Prince Alexander's Deposition a direct Slap at England.

AND A COMPLETE SURPRISE.

Story of his Downfall and the Comments of the Press-Sofia in a State of Seige - European Sentiment.

The Bulgarian Bounce.

The Bulgarian Bonnes.

London, August 24.—The Daily News this morning says: It is obvious that Prince Alexander was deprived of his throne by direct orders of the ezar. The official version of the revolution is so diagrantly and transparently dishonest that it will not deceive a child. The effect may be extremely serious. Russia's action is absolutely unwarrantable and without excuse. The argument of the Berlin Post that the revolution implies a Russian In Post that the revolution implies a Russian victory over English influence in the east is absurd. No power is less interested than England. Alexander was nominally the vassal of the sultan and if it can be shown that he was deposed without the sultan's consent, a grave international difficulty will at once be russed. will at once be raised.

tan's consent, a grave international difficulty will at once be raised.

SALISBURY RETURNS.

LONDON, August 22.—Salisbury returned to London this morning. He had a long interview with the Earl of bidesteigh, foreign minister. The coup d'etat in Bulgaria was a complete superise to both ministers. The securities which were affected by the first receipt of the news from Sona are now recovering. A dispatch from Vienna to the Times, contains the following: "Prince Alexander was denosed by a conspiracy. He was escorted to Widdin to embark thence on Sunday for Severin, in Wallachia, Raumania. A dispatch from Bucharest, capital of Roumania, states all news from Buigaria comes at present through official couriers and that no private person is allowed to enter or leave Bulgaria. The telegraph lines, the dispatch adds, have all been stopped from operation. The story of deposition is as follows: Karaveloff, prime minister, entered the palace at Sophia and explained to Alexander that public opinion of Bulgaria was dissatistied with his policy and demanded his disposition. The prince said: "I see no friends, I cannot respt."

As public meeting has been held in Sofia and Hustebuk and in all of them procedure.

friends, I cannot resist."

As public meeting has been held in Sofia and Rustchuk and in all of them proclamation of the change of the government was received with favor. The people rejoice over the conp which they say ended an intolerable situation. The Bulgarians are pursuaded Russia will now assist them to consummate a union which they think it was Turkey's design to frustrate. Alexander was taken completely by surprise. He was astonished at the sudden bursting of the plot upon him. Karaveloff had managed the whole affair livith such secreey that the only indication of the such secreey that the only indication of the coming storm was the mutinous spirit no-ticeable among the troops. The prince bad ordered the circulation of papers among 3cm which openly declared that he alone was the only obstacle to the union, but his orders in this respect were not obeyed.

The affection of the common people for the

in this respect were not obeyed.

The affection of the common people for the prince remains undeminished. A telegram from Bucharest says the Roumanians are very much excited over the Bulgarian er sis. King Charles is personally presiding over a special meeting of the cabinet hastily summoned, and Premier Bretanio is returning from Goodra with all musible speed. from Goodra with all possible speed.

ACTIVITY AT THE FOLLEGN OFFICE.

LONDON, August 23.—News of Alexander's deposition was received at the British foreign office yesterday afternoon. The Earl' of Iddesleigh, foreign minister, went during the evening to the office and dispatched messengers with the news to all the cabinet ministers known to be in the city. He sent a special courier to Salisbury at Hatfield house. There has been great activity at the foreign office all day to-day and almost conforeign office all day to-day and almost con-tinuous telegraphic communication has been kept up with foreign capitals.

NGLAND CA London, August 23.—The ministerialists admit that the deposition of Prince Alexander is a matter of extreme gravity, but say even if it is proved that Russia instigated the movement it will be difficult for England to interfere, because it is generally assumed that Austria and Germany acquiesced in Alexander's overthrow. The government Alexander's overthrow. The government has been reliably informed that Alexander is safe and well in Roumania.

THE PORTE'S PROCLAMATION. London, August 23.—The porte will per-force act with the powers regarding Bul-garia. Meanwhile it has sent another note garia. Academic it has sent another note announcing that, with a view to prevent a conflict, it has instructed the special Turkish commissioner at Sofia to inform the provisional government that it will be answerable for the maintenance of order pending the porte's decision regarding the situation.

NO SURPHISE IN RUSSIA.

