A CRISIS IN ICELAND. Phas sof an Interesting Struggle for Home Rule-Rights of Daninh Rale. The extraordinary session of the lec-andie diet, convoked in accordance with he sixty-first clause of the constitution c 1874 for the purpose of considering the revision of the constitution of last year terminated on the 27th of August last the revision scheme having been passed by an overwhelming majority, writes a correspondent of the London Times. In a high-worded proclamation of No vember Thist year, the king announces to his "faithful leelanders" that the pro-posed revision could receive subtion under no circumstances. Its only effect has been to consolidate the whole people into one compact patriotic party, deter-mined not to rest until Iceland has ob-tained what for half a century it has been striving for-namely, full autonomy in home affairs. Never before has such an interest been taken in a general elec an interest been taken in a general elec-tion as this year. Never before has the language of the diet sounded such a clear note of menace as at this time. Emigration on masse and a complete dependation of the country a re hinted at as by no means improbable contingency should the present state of political tension ondure much longer and political tension endure much longer and no prospect open of a sensible solution. The fact is that the state of the country is hopeless; in almost every direction, starvation, and distress, in various stages of acuteness is the general condi-tion of the whole land. Knowing that the main reason of this is simply disrule, the government is sending quietly ship-loads of relief to the worst affected parts of the country, of course at the expense of the Icelanders themselves. The commercial treaty with Spain, which termin-ated in 1883, and the renewal of which on basis of the most favored nation clause was negotiated successfully in the same year, was thrown out in the Danish rigsdag, merely by way of retalliation, the result being that the staple export of Iceland, codfish, has been practically ex-cluded from the Spanish market, and the loss sustained by the poor population, who earn their living by fishing, has amounted yearly to nearly 100,00 groner. Reasons of state forbid a separate treaty being negotiated on behalf of Iceland, because it might be construed as an acknowledgment on the part of the govern-ment of Denmark of Iceland as a separate unit in the Danish monarchy.

Then the truck-system all over the lan 1 is exercising the most grinding oppres-sion over the people. Icelandic trade is carried on altogether with Danish capital. At an interest of at least 18 per cent, the impecantous Icelandic trader obtains his loan from the Darish capitalist, which the former's starving eustomers, of course, have to refund him. The customer sinks deeper and deeper in debt, and so serious has this state of things now be-come that multitudes of debtors have been forced by the merchants to pledge all their earthly possecssions and pros-pective carnings, moreover, until their debts shall be liquidated.

Yielding to the clamor of the country for a bank, the government has just es-tablished one this year. But, in order that it should be powerless to give any relief to the oppressed trade of the country, only 500,000 kroner of inconvertible paper currency were issued; it is made a legal tender, and the consequence is that customs and duties which hitherto have been paid in specie will henceforth be paid in paper, and what specie imports were formerly required for the payment of customs, etc., will now cease. Practically this means withdrawing from the treasury at least 300,000 kroner of specie yearly, and involves ultimately the absolute financial ruin of the island. By such a denomination of currency as the bank has at its disposal no assist-ance can be allorded or impe-tus given to the trade of the country. Starting without any capital and unable to undertake any money transactions except in inconvertible paper. contracts and negotiations with foreign

Charles Allen, whose name is a familiar one in police court, was vesterday ar-rested for having forgotten his red ribbon promise, and having been gloriously drunk for several days. On being searched and locked up at the city jail, he tore around as though mad about something, and came near demolishing one or two of the officers with a chair. He did not succeed, however, in keeping out.

There are a few young fellows who think it very smart to disturb the meet-ings of the Salvation army. These of-fenders should be promptly dealt with. If the Salvationists are violating any law there is a way of reaching them and pun ishing them, and it certainly is a discredi to the city, and to those who thus distur! the soul seekers, to have the meetings broken into by lawless fellows who have no regard for themselves or others.

Helping Build a Bridge.

Petitions are circulating lively and being readily signed, asking the city council to call a special election for the purpose of voting a tax of 6 mills in 1887, and 6 mills in 1888, for aiding in constructing the approaches to the proposed wagon bridge at the foot of Broadway. The advantage which such a bridge would bring to this city are conceded, and there will be little difficulty in securing the passage of the tax. It is claimed that the additional property which will be added to this city by this enterprise, will annually afford a larger revenue than the proposed special tax to build the approaches. Council Bluffs folks want to see all the proposed enterprises pushed right along, and the days of old fogyism seem to be dying away.

Perhaps, however, the worst feature of the situation is the unscrupulous selfishness and rare incapacity of the higher rulers of the people, to whom such a thing as study of national interests seems to be something infra dignitatum. Bureaueratic superciliousness thrives apparently well in the midst of misery. The feeling in the country under these circounstