The Fatal Accident. The son of Phil Pickering was lying yesterday at the Pacific house in a sinking condition, with no apparent possibility of his recovery.

The boy's father and mother were in attendance. Mrs. Pickering having arrived by a special train about 2 o'clock yesterday morning from Boone, where the family reside.

The accident was a severe shock to the friends and calls forth the tenderest sympathy. The surgeons could do little for the relief of the dying boy beyond the removal of some of the portions of the fractured skull, which pressed upon the brain.

Perfect satisfactory accommodations at $2.00 a day at the Pacific House. Give it a trial and be convinced.

HEADING OFF FURTHER SUITS

An Interesting Attempt to Collect Penalties Under the County Permit Law.

BURGLARS' PLUNDER IDENTIFIED

Trying to Save a Fast Girl—The New Road to Manhattan—An Old Confidence Game Newly Played—Doings in the Bluffs.

A Liquor Case. In the superior court yesterday an interesting case was tried under the law regarding county permits to druggists, requiring them to make monthly reports as to the sale of intoxicants, the penalty being $100 for each neglect to this report.

One-half of the amount thus recovered goes to the person bringing the action. This suit was begun by R. L. Williams against J. C. DeHaven, the well known druggist, who is considered among the best of Council Bluffs business men.

The suit was for $1,400, it being claimed that he had not properly reported for fourteen months past. Under the law a variety of details are required in the report, the amount of each sale to be given, with name of purchaser, amount, price, purpose for which purchase is made, amount of liquors on hand at the beginning of the month, and amount purchased during the month, in fact, a bewildering number of facts. It is claimed that the omission of any of the facts required in the report constitutes a cause for recovering the penalty.

In defense of the suit brought against Mr. DeHaven, evidence was introduced showing that he had filed monthly reports, complying in the main with the requirements of the law. These reports coincided with his sales book. Some of the reports found in the auditor's office did not show when they were filed, and the auditor could not tell the date, as they were in his office which he took possession of. The auditor and his assistant swore that no record was kept of these reports, they being filed away simply in pigeon holes.

In fact, it seems from the evidence that for many months the auditor's office renders the dealer liable to a penalty of $100, there is little protection given the dealer. The reports are not registered, and if lost or stolen the informant could then get $50 for disclosing the fact that the report was not on file.

If this should prove to be the law, there would be a great temptation for persons to sell the reports, which can be easily done, as they have to be kept open for public inspection. The auditor is not to be blamed for not protecting the dealer by registering these reports, or otherwise recording the fact that such reports are filed, as the law does not provide for anything of the sort. It gives no instructions or requirements, so that if the dealer leaves the reports with the auditor he can do as he pleases with them.

A sort of syndicate was formed in Des Moines some time ago for commencing such suits and recovering such penalties. Notices were served on dealers in the city for the amount of the penalties claimed being $48,000. One-half of this amount, if recovered, would go to the syndicate, and if every county could be similarly worked there would be millions in it.

This case was not one of this class. It seems to have been brought rather as a test case than for the purpose of mauling Mr. DeHaven. It was brought in favor of Mr. DeHaven, and this makes a bar to his being bothered any more by anybody in regard to his reports. About a week after he was served with a notice of the beginning of these suits he was served with a notice that the Des Moines syndicate, represented by Mr. Gosling, was to commence suit. The trial and outcome of this suit disposes of the others, and Mr. DeHaven can rest easy.

Spencer Smith explained that he had been in correspondence with Congressman Lyman in regard to asking congress to give Manawaka lake to the city for park purposes and asked the council for a description of it for this purpose. He said his understanding was that the gradual washing away of land and a navigable stream being there deprived the old ownership.

Mr. Seidenstoff, who was in the chamber, said he was formerly the unfortunate but now one of the fortunate owners of this land; that he objected to the government giving it to the city, as he had lost his ownership. He'd sooner give the city the use of it. The matter was referred to the city attorney and city engineer.

The city engineer was instructed to advertise for proposals for paving Washington avenue from North First street to North Second street and First street from Broadway to Washington avenue with cedar blocks.

Turning a Trick. The police found a rather verdant German economizing by sleeping in a side-door Pullman, and when they pulled him out and took him up to the station he was wild with indignation. He gave his name as Frederick Handt, and on being searched he was found to have about fifteen dollars in his pocket. He objected to the police putting his money in the safe while he slept in the cooler, and viewed them with distrust, in spite of their protestations that they wanted to keep it where the tramps inside with whom he was to lodge could not steal it from him.

He was able to take care of himself and his money. He tried it yesterday. He was released from the city hotel, and went forth with his money in his pocket. During the afternoon he fell in with a farmer, and as the German wanted a job and the farmer wanted a hired man, the two made a contract by which the German was to go out and work on the farmer's place. The farmer had some shopping to do, and would meet him at a certain place. The farmer wanted to pay for some groceries and had not quite money enough until he went up to the bank and cashed a check. Would his new employe lend him a little until he could get the money out of the bank. Of course, and the new employe handed him $10. Of course the farmer was not seen by him again, and the poor victim again applied to police headquarters for help. The contractor man making good his escape with the money, leaving the poor victim the experience.