St. Petershurg, August 23.—The Russian press is less surprised at the deposition of Prince Alexander than it was when Rommania voted in 1885. The newspapers have generally believed for some time past that the political tension in Bulgaria foreshadowed a catastrophe. The Viedomashe says: "Russia must now speak her weighty word if she does not wish to lose control of Bul-garian destinies." The Nervosti says it is highly probable that Russia will intervene is highly probable that Russia will intervene necessities and establish a new order of things in Bulgaria, and adds: "With Alexander deposed, Bulgarian sympathy with Russia will revive." Most of the Russian press observe that the foreign press manifests a confusion of ideas respecting the relations between the flires emperors. between the three emperors, SOFIA, August 23.—The city has been de-clared in a state of seige.

THE PRINCE IS ON THE SEA.

BUCHARKST, August 28.—Prince Alexander embarked on his yacht At Rahova yester day and proceeded to Guirgero, whence he comes here.

THERE IS TROUBLE AREAD. LONDON, August 25.—A Bucharest dispatch says there are rumors that a military movement is impending at Widdin and elsewhere in favor of Alexander, also that Stambouloff, president of the Bulgarian chamber, is organizing a meeting in favor of Alexander. Advices from Widdin say the army is dissatisfied with the present state of affairs and the town classes. and the town classes are still ignorant of what has happened. The court had ordered that universal Mussulman conscription be proceeded with immediately and the reserves summoned for service. The occupation of the frontiers of Maccdonia and Roumelia has been ordered.

TEPOPS LOYAL TO ALEXANDER.
BUCHAREST, August 28.—The garrison at Shumla remain faithful to Prince Alexander Shumla remain faithful to Prince Alexander and refuse to recognize the provisional government. A number of Bulgarians and prominent Bussophobists have already fled to Rouvania. The fugitives include in their number many Russian nihilists who were serving as officers on the Bulgarian flottila. It is now believed that Prince Alexander is confined in a monastory near Solia.

ODINION IN GERMANY.

OPINION IN GERMANY.

BERLIN, August 23.—The Post, Bismarck's organ, publishes an article on the Bulgarian organ, publishes an article on the Bulgarian crisis which is characterized by annability of expression toward Russia and friend-liness to England. Detiers, the Russian liness to England. Decrees, the Russian foreign minister, who is sojourning at Franzensbad, will it is stated, aimost im-mediately visit Bismarck, and Kainoky, Austrian minister of foreign affairs. The Austrian minister of foreign affairs, opinion is general here that Germany Austria sacrinced Alexander of Bulgaria order to preserve the alliance with Russia at the expense of England. Public opinion in Germany sympathizes with Alexander in his misfortune.

PAYORS THE DEPOSITION.
LONDON, August 23.—The French feeling favors Prince Alexander's deposition because the prince is German. Frenchmen hope that Russia's action in the emergency may embroil the central European powers. Nobody in Paris believes these powers are convised at Prince Alexander's exputsive exputsion. convised at Prince Alexander's expulsion.

A GREAT RACE. George Defeats Cummings in the Fastest Time on Record.

LONDON, August 22 - [New York Herald Cable Special to the Bur. |-Inasmuch as Commings is soon going to New York, and George is well known there, some particular of the mile race between them this evening at Lillebridge may interest your randers From eight to ten thousand people were ptesent. The stake was £250, Never was a tiner evening. Commings was ready on the ground long before his opponent. In fact, the latter did not arrive until several minutes after the appointed time, and it was getting dark when he did so. He was attired in athletic costome, similar to that which I wore last year, and Cummings again adopted the plain white Jersey and pants, with light blue, short drawers. Instead of using the same track as they did twelve months ago, the inner one, or that of four laps to the mile was selected, and this enabled the quarters to be taken more easily. It might be mentioned that the men ran on the left-hand side, Although George was late, all was very soon in readiness, and at half past seven began one of

THE MOST DETERMINED RACES ever witnessed. Cummings won the toss, and as expected, chose the inner berth. The pistol firer no sooner had asked the pair "are you ready," than crack went the pistol and thus commenced the race. Cummings, being on the inside, was the first to show the front, but he had hardly gone fifty yards before he was

PASSED BY HIS ADVERSARY, then on the far side. George considerably improved his pace, but this had no material effect on Cummings. On covering the half lap George was three yards in front. Thus they progressed for the first quarter, which distance was accomplished in 58% Singularly enough the half mile was covered in 2:02, the exact time that it took George last August. The third quarter was accomplished in 1:05%. It was at this stage that the interesting part of the race began. Just on completing the three-quarters of a mile Cummings had orders to go in front, and this he did

