

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS. TUESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 3. OFFICE, NO. 12, PEARL STREET.

Delivered by carrier in any part of the city at twenty cents per week. H. W. TILTON, Manager.

MINOR MENTION. New York Plumbing company. Summer clothing, cheap at Reiter's.

Only $2.50 per doz. for first class cabinet photos at Schmidt's, 230 Main.

Mase Wise has just received a carload of drivers and some heavy trunks.

Cabinet photographs $3 per doz. at Shenaden's, 317 B way, for 60 days only.

Fifty boxes of California plums, for preserving, very cheap if bought to-day at H. J. Palmer's, No. 14 Main street.

The police and firemen are threatened with arrest if they go peddling around city warrants without taking out a license.

The state board of medical examiners meets at the Ogden house on Friday and Saturday next to grant certificates to physicians.

The base ball game between the Earlings and the Bluffs to be played here next Thursday promises to be an interesting contest.

Admiral H. C. Cory and Commander George Thompson have just launched an elegant sail boat, "The Owl," which will be the pride of Lake Manawa.

One poor fellow who has been taken in by the police declares that he has not drunk anything for a year, and still he seems to be coming down with the tremors.

Complaint has been filed in Justice Schurz's court charging Frank Robinson with stealing clothing from Fox & Hughes' store, the value being about ten dollars.

Pearl street is torn up pretty thoroughly now, but the work of paving is progressing nicely, and it is expected that a short time will see the street one of the best in the city.

As a result of a horse deal A. L. Payne has filed an information before Justice Schurz charging John Emerson with having sold to him a horse which he knew was mortgaged to W. H. Dudley.

The usual Saturday night burglary at Sullivan & Fitzgerald's store did not take place. The police do not know what to do with themselves, as the first work of the week is generally to start on the hunt for fellows who have gone through this store.

First-class tin work, etc., a specialty at Cooper & McGee's.

Go to the New York Plumbing company for garden hose. They warrant all they sell. Opera house block.

Highest prices paid for county, town, city and school bonds. Odeli Bros. & Co., No. 103 Pearl street, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Summer Squibs. New cases begin to come into the clerk's office for filing for the August term of the circuit court. Many of them are devoid of any special public interest.

Sarah J. Adams commences proceedings to free herself from the matrimonial ties which bind her to W. B. M. Adams. She claims in her petition that she was married to him in November, 1885, in Omaha, and that he has become an habitual drunkard, and last December deserted her entirely.

M. J. Blair commences an action against C. M. Witt, Fred Witt and William Witt, claiming big damages for an assault made upon him by the defendants in June last. He claims that they not only struck and kicked him, but mauled him with a hammer. He wants $100 for loss of time, while recovering from his injuries, $10 for medicine, and $5,000 damages for general results.

The Commercial Union Assurance company commences an action against its former agent here, A. Gans, and his bondsmen, claiming that he failed to turn over $225 of the money collected for the company.

H. W. Payne begins a damage suit against F. B. Hall. He claims that last June Hall caused his arrest by filing an information in Justice Frainey's court charging him with larceny. Payne was detained in custody several hours, and then gave bail. The charge was dismissed, and Payne claims he was maliciously arrested. He wants pay for his time and for his attorneys, and $10,000 as an all-around balance.

Louisa Reich commences suit against William Brix and his bondsmen. She claims that Brix, as administrator of her husband's estate, had a balance in his hands of $250 due the estate, according to his report filed in court, and that he had deserted the estate, and she had been appointed administratrix. Since then she had made demands for the money, but had been unable to get it. She now wants judgment against him and his bondsmen.

Always buy your meats at Star Market, No. 304 Broadway, and get the best. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Fine pasture, plenty of water and good timber for 300 head of stock about five miles north of Broadway and Main street. Inquire of L. P. Judson, No. 629 Sixth avenue, or Charles Palmer at pasture on lime kiln road.

The Revival Started. The pavilion was crowded to its utmost last evening to hear Major Bell, the revivalist. He gave an interesting account of his personal experiences, and his reasons for leaving a secular life to enter the work of an evangelist.

