

A YOUNG MOTHER'S STORY.

A Grandma Who Kidnaped a Three-Month-Old Baby.

Kidnaped the Baby.

A rather pretty young girl, about sixteen years of age, walked into the county court yesterday at noon, and approaching Judge McCulloch, said:

"I want some papers so that I can get hold of my child."

"Who has your child?" asked the judge, gazing benignly upon the young lady.

"My mother," returned the girl. She then went on to tell her story, which, it must be confessed, is rather sensational. However, it appears to be strictly true.

"My name," said the girl, "is Cora Bossert. About sixteen months ago, when I was fifteen years old, my mother forced me to marry a soldier who was stationed at Fort Omaha. The marriage took place at Council Bluffs. For a little over three months ago my husband was ordered west and he left his post here without taking me with him. I then went to live with my mother, when my child, a girl, was born. During all the time that I lived with my mother she did not treat me right—as a mother should. She wanted me to associate with bad people, to go with her into saloons and other places, and would get very angry because I refused to do as she wanted me to. She told me openly a good many times that I ought to get out of this sort of prostitution. I became tired of this sort of treatment finally and left my mother, taking my child with me. I went to a boarding house for Mr. Johnson, who kept a boarding house in South Omaha. I worked there several weeks without being molested by my mother. Last Friday she came to the house where I was working and I was afraid that she was going to steal my baby, and so I took it up in my arms. She didn't say a word, but rushed at me and tore the child away from me before I had time to get it out of what she was doing. She rushed at me, jumped into a hack and drove away with the baby. I haven't seen anything of her or the child since, but I know that she has her own possession. She thinks that if she can get hold of my baby, she can make me leave South Omaha and force me into a house of ill fame. She's very much mistaken, though."

Judge McCulloch promptly issued habeas corpus papers, and Mrs. Bossert's mother will be compelled to give up the child. The woman is known as Mrs. Sampson, and her daughter gives her anything but a good name. She is now living on California street.

The grandmother of the child was arrested yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Phillips. She gave $500 bonds to appear with the baby at 3 o'clock to-day when the case will be given a hearing.

INFIDELITY AND WRETCHEDNESS

Practiced Amid the Most Disgusting and Squamous Surroundings.

Yesterday morning Officer Peironnet was called to arrest a man named Joe. Cole who, his wife claimed, had threatened to shoot her because of an alleged friendship which he claimed had grown up between her and a man named Samuel Anderson, who is working on one of the school houses which is now in course of erection. She claimed further that he was lazy and laid around the house refusing to support her while at the same time he paid attention to a woman living on the opposite side of the alley between Thirteenth and Fourteenth and Jackson, and Leavenworth streets. The officer went to the house mentioned and found a miserable looking woman, not weighing 100 pounds. She was the picture of misery, in miserable surroundings, and held her arms as a child almost as heavily as herself, which seemed sick enough to be in the grave. This woman was asked as to the whereabouts of Cole, and rather testily answered the query by stating that he had just taken her eldest child, which had been affected with blindness, to the hospital. This story was doubted by the wife of Cole, who stated that she knew Cole to be in the house at the time. The latter will undoubtedly be arrested, because it is feared the charges and counter charges will perhaps cause loss of life.

CUTTING DOWN STAFFS.

An important order from the Secretary of War.

A copy of the latest order issued by the war department was received at army headquarters yesterday. It had direct bearing upon the number of staff officers that a department commander shall be allowed. By the terms of the order the post of assistant surgeon is abolished. This will relieve Dr. Summers, Jr., of duty, and will throw upon Dr. McFarlin all the medical work at this post. Another officer who serves, according to the circular, are to be dispensed with, is the instructor of rifle practice. His position is now occupied by Col. Henry H. It is not believed that in this regard the order will be carried out. Colonel Henry was appointed to his present position by a special order of the war department, and his services in his present position are so valuable to be dispensed with.

"I regard this order as the result of a quarrel between the secretary of war and General Sheridan," said a military man in speaking of the matter to-day. "It is a pretty well known fact that there is a bad blood between the two and that the secretary of war is much dissatisfied on account of some of the details made by General Sheridan. So far as General Henry is concerned, I don't believe that he will be removed from his present position."

FRUIT TREE SHARMS.

The District Court Will Send Some of Them to the Penitentiary.

Loe Estelle, district attorney, returned Wednesday night from Blair, where he filed information against two men, E. D. Bradley and Paul Newman, for what he styles one of the rankest pieces of forgery he has ever known. These fellows sold a number of notes to a citizen of that place named McMenamy. The signatures were such that the purchaser, although well acquainted as he was with the hand writing of the victims, was unable to discover that they were forgeries. The men whose signatures were attached to the notes were themselves unable to say that their names were not written on them, and their denial could only be based upon the knowledge that they had signed no notes such as those charged against them, which was from E. D. Bradley. The matter was investigated and it was found out that some time ago the parties arrested passed through Blair and Wase-

ERRING IOWANS.

The Marshal of Atlantic Sets Out on a Pilgrimage.

