INTERESTING GLOVE CONTEST.

Attaching the Louis Stock-A Till-Tapper-Batten Bound Over-Court Notes and Other Local Matters.

The Glove Contest.

About eight hundred men assembled in the exposition annex to witness the glove contest between Marx and McCormick, last night. They were repaid by an interesting programme of athletic events. The first contest was between two light-weights, Flynn and Murphy, and was an interesting bout of three rounds. It was declared a draw. The next two contestants were Sam

Stevenson and Phil McEntee, two lightweights. Both men were plucky. Stevenson, however, was the superior man so far as muscle and science were concerned, and at first battered his opponent all over the ring. Toward the last Stevenson seemed to lose his wind on account of his rushing tactics, and McEntee managed to work in some good blows. The wind-up was exceedingly fively, and caused no little applause. The affair was declared a draw.

A very tame set-to between a negro, Charles Turner of San Francisco, and Jim Smith, the colored Omaha pugilist, the man who broke Ike Glover's jaw in a recent fight. Turner was afraid of his muscular and active opponent and the latter displayed too much leniency to make the bout interesting. Smith was declared the winner.

The principal contest of the evening of course, was between Al. Marx, the Texas cowboy, who recently defeated Fitzgerald and Jim McCormick, a man from Chi eago.

Both men appeared on the stage in good trim, arrayed in the regulation white tights. McCormick stripped at 170 pounds, being tive feet eleven and one-half inches in height. He is twenty-nine years years of age, and originally came from New York city, New York, Marx twenty-four years of age, is five feet eight inches high, and weighs 182 pounds. He is a square, heavy set man, of splendid muscular development. Although he was still somewhat flabby, he was in much better shape than when he met Fitzgerald, Marx was seconded by William Bradburn, of Chicago, and McCor-mick by Mike Fitzgerald, whom the Texas cowboy defeated in the recent

THE FIRST ROUND. "Now McCormick its the Irish against the Dutch," ejaculated one of the sym-pathisers of the Chicago man who was sitting in the front row, as the contes was about to open. After some parley, P. J. Fallon was chosen as refere. Sher-man Thurston, the veteran sporting man who happened to be present was called upon but emphatically declined to serve. Jack Nugent for McCormick and Tom O'Brien for Marx acted as time keepers. At exactly 10:45, both men were ordered together, and jumped lightly into the centre of the ring.

For a moment or two, they glared at each other and sparred cau-tiously for an opening. Mark then succeeded in getting his right home on McCormick's face and broke lightly nway. More sparring followed and Marx worked in two or three good body blows, duesing lightly to avoid McCorthey clinched and each time McCormick was heavily uppercut and succeeded in getting in only one or two feeble blows in return. Finally Marx made a desperaterush at his opponent, and with a serie of terrific straight arm blows knocked his opponent into a heap in the corner, upper cutting him as he feil. McCor-mick's seconds claimed a foul on the ground that Marx had hit their man while he was down, but the referee re-fused to allow this. Marx's seconds also claimed a foul, because McCormick had bitten their man on the shoulder during one of the clinches. This claim, too, was SECOND ROUND. This round opened with the chances seemingly much in favor of Marx. He was fresh as a daisy, unscathed and smil-ing confidently. McCormick, on the ing confidently. McCormick, on the other hand, was badly winded, had one eye nearly closed and was spilling claret freely. When time was called, Marx jumped eagerly forward, and, without any preliminary sparring, landed his right on McCormick's face. A clinch followed, and as the referce stantial encouragement from the broke the two men away, Marx received of Omaha and neighboring cities.

a lively left hand blow from McCormick plump in the face. He staggered back against the ropes, but gathered himself together for another rush. He was again met by McCormick, who delivered the blow which won for him the light. McCormick's hackers had all pluss.

