

GATHERED ABOUT THE CITY.

District Court Re-convenes Yesterday's Court Oulings.

CHIEF GALLIGAN'S ORDER. The Firemen Must Practice—Police Matters—Odds and Ends—Local Laconics—Rail Matters—General Local.

Court Items. The session of the district court for September commenced yesterday morning.

Charles O'Connor, Thos Van Alst, August Pratt, Henry Ehrenfort, William Neill, Morris Sullivan, Charles Childs, Peter Weiland, J. H. Lehman, Peter Shand, G. F. Peterson, M. Mangold, John Hammel, Edward C. Brilling, Edward Ainsworth, James Ewing, C. A. Coe, W. H. Potter, Louis Houtard, John Simms, M. M. Curran, Charles Bellwig, J. J. Nobes, P. E. Her.

Van Alst was excused for yesterday morning and Her was also excused for the same time. Louis Heimrod was excused till September 27. G. F. Peterson did not appear because he was not served.

The judges then listened to a large number of motions as the docket was called. Today the business of the court will get into a condition to enable the judges to begin with the disposition of many of the cases.

The following cases have been set for a hearing before Judge Neville to-day: Hendrix vs Mills et al., Horton & Co. vs Trossin et al., St. Louis Bell and Iron company vs Omaha Rail and Iron company, Union Pacific railway company vs Omaha, Hallett & Co. vs Metz Bros, brewing company, Page et al vs Steele et al, Krug vs Nugot et al, Locke vs Miller et al.

The billiffs were sworn in. They are J. N. Phillips, Henry Grebe, Louis Grebe and Frank Buchner.

Heavy Damages. Yesterday afternoon Deputy United States Marshal Allen served papers on Messrs. William Gronoweg and John Schoentgen, the Council Bluffs grocers, in an action for damages brought against them by Karl Lay, of Stanton, Neb. The plaintiff, in his petition, states that the defendants, in December, 1883, had him arrested on an alleged false charge of obtaining $700 worth of goods under false pretenses. Mr. Lay was tried and acquitted. He seeks damages in the sum of $10,000.

Wanting a Divorce. Frank Colley, who was married to Ada Colley in '80 in Clay county, in this state, now sues for a divorce from her in the district court on the charge of adultery. It is claimed she is now living in adultery with a man named McCormick, in Cupid, Frontier county.

Stole a Saddle. Fred Roth and Charles Tuttle, two young thieves, were sent to the county jail by Judge Stenberg yesterday afternoon, for stealing a saddle from a man named Cotton.

CIVILIZED INDIANS. A Specimen of the Canadian Aborigine with Relatives and Friends. Yesterday morning a number of Indians attracted attention at the Union Pacific, who seemed possessed of a great deal more of the benefits and appearance of civilization than many of their race who pass through this city.

They were dressed in black with broad straw hats of the same color. The women looked at first like bereaved females, but a closer inspection of their countenances revealed features which did not seem in the least disturbed by sorrow. Around their necks they displayed the usual love of the Indian female for decoration, and each of them wore a necklace of three and sometimes four strings of golden beads. Accompanying them was a distinguished-looking Indian named Joseph Laronde. He was nearly six feet high, of broad and massive frame, with an elegant carriage, and with a set of intelligent and swarthy features. He was dressed as would be an intelligent man of business who on the road, the whole covered with an ample linen duster, which well displayed his huge proportions. The names of the other men, who seemed to be employees, were Sose, Isiorakwin and Peter Stacey. The women were Mrs. Louis Laronde, Mrs. Anon Tharon, Mrs. Onwari Wattinas and Mrs. Akat Karienhon. They were all members of the Iroquois tribe and came here from Montreal. All except Laronde left for Kansas City where they are to look for beads, while the man mentioned went to St. Paul where he is to search for beaver skins, to be used in connection with the beads in fancy work done by the women.

A DANGEROUS TRACK. How it Narrowly Escaped Doing Damage Sunday Night. Sunday evening at the Union Pacific depot, what might have been a serious accident, was averted only by a hair's breadth. Train No. 1 had just pulled into the depot, and passengers had commenced to go on board. One of Barkalow's men had already run a truck loaded with two chests, one of which rested on the inclined end, which was run up to the steps of the platform. While the truck was in this position, the train started up about fifty feet, twisting the truck slowly around, so that it would have been caught by the bottom of the car and smashed with its load. One employe attempted to pull it out from danger and rolled among the boxes, and another at the risk of being crushed to death caught hold of its upraised handle to keep it from being drawn further in toward the moving cars. It was fortunate that the latter were of the same width. If they had not had, not seen the truck and trucks would have been crushed and with the crowded condition loss of life must have ensued. Thinking the train was leaving, Freight Agent Mulrooney of the Union Pacific jumped on the platform of one of the cars and narrowly escaped being struck by the handle of one of the dangerous trucks.