Yesterday morning Marshal Herbert, from Atlantic Ia., arrived in town looking after a wayward girl who had left her home about a few weeks ago, and who had been traced to this city. Her name was Mary Ware. At home she was a young lady, esteemed and in the enjoyment of every comfort which parents in a well-to-do condition could afford. She suddenly became disaffected, and unexpectedly disappeared. The marshal had several addresses at which he inquired for her, but she had abandoned the right path for that which led to destruction.

Another Atlantic young woman had left her home and gone to Council Bluffs to keep company with a young man whom the girl's father had forbidden his house. The lady was seen, and the marshal was assured that eventually the proscribed young man would lead the young woman into the marriage state, but that will give little pleasure to the distracted parents, whose daughter's age places her beyond their control.

Hill Races.

There is a treat in store for lovers of horse-racing, for the Omaha Fair association has determined to hold a fall trotting meeting at its grounds, on Tuesday of next week. The arrangements therefor have already been consummated, and contracts have been drawn up. The first and most important event will be a free-for-all trotting race with the following entries: Harry Wilkes, Charles Hilton and Arab. The entrance fee for this race is fixed at $500, with $100 added by the association, and $200 extra if 2:17 is beaten. This will make the purse $3,000. Harry Wilkes has a record of 2:14; Hilton, 2:17; and Arab, 2:16. The second race is for the 2:18 class, with the following entries: Harry Wilkes, J. Q., having a record of 2:17; Endymion, 2:21; and Eva, 2:20. Both of the races will be hotly contested and highly interesting. The fair association ought to be rewarded with liberal patronage for their enterprise.

Still Looking for Jackman.

The police authorities are still on the still hunt for Jackman, but so far have discovered no trace of his whereabouts. The following is an exact copy of the postal card containing the matter which is being sent out.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 12, 1886.—I will pay the above amount for the delivery of one W. J. Jackman to the authorities at Omaha, Neb. Two warrants exist against him, one on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses and one for beating his hotel bill. Jackman is a smooth-tongued fellow, about thirty years old, light complexioned, and slim build, weight about 140 pounds. He is a frequenter of gambling houses, hotel and newspaper offices. He was employed on newspapers here and in Lincoln, and during September acted as assistant secretary of the Omaha Fair association. I will pay the above amount for his delivery in Omaha. NAT BROWN.

Rail Notes.

A meeting of the Nebraska General Passenger Agents association was held yesterday morning in the B. & M. headquarters. There were present Buchanan, of the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley; Stebbins, of the Union Pacific; Francis, of the B. & M.; Dennis, of the Missouri Pacific, and Lincoln, of the St. Joe & Grand Island. No important business was transacted, only routine matters being discussed.

D. B. Christanson, of the general storekeeper's office, Union Pacific headquarters, has returned from a trip to St. Louis and Chicago.

Assistant General Superintendent Dickinson, of Denver, and D. E. Wartale, superintendent of the Wyoming division, were in the city yesterday.

Dr. Graham, the Union Pacific physician and surgeon, left yesterday for Stronsburg on professional business.

A Novel Complaint.

Harrison Bachman, a negro, appeared before Judge Stenberg yesterday afternoon and wanted to swear out a warrant for the arrest of a restaurant keeper on Twelfth street named Burns. Bachman charges that he went into Burns' restaurant to get dinner this noon when the proprietor declined to serve him on account of his color. There is a clause in the Nebraska criminal statutes, which makes it an offense, punishable by fine, to refuse a colored man accommodations at a restaurant, theatre, or other public place of business, and on the strength of this Bachman desired the arrest of Burns. Judge Stenberg next to entertain his complaint unless he engaged an attorney and prosecuted the matter in regular form. This Bachman says that he intends to do.

Local Locations.

George R. Clark, traveling reporter for Bradstreet's,—"I have just returned from a trip through the Black Hills country. I found business fairly prosperous along the line, especially in the Black Hills, where the country is developing wonderfully. Still some of the cattlemen are complaining of hard times. Everybody is clamoring for the Omaha and North-western."

W. F. Grullits, freight commissioner—"I am feeling a little blue, I must confess over the postponement of the big mass meeting which was to have been held this afternoon. It will take place at some time in the near future—just when, I can't say. Next Tuesday evening the two committees will hold a joint meeting and harmony between the discordant elements, will, I anticipate, be restored."

The Late Mrs. Joseph Matza.

The funeral of this estimable lady took place yesterday morning from St. Patrick's (Catholic) church at 9 o'clock, when solemn high mass was celebrated. She was a most worthy woman, and beloved by a host of friends and acquaintances. The deceased was the sister-in-law of Sergeant Peter Matza, of the police force, one whose popularity in this city makes any of his sorrows a part of theirs.

The Woodby Case.

The jury in the Woodby case came in late yesterday afternoon and reported an inability to agree. This is the case, it may be recalled, in which Roy Woodby, a colored clergyman, sued Thos. F. Boyd because the latter refused him admittance to the dress-circle of the opera house.

GOING TO UTAH.

A Young and Attractive Gentle Leaves to Become a Mormon.