The speaker showed himself to be at home in the work, and seems to know just how to organize and push the work. As a speaker he is very interesting and forcible, and with a great fund of anecdotes and illustrations, he holds the attention of his audiences without resorting to rantings or unseemly boisterousness. He speaks as a business man, with logical, convincing thoughts, and it is believed that he will accomplish much more here than some of the evangelists who have preceded him. He will continue to hold meetings every evening, and every afternoon there will be a bible reading at 3 o'clock. These afternoon meetings are said to be fully as interesting as the evening meetings, although not so largely attended.

The committee in charge of the meetings consists of the pastor of the churches and the following persons: Baptist church—Messrs. Irons, Souke and C. H. Smith.

Scandinavian Baptist—C. Rosen, James Christensen and Mr. Nonen.

Congregationalist—Rev. Mr. Rice, Mr. Homer and Mr. A. H. Walker.

M. E. Church—J. N. Brown, A. Overton, J. S. Foster, Mr. Thomas Officer, F. H. Hensland and Prof. Roberts.

Personal Paragraphs. W. W. Kelley, manager of the Ogden Hawthorne company, was at the Ogden yesterday.

Mrs. Charles C. Catlin, of Chicago, is visiting her sister, Mrs. R. N. Whittlesey, of this city.

Mark Duryee is now running on the St. Paul between Marion and this city, so that his friends have frequent opportunities to meet and greet him.

Pacific house recently renovated. Cool rooms; money saved; comforts gained.

Kirkland, the jeweler, has removed to 223 Broadway, Singer office.

TWIN REVIVALS STARTED.

One of Religion, the Other of Business, and Both Promise Well.

SUMMER SUITS FOR COURT.

A Pair of Wisconsin Wheelmen—The Doings of the City Fathers—A Variety of Council Bluffs Happenings.

Municipal Legislature.

The city council met in regular session last evening, a full board present.

Mr. W. A. Myester appeared in behalf of the coal haulers and presented their petition stating that they had paid their license as common carriers, and they now desired the ordinance enforced or else, the ordinance repealed, and their money refunded.

The petition of property owners for change of alley between Scott and Sixth streets, was presented and referred.

C. Hermes complained of his cows being impounded. Referred.

The city marshal asked for some instructions as to what he should do in regard to saloons, which had not paid license. The city attorney did not see any use in giving instructions at every meeting, and filling the papers with threats and all that sort of thing. There was an understanding that if the saloons did not pay their license they should be prosecuted, and that was enough.

When they were prosecuted it would not be for selling liquor, but for something that would close them up.

Advocate of prosecuting delinquents sharply. If the saloon men did not know when they were well treated then shut them up altogether.

The city clerk reported that six of the saloon men had not yet paid for June.

No action was taken by the council. The monthly estimate of the work done by Mitchell Vincent on Indian creek was reported as $1,071. Allowed, less the usual 10 per cent.

The question of dividing up the wards of the city into voting precincts was discussed. The sentiment seemed in favor of dividing the Fourth ward into three precincts, and the other wards into two precincts each. The difficulties of the new registration law were discussed. It was estimated that in the Fourth ward one board of registrars would have to register one man every five minutes in order to get through in the five days allowed by law. It seemed that the city must be divided into precincts. Matter to be reported on next Monday night.

Complaint was made that the Union Avenue hotel seemed in a dangerous condition. Referred to Aldermen Straub, Keller and Hammock, to report on next Monday night.

First-class tin work, etc., a specialty at Cooper & McGee's.

Go to the New York Plumbing company for garden hose. They warrant all they sell. Opera house block.

McClurg's Plans.

In view of the frequent reports that the McClurg Cracker company was about to remove from Council Bluffs, it will be especially gratifying to the citizens of this place to be informed that instead of leaving they will not only remain but will proceed to enlarge their factory and increase their facilities.

The McClurg goods have gained a fast hold and become wonderfully popular in this western market, and the success has been won by the close attention to business, great care in keeping the standard of the goods up high, and a fair, square treatment of the trade.

