAND.

"Did you ever speak to Mr. Crawford about these visits?" Question repeated. "Did you ever speak to her husband of these visits of a young married woman?"

HE DIDN'T TELL HER HUSBAND.

"Did you ever speak to Mr. Crawford about these visits?" Question repeated. "Did you ever speak to her husband of these visits of a young married woman?"

HE DIDN'T TELL HER HUSBAND.

"Did you ever speak to Mr. Crawford about these visits?" Question repeated. "Did you ever speak to her husband of these visits of a young married woman?"

HE DIDN'T TELL HER HUSBAND.

"Did you ever speak to Mr. Crawford about these visits?" Question repeated. "Did you ever speak to her husband of these visits of a young married woman?"

HE DIDN'T TELL HER HUSBAND.

"Did you ever speak to Mr. Crawford about these visits?" Question repeated. "Did you ever speak to her husband of these visits of a young married woman?"

Crawford conspired to get up this story against you, a story without the shadow of a foundation.

"To me everything appears to point that way." "And you so thought at the late trial?" "Yes."

"That is to say, at the time of the late trial you thought it was a deliberate conspiracy on the part of Mrs. Crawford to get a divorce by a story against you which was a founded and well-founded foundation."

"As regards myself, certainly, but not as to other people, Mrs. Crawford has confessed to adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

LAIRD LETS OUT HIS LEFT.

The Great and Only Effort of the Hero of Stinking Water.

COBB'S SMELLER DISJOINTED.

Because He Scented Rascality From Afar and Denounced It—The Combatants Separated—Gore Flows in the House.

Jim Laird as a Pugnillist.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—Shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon Representative Laird, of Nebraska, met Representative Cobb, of Indiana, in the corridor at the southwest corner of the floor of the house and a quarrel arose out of the incident.

"Is it true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor?"

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

"It is true that there were indiscretions on the part of Mrs. Crawford, but she was not guilty of adultery with other people, and I believe the whole evidence is in the possession of the queen's proctor."

"You say that all this was in your mind at the time Mrs. Crawford gave her evidence in the late trial?" "It was."

A REMARKABLE JUDGMENT.

A Lower Court Overrules a Supreme Court Decision.

Des Moines, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—Judge McHenry of the district court here has rendered a remarkable decision to-day, by which seven men found in a well known gambling house were set free. A city ordinance provides for the punishment of any person found in a disorderly house, and makes the fact of their presence there prima facie evidence of their being there for immoral purposes.

The Trial of the Anarchists.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The trial of the eight anarchists charged with the Haymarket massacre was actively entered upon this morning. The jury having been obtained yesterday. A map showing where the meeting was held and where the bomb was thrown into the ranks of the police was exhibited to the jury and its correctness verified.

Bursted Up Socialists.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—The Icarian community of socialists located in southwestern Iowa in Adams county, has agreed to dissolve and has filed an application with the court for a formal dissolution and division of the property of the community. This community was organized some eight or ten years ago by disciples of Owen S. Simmon, Farier Cadet and other French socialists. They did not practice community in marriage like the Oneida, N. Y., communists, but confined their efforts to cooperative labor in which they had a proportionate share in the results.

Iowa's Lead and Zinc Mines.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—State Mine Inspector Smith returned to-day from inspecting four in northern Iowa. He reports discovering in many of the river counties, from Jackson north, a large number of valuable lead and zinc mines. Their existence has been practically ignored, and while great attention has been paid to Iowa's coal mines the zinc and lead mines were lying along unexplored.

Dubuque Oatmeal Mill Burned.

DEBUIQUE, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—One of the most disastrous fires known in this city for years occurred to-night. The Dubuque oatmeal mill, containing the entire building and most of its contents, including several thousand barrels of oatmeal. The total loss on building, stock and adjoining ware houses is estimated at $75,000, on which there is an insurance of about $40,000. The fire was caused by a spark from the fire of the elevator which was running at the time.

Iowa Knights of Labor.

CEBAR RAPIDS, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—The twenty-eight district assembly of the Knights of Labor was merged into a state assembly at Dubuque, Ia., on the 15th inst. The following officers were elected: S. W. E. Mrs. D. M. L. W. H. W. of Dubuque; S. R. E. Mrs. D. M. L. W. H. W. of Dubuque; S. R. E. Mrs. D. M. L. W. H. W. of Dubuque. A big meeting will be held in the park to-night. The next session will probably be at Marshalltown.