AMID GREAT EXCITEMENT. Cummings, who was on the far side in the last circuit, was showing the way by about two yards, but no sooner had George rounded the turn than he spirted up to the Scotchman's shoulders. The latter once more dashed along and appeared to hold his own, but his adversary slowly and surely, but fairly, wore him down. Cum mings had shot his bolt, while George was running on in the grandest style, and passed the post, winner of one of

THE MOST SLASHING RACES ever seen. The record had been beaten. When this was known the cheering was vociferous. The previously best time for a mile was Cummings' 4m 161-5s, when he defeated Duddle at Boston, But now George can boast a record that will take some trouble in lowering, his time for the full mile being 4:12%. The time for the four quarters were: George-First quarter, 58% sec.; the half, 2:2. Cummings-The threequarters, 3:7% sec. George-The one mile 4:12%

Speeches By Hicks-Beach and Labouchere—The Government's Plans.

LONDON, August 23 .- In the commons to night Sir Michael Hicks-Beach reported a commission to enquire into the Belfast riots -General Sir Redvers Buller, and two Irish the government proposed to add to the com mission an officer of experience, namely Chief Constable McHardy, of Lanarkshire.

Labouchere, in the debate on the address in reply to the queen's speech, said Lord Randolph Churchill's recent electoral mani festo was an insult to the radical party. The speaker urged Irishmen to continue their efforts by legitimate means to obtain their rights as a nation struggling to be free. [Cheers]. The followers of Parnell had a right to be proud of their leader. The accusation that they were mercenary in receiving aid from America came with ill grace from English members who were not above pecuniary aid from the ducal house in the last election. Continuing he said that win-ter was approaching and the military were assisting in evictions of the people, many o whom were cast out upon the road side. Irishmen could not be blamed if they refused to submit tamely to such treatment, but he warned them that disorder would only serve as an excuse for resisting home rule and would insure coercion.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach said it was the duty of the government to restore order and administer government in Ireland with the law as they found it. The policy of the government was a plain and sober one. It was to promote the solid and material welfare of Ireland, and to assist the Irish in obtaining rest from the ceaseless political agitation to which they have been so long subjected. [Laughter and cheers.] He (the speaker) be-lieved that the troubles in Belfast were due to the unfortunate proposals of the late govern-ment. [Cheers.] The government proposed two things—to administer law, and to consider carefully a scheme of decentralization tion in the direction of local self-govern-ment, framed upon a popular basis. [Par-nellite laughter]. The latter scheme would nellite laughter]. The latter scheme would be framed as far as possible to meet the exegencies of Ireland [cheers], but in accordance with the verdict of the last elections. [Cheers]. That was their whole policy. The government hoped when their tenure of office closed they would leave Ireland more peaceful orderly and pressurements than they peaceful, orderly, and prosperous than they found it. [Cheers].

Parnell's amendment to the address in reply to the queen's speech, is as follows: "We humbly assure your majesty that we fear that owing to the heavy fall in the prices of agricultural produce, the greatest difficulties will be experienced during the coming winter by the Irish tenant-farmers in payment of the present rents. Many will be unable to pay and numerous evictions and confiscation of rights vested in tenants by the Lovd Act of 1881 will follow, causing widespread suffering and endangering the maintenance of social order. We ing the maintenance of social order. We deprecate any attempt to transfer the loss due to inability to pay rent from owners of land to the tax payers of Great Britian and Ireland by any extension of state assisted purchase on basis of rents fixed when prices were higher than now.

Gladstone and Home Rule.

LONDON, August 23.-Gladstone, in the course of an address at Chiselburst Saturday said: "The enthusiasm of British friends of the home rule idea is an incentive to me to never be beaten in it, but to continue the struggle for the happiness of Ireland. Although there may have been prejudices between Great Britain and Ireland, the fact that in the recent elections 1,400,000 Englishmen and Scotchmen voted in behalf of Ireland showed that prejudice is fast disappearing. Let me consult any book or nation in the world, and will not find one which does not say the relations of England and Ireland under the union have been miserable for Ireland and dishonorable to England. If the country desires to redeem her honor and enable her parliament to attend to its pressing business of imperial legislation, the Irish question must be set-tled."

Evicted Into the Workhouse.