It is now thought that the factory will soon be enlarged to double in capacity. Mr. Maxon, the architect, is now at work on plans for an enlargement of the building, and it is probable that the enlargement will be made in the very near future. The McClurg factory is a valuable enterprise to Council Bluffs, and all will rejoice in its prosperity and its growing business, demanding such increase of facilities and enlargement of buildings.

Substantial abstracts of titles and real estate loans. J. W. & E. L. Squiers, No. 101 Pearl street, Council Bluffs.

A Husband's Tribute.

Mr. Bell, the evangelist, is distributing, in connection with his services, an interesting little tract. The history of the little leaflet is to the effect that a Boston gentleman lost by death his wife, a noble Christian woman, to whom he was most strongly and tenderly attached. After her death a sheet of paper was found in her Bible, the handwriting being hers and the manuscript being a bible study on the subject of "Love unto Jesus." Her bereaved husband, as a memorial of his wife, and with a desire to carry on the christian work in which so much of her life had been spent, concluded to have the manuscript printed in tract form. He has caused over a million copies to be distributed at his own expense, and is still continuing to scatter them all over the country. Mr. Bell has distributed a great many copies for him, and others have done likewise. The tract, with this bit of history connected with it, is read with added interest.

Still Another Enterprise.

Another enterprise to be immediately added to Council Bluffs is the establishment here of a distributing warehouse for the western agency of Schiltz's Milwaukee brewing company. A location has been selected near the Chicago & North-western depot, and there will be erected a warehouse, with offices, stables, etc. Several thousand barrels will be put into building improvements at once. The advantages afforded by Council Bluffs as a distributing point, so many railways centering here, has led to the decision to locate the agency here, a move which has been contemplated for some time.

Wisconsin Wheelmen.

Rev. H. B. Dean and Mr. E. B. Patton, of Waupun, Wis., start from here for their homes to-day. About four weeks ago they started out mounted on tricycles for a summer ride, with two other gentlemen on bicycles. Council Bluffs being the objective point. The other two gentlemen, after a comparatively short trip, returned home. Messrs. Patton and Dean reached here about a week ago, but have put in the time seeing the country in this vicinity and across the river.

Gladly Corrected. The BEK was misinformed in regard to Lena Fonda, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Fonda, who was reported as being dead. The little girl was still alive yesterday, but not out of danger. Still she was improving somewhat, and strong hopes are being entertained of her ultimate recovery. About a week ago she went in company with other little girls to a picnic, and there partook of some wild grapes which caused the illness. Mr. Fonda was telegraphed to and arrived home Saturday. The little one has been very low but the report of her death was a mistake.

Jumped His Bail. W. Harris, of Des Moines, was arrested here yesterday on the charge of having jumped his bail, he having been indicted for selling liquor. Officer Bradshaw, of Des Moines, took him back last evening.

She Wanted It Then. Boston Record: A little girl out at night, who held with genuine orthodoxy to the infantile theory of what prayer is for, prayed thus the other night: "O Lord, I want a white rabbit."

"O Lord, I want a white rabbit." She waited awhile for developments and then repeated her prayer a little more energetically.

"O Lord, I want a white rabbit." Another pause for developments, with unsatisfactory results, and then a vigorous outburst: "O Lord, I want a white rabbit and I want it now!"

Captain Joseph Bury, of Hailey, Idaho, has a war record to be proud of. When the rebellion broke out he spent $3,000 of his own money raising a regiment in Ohio; he went to the front with it and when the regiment was mustered out after the war closed he commanded an officer wrote on his discharge: "The officer has not been absent from his command a day during the entire war."

BRAINS ON THE BALL FIELD.

Some of the Tricks of Well-known Players and How Easily They are Worked.

The St. Louis Browns, says the Courier-Journal, and the Chicagoans, owe much of their success to tricks of the diamond. The average baseball player is a machine, who has no inventive faculty whereby he is enabled to get out of the ruts. Baseball, like other professions, has a few men of genius, who tower above their fellows like the oak above the weeds around it.