Rain, Lightning and Crops.

FORT DODGE, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—A much needed rain fell in this locality yesterday. Lightning struck the house of Thos. Smith, in Eldon, and caused slight damage. The crops are slightly damaged by the drought. Chinch bugs have made their appearance in portions of the county and are getting their work in the corn fields. First we saw them at the Mason and Fort Dodge new railway killed its first horse yesterday. The animal belonged to a Nokan township farmer.

Death of a Postmaster.

HAMBURG, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—George Wise, postmaster at this place, aged 34, died at 5:30 p. m. to-day. He was a native of Illinois and had resided at this place for some time. He was taken ill Tuesday. Consciousness remained to the last. Mr. Wise came to this place from Canton, Ill., some four years ago and assumed control of the Democratic News. July last he received the news of the death of his master, whereupon he abandoned journalism.

Transferring Troops.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—Companies C, F and I, Seventeenth Infantry, regular army, came from Fort Totten, Dak., to this city to-night and transferred to the Beck Island train. He started west for Fort D. A. Russell, Cheyenne. This is the first time this regiment has left the city, having been stationed since in north Dakota near the British line.

Stonx City's Paving.

STONX CITY, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—The contract for paving the city was to-day closed with J. B. Smith & Co. of Chicago. Under this contract about six miles of paving will be done. The price is $6.25 per square yard for six inch cobbles. Work will be commenced in fifteen or twenty days. It is probably the intention of the city to bring the bulk of the material here and erect a large mill and do the paving here.

Will Brown Run?

DES MOINES, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—The democratic state central committee and candidates met at the Aborn house this afternoon. Guellen, candidate for state auditor, was interviewed. He said the revolution of Brown would seriously affect his (Guellen's) chances of election.

A Bather Drowned.

DEBUIQUE, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—Theodore Stamper, of the firm of Stamper & Young, hardware merchant, was drowned while bathing in the river. He was a native of Iowa and had resided here for some time. He was a well known citizen and was highly respected. His death is a great loss to the community.

A Twenty Thousand Dollar Fire.

FORSYTH, Ia., July 16.—A fire at Bonaparte, Ia., to-day destroyed buildings and stocks of goods valued at $20,000.

New R. & M. Stations.

Two new stations will be opened on the Nebraska railway division of the B. & M. next week. One will be at Cairo, fifteen miles north of Grand Island, with E. W. Gillette as station agent, and one at St. Michael, twenty-two miles north of Grand Island, with H. E. Eaton as station agent.

The Numerous Vag.

Seven negroes were arrested in a Third ward yesterday afternoon and slated with vagrancy. They were given a trial before Judge Stenberg, who discharged one, ordered three to leave the city and sent three to the county jail for fifteen days on bread and water.

BAD FOR THE BOMB THROWERS.

The Chicago Anarchists, Trial, Becoming More and More Interesting.

A MEMBER TELLS OF DEATH PLAN.

How the Murderers Were to Gather—When the Attacks Were to be Made—Other Criminal News.

The Trial of the Anarchists.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The trial of the eight anarchists charged with the Haymarket massacre was actively entered upon this morning. The jury having been obtained yesterday. A map showing where the meeting was held and where the bomb was thrown into the ranks of the police was exhibited to the jury and its correctness verified.

Bursted Up Socialists.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—The Icarian community of socialists located in southwestern Iowa in Adams county, has agreed to dissolve and has filed an application with the court for a formal dissolution and division of the property of the community. This community was organized some eight or ten years ago by disciples of Owen S. Simmon, Farier Cadet and other French socialists. They did not practice community in marriage like the Oneida, N. Y., communists, but confined their efforts to cooperative labor in which they had a proportionate share in the results.

Iowa's Lead and Zinc Mines.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—State Mine Inspector Smith returned to-day from inspecting four in northern Iowa. He reports discovering in many of the river counties, from Jackson north, a large number of valuable lead and zinc mines. Their existence has been practically ignored, and while great attention has been paid to Iowa's coal mines the zinc and lead mines were lying along unexplored.

Dubuque Oatmeal Mill Burned.

