

that General Black's name had been stricken from the lists. This was done, it is understood, because of a complaint in Grand Army circles that General Black's administration of the pension office had not been sufficiently efficient to bring the matter to a large warrent of his prominence in that organization that the response to a toast at the banquet would carry with it, upon hearing this General's name, the toast would promptly be refused to respond to the toast which had been allotted to him.

France and the American Hog.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Consul Dufrays of Havre, in a report to the secretary of state describes an abortive attempt on the part of commercial and labor organizations to secure the repeal of the decree against American pork. He concludes that it is so evident that nothing can be done on the part of the present government to do away with the discrimination against the commerce of a friendly nation, that the tariff commission change have been abandoned by those opposed to the prohibition. Millions of ill-paid and scantily fed laboring men of France continue to tribute to the French hog raising farmers.

BOILED IN A BATH TUB.
A Brooklyn imbecile scalded to death by a nurse.
BROOKLYN, Sept. 20.—(Special Telegram to the Bee.)—A nurse named Charles Edgerston scalded at French insane asylum, one of his duties being to administer a daily bath to an imbecile named Patrick McCarty. Sunday morning Edgerston made preparations to give McCarty his customary ablu-tion. No sooner had the man been placed in the water than he uttered a succession of piercing yells, and the nurse, supposing him unconscious, when removed from the tub it was discovered that the water was boiling, and that the imbecile had been literally boiled, his whole body being covered with blisters. The nurse carried the suffering man to his bed and summoned Dr. Shaw. The physician's efforts were unavailing, and the imbecile died four hours afterwards in terrible agony. The coroner, after obtaining Dr. Shaw's statement, swore out a warrant for the arrest of Edgerston, on the charge of manslaughter, and he was locked up.

Sullivan said that he weighed 210 pounds stripped when he faced Heard. He claimed that he was the manager of the fight, and received $500 out of the match with the Philadelphia boxer. When asked as to his future plans the champion said: "Mitchell is to arrive here before the end of the month. I shall probably wait here until he comes and will arrange a match with him, and possibly with Paddy Ryan, both to take place in San Francisco. After I have beaten both of them I shall meet all comers, and will accept of any challenge they intend to go to England and possibly to Australia."

BROUGHT DOWN HUMAN GAME.
A Sioux City Duck Hunter Kills a Companion Instead of Birds.
SIoux CITY, Ia., Sept. 20.—(Special Telegram to the Bee.)—Considerable excitement was caused in this city yesterday afternoon by the report that Floyd J. Tappan, of the firm of Sloan & Tappan, grocers, had accidentally shot and killed one of the clerks in his store while hunting ducks on Cook lake, seven miles west of the city. Saturday evening Mr. Tappan, Will Shaw and Fred Mather made arrangements to start early Sunday morning duck hunting. Everything being in readiness, on Sunday they drove out to Cook lake, leaving their team at Jerome Cunningham's, which is near the east bank. Here they secured a boat and went out upon the lake. As ducks were a little shy at this hour they went into ambush in a lot of reeds well out from the shore. Here they remained for some time, but finally Tappan, who was on the rear seat of the boat and Mather was in the front seat, they had not gone far when a few ducks raised in front of them. The ducks were at long range and Tappan, standing by the front of the boat, was the first to follow, and as he lowered his double-barreled gun and looked to see if he had hit the ducks he caught the sight of Mather settling down in the front of the boat. Tappan jumped out and into the water, which was about three feet deep, and hurried to the front of the boat, where he was horrified to see Mather all doubled up and a terrible wound in the head. Death came instantly, and the undertakers and Mather's parents, who live in Wisconsin, notified by telegram.

IMPROVED CIRCULATION.
A Democratic Editor Arrested for Swearing Too Loudly.
DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 20.—(Special Telegram to the Bee.)—R. J. W. Bloom, a lawyer and editor of the Hancock Democrat, was arrested Saturday on a bench warrant to answer an indictment for corrupt perjury by false swearing for a list of subscribers, whereby he got the county printing last January from the board of supervisors. Three papers then published in Iowa, the Hancock Democrat, Bloom, it is charged, by putting his list and swearing to it, got to be one of them. It is claimed that fully half of his list is bogus. The grand jury looked the case over some time since spring, but the indictment was found this term by Judge Ruddick's court. It is said that several members of the grand jury swore that they were on Bloom's list, yet they were not subscribers. He has been an applicant for the Britt postoffice, trying to get it away from O. C. Patterson, who is a good Democratic official.