Yesterday morning a reporter for the Bee, in passing through one of the cars of the Union Pacific as it stood in the train just before leaving for the west, stumbled over a valise which lay in the aisle beside one of the seats. He was about to give expression to a feeling of dissatisfaction when a female voice exclaimed: "Don't kick that grip again. It's going to join the Mormons. The valise belonged to a young woman. She was about twenty-one years of age, with full ruddy features and flaxen hair. A few inquiries ascertained the fact that the woman, who came from Illinois, had conceived the idea of going alone to Utah to become a member of the Mormon church. She seemed to experience a pleasure in telling her story, and she was willing to answer a few questions, and look at her by the other passengers, nobody seemed to be anxious to share the unoccupied half of her seat.

NEW OUTFITS FOR NEWSPAPERS.

The Omaha Type Foundry and Supply House for Printers and Publishers.

The Western Newspaper Union at Omaha is prepared at all times to outfit publishers on short notice with presses, type, rules, borders, inks, composition sticks and rules, and in fact everything in the line of printers' and publishers' supplies. Better terms and more liberal prices are secured by sending orders to Chicago or elsewhere. Save money by buying near home. Second hand goods in the printing line bought and sold. We do not charge for the use of the particular. Send for THE PUBLISHER'S DIRECTORY, our monthly trade journal, that gives lists of goods and prices and from time to time proclaims unequalled bargains in new and second hand material.

Chief Galligan's "Hold Up."

Wednesday night about 10 o'clock, as Chief Galligan, of the fire department was going home, he was stopped on the corner of Eleventh and Harney streets by two toughs, one of whom produced a revolver and commanded the chief to surrender his valuables. The fellows had evidently been waiting for some other person, because, the instant they recognized the uniform, the gun was dropped, and at the same time, the would-be assailant was felled to the ground by a blow from the chief. The other took to his heels. The gunner was badly used up and dropping his gun took to his feet and ran. Chief Galligan wants the man to call for the weapon.

Want a Hose Cart.

Yesterday morning Judge Reuther and M. Meyer, of South Omaha, were in town, calling upon members of the council with a view of soliciting their assistance in establishing a fire department in that place. It seems that the city owns a hose cart which at the present is held for practice by the Durants, and which, it is thought, could be granted to the Omaha company and be put in more practical use. The council will probably take action on the matter at its next meeting.

Another Enterprise.

Mr. Cliff Richardson, of the Richardson Drug Co., of St. Louis, is here prospecting for a location for his establishment. Mr. Richardson is very favorably impressed with Omaha as a growing city and a wholesale distributing point. It is almost an assumed fact that the Richardson Drug company will put in a branch house here with a $300,000 stock. This company has a capital of $5,000,000, carries a stock of $800,000, and is one of the largest concerns of the kind in this country.

It Will Be Six Stories.

The original intention of the projectors of the new hotel on the corner of Tenth and Farnam streets was to erect a building but five stories in height, but a number of the merchants recently circulated a petition among themselves and neighbors and with it secured $11,000, which will be used as a donation to the projectors of the enterprise with which to build a sixth story.

Another Enterprise.

P. Furlong, of Springfield, Ill., one of the largest and most enterprising dry goods merchants of that town, is to arrive in this city to-day to make arrangements for the opening of his large dry goods store in this city. He brings with him considerable capital and a vast experience, which will be greatly appreciated among the mercantile community, giving an impetus to the business life of this city.

Corrugated Iron.

There was a meeting held last night of the company owning the latest Bedford Place enterprise, the corrugating iron company, at which an excellent showing was made. The building is now completed and orders have been sent east for the most approved style of machinery, some of which is now on the way. The rest will be in position before the commencement of winter.

Honesty of the Scandinavians.

Stockholm Correspondence St. Louis Republican. I said that the Scandinavians were honest. It was not a custom at Copenhagen, on going out of the hotel, to bang the key of my door on the proper hook near the porter's desk. On returning I generally found it in the lock of my room and the door itself unlocked. On remonstrating with the proprietor about this I was told that this was not German, but that it was a mark that the Danes were honest, and that locking one's door was a useless formality in Copenhagen. From that time on I often left my door unlocked in Scandinavian hotels, and never lost even a pin. In Norwegian hotels it is the practice for the guest not only to leave his shoes outside the door at night to be blackened, but to leave his coat, pants and vest outside on a chair to be brushed by one of the servants. I should smile to see a traveler expose his wardrobe in this wise to the hotel thieves in St. Louis. Honesty is so far presumed upon in Scandinavia that on the steamboats which ply between Copenhagen and Christiania the passenger, no matter how much or how little he patronizes the table or the bar, keeps his own account of what he eats and drinks, and renders his bill to the steward of the boat and pays it before leaving. If I had not seen every passenger more than a hundred in number, on a large steamer do this, and had not done it myself, I could not have believed that such a custom could exist. Each passenger would hand to the steward a little list in pencil of what he had eaten and drunk, and the steward would mark the price opposite each item foot it up and receive payment. The steward had kept no account whatever with any passenger, but had trusted to each one implicitly to keep his own account. Some foreigners who were not aware of the custom, and some who were, but who had been misled and were not aware of the custom, and some who were not aware of the custom, and some who were, but who had been misled and were not aware of the custom, were put to much trouble to render their reckoning.
