The council meetings are so run that they are practically committee meetings, and hence the evenings are spent in long and often profitless talks over matters which should be looked into by the different committees and passed upon there. If these various matters could be ported upon by committees, and the council as a whole confined itself to the adoption or rejection of the reports of the committees, much more business could be disposed of in one evening than now occupies several.

P. C. Miller, the well known decorator and artist, has just placed upon the walls of the Bee office a sample of the new papier mache work. It is a face in relief, a face which will attract the attention of every visitor to the Bee, it being that of "the grand old man" Gladstone. It is finished in bronze, and the background and surroundings are arranged with rare good taste and skill. These papier mache decorations are something new in this city, and as they can be in-ished in an endless variety of ways, and can be used as decorations in so many in this city, and as they can be fin ways, they will speedily come into de-mand here. Those who want to see samples should call upon Mr. Miller at his place No. 13 Pearl street,

Petty Business. 1

A case of petty meanness is reported as having occurred at the lake. A hackman on his way down asked two little girl friends of his if they would not like to ride down. The two girls were delighted and went. While they were amusing themselves at the lake their friend, the themselves at the lake their friend, the hackman, got a load and thoughtlessly went off up town, forgetting about the little girls. They soon began to want to get back, and being without money to pay their fare, and being among strangers, tears unbidden started. Another hackman, learning the girls' situation, and not being able to take them up town just then, asked an expressman who had just then, asked an expressman who had a partial load, and who was about starting, to take the girls along. He would not do so, and the hackman had to pay the fare for the girls out of his own pocket in order to get them a chance to ride. Had they been children of a larger growth there would have been less growth there would have been less thought of it, but being mere children, in this condition, it did look small on the

A Freight Blockade. There is such a rush of freight at this point that it is impossible to handle it fast enough to prevent aggravating delays. The many rallways centering here cause a great amount of switchin g, and the side tracks have been crowded for some weeks. The Union Pacific has lately put in nine more tracks near the transfer, towards the elevator, each of these tracks being about half a mile long, making between four and five miles of additional track, and still there are more needed. The rush has been so great that as fast as the iron has been laid for a track it has been filled at once. It seems that there will have to be still greater fa-cilities afforded, and the notions will soon be a network of railway tracks, necossitating the employment of a large number of railway men.

The Revival Services in the Pavilion to

The Work of Sneak Thieves-Personal Points.

The revival services which have been in progress at the pavillen for two weeks past have proved very helpful and interesting to the community at large. The meetings have been largely attended, and there has been little for the most eritical to find fault with. Mr. Beil, who has been the leader, has shown himself to be an earnest and wise worker. He does not allow himself to be drawn into the too common practice of evangelists ot indulging in sensational methods of keeping up a crowd and causing enthusiasm. His manner is plain, practical and sensible. He uses reason rather than playing merely upon the emotional side of man's make-up, and yet his addresses are not ice-cold or void of emotion. Quiet, systematic, earnest, and impressing his hearers with the fact of his own honesty of opinion, he has exerted an influence in this community which has been for good surely. It does seem a relief to have a man stand up as an evangelist who does not stand up as an evangelist who does not use as his main stock in trade the narration of his former vileness. This community has been afflicted by the presence of men who sought to draw crowds and hold their attention by making sensational parades of their former sins. Not long ago the street corners were the seeing of a man's allowed preaching, who scene of a man's alleged preaching, who seemed to have little to say to the people except his boasts of what a great sinner he had been. He had served the devil all his life had been a drunkard, a gambler, a prize fighter, had broken up his family, turned his gray haired mother into the street at midnight, had been shot in rows, had barely escaped the gallows, and now he proposed to tell others how to lead a godly life. There have been so many of these moral teachers who have visited Council Bluffs, and who have from their own confessions known little in their own lives but deviltry, that it has been a gratifying change to have a man appear like Mr. Bell, who is of a different stripe. He does not pretend to have been, or to be now a saint, but he does not bank on sensational scenes of sin in his own ca-

To-night will be the closing service of the series. Mr. Bell will take with him many kindly wishes for his further success. During his stay he has renewed many acquaintances of former years and made many new ones.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be a mass meeting of the children in the

This evening at 7:30 o'clock there will be a song service, led by Prof. Ruggles, who has done such excellent service in this line. The regular preaching service will begin at 8 o'clock. As this is the closing service there will doubtless be a large gathering.
There will be a memorial service held

Tuesday evening in the pavilion on the death of Rev. George C. Haddock, of Sioux City. Judge Reed is to preside, and addresses will be made by the pastors of the churches and by other citizens. Some action will doubtless be citizens. Some action will doubtless be taken expressive of sympathy with Mrs. crime which led to her husband's death. Next Tuesday there is to be a Sunday school picnic in the Price neighborhood, about ten miles east of this city. Rev. G. W. Crofts has been invited to deliver

The Methodists have done considerable improvements this season. Besides building a very fine parsonage they have refitted the church, the interior of which has been greatly improved.

There will be no services in the Presbyterian church to-day, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Bates being still on his vacation, and enjoying the water of Waukesha.

DServices at the Baptist church this morning as usual, followed by the Sunday school. Seats free. All cordially invited. The closing evangelistic services at the pavillion in the evening.

