

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS. TUESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 17, OFFICE, NO. 12, PEARL STREET.

Minor Mention. New York Printing Company. The circuit court opens to-day.

Rev. Rhodes, of the Baptist church, is enjoying a vacation of a month. Only $2.50 per doz. for first-class cabinet photos at Schmidt's, 220 Main st.

The closing session of the county normal meets at Hamburg the 16th, and continues two weeks. The Council Bluffs rowing association has secured one hundred names and its success is assured.

The Dabuo society had a happy picnic gathering in Graham's grove Saturday afternoon and evening. Chris Koch and Lizzie Popenhagen, both of St. Louis, were yesterday married by Justice Hendricks.

C. Kelley was booked as being found dead drunk. He got off with a light fine as if he had walked to the jail. C. G. McIntach and Emma Stevens, both of this city, were yesterday married at No. 215 Lincoln avenue by Justice Schurz.

Mr. Harry C. King and Miss Rose H. Fryer, of Chocoma, Wyo., were united in marriage yesterday by the Rev. G. W. Crofts. Jake Rogers yesterday celebrated his fifth birthday. He bears the scars of half a century with apparent ease.

H. S. Rollins, of McWhorter, Rollins & Co., Omaha, who is in the city taking charge of the firm's business during the absence of his partner, W. H. Wakefield, is to bring his boat over on Lake Manawa.

A wild report was aloft yesterday that papers were being put out in Justice Hendricks' office for proceedings against several of the saloons under the Clark law. It proved to be a report without any foundation in fact.

At a meeting of the pastors in connection with the executive committee yesterday morning a vote of thanks was extended the press of this city for so kindly noticing the recent meetings held in the pavilion under the direction of Evangelist Bell.

Rev. G. W. Crofts, pastor of the Congregational church, has written a short poem on the death of Rev. George C. Haddock, which was published in Saturday's Inter Ocean. Professor Huggins had written music for it, and it will be sung in connection with the exercises in the pavilion this evening.

On Sunday there was a noisy time at a boarding-house near Kay's place, and the police went down to quiet the household. They brought up the drunkest of the party, Hans Jensen, and will probably proceed against the seller of the disturbing element if they can ascertain who it is.

A colored woman arrived yesterday morning over the Union Pacific, leaving in charge a very sick child. The little one seemed to be in a dying condition when they reached the depot here, and it was evident that it could not live long. This necessitated the poor woman stopping here, but she had no sufficient means with her to pay for additional expenses, and her friends were informed by telegraph.

Chief Matthews has sold his horse to young Shoemaker. He found it rather an expensive part of the service to keep up, especially as the city allows nothing extra for it. The horse has been of much use to the police for city purposes, and often enabled an officer to get to a needed point in short order. It seems that it would pay the city to have its police force furnished with a light vehicle and speedy horse, for often it would save much time and be, in fact, of more use often than an extra man.

The committee, in figuring for bread for the reunion at Creston this year, wholly ignored Council Bluffs, and placed their orders in Omaha, without even getting prices here. Last year, when caught in an emergency, they gladly availed themselves of the chance to get 300 crates of bread here on short order, and at the time apparently appreciated it as an accommodation. Like most favors, it was speedily forgotten, and this year Council Bluffs, although in its own state, did not get even a chance to figure on the contracts.

Complaints have been filed charging two of the saloons with keeping open Saturday night after closing time, and one with having kept open on Sunday. Many of the saloons claim that they cannot keep their doors closed because they have lunch counters, which are patronized by regular boarders. In some cases, at least, the lunch counter is a mere dodge to keep open. If the bars are really to be kept closed Sundays they should be provided with a partition or some sure enclosure. The bar at the transfer is in the same room as the bar shop and washroom, and yet even under such circumstances the bar is completely closed on Sundays. A complete screen is surely shutting the bar off by itself second so that the thirstiest soul cannot get even enough to moisten the lip. It can be done there it can be done in other places.