DEBUIQUE, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—One of the most disastrous fires known in this city for years occurred to-night. The Dubuque oatmeal mill, containing the entire building and most of its contents, including several thousand barrels of oatmeal. The total loss on building, stock and adjoining ware houses is estimated at $75,000, on which there is an insurance of about $40,000. The fire was caused by a spark from the fire of the elevator which was running at the time.

Iowa Knights of Labor.

CEBAR RAPIDS, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—The twenty-eight district assembly of the Knights of Labor was merged into a state assembly at Dubuque, Ia., on the 15th inst. The following officers were elected: S. W. E. Mrs. D. M. L. W. H. W. of Dubuque; S. R. E. Mrs. D. M. L. W. H. W. of Dubuque; S. R. E. Mrs. D. M. L. W. H. W. of Dubuque. A big meeting will be held in the park to-night. The next session will probably be at Marshalltown.

Rain, Lightning and Crops.

FORT DODGE, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—A much needed rain fell in this locality yesterday. Lightning struck the house of Thos. Smith, in Eldon, and caused slight damage. The crops are slightly damaged by the drought. Chinch bugs have made their appearance in portions of the county and are getting their work in the corn fields. First we saw them at the Mason and Fort Dodge new railway killed its first horse yesterday. The animal belonged to a Nokan township farmer.

Death of a Postmaster.

HAMBURG, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—George Wise, postmaster at this place, aged 34, died at 5:30 p. m. to-day. He was a native of Illinois and had resided at this place for some time. He was taken ill Tuesday. Consciousness remained to the last. Mr. Wise came to this place from Canton, Ill., some four years ago and assumed control of the Democratic News. July last he received the news of the death of his master, whereupon he abandoned journalism.

Transferring Troops.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—Companies C, F and I, Seventeenth Infantry, regular army, came from Fort Totten, Dak., to this city to-night and transferred to the Beck Island train. He started west for Fort D. A. Russell, Cheyenne. This is the first time this regiment has left the city, having been stationed since in north Dakota near the British line.

Stonx City's Paving.

STONX CITY, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—The contract for paving the city was to-day closed with J. B. Smith & Co. of Chicago. Under this contract about six miles of paving will be done. The price is $6.25 per square yard for six inch cobbles. Work will be commenced in fifteen or twenty days. It is probably the intention of the city to bring the bulk of the material here and erect a large mill and do the paving here.

Will Brown Run?

DES MOINES, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—The democratic state central committee and candidates met at the Aborn house this afternoon. Guellen, candidate for state auditor, was interviewed. He said the revolution of Brown would seriously affect his (Guellen's) chances of election.

A Bather Drowned.

DEBUIQUE, Ia., July 16.—[Special Telegram to the BEE.]—Theodore Stamper, of the firm of Stamper & Young, hardware merchant, was drowned while bathing in the river. He was a native of Iowa and had resided here for some time. He was a well known citizen and was highly respected. His death is a great loss to the community.

A Twenty Thousand Dollar Fire.

FORSYTH, Ia., July 16.—A fire at Bonaparte, Ia., to-day destroyed buildings and stocks of goods valued at $20,000.

New R. & M. Stations.

Two new stations will be opened on the Nebraska railway division of the B. & M. next week. One will be at Cairo, fifteen miles north of Grand Island, with E. W. Gillette as station agent, and one at St. Michael, twenty-two miles north of Grand Island, with H. E. Eaton as station agent.

The Numerous Vag.

Seven negroes were arrested in a Third ward yesterday afternoon and slated with vagrancy. They were given a trial before Judge Stenberg, who discharged one, ordered three to leave the city and sent three to the county jail for fifteen days on bread and water.

two Lehmanns and Hemann. This closed Walters' direct testimony, also the day's proceedings.

A WARD WORKER STRETCHED. Execution of the Murderer of Alderman Gaynor of Chicago.

Woodsport, Ill., July 16.—James Dacey, murderer of Michael Gaynor of Chicago, was hanged here at 2:35 to-day. He made no speech and was moderately composed, though weeping at the execution. He was executed by the gallows, and his body was lowered into the river. He was a native of Ireland and had resided here for some time. He was a well known citizen and was highly respected. His death is a great loss to the community.

A Girl's Straight Throw.

A Norfolk Domestic Brains Her Assailant With Two Tumblers.

QUICK CAPTURE OF A FORGER.

Death of a Farmer Who Imbibed Alcohol—Strange Disappearance at Loup City—A Lincoln Fallure—State News.