Weeding Out the Doctors. When the state board of medical examiners was here a rather peculiar question was raised, and so far as learned it has not been fully settled yet. One who had begun healing as a christian scientist applied to the board to be registered in duly legal form, having a commission to go forth and heal the sick and raise the dead. The raising of the dead seemed to be a little beyond the usual avocation of the physicians, and the doing away with medicines, and even refusing to lay on hands or indulge in any magnetic treatments seemed to place the whole matter beyond the jurisdiction of the

Another ruling of the board will prove of interest to the physicians throughout Iowa, and is expressed informally by one of the board in an interview held in Des Moines. By it it seems that there are many who are to be excluded from prac-tice, even though they have been before the public as doctors for some years.

"There is one new ruling of considerable importance made by the state board of health since we were last here," said Dr. J. D. Miller to a reporter yesterday morning in answer to interrogations, "and that is in regard to the construction of the seventh section of the medical practice law. This is one of the most important sections in the whole law and one which gives the board the greatest liberty in the duty assigned them. It provides that the board may revoke the certificate of any physician for 'palpable evidence of incompetency," no matter in what manner he obtained his certificate, whether by examination, five years' practice or diploma. Now, the law does not require persons to do useless things and hence it would be natural for us to think we are not required to grant certificates when we know they must be revoked at once. And also one very plain reading of the text of section 7, would expressly give the board the unqualitied power to refuse to grant a certificate when the applicant is unquestionably incompetent to practice. The board met with this question early and took it under advisement, and have decided that they should not issue certificates to physicians on evidence of five years or over of practice where the appliyears or over of practice where the appli-cant is grossly incompetent. Of course this is going to cause trouble, and many practitioners from various parts of the state will object vigorously to this, but it will remain as the practice of the board unless changed by the courts, which is not likely."

Mr. Miller was asked if the board had i

yet had any trouble in enforcing this sec- | BE WELL A Raid on Minden.

on of the law.
"Yes; there have been a number of apolicants refused under this ruling, and several incidents have occurred strikingly illustrating the necessity for such a ruling. You see, the old quacks expect to get in on account of the time they have been in business, and claim as right under the law a recognition from the board with no questions asked. At one city a noted 'doctor' presented himself as having been in practice twenty-eight years, having been a close student all his life and thoroughly competent. We gave him a critical examination and found that twenty-live years ago he was farming. He couldn't tell the name of a nuscle in the human body, the action of any single, simple medicine on the system, nor could be give intelligent answers to any questions which a common student should know. He was left in the deepest humiliation before the board, his utter incompetency being plainly evident. There was nothing to do but re-

'At another place we were met with another doctor of almost equal ignorance. He claimed to have been an old practitioner. He came before us with an attorney to try and convince the board that its ruling on this subject was wrong. But the doctor was asked a few questions just to get a general idea of his capacity. He could not name any of the anatomical parts of the body nor tell about them in plain English, not to con-tine him to the technical terms. He had little or no practice and was not fit to trust with danger of any kind. Such has been one experience in many cases and we must surely follow this plan of refusing candidates or be compelled to go to work at once in the business of revoking certificates."

Imogene Items.

According to previous notice the Owl llub ball came off last night. The Shenandoan Orchestra band furnished the music, which was very good. They sold twenty-eight numbers at $1 each. Much credit is due to the efficient work by C F. Malone, mayor, and Wm. Rogers, marshal, for the good order.

A short time ago the city dads asked A. J. Glandon to resign his marshalship. He said "No sir," thereupon the council asked him to come down from his position and down he came, but oh! didn't it hurt. Stubbornness never wins.

At the last regular convocation of the town council of the town of Imogene, Mr. Wm. Rogers was chosen marshal, and undoubtedly he will make a good one. Well, some may think the new bank a ffzzle, but no, it's not. It is, we understand, to be built on the east one-half of lot 10, block 2, a one-story brick with fire walls 22x36 feet on the ground and 12 teet high, with a French plate front. The other night Mr. M. A. Jones' store was burglarized to the amount of about forty dollars. No clue to the thief.

Wanted in Omaha.

The police yesterday arrested a young man giving his name as R. D. Whiteside, who was wanted in Omaha for sundry bits of deviltry. It is said that he served a term in the jail there for lareeny, and was recently released. In coming out of jail one of his comrades gave him a pawn ticket by which to get a watch, the time of the loan being about up. It is claimed that Whiteside got the watch, but afterwards pawned it again. He is also charged with having beat another of his acquaintance out of thirty dollars. Whiteside consented to return to Omaha in charge of Deputy Sheriff Miller, with out waiting for any further papers.

The Lightning's Work. The lightning of Friday night did some damage to the telephone lines. In several instances the lightning arresters on the instruments were melted together, stopping the connections and temporararily disabling the instruments. Among the telephones thus affected were those in the deaf and dumb institution, Casper & Wilcox's office, F. W. Olmstead's, Colonel McKenzie's Wabash office. Those who have telephones need take no alarm about this fact, as there is no danger to them, unless they try to use the telephone during a severe thunder storm. The lightning arresters with which each in strument is provided are so arranged as to render the instruments harmless.

The police on Friday night arrested three girls, who seemed to think that all the streets were made for was to furnish them a fishing ground for suckers. Their brazen flaunting along the public thoroughfares had wearied the good citizens, and so the police nabbed them. Yester-day Judge Aylesworth sentenced them to thirty days each in jail. This is the first move that has been made to step street walking, the other attempts being simply remonstrances, warnings, and light lines, which have had little effect.

Five of the six saloon keepers were arrested. The five were taken to Hancock and there had a hearing which resulted in their being bound over. In default of bail they were brought to Council Bluffs last night to remain here under lock and key until their friends provide for their