HITCHING ON TIME. The Effect of Chief Galligan's New Order to the Firemen. Yesterday Chief Galligan of the fire department issued an order compelling the members of every fire company in the city to practice hitching their teams between 9:30 and 10 o'clock on every morning of the week except Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. This is in conformity with the practice which obtains in Chicago and all other large cities. There they have a number of assistant marshals whose duty it is to see that these practice hours are kept up, which they do by visiting the different companies in their respective brigades at the time at which the work should be in progress. As a consequence, the men have, in most cases, become so proficient that their hitching is done almost with the celerity of electricity. This morning the Omaha firemen for the first time undertook their half hour of regular practice and kept it up with a great deal of interest and enthusiasm. At the house of No. 2, on Tenth street, the practice attracted a large attendance of passers by and other curious people, who watched the business for minutes at a time. Each of the members of the company took turns in hitching alone, while at times two men undertook the work. Some of those who hitched singly did the work in seven seconds, while certain pairs accomplished the hitching in about three and one-half seconds.

A NEW SANCTUARY. Where Bohemian Catholics are Soon to be worshipped. The Bohemian Catholics of this city, who have long been worshipping in a frame structure on South Thirtieth street, opposite one of the Bohemian halls in that vicinity, have at length decided to abandon their old church and erect a new one. The former was a frame structure, reclaimed, some years ago, from other uses than that of a place of prayer, and turned into a house of worship. The ground of the site left it below the sidewalk, and the increase of the congregation rendered it too small to be longer utilized. As a consequence, the new building has been under construction for some time. The plans have been drawn by Cleves Bros, architects, and show an ornate and serviceable structure, which will be one of the prettiest churches in the city. The present intention is to finish the church before the approach of winter.

Police Court. Thomas McDonald, Mike McDonald and James Collins, a trio of youthful toughs, were arraigned in police court yesterday morning for fighting. They had been arrested Sunday evening by Officer Pat Hinchey. Their offense had been aggravated by an assault which they committed upon a citizen named Clayton, who was assisting Hinchey in making the arrests. They were fined $25 and costs apiece and sentenced to ten days in the county jail. Out of seven drunks, four were fined and committed to jail because they had no money. Two were discharged. Jos. Cole was fined $5 and costs for fighting and he, too, was committed. Six negroes were fined $15 and costs for gambling on Sunday. None of them could pay and they were sent to jail. William Newman, who was convicted of disorderly conduct, paid the only fine, $5 and costs, into police court. John Thompson, one of Higgin's employes, was fined $50 and costs in police court yesterday afternoon for an assault committed upon Dan Gyrton a month or so ago. The trial of Win. Bates, charged with obtaining money under false pretences by mortgaging Edin Mitchell's property, was called in Judge Stenberg's court yesterday afternoon and continued one week.

Judge Stenberg goes to Beatrice today to attend the congressional convention. Justices Anderson and Berka are in St. Louis attending the trial of the convicts of the Knights Templar. This leaves Lee Hiesley the only qualified Justice of the peace in the city, and will preside over police court in the absence of Judge Stenberg.

Army Gossip. Assistant Adjutant General Breck has gone east on a few weeks furlough. Two companies of the Sixth Infantry stationed at Fort Douglas have been ordered out to repair the road between Price station on the Denver & Rio Grande and the new Fort Du Chene. Major Bush has charge of the work. Capt. Kingman writes from Yellowstone Park that a force of 120 men are repairing the roads and bridges in the national grounds.

Company D of the Sixth Infantry which has been co-operating with the two companies of cavalry from Missouri, in protecting the settlers of southern Utah from Indian incursions, has been ordered from its station on Montezuma Creek into winter quarters at Fort Douglas.

Sporting Tips. The Gate City received a sound drubbing Sunday at the hands of the Athletics, who defeated them by a score of 8 to 2. The former club had three of the Union Pacific players, Strook, Anderson and Dwyer. A shooting contest took place yesterday at Jimmy Faulkner's place west of the city, in which Messrs. Ed Leeder, Joe Rowles, John McLean, Mr. George Petty, William Nightingale and Kirby took place. Each man shot at ten birds and Nightingale, making the highest score, was declared winner. An interesting sparring main between two well-known local middleweights closed the day's sport.

Mrs. Dickover's Remains. The remains of Mrs. Mary Dickover were on Sunday forwarded to Indianapolis for interment. They were conveyed to the B. & M. depot where they were placed on board the afternoon train. They were accompanied by the husband and son of the deceased. Mr. Dickover was a member of the Plaster's Union, and the pall bearers consisted of the following brother members of that association: S. S. Burchfield, J. B. Cox, Sam'l Emerson, Thos. Burns and Bird Schotte.