The Captured Burglar. But little additional was learned yesterday concerning the young man Bartlett, who was nabbed by Officer Andrewson for burglary. The young fellow is very reticent. When asked where he has been of late, he says that he is his business, and that he will not tell. "I don't propose to give myself away, and if you were in the same sort of a boat that I am you would not tell me either." He said he had been out of town for several days, returning here about the 8th. When asked if he stopped at the Kiel hotel, he said he did not. "I didn't stop at any hotel."

"Did you sleep in some private house?" "No, sir, I didn't sleep in any private house either."

"Perhaps you lodged in some nook or cranny?" "No box car either. You needn't ask me any more questions for I won't answer any."

When captured the fellow had a quantity of jewelry done up in a towel. It was second-hand jewelry, and an owner was not found for it until yesterday. It seems that most of it belongs to Mrs. Weatherlow, a niece of Mr. Weatherlow, who arrived here on a visit the evening before. Her trunk containing these and other valuables was left on the porch the night of her arrival. In the morning the trunk was found to have been tampered with, and yesterday identified some of the articles as belonging to her. The rear door of a summer kitchen at Mr. Cook's house had also been opened, but nothing of special value taken from there. The fellow's values have not been found yet, and of course he refuses to disclose their whereabouts. Probably if they could be traced up, some interesting revelations would be made as to his own history, and he brought up for a preliminary hearing today, but there seems nothing to prevent his being sent on a trip to Fort Madison.

Trying to Save the Girl. Emma Boje, a girl of sixteen, was brought before Judge Aylesworth yesterday on application of her father Joseph Boje, to have her sent to the reform school. The girl protested that she was not a bad girl. She had been hark riding with a girl who took her to her rooms on Pierce street and teased her to stay over night. There were some men there and she then learned that the girl was not a fit associate for her. She denied, however, that she had been going with such girls, or that she was guilty of more than indiscretions. She wanted to see her mother, who was out of the city, before any decision was made in her case. The judge gave the girl a sharp lecture, and continued her case until the following day, but that if she was caught riding about in hark at night or running the streets she would be sent to the reform school on short notice.

The Coming Game. On Tuesday next at the driving park the Red Oak base ball team will cross bats with the Mueller Music team, which game will decide the champion amateurship of western Iowa. The game will be played on the driving park, this being the last of a series of three games. The first game was won by Red Oak by a score of 10 to 6; the second was won by our home team by a score of 10 to 8. Both teams are in good condition and good ball playing may be expected. The following is a list of the players and their positions of the Mueller Music team: Charles Strook, catcher; Ed. Sadler, pitcher; George Brown, short stop; A. B. Noble, first base; Sep. Hering, second base; Doc. Patton, third base; John Oiler, left field; S. C. Noble, center field; John Miller, right field. Admission, 25 cents. Game called at 2:30. Everybody invited.

A Matrimonial Milestone. Thursday evening there was a happy gathering of friends at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Clark, on Harrison street, the occasion being the twentieth anniversary of their marriage. It was a surprise gathering, arranged by their daughter, Miss Sadie Clark. The lawn was brilliantly illuminated. The German-American band furnished sweet music, refreshments were temptingly served, and all the requisites provided for a merry-making. Friends bestowed a large number of gifts upon the worthy couple who were the recipients of many well wishes and congratulations as well. Mr. Clark is located engineer of the Union Pacific, and is in the west much of the time. His wife has many friends here, and all join in wishing them another as happy a score of years as that which is thus happily completed.

A Celestial Death. On last night's incoming Rock Island train, a Chinaman named Leo Zou, enroute from Chicago to San Francisco, died suddenly between Weston and this city. The cause of his death is unknown. He will be buried by the county to-day.

Malvern Matters. MALVERN, July 15.—Rev. G. W. Robey on last Sunday preached his anniversary sermon, he having been in the ministry thirty years. He also made the announcement that he would at the first regular meeting of the church in August present his resignation as pastor of the Baptist church of this place. It is no surprise to his friends here, as he has been in poor health for so long as to prepare the public mind for such an announcement. His health is the reason given, and the resignation will not take effect until some time in the fall. Rev. Mr. Robey is highly esteemed not only by his church people, but by many outside of the church. He is not an old man by any means, being on the younger side of fifty, and it is hoped that by a change of rest and his health may be restored so that he will be able to engage in the active ministry again.

A SCOTCH REPORTER. Turning a Simple Drunk Case Into a Long Narrative. A bony, muscular specimen of humanity entered The Philadelphia News office the other day and attracted as much attention as his barbarous speech as from his eccentric clothing. His suit was as broad a cheek as that of Lord Dolphin in the "Little Tycoon," and he wore a knitted Tam O'Shanter on the side of his head.

"Ha, ye iver an openin' fur a mon writin' shorthand an' ken report vera weel?" he asked in broad Scotch accent. "I dinna ken much o' yer Yankay ways, but I believe I cud do anythin' ye had to do."

The young man was sent to the central police station to report the hearings yesterday morning. The following is the manuscript handed in by the "mon who writes shorthand an' ken report vera weel."