DUBLIN, August 23.-Sixty tenants who have been evicted from their homes on the estate of the Marquis of Ely in Wexford, entered New Ross to-day accompanied by an humense procession. Four hundred horse-men were in line and music was furnished by a number of brass bands. After attend-ing a political meeting the evicted tenants matched in a body to the workhouse.

Gossip From London. LONDON, August 23 .- [New York Herald Cable - Special to the Beg.] - Current society and the sporting journals furnish a good menu of gossip for idlers on the Welsh Mountains, at the Scottish lakes, in sumptuous county mansions and at the seaside resorts, like Margate, Sardon's, Coney Island, the Isle of Wight, the Newport, or at the hundred of bathing spots from lands, and around to Scarbeloe.

They came to town in the season, and aided by Lady Milkwalk and others, carried all before them. English society will revolt sooner or later, and the consequences may be serious. Already one can see the smoke that precedes the conflagration. The question is, which side will the Marlborough house set be on when the crash

The prettiest of the Ameril can women, however, is undoubtedly Mrs. Rocke, who is accompanied by her sister. But we are only at the beginning of the nerican invasion. It sometimes geome hat in due course we shall be ruled socially by Americans, just as America is ruled politically by Irishmen. The best dressed women are now patronizing men's boot-makers, just as they patronize men's sailors.

THE MOST WONDERFUL BOOTS. n all the world are those sported by the adies, who go a newmarketing. Ladies are to appear more manly than ever this year. Improvers have been improved off the garment of woman, and a good tailor-made dress is a work of art and a joy forever.

MOVEMENTS OF NOTABLES. The Court Journal announces: The Duc d'Aumale has decided upon fixing his town residence in Ennksmare Gardens and has taken the Moncaryo house, which was built by Mr. Sandeman, and Princess Louise and the Marquis of Lorne contemplate another visit to Canada before long.

AN ACTRESS' DIRTY LINEN. The Whitehall Review ethically recounts: I suppose," said Miss Cameron, "there is a deal of talk in town about my matter." Thus runs the paragraph in an interview. It is quite true the case has caused excitement. It as also advertised the company traveling under the auspices of Lord Lonsdale. It has also furnished extra garbage to that which is thrown at stage life. It is another instance of theatrical dirty linen being washed in the newspapers, and of the deight which actresses seem to take in giving as much publicity as possible to matters which concern their domestic, rather than their professional lives. Mis Cameron has on this occasion been the washerwoman of her own linen.

The Whitehall Herald sums up the St. Leger event in this curt fashion: Less than a month will bring us face to face with the Doneaster meeting and the St. Leger, dear to the hearts of all Yorkshiremen, who will, nowever, be sorely taken to get up the cusomary enthusiasm over this year's contest. A less eventful cellinger cannot be called to mind, fining down, as it is doing, into a one-horse affair, with Ormande as the hero.

LADY BRASSEY'S GOAL REACHED. Modern society felicitates Lady Brassey. She has reached the goal of her fondest hopes. No one who has engaged in society's strife for the many past years more deserves to do so. On such a goal as a peerage have her eyes, through all her well-chronicled doings, been undoubtedly fixed. Early in her career it was Mrs. Brassey's charge as hostess that broke down the barriers of ill-concealed prejudice. Her dinners were perfection, and the other entertainments on the same princely scale, and men soon discovered the fact, The savory smell of the Normanhearst kitchen even penetrated the thick walls of Marlborough house, and tickled the nostrils of the Prince of Wales. He sniffed, and behold!

Yes, he would graciously honor the Brasseys by stretching his legs under their mahogony, and he did. From that time all went well severally for the wealthy givers of the splendid feeds. Every day they became more popular. Every day they were more talked about. The tale of the Brasseys being lineal descendants from some "De Brassi," who came over with William the Norman and shared his sins, is no new invention, as some have impudently implied, nor is Lady Brassey a nobody, but the descendant from the knightly family of Amatt, of Bucks, dating from 1580 and maternally from the Burnetts, of Leys. Wherefore let parvenus

AN AMERICAN SPORT'S HARD LUCK. Life puzzles the American colony with this paragraph; "A son of an American senator came over from Amerlea just before the Ascot with the intention of rooking the bookmakers, both at that meeting and at Goodwood. He may be seen now, waiting for remittances from his father, in the neighbohood of Charing Cross, having done all the rooking he intends to do this summer.