A New Drug Store Wrinkle.
DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 20.—(Special Telegram to the Bee.)—Numerous protests have been made in Iowa, and in other parts of the state against the ruling of the pharmacy commission concerning concentrated lye and potash. The commission held that as these substances were poisonous they could only be sold by a registered pharmacist. But a great many country stores have been keeping these articles for sale, and they are very indignant, and their patrons still more so, and claim that the pharmacy commission has exceeded their power in trying to regulate grocery as well as drug stores.

A Missing Book Agent.
DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 20.—(Special Telegram to the Bee.)—A. T. Heath, Jr., postmaster at Spirit Lake, has been missing since the 8th inst. CLEVELAND CRITICIZED.
The President Handled Without Gloves For Neglecting Charleston.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(Special Telegram to the Bee.)—A democratic speech to-day to the Sun from Charleston shows that the people there, who have been very loth to criticize their administration, are losing patience and beginning to talk. The special says: "There is a good deal of feeling here about the manner in which President Cleveland has treated Charleston. It is generally remarked that the president has come angling and hunting in the Adirondacks, while the first city in the south, to which he owed his election, has been destroyed. A prominent democratic politician said to this correspondent: 'I don't know what to make of Cleveland. Here is a city absolutely destroyed—a city which may be considered as the brightest gem in his diadem—royally speaking, absolutely prostrated, and the president never let down his fishing rod for a moment to say a word of sympathy. The least he might have done would be to issue a proclamation expressing his sympathy for the city and calling upon the people of the United States to contribute to the relief of the people of America on this trouble; but President Cleveland seems to know nothing about the calamity in Charleston. It is reserved for a democratic president of the United States, elected by southern votes, to ignore the greatest calamity that has befallen our nation since the war, and to be himself catching trout while thousands of his fellow-citizens in Charleston are standing on the verge of starvation and have lost all they have in the world.' These are the words of a democratic politician. The sentiments expressed are shared by a large number of people here, who, however, are reluctant to give them utterance."

A Spicer Affair.
A woman was seen standing in the shadow of Dick Wilde's saloon last night evidently waiting for some one. She was waited long but her patience was rewarded. About 11 o'clock a cab drove up and a man and woman alighted and started up the stairway of an adjoining building. The woman on watch instantly sprang forward, seized the man and commenced doing him up in the most approved pugilistic style. A crowd gathered and surrounded the combatants, who were arrested by officers Tierney and Carroll and taken to the central station. The man gave his name as Johnson, but the woman said his name was Spicer and that she was his wife. She learned that he was going out with another woman and had watched for them. Both were locked up.

HE OBEYED ORDERS.
Secretary Ramsey's Adventure with a Sergeant.
Here is an anecdote, writes a correspondent of the Alta Californian, which recalls an episode occurring to one of Secretary Endicot's predecessors of the portfolio, Secretary Ramsey, of Minnesota. During the incumbency of the latter gentleman he indulged in a trip down the Potomac river one afternoon on board Admiral Porter's splendid motor yacht. Endicot, who was on the yacht made a landing at the pier, when the United States army, in the person of the grizzled old ordnance sergeant, hurried down and forbade the party from disembarking in any manner whatsoever, but polite, flavored with an unmistakable Milesian accent.

HE OBEYED ORDERS.
Secretary Ramsey, who is fond of a joke, vainly expostiated against closing the river to the admiral's yacht, but the "United States army" was obdurate and he was acting under orders of the secretary of war. After badgering him awhile, to the intense amusement of the company, Secretary Ramsey said: "Well, sergeant, I see you obey orders strictly, and as you are acting under authority of the secretary of war, only the secretary can revoke or modify the order."

HE OBEYED ORDERS.
"Exactly, gentlemen," sternly replied the old martinet. "So you might as well be off and not be pestering me any longer."

HE OBEYED ORDERS.
"Gentlemen," said Secretary Ramsey, turning to his friends, "will you kindly present me to the sergeant."

HE OBEYED ORDERS.
"Sergeant," said Admiral Porter, "permit me to introduce the secretary of war, your superior officer."

HE OBEYED ORDERS.
"Holy Moses!" ejaculated the veteran, as he brought his hand to salve. "And this is the secretary, and why didn't you know before what was coming? You would have been ready to receive 30 for inspection."