Of all the clubs which show the genius of trickery the Chicago white stockings are easily first. They throw a dash of brute power into their tricks, but the preponderance of brain power is everywhere discernible. The latest trick introduced by the Chicagoans was played at St. Louis, Williamson and Pfeiffer did the work. The runner plays a few feet off the bag and the short stop and second baseman occupy their usual positions, nearly midway between the bases. The pitcher knows the game, and stands in the position to put the ball over the plate, keeps his eye on the runner. Williamson then runs to the base, and the runner hustles also to reach it. As the two run, Clarkson or McCormick, who ever is pitching, makes a motion as if to throw the ball. Williamson then resumes his position, and the runner, thinking the bluff is over, advances along the path with him. Suddenly the two left the bag, when Pfeiffer dashes like a streak to the bag, catches the ball, and the player is caught.

Few will forget Kelly's trick of standing outside the coach lines and having the ball thrown to him on the ground, that it was ripped, allowing it to pass and the man on the third to come home. Kelly is the first man also who was known to secure a run without going nearer than twenty feet to home. He stands across the field whenever the opportunity is offered. Kelly has been known to change balls during a game, while playing behind the bat, and also to call the fielders in on a close decision, blinding the umpire into a third out.

Dunlap of the St. Louis Maroons is another tricky player, and his absolute knowledge of the game and rules warrant the boldness of some of his plays, such as dropping the ball, or throwing it into conditions that would turn the head of any umpire. Not long since when Healy was pitching and Dunlap was in his usual position at second base, the latter caught the ball with his feet, and threw it out. He made a quick motion as if he had thrown the ball to the pitcher, and Healy a second later took the position to deliver the ball. He pretended to fumble the ball, and the runner, who was recalled for a "low ball." Meantime the runner, who had reached first base, staid way off, and before he was aware of the fact McKinnon touched him out with the ball which Dunlap had suddenly thrown to first.

Latham of the St. Louis Browns might be called a trickster, but he does not rank with Kelly or Dunlap for invention. In fact, the Browns are rather shrewd imitators of the tricky Chicagoans. Latham did one great thing, though, a few weeks since. The Browns had two men on bases, one at first and one on third. Welch, prompted by Latham, got up from the players' bench and ran from third base toward home fast as his feet could carry him. The first baseman, who thought a run was about to be scored, threw to the catcher, and the runner on first easily took second. Kelly, Dunlap, Hecker and other players, who had ample stores of tricky and inventive ball players, and are favorites everywhere.

Hecker is the trickiest pitcher in the country, both in his delivery and in his strategy. He has a trick which he plays on second and third and second at the same time, and the chances are that one of them will be caught and put out. His delivery is invariably a surprise. A few days since a Baltimore pitcher was on second and wanted to steal third. Hecker knew what he wanted, and set a trap for him. He settled down into the pitcher's box, allowing the man to steal several bases. Hecker's strategy was to get the pitcher slow, so as to enable the runner to think he had a sure thing. Hecker then fumbled the ball in his hand, drew a long breath, and everybody thought he was going to throw a triple. Hecker crossed his whirled instantly on his heel and caught the runner midway between the bases. Nothing remained but for Hecker to walk over and touch the man.

Amos Cross has a trick which seldom fails to work. When a runner is on third and another at first base the precaution is generally considered to be dangerous, but it is Cross' delight. He makes the man at first think he will give him second rather than throw to Mack, and run the risk of letting the man at third score. Mack always plays in, and Cross looks sleepy behind the bat, and seems to be constantly watching the runner at third. The man at first base confidently runs to second when Hecker pitches the ball, but Cross is now all alert. He catches the ball which Hecker purposely throws a triple wild, and makes a lightning return to second base. Mack catches the ball, and if the runner at third starts for home, which he does if he is not acquainted with Cross' wonderful throw, he is invariably put out, but if he has been caught on the trick before, Mack then devotes his attention to the runner near at hand, who generally goes out at second base.

Jimmy Reopler has a play which catches many. When a man is on third base he creeps up slowly behind the bat, and just when no one expects it throws like lightning down to third, where Finney is always ready to catch the anxious runner's out. This throw is Peoples' forte. No catcher can equal him at it.

Tekamah sports have organized a "driving park association," and will hold the first annual trial of rural horse-flesh on the 18th and 19th.