PERSONAL MENTION. Court and Society contains the personal items: "The Duke of Newcastle intends to make a two years' tour around the world. He will leave England late in September for the United States, and after visiting them thoroughly will proceed to San Francisco and thence to Japan.

"Mr. Parnell and party have been out after grouse over part of the Wicklow Mountains, on the shootings which the uncrowned king hares with Lord Fitz William. "Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes has volumes ontaining his English experiences already on the stocks."

A REVEREND BARNUM Another page has been added to the history of advertising by a London clergyman. This mateur Barnum converted himself into a living sandwich between a couple of boards, setting forth that he desired to raise a sum of £1,200 and requesting donations. He got 2s 6d and narrowly escaped being run in. THE BLENHEIM SALE.

The Bat declares: "The concluding days of the Blenheim sales were mainly remarkable for the scant attendance of bidders. Nominally the result was £62,000, but when it is considered that the entire business was managed by Agnew, who bought in to the extent of £18,000, the gilt is decidedly rubbed off the gingerbread. Many emment foreign dealers complained bitterly over this system of buying in the chief lots which, it was suposed, would be put up without reserve, and which they had come especially to bid for."

A NEW DEPARTURE IN WEDDINGS. The Bat invites attention to the latest departure in the over ornamented marriage ceremonial in the case of a reverened gentleman. He was escorted to the altar by the orthodox best man and three groomsmen. The idea was sweetly pretty, but will add new horror to the life of a pater familias with marriageable daughters. We may now expect to read in the description of weddings that "the bridegroom was attended by eight groomsmen, each of whom wore a handsome diamond and pear scarf vin, the gift of the bride," and to have an elaborate account of the groomsmen's costaines.

A BRASSEY PEDIGREE. St. Stephens Review claims that the Brassey pedigree reminds it of a clever lad, who was sent to Eton by his pater, who had amassed a fortune as a poulterer. The new boys were catechised about their ancestors and antecedents. One was the son of a parson, another was the son of a squire, and a third of an officer in the army, and soon it came to our youth, who avered that his father was a Turkey merch int, thereby saving eternal veracity and the family honor.

LORD SALISBURY'S BEGINNING. The St. Stephens Review also claims that Lord Salisbury has begun well, for one of his first orders was that fruit from the vice regal gardens should be distributed through the Dublin hospital and for sold. The Sunday papers describe, it says, the viceroy as a descendant of "The Castle reagh," This is impossible, as that ill-starred statesman had no

EMPTY LONDON In admitting that London is, conventionally speaking, empty, it adds: "Except in the park and the west end squares and streets, London presents much the same aspect as it did a month ago. There are constant arrivals of Americans, some of whom have come to take houses and apartments for next year in view of the show at Earle Court."

A GREAT SPORTING EVENT. The Illustrated Sporting News opines that never since racing began can there have been a greater certainty for a big event than Ormond for the St. Leger. If he escapes mishaps during the next four weeks it is difficult to see what horse can have a hundredto-one chance of preventing him from carrying off the treble event. Peregrine would inevitably have repeated his two-thousand victory and avenged his Derby defeat on Iroquois had he kept sound till the St. Leger day. Walking from King Clire up to the Downs one day, along the same road that Ormond walks, Peregrine trod on a sharp stone and cut his foot. The undue strain was thrown on the other leg, and on that consequence Peregrine broke down. A SMALL AFFAIR. Bird o' Freedom's member of Tattersall's oins the sporting chorus in predicting that the St. Leger is fast becoming a one-horse racer. One hundred to thirty was offered on Ormonde, who made a bound in favoritism to-day. In West End circles seven hundred o two hundred was offered on him in a bet. Great fat speculators in the city have been doing a rare business on the Casarowitch. One of them backed the following ten in a lump to-day at one thousand to thirty each: Carelton, Bandmaster Jones, Haredon, Sir Haredon, Sir Hamo, Don Juan, Chelsea, Charmion, St. Gatien and Riversdale.

A SPORTING ANCEDOTE. The Bird contributes this ancedote: "Do you know the nature of an oath, madam?" inquired Mr. Baron Huddleston of a nervous

"Well I ought to. My busband makes a starting price book."