Cormick's backers had almost given him up, for he seemed weak, dazed and hardly able to stand. But he pulled himself together in dendid style and as Marx rushed at him, felled him with a crashing right-hander which lighted on his opponent's jaw Both men waited a moment, and then McCormick made a rush for Marx. The latter ducked, and slipped out of the ropes, exclaiming, "My jaw's broken!" The fight was of course summarily ended then and there, as Marx was unable to continue. The fight was awarded to McCormick, amid the vociferous cheers of his friends and backers. The latter was not injured, barring a black eye and a bruised nose Marx injuries were more painful than serious. The physicians who were summoned pronounced that the lower maxil-lary bene of his jaw was broken in twain. He was carried off to comfortable quarters and placed under medical care. It seems to be the opinion of every one that the lively little contest would have con tinued several rounds longer with the chances against McCormick, had Mars succeeded in avoiding the blow which a lively one and gave satisfaction to all who witnessed it. Other Sporting Notes.

broke his jaw. Altogether the contest was

There is but little new in the local field of sports. The Athletics have closed the base ball season rather ingloriously for Omaha. They went to West Point on Wednesday for a series of three games with the West Point club during the fair at that place. On Wednesday the West Pointers were victorious by a score of ! to 0. On Thursday the Athletics won by score of 19 to 8 and on Friday the West Pointers were again victorious by a score of 8 to 7. The Athletics returned home yesterday and have but little to say of their once boasted strength as a team. The Union Pacifies are through for the season unless a game is arranged with the Louisvilles after the close of the league season.

THE LEAGUE GAMES. The feature of the league games during the past week has been the phenominally strong playing of the "Phillies." They played live games with the Chicago's and won four of them tieing on the fifth. This places Philadelphia in a good way to beat New York for third place in the league. Detroit won four games and lost one making them a strong second with only a possible chance of beating Chicago for the penant. The relative standing of the clubs is shown by the following table

New Business For Omaha. The Benson Fish company, wholesalers of salt fish, are closing out their business. Mr. Benson says that Omaha is too good a city to leave, and he intends remaining here and engaging in other business. Friends of his are the owners of the At lantic and Hurricane Island quarries, located on the coast of Maine, from which is obtained the finest building and monu-mental granite in the world. The granite does not cost very much more laid down in Omaha than sandstone, and is far preferable to it on account of being nore ornamental and more durable. Mr Benson will open a house for the handling of the best building and monumental granite. The architect of the Merchants National bank is figuring on the Hurri-cane Island granite, and there is also talk of using the same stone in the new Paxton building.

Sewer Contracts. The county commissioners yesterday awarded to J. W. O'Neil the contract for the construction of two brick sewers, to take the place of bridges on the county ine, one at West Side and one west the stock yards. The two sewers will cost $1,275.

The Charity Union. To the public: We wish to call your attention to the fact that the Charity union, organied by young men two years ago, is still in existence, and we believe not in vain. During the two years we have furnished 2,688 meals and 2,739 beds to needy men and boys, not tramps. We have been able to discriminate more or less successfully from the first, and now our fully equipped woodyard precludes the tramp idea. We mean, as far as possible, to put a stop to local pauperizing, and make our wood-yard and this city a ter-ror to tramps. If at your office, at home or on the street, you are solicited for alms, bear in mind the fact that almsgiving should be confined to the sick, the disabled, the aged and the young, and that when you give five cents a dime or a quarter to any one not in this category you put a premium on beggary, you increase the number of beggars and their suffering by encouraging and increasing their trade. If you will send the applicant to us at 7191 North Six teenth street we will give him perhap not what he asked you for but what he needs, and you will have done much toward helping a poor fellow te-gain his self respect and self helpfulness by honest labor. We do not mean to hold to this principle too strictly, nor do we require this compensation or equiva lent always nor entirely in the sense of reimbursement, but we would discourage emotional and sympathetic charity work ing fitfully and unadvisedly and put is ical benefit. We can only promise tem porary employment during the cold veather, when the demands on us are so great, though we have found permanent positions for many de-serving men. On this line we are content to work if only you will give us your co-operation; this we must have or we cannot exist. By this is especially meant your orders during the winter for stove wood and kindling, with both of which we are abundantly supplied and will deliver to any address in quantities to suit at reasonable rates. If you wish a particular length or quality it will be seeted and prepared as desired.

When convenient give us generous notice and please do not forget THE CHARITY UNION.