Promoted. F. B. Woodruff, who for several years back has been acting as one of the more industrious and reliable of the baggage-men of the Union Pacific, has been drawn away from the juggling of trunks and assigned to duty as brakeman with Conductor Gaines on the transfer passenger trains between this city and Council Bluffs. He is an excellent man for the position and worthy of the promotion.

A Runaway Husband. Mrs. Minerva Harrison, a resident of this city, has notified Marshal Cummings to be on the lookout for her runaway husband, who deserted her a few days ago. He is supposed to be now hiding in Florence or thereabouts, and took with him all Mrs. Harrison's and his own money, besides a horse and wagon, cow and two dogs. Mrs. Harrison is sick and has a sick child. She says that she would like to lay hands upon Mr. H. for the brief space of about two minutes. Mr. Harrison, if he were able, would then be at liberty to run away again.

Threatened to Shoot. Yesterday morning an obstreperous squatter who unlawfully occupies a part of John F. Coats planing mill property on the bluffs, threatened to shoot Mr. Coats and some of his men because they attempted to remove him. He refuses to leave the property and will probably be called into court to answer for his actions.

PULPIT ECHOES. Synopsis of Rev. W. J. Harsha's Sermon Yesterday. The following is the synopsis of Rev. W. J. Harsha's sermon at the Dodge street church Sunday morning. The text was John 14:21. "He that hath my commandments and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me; and he that loveth me, shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him and will manifest myself to him."

Sometimes at sea a whirlwind passes along over the waters showing a straight track of white foam sweeping into the very face of the wind. Thus a Christian man may go against the strongest earthly force, his confident tread making a stir upon the sea of life and the sunshine of God settling upon his head. In the text such a man is described, and in describing him he has presented to us two great thoughts: There are commands of Christ of absolute authority, and keeping them develops relations of mutual love.

Where shall we find the commands of Christ? There is a decalogue in the New Testament. But they are all summarized in that saying which, more frequently than any other, is on his lips: "Follow me." If we want to know our duty, we have but to do as he did. Speak as he spoke, live as he lived, and we are safe. There can be no perplexity presented to us in which this will not be a full and sufficient guide. Hence Christ could say with absolute authority: "Forgive your enemies. Be perfect as your Father in heaven is perfect. Let your light shine before men." He did all this himself and he could command it and bid command it in his all-inclusive precept—"Follow me."

The second thought is, by doing this we will develop relations of mutual love. We will love him, as he says, because if we study his character, we will realize that we cannot help loving him. "The Father will love us," because he delights to see us conforming our lives to the life of Christ. And the Saviour will complete the circle by loving us also, because he will see us trying to become like himself. The church is a poor, ragged bride taken into the home of God, and as God sees the shy creature drawing all her joy and duty by looking at the bridegroom. He cannot help loving her as Christ loves her and as she loves Christ.

Rail Notes. L. H. Korty has gone to St. Louis. S. T. Smith and T. L. Kimball, of the Union Pacific, are with the presidential party in Denver. H. G. Kall, soliciting agent of the Union Pacific, spent Sunday in Omaha. E. H. Snow, of the general superintendent's office, Union Pacific, headquarters, has returned from a visit to his old home in Portland, Me., bringing with him his wife.

DAY AND NIGHT AT WORK. The Working of the New Rule for Union Pacific Train Men. In conversation with a railroad man yesterday morning a BEE reporter learned that there was little surprise among the men along the line that so many accidents had happened of late upon the Union Pacific. The former ascribed not to the carelessness of the employes, but rather to the rule which was recently put in force of paying the men by the mile. The rule, of course, was first introduced as an experiment on some of the men then rebelled against it, under a misapprehension that it would not enable them to earn as much as they had been earning under the old rule. They have been disappointed in their idea, now, because many of them find that, under the latest change mentioned, they may earn much more in a month than formerly while under regular pay. But, they claim, it is owing to extra pay for extra work. This so satisfies some of the men that if they are asked to walk their cars or drive an engine for much longer periods than a day's work, they are pleased to do so because of the extra pay. Under the new rule, if a man runs to Grand Island and has been held up on the track for four or five hours, those working perhaps fourteen hours, should be paid on his arrival to turn around, without rest, and take a train back to Omaha, although that might keep him on the road as much as twenty-eight hours, he would yet be compelled to return. There have been instances of this kind, it is claimed, where men have been in the cab for twenty-four hours, and it is stated that it is useless to expect, under these circumstances, that they can do well the work required of them.