Personal Paragraphs. Mrs. A. T. Ellwell and Mrs. C. E. Friedman left yesterday morning for the east. Louis Prue and son, Charles, of Nebraska City, were in the city yesterday. A. J. Bell goes to Maynard, Iowa, to take charge of camp meeting beginning there to-day. District Attorney A. B. Thornell was here yesterday en route for Audubon to attend court there.

Mr. O'Meara, the traveling freight agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, was in the city yesterday. Miss Florence, of this city, who has been visiting her brother, George W. Thompson, has returned to her home in Rockford, Ill. Frank Hunt, of the Merchant's hotel, Sioux City, is paying a visit to the city, accompanied by his wife, and making his headquarters at the Pacific.

Yesterday morning Miss Ida King and Miss Annie Chiles, of this city, left for Dubuque, in company with two of the Sisters, intending to enter the convent there. The young ladies have many friends here, and have been thoroughly educated and cultured. They now intend to devote their lives and talents to the order into which they will soon be admitted.

Hepburn vs. Anderson. The convention held at Sidney seems to have been a stormy one. Chairman Eaton called the convention to order, and stated the object to be to elect nine delegates to the state convention and select a county chairman. J. H. Reynolds was chosen temporary chairman, and G. W. Gunnison temporary secretary.

The latter was of the Sidney delegation, and President Brooks of Labor college, raised the question whether a member of a contesting delegation could serve in that capacity. His point was overruled. Anson Root, of Randolph, who is also an anti-Anderson man, moved that a committee of one from each township be chosen as committee on credentials. A Monroe township man moved for the appointment of three: L. R. Kidd, Nick Lambert and George Williams. Here the anti-Anderson bugan, there being two contesting delegations in the room. The committee of three was finally selected.

Mr. Root then moved the following resolution: Resolved, That this convention will not recognize any delegates appointed by a caucus which has publicly endorsed the regular nominee of the democratic party in the Eighth district. This motion was overruled and the resolution laid on the table.

The committee on credentials reported and then President Brooks moved to rule out the Monroe township delegation "because in their caucus they had endorsed a democratic nominee for congress." This was the dividing vote of the convention, the motion being lost by 27 to 66.

Mero Webster was elected permanent chairman and Mr. Gunnison secretary. Mr. Root moved that the convention endorse the regular nominee for congress, W. P. Hepburn. This was lost by the same vote—27 to 66.

At this point Judge Dalby, of Hamburg, throwing his coat over his arm, stated that he had come to attend a republican convention, and not being a delegate to a democratic convention, he would excuse himself from further participation. Starting out, other delegates followed with considerable enthusiasm. They adjourned to a neighboring school house and there held a convention and selected their delegates. They adopted resolutions endorsing Hepburn.

The regular convention proceeded with its work, selected its delegates, elected Mero Webster as chairman of the county committee, passed resolutions instructing for Ben and Auditor and for an attorney general, also resolutions condemning Hepburn as a monopolist and not in sympathy with the common people, and endorsing Anderson as the opposite.

Fatally Shot. There was some excitement caused yesterday morning by the exaggerated report that another man had been shot by the saloonists. All this arose from the fact that F. W. Halderman, of Avoca, accidentally shot himself while preparing to make a raid upon the saloons of Minden. Mr. Halderman is well known in this part of Iowa, and has lived in Avoca for fifteen years past. He has been engaged in the nursery business, and in addition to his private business has been tilling the public one of constable. He started with others Sunday night to go to Minden to serve some warrants and seize some liquors supposed to be there. About three miles from Minden he stopped at the house of F. W. Kenney for breakfast, and after rising from the table he went out to the barn in changing a Remington rifle from his buggy to another the accident occurred. There was another rifle in the buggy, and in handling the rifle, the ball entering his right groin and passing downward and out. Surgical aid was immediately sent for, and a messenger sent for his wife. From the character of the wound, it was considered a blood and the lack of immediate surgical attendance death speedily followed. Dr. Macrea was on the incoming Rock Island train, and a message reaching him, he stopped at Minden and placed the man in a place, but when he arrived the man was dying.