HE OBEYED ORDERS.
The pink of military propriety was in some distress. He had not been entirely polite, and felt himself dejected. He was, however, put at his ease by the secretary and the party ascended the hill into the fort, and were shown around the rapidly decaying quarters and other objects of interest and curiosity. The sergeant, however, got his revenge upon the secretary. When they approached the magazine the sergeant halted the party and triumphantly said: "There is the magazine, and with due respect, sir, I say you can't go into the magazine; that is against orders and regulations. There is just one place here over which you have no authority, sir, and I can't show you the magazine."

HE OBEYED ORDERS.
"Never mind the magazine," exclaimed the secretary. "You are entirely correct, sergeant. Turning to his friends, the secretary added, very emphatically: "Hang me, if the magazine is not just the place where I don't want to go, and prefer to give a mighty wide berth."

HE OBEYED ORDERS.
"Sure, there's a mistake in it, Mr. Secretary, but you can't inspect it, just the same, was the parting shot the sergeant fired at the secretary as the party withdrew.

The Omaha & Northern.
The Omaha freight bureau has taken hold of the Omaha & Northern railway scheme in earnest. The meeting held last evening for consideration of the question was attended by an excellent representation of the leading jobbers, merchants and capitalists of the city, all of whom took a lively interest in the proceedings. President Brady presided. Secretary Gibbon read the following call for the meeting which had been made by the executive committee of the bureau:

Whereas, A careful review of the railroad situation, with due reference to the commercial interests of this city, satisfies us that discriminations have been, are being, and are to be made against us, and that to be exercised against us to the serious detriment of our trade, and

Whereas, In view of the fact that railroad extensions now being made through this state, as well as in view of those contemplated by foreign corporations, we recognize not only a distinct and growing competition, but a decided intention to still further foster the business of Chicago to our great injury in establishing direct connections and traffic relations between that city and interior Nebraska points, Therefore,

Resolved, That in the furtherance of these views, the president of the board be directed to call a special meeting of the bureau on Monday evening next at 8 o'clock, at the rooms of the board of trade.

The following resolutions were presented and adopted by the bureau:

Resolved, That the views of our executive committee as expressed in the preamble and resolutions adopted by them at their meeting on Wednesday evening last, meet with the unqualified approval and hearty endorsement of this bureau, and that we kindly appreciate the urgent necessity existing for the immediate construction of a railroad to the northwest that shall be built and operated exclusively in the interest of the city of Omaha.

Resolved, That the committee be directed to select a permanent association for the purpose of furnishing evening entertainments during the fair, it was decided to organize permanently under the name of the Omaha Exposition Carnival association. The following officers were elected:

J. A. McShane, president; J. E. Riley, first vice-president; N. B. Falconer, secretary; F. W. Pickens, corresponding secretary; P. H. Allen, treasurer.

Executive Committee—J. E. Riley, chairman; Geo. Kay, C. F. Goodman, O. E. Howard, W. G. Henshaw, G. E. H. Howell, W. H. Taylor, C. Hackney.

A committee, composed of J. E. Riley, R. C. Walker and W. G. Shriver, was appointed to select a permanent and suitable name for the organization and to draft a constitution and by-laws for its government.

Mr. O. H. Gordon was selected to represent the association in the Grand Prophet's parade and the trades display at St. Louis, for the purpose of securing information for the aid of the association in arranging for their effort next year.

"The Golden Giant."
The McKee Rankin company appeared last night to an appreciative audience, which, owing to the length of the engagement, was somewhat less than the average in size, but the amount of warmth displayed ought to have atoned for any other deficiencies. Clay Greene's drama of "The Golden Giant" is an effort that might pass well enough as a hardware serial, but it is entirely too rambling and too full of stage representations of western life are not calculated to rouse enthusiasm in the city of Omaha.

Herb Lothory, who is managing McCormick and Tom Barker, recently of Buffalo, N. Y., West combination, who is training McCormick, has authorized the acceptance of the challenge, and invite Barker and Lothory to meet at Fallon's Cottonwood Villa this afternoon at 3 o'clock to arrange the details of the contest.

MAKING A RECORD.
At a late hour last night articles of agreement were signed for a glove contest of eight rounds between Al Marx, the Texas cowboy, and McCormick. The contest will be for the heavy-weight championship of the state and the entire proceeds to be given to the relief of the place in some public hall in Omaha on the evening of October 3.