ODDS AND ENDS. Stray Leaves From a Reporter's Note-Book. A good story is told of an Omaha man, who spent a few days in Chicago last week. The gentleman referred to is Dennis Cunningham, who, with F. J. McShane, went to Chicago to see the sights. While in that city they went out on an excursion steamer for a ride on the lake. Lunch time came, and both gentlemen set down to the table in the cabin, ready to devour almost anything set before them. Mr. McShane gave his order, and the waiter went off to get it. Cunningham asked Mr. Cunningham what he would like. Mr. C. pondered a moment, and then said, "Give me half a dozen lobsters."

"What?" gasped the waiter. "Yo' wants a half dozen lobsters?" "That's what I said," replied Mr. C. pompously. "I guess you heard me."

The waiter appeared to be a trifle dazed but he nevertheless went about prepared to fill the order. Pretty soon he returned. He was staggering under the weight of a platter about five feet long, on which lay six sprawling lobsters, each about the size of a football. The waiter proudly placed them before Mr. C. with the sententious remark, "Dat's yo' lobsters, sah!"

"How many are they?" that gentleman finally inquired. "Three dollars and a half," was the reply.

Mr. Cunningham thought a moment, and said: "I guess I won't eat them all to-day, but I'll eat a couple of 'em." The waiter obeyed. Mr. C. will never order six Chicago lobsters again.

A young and well-known physician of this city was placed in a rather embarrassing predicament the other morning. He had borrowed a box of poker chips from a well-known down town resort, and invited a few friends to a quiet little game of draw in his private apartments. The next morning he placed the chips in his overcoat pocket, intending to return them to the resort before he left the city. He went to the resort, took out the pocket, and just as the doctor reached the corner of Fifteenth and Douglas, the box slipped through. In a moment the pavement was strewn with a hundred red, white and blue poker chips. Every body stared, but nobody seemed to know from whose pocket the chips had fallen. The doctor, with remarkable presence of mind, walked straight on, turning neither to the right nor to the left, until he was a half block away, when he paid a sunnily boy 25 cents to go back and pick up the chips.

THE FREIGHT DEPOT. Facts Which Prevent Its Immediate Construction. The Union Pacific, selling the old buildings upon the tract on which it proposes to erect its new freight depot. Several of these have been disposed of at wondrously low prices, and now but the John Green mill remains to be carted away. George Duncan has an ice house on the southeast corner of Jackson and Second streets, just where the company proposes to commence to build its offices, which he has neglected to remove for some time past although long ago notified to that effect. It will soon have to go, but not until it has done its work on the office part of the depot will be begun. With regard to Wakefield's lumber yard, the company will not be able to build over that for some time, though Mr. Wakefield will move to his new place west of the city as soon as a sewer which is now in course of erection is completed. His lease ends next February, but he will have left before that time, and the site will practically be at the disposal of the Union Pacific.

Local Laconics. David Bradshaw—"It is a shame that a city should allow these public drinking fountains to remain open while there is so much glandering in the city. That disease is spreading rapidly in the city and I believe it is because horses are allowed to drink out of these public fountains where glandering animals also are allowed to drink. I believe that these fountains ought to be closed, at least until the disease is checked. The city will practically be at the disposal of the Union Pacific."

W. J. Connell—"I'd prefer not to say anything at present about my prospects for securing the republican nomination at the congressional convention. In three days the agony will be over. My selection is a matter of course, and I will be in a plain wrapper, our opinion."

Morris Warner—Press Agent Barnum's show—"I am very much 'mashed' on your paved streets. That Sixteenth street drive is the equal of anything I have seen in the west. Your pavements constitute the best advertisement abroad that you could have."

Climbing a Chimney. Edward E. Powers, of Boston, Mass., is in the city, and Sunday started a new phase of the mania for performing perilous feats. He was climbing the ascent of the tall smoking works chimney, climbing clear to the top and perching on the sides of the aperture. Hereafter, instead of jumping from the Brooklyn bridge, he would-be hero must climb a tall chimney.

Advertisement for C.C.C. (Cancer Cure) with text: "About twenty years ago I discovered a little sore on my cheek, and the doctors pronounced it cancer. I have tried a number of physicians, but without receiving any permanent benefit. Among the number were one or two specialists. The medicine they applied was like fire to the sore, causing intense pain. I saw a statement in the papers telling what F. S. S. had done for others similarly afflicted. I procured some at once. Before I had used the second bottle the neighbors could notice that my cancer was healing up. My general health had been bad for two or three years—I had a hacking cough and spit blood continually. I had a severe pain in my breast. After taking six bottles of F. S. S. my cough left me and I grew stronger than I had been for several years. My cancer had healed, over all but a little spot about the size of a half dime, and it is rapidly disappearing. I would advise every one with cancer to give F. S. S. a fair trial." Mrs. NANCY J.