Of the party with Halderman only two were from Avoca. The others, twenty-seven in number, were from Valley township. His friend was standing beside him when he was arranging the rifle in the buggy, and suddenly Halderman fell. His friend asked "who fired that shot?" to which Halderman replied "my own gun, and I am dead." His last words were "I have nothing to regret, I die in the performance of my duty." His wife arrived about 8 o'clock, but he was already insensible. The body was taken to Avoca yesterday afternoon, and will be taken to West Liberty, Ia., for interment. Mr. Halderman came into considerable prominence in the capture of the Polk county murderers some time ago. He was in charge of the company which had such a struggle with the desperadoes, and it was during this time that on occasion caused his name to become familiar all over the state. He has many friends to whom the news of the sad accident will cause sorrow, and the tenderest sympathies will be felt for the family.

A Business Men's Club. A move is on foot for the organization of a business men's social club. It is proposed to have the club organized, directly from the board of trade, and other organizations before started here. This new organization will be more in the nature of those so successfully operated in eastern cities. The purpose is to secure suitable rooms, conveniently located and attractively furnished, and have these open for members and their friends from elsewhere every afternoon and evening.

Those of like character in the east have proved very successful. They have generally a parlor nicely furnished, a reading room and general lounging and smoking room, where games of various kinds can be played, and some add a billiard room. No drinking or gambling is allowed, and those playing billiards pay some nominal sum, enough to maintain the table. In some places the receipts from the table, the cigar stand, and some other small sources, are enough to pay the running expenses, without making any assessments on the members beyond the initiation fee. The rooms being open every day and evening, business men who want to see each other after business hours, make it a meeting place. Any member having a friend visiting the place, and desirous of meeting business men, can find more of them there in a shorter space of time in the evening than any where else. The business men are thrown together in a social and informal way, and it is easier to get moves started for the general good of the town, than by trying to call a formal meeting once a month.

The move here also contemplates the providing amusement for the members and their friends outside of the club rooms. It is proposed to give two barges for the use of members and their friends on the lake, and to provide other means of outdoor as well as indoor amusement. It is believed that the business men of the city will get together more frequently by these social means than by the more formal ones, and when there is any move on foot for the bettering of the city or for starting any new enterprise, the feelings and interests of the business men can be more readily reached than in any other form of organization.

As a pleasant place to entertain visitors to the city and business men from other places, it will also meet a want long felt. The subscription papers are now being circulated for the securing of members, and when a sufficient number have subscribed a meeting will be called for the purpose of perfecting the organization and deciding upon details.

Now He Won Trade Horses. There are usually one or more gangs of horse-traders hovering about the city waiting for snekers, and they are quite successful in catching them. Yesterday a farmer living about two miles north of Glenwood was the victim. He came here with a pretty fair team and a wagon, and while basking in the shade on Fourth street was approached by one of the traders, who offered him a big chance to swap one of the team for a large gray horse, a fine looking animal. The gray caught the farmer's eye, and he remembered that one of his horses was not only small but inclined to balkiness. He always balked at the wrong time, too, and he did not care to have the horse-trader try him, lest this should be one of the times, and surely a wrong one. He looked over the gray horse, and asked the trader if he would warrant him. The trader proudly swore that the gray was free from all "incumbrance," and the farmer taking this to mean that he was sound in all respects, hastened to swap even. The exchange was made, and the farmer started to drive the newly matched team down the street to try the gray. The gray proved to be badly wind-broken, and before he had driven him a block the gray could be heard pumping in a mile away. By the time he had discovered how badly he had been sold and was roaring along and offered to trade him a bay mare for the gray. Only too glad to get rid of the gray he paid $700 for the bay mare, and hitched her up. She had not gone a hundred yards before she began spouting blood from her nose and almost tumbled down. Several rushed up to the farmer, and he was told that if he didn't look out he would have a dead horse on his hands. He would cost him more to bury it than the horse was worth. It was going to die sure. Rattled and frightened he quickly accepted an offer made him, and sold the mare for $5. The buyer got her up, and walked her off, and then it began to dawn on the farmer's mind that he had been coolly robbed out of a horse and $2 in money. He had but one horse left out of his team and had $2 less in his pocket book, and had nothing to take home to show his wife in the place of it. It did not take him long to learn that the fellows belonged to the same gang, and that they had shrewdly got his mare and part of his money away from him, without giving him anything in return. The trades had been made within the limits of the law, however, and he could do nothing but tie up the tongue of the wagon, tie up his own tongue, and walk home with one solitary horse hitched to a double wagon. The next time that he thinks of going rid on a bay horse, he will not try to do so by trading with strangers so much sharper than himself.