THE DERBY'S DECLINE. The Sporting Times, or the Pink 'Un. discussing the great £10,000 stake at Sandown, argues this must bereafter effect the Derby and other great fields, The Sporting Times avers that the eminent trainer, John Porter, has stated his fears for the future welfare of the Derby which, under its present condition, are sure to suffer now that the mammoth prices have sprung up. John has tutored mord Derby winners than the average trainer could anticipate, and he is evidently ambitious of taking further honors at Epsom. If the Derby should cease to be the "blue ribben," it would be a national misfortune. But although it will be some years ere the masses cease to regard Derby day as other than a national holiday, it is equally certain that the race will continue to draw if the race committee, the grand stand proprietors, the railway companies and the caterers for the inner man do not speedily see fit to bluff a bit. The experiment of the Eclipse stake has put thousands into the pockets of the Sandown Park people, and a £10,000 Derby would receive enough subscribers and to spare to recoup the outlay. pected to-morrow.

Medina Waives Prosecution.

EEt PASO, August 21,-At 11:30 this morning Cutting was taken before Judge Castenada and the official minutes of the Supreme court, citing the decree releasing him from further custody, were read. The decision is based entirely upon the fact that Medina, the offended party, had waived his right to a civil suit for damages, the court holding this ended the proceedings of the state. Cutting replied: "As long as I am not further detained as a prisoner, I accept my liberty, and request that the copy of the decree be given me for future use." The court consented to this in Spanish. To a reporter Cutting said:

"I can't understand what all this has to do with my card in the El Paso Herald, for which I was incarcerated and being tired at the time my government made a demand for my immediate release." It is said on the other side of the river that the Mexican constitution, prohibiling the resi-dence of agitators and other dangerous characters in the republic will be enforced against Cutting.

After Cutting had been set at liberty he, with Consul Brigham and a number of Americans went to the Casino on the corner to wait for a car on which they expected to leave the Mexican soll. Several Mexicans stepped toward Cutting, but the street car having arrived the Americans closed in around him and the party started for this side of the river.

AFTER A SECOND DIVORCE.

Woman Who Tried Her Husband Twice and Don't Like Him. WASHINGTON, August 23,-[Special Telegram to the Bee.]-Mrs. Helen Morrell Carroll to-day, by her attorney, J. Ambler

Smith, filed a petition praying for divorce from her husband, General Lemuel Sprigg Carroll, and the custody of their child; also that her husband be restrained from speaking to or in any way interfering with her during the pendency of the suit; also that he be ordered to pay into the registry of the court $300 each month up to the final decree of the court as alimony and reasonable counsel fees. The bill of complaint shows a rathe remarkable state of circumstances. In i Mrs. Carroll states that they were married, and later, to escape cruel treatment, she obtained a divorce. On April 29, 1885, at the urgent solicitation of General Carroll, and on his promise to abstain from strong drink, to love, cherish and honor her, they were remarried. For the ensuing twelve months he had determined to carry out his promise. Then he fell into the company of bad men and women, and his whoie conduct changed. He treated the complamant with great indignity and refused to furnish her with the necessaries of life. He began drinking again and trequently, when under such influence, abused her most shamefully, called her vile names and would curse and swear so that at times she was made ill. She states that he is a major general in the United States army on the re-tired list, and openly boasts that the courts here dare not interfere with him and that he will treat her as he chooses, Mrs. Carroll further charges that about the 25th of September, 1885, and at other times since, General Carroll com-mitted adultery with Adeline Sinclair, she keeping a disreputable house; also that he spent large sums of money in treating and buying wine for her and two other disreputa-ble characters in her house, and that he has been guilty of other acts of infidelity with lewd and abandoned women. Under these circumstances the petitioner prays for relief as above stated. General Carroll is an Obio man who fought gallantly through the war. His friends have known of his troubles for

A Street Car Tie-Up. New YORK, August 23.—Last week notice was posted in the offices of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Horse Railroad company, corner of Fiftieth street and Seventh avenue, announcing that a new time table go into effect schedule called for six trips instead of five, which they have been making. The time table was ingeniously arranged so that six trips were to be done in the twelve hours allowed by law. To effect this the hour for starting on the first trip in many cases was set much earlier than before, and the time for starting the last trip much later. The law takes no account of the time set between trips.

The local assemblymen met Saturday evening and the new table was discussed. They met after midnight last night and at 1;30 a. m, were discussing whether it would be bet ter to tie up the Broadway line alone or wait and persuade the men on the Sixth, Eighth, and Ninth avenues and belt lines to act and tie up all lines together. It was evidently decided to tie up the Broadway line at one and no cars on that line are running thi morning.
