ray Discharged-A United States Court Case, Etc.

The Cochran Case.

Quite a ripple was created in police court yesterday afternoon by Ithe testimony of Rev. Warren Cochthe aged defendant in he assault and pattery case which was mentioned in the BEE a week or two since. It may be remembered that Mrs. Cochran had her husband arrested for committing an assault upon her. The sensational facts of their marriage, and the aged divine's unhappy life since the marriage are still fresh in the minds of the public.

Both plaintiff and defendant were present yesterday afternoon with their attorneys and friends. Mrs. Cochran is a small, rather well-preserved woman; whose harsh features do not, it must be confessed, impress the average observer favorably. During the progress of the testimony, which was rather adverse to her side of the case, she glared alter-nately at her husband and the judge, shaking her yellow locks vigorously as the evidence now, and then took a turn unsatisfactory to her.

Mrs. Cochran was first put on the stand and told her story. She claimed to have been assaulted by her husband most outrageously, and also by a woman, Mrs. Allen, who happened in at the time and Joined in the attack. After she had re-lated her side of the case, Attorney Irvine, for the defense, asked her: "Mrs. Cochran. didn't you assault Mrs. Allen with a washboard, striking her over the head with it?"

"No, sir," she replied vigorously, "I did not. If I ain't mistaken, there wasn't no washboard in the house then." She was told that she could leave the witness stand. Mr. Cochran, the defendant, was called as the next witness.

The aged minister mounted the stand with difficulty. "You may tell your story now," said his attorney. "All there was to it," he said, "she attacked me and I defended myself. (Mrs. Coehran glanced wildly at him, but he continued, placedly.) On the morning of the trouble I had arisen early and gotten the breakfast, as I have had to do almost from the day I was married, as my wife long ago announced that she would never do anything for me. I had just finished washing the patatoes and was about to hang the dish up in the pantry when my wife came in attired in her night gown, and shoved me violently against the wall. At the same time she commenced to pour upon me a tirade of abuse

'What did she say?'' asked Attorney

Irvin. "In respect to the judge and these In Tespect to the Judge and these Indies here, I cannot repeat the language. It was both vulgar and profane. She called me, among other things, a devil. And I will simply say that since I have been married to this woman I have heard been married to this woman I have heard more nasty, obsene, profane talk than I ever listened to in all life before." "There, that will do!" shouled the at-torney for the plaintiff, jumping to his feet. "We don't care to listen to any more testimony of that sort." Mr. Cochran then testified that he had simply treated the woman firmly, and shoved her into the bedroom, instructing her to cress herself. After hearing both sides of the story Judge Stenberg dismis-sed the case,

Want the Land.

Mahala C. Stewart and others commenced suit in the United States circuit court yesterday to obtain possession of a quarter section of land in Thayer county, which, it is alleged, is wrongfully held by J.J.Stowe and Henry Hopkins. The latter, it is claimed, illegally obtained possession of the land through Annie G. Mitchell, of the land through Annie G. Mitcheil, who claimed to have obtained it from the St. Joseph & Western railway on a grant issued some years after Mrs. Stewart's grantor Henry Shock had received the land from the gov-ernment. It is alleged that Mrs. Mitchell's title to this land was confirmed by proceedings in the United States court which were illegal the United States court, which were illegal because the heirs of Henry Shock received no notice of the pendency of the the tricks by which so called mediums have been in the habit of deceiving the public. The entertainment will be in the form of an illustrated lecture. The professor and Mrs. Steen are said to do a number of wonderfal and seemingly impossible things, and the entertainment promises to be an interesting one. The inspiration for work among the in temperate and outcast in our city is found n the pledge made by Jesus, "I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me." THE WAR IS ON. A Red Bat Contest Brewing in the Republican Primaries Next Friday.

The republican primaries, which take place Friday evening, promise a very spirited contest. A great deal of activity is already manifest, especially on the part of Church Howe's strikers who are trying to corrall the purchasable element. With John Salher as general boodler, are associated Dennis Lane, Mike Meany, D. L. McGuckin, "Judge" Wright and half a dozen othher ward politicians of the boodle and repeater gang. Mike Meany, who has contracted to deliver the Second ward is organizing a shovel brigade. Dennis Lane is tramping from saloon to saloon with a large roll of greenbacks, organizing the lunch counter brigade. Dennis is a candidate for the legislature with an eye to revenue only, and he boasts that the Knights of Labor are for him to a man. Having carried Manville through last spring he feels confident of delivering the Sixth ward by the aid of the workingman's and the saloon bum-

There is every evidence to show that the burning of Mrs. Mann's house in South Omaha was the work of an incendiary. It now develops that the night of the fire there was a large tank of kerosene oil in an outhouse, and in the morning after this was found nearly empty, evidently having been used in setting the house on fire.