Crumbs From Court. The district court at Harlan has been so occupied with civil cases that no criminal cases have been tried. There are twelve in jail, awaiting a trial there, and five more who are to be brought in on indictments found by the grand jury. As the court was to open in Audubon yesterday, and there was a civil case not finished, the criminal calendar will have to go over. Court will open at Audubon on Wednesday.

The case of Winkelman vs. Green county has been on trial at Harlan. Attorney McElroy appears for the plaintiff and Attorney Russell for the defendant. This is a case similar to the one of Cooper vs. Mills county, in which such heavy damages were given against the county on account of a bridge giving away, causing injury to the plaintiff. The suit is for $15,000. The case was being argued yesterday, and will doubtless reach a decision to-day.

Another important case which has taken up considerable time was that of Heoben vs. Hine. This was a case of slander, the plaintiff being a domestic employed on an adjacent farm to that of the defendant. Hine was the one killed by Mendenhall, by being hit over the head with a chair some time ago. This suit is against the estate. The jury gave the slandered girl only $1, although she sued for $30,000. Her attorneys will take an appeal.

The City Council. At the city council meeting last night the city attorney reported that the common carriers' ordinance was illegal, so far as it compelled men working by the day, hauling coal, etc., to take out a license. He was instructed to remodel the ordinance. He also reported that the council had power to appoint a city scavenger and compel people to remove garbage. Concurred in.

It was reported that the city could not legally donate a lot to a hospital association, but such lot must remain under city control.

D. C. Bloomer, in behalf of his client, D. C. Howe, stated that he had a judgment against the city for $10,000, and asked that a levy be made. He also requested that the library levy be increased from one-half to three-fourths of a mill. No action taken.

E. E. Aylesworth also asked that the city be made to pay his judgment of $1,000 against the city.

The council rejected the claim of J. C. Reagan for $1,800 claimed for interest and other items on his old paving contract.

The city marshal was instructed to strictly enforce all health ordinances. Adjourned until 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Sidney Shortstops. SIDNEY, Ia., August 16.—Robt. Simons, of the Union, narrowly escaped an old-fashioned thumping at the hands of one Sturgeon, an unoffending pensioner, whose name had found a conspicuous place in Mr Simons' last issue in an uncalculated manner, as he regarded. The marshal interposed and prevented serious results.

Some interest is being manifested in the rumored prospect of the continuation of the Humiston & Shanandoah railroad from Shanandoah, through Sidney to Weeping Water.

During the past week the county board negotiated a sale of $40,000 of bonds at 44 per cent, $20,000 payable at option after five years, and $20,000 at any time the county sees fit.

Badly Punished. There was a disgraceful saloon row last night at the "Do Drop In," on Broadway. Billy Speer, a plasterer, was the victim, and he was badly used up. His nose was broken, and he was bruised and pounded so that he had to be taken home in a carriage. Dr. Bellinger cared for his wounds, which are of a severe but not dangerous nature. The proprietor of the saloon, McNulty, and his bartender were arrested.

One of the district telegraph boys named Rogan, was last night set upon by three dogs, while responding to a call on Pierce street. He was quite badly bitten.
