Accused For Hog Stealing.

Yonkers, N.Y., July 30.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—A sensation was created here to-day by the arrest of Charles J. Johnson, a wealthy farmer living twelve miles north of this city. Johnson was brought before County Judge Bennett charged with stealing twelve hogs from George Johnson, another prominent farmer, on the 20th inst. The stolen property is worth $200. The stolen property is worth $200. The stolen property is worth $200.

Tacing Association Formed.

TEKAMAH, Neb., July 30.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—Our town has lately taken great interest in horses and racing, and some of the "solid men" have organized the Tekamah Driving Park association, with W. W. Latta as president, Godfrey Grosvenor as secretary, and W. Hayward, treasurer.

Encouraging the Railroads.

BEAVER, Neb., July 30.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The city council passed the ordinance this evening granting the Rock Island road the right-of-way through Third street. The ordinance was opposed by the Third street property owners, but the citizens generally favored it. The Union Pacific company has asked for an additional right-of-way on Second street, which will probably be granted at the next meeting of the council.

Indians on a Trip.

CHADRON, Neb., July 30.—A band of Indians of the Sioux nation, from the Pine Ridge agency, containing several hundred, accompanied by Red Cloud, Spotted Elk and other chiefs, passed through here en route for the Shoshone reservation in Wyoming.

Two Prisoners Released.

COLUMBUS, Neb., July 30.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—Charles Price, a patent attorney, once sent to the penitentiary for obtaining a note under false pretenses from George Marrie. The trial is set for tomorrow at 9 o'clock.

A Jail Breaker Caught.

CHADRON, Neb., July 30.—[Special to the Bee.]—The horse thief, Leighton, who caused so much excitement by escaping from the jail at Mandan, Dak., in 1884, was brought through here last evening by Deputy Sheriff Baldwin. Leighton was a Dak. who captured him a few miles west of Sturgis. Since breaking jail he has assumed the name of Davis, and when captured was engaged in chopping wood. He was heavily armed and will be taken back to the place of his depredations, where a heavy sentence awaits him.

The Water Pipe Victim.

BEAVER, Neb., July 30.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—Fred W. Walker, who was injured a few days ago by a water pipe falling on him, died to-day from the effects of his injuries. An inquest was held to find the cause of the accident. The water pipe was found to be defective, and the jury found the owner liable. The water pipe was found to be defective, and the jury found the owner liable.

Rain Makes Them Smile.

OAKLAND, Neb., July 30.—[Special to the Bee.]—We had good rains yesterday and last night, the first rain for two months. It will be of great benefit to the crops. We think the early corn seed redemption. This part of the country cannot count on more than half a crop of corn. Wheat is being threshed, and the grain is in quality. Farmers are happy over the rains, and many are smiling.

Held For Murder.

NORFOLK, Neb., July 30.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The examination of Ed Stages at Pierce for the alleged murder of Campbell, his partner, was concluded last night. He was bound over to the district court and sent to the West Point jail for safekeeping.

Fatal Lightning Flash.

McCook, Neb., July 30.—James E. Cooney, a farmer near town, was killed by lightning Wednesday night while unloading a team of mules. The mules were also killed.

Another Subject for a Lecture.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 30.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—While going to the bank this afternoon to deposit $600, the wife of W. L. Vasher, a well-known farmer, was fatally struck by lightning. She was carrying in her hand a tin of ointment, and the lightning struck her on the head. She was taken home very sick but is now recovering. The $600 is a total loss. No clue to the robber so far.

Railroad Rates Raised.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—An official announcement of the advance in overland freight rates, to take effect August 1, has been made as follows: To Kansas City, St. Louis and common points, from $1.50 to $3 per 100 pounds; to Omaha, from $2 to $3; to Denver, from $2.50 to $3.50.

A Ship in Distress.

NEW YORK, July 30.—At midnight a telegram from a steamer beach was received saying that a large four-masted steamer is supposed to be ashore near there. She is being wrecked. No particulars are obtainable to-night.

BURLINGTON PLANS.

Vice-President Potter inspecting the Western Extension.

CHICAGO, July 30.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The present trip of Vice President Potter, of the Burlington, over the western lines in which his company is interested, is believed to have some connection with the Burlington's intention to build in the near future. The new line from Lincoln, Neb., northwest to Grand Island has been completed, and is now being pushed into the Nebraska country. Another new extension is to branch off from the above named line and run due west to Fort Tetterman via Cheyenne, about 100 miles. The new line is to be built by the Burlington, and will be a great improvement to the Northwestern. The territory through which these new roads are to be built is the celebrated northwestern grazing lands, and by their construction the Burlington expects to divide with the Northwestern the trade of the cattle and horse country. The Union Pacific used to get the bulk of that traffic, but as soon as the new roads are completed, it will lose nearly all that business. Another scheme of the Burlington is the extension of its line west from Denver. It is now building a road from Denver to the Colorado river, and it claims to be merely a coal road, to tap the coal fields of that section. It is alleged, however, that the object of this line is to divide the traffic of the Northwestern with the Burlington managers are willing to admit. It is claimed that the line is to be a connecting link between the Burlington and Denver & Rio Grande Western. The Burlington people, it is claimed, have been successful in getting the line, and they made part of the Burlington system. This would give the Burlington a direct line from Chicago and the Missouri river to San Francisco, using the Central Pacific from Ogden to the same as the Union Pacific.

SENATOR WILLIAM MAHONE.

The "Royal Roadrunner" of Virginia Pays Omaha a Visit.

BLACKLISTED BASE BALLISTS.

After the Burglar—Office Hours and Clerks—Her Majesty's Horse—Old Sol's Horse-Sporting Notes—Reviews.

The Royal Roadrunner.

The person on whom fell the duty of giving distinction to last night's overland train was the Hon. William Mahone, United Senator from Virginia. His appearance attracted attention at once as he walked up and down the platform amid the motley crowd there gathered, and when he wrapped the drapery of a travelled duster about him and sank down to pleasant dreams amid the Tyrian purple of the Pullman car the contrast between the man and the place was marked. In fact, the silver-mounted porter had to gaze at him repeatedly to be assured that the really beautiful man in the car, and the gold-mounted conductor put a tab O. K. on the section to avoid mistake. "William the Roadrunner" is not a pretty man, although he may have been handsome when young. His appearance probably changed with his politics. He is below the medium height, has a rather intellectually shaped head, but, oh, the hair and whiskers. He must belong to the class of men who are never content with their hair until they have decided that it is settled, and the Virginia roadrunner chooses for his "doubtful event" a gray hair, irregularly marked with maroon-colored hirsute streaks falls down upon his shoulders and back with an occasional vari-colored switch floating about on his head. The whiskers are full flowing of the same jolly cake tint as the head-hair, and reach down on the breast. Unkempt but not uncanny was William Mahone's hair, and his whiskers. One of those long thin coats that had interviewed the dust of travel from Washington to Omaha was the outer cover of a much mussed vest, unbuttoned at the neck, and the coat of the same jolly cake tint as the head-hair, and reach down on the breast.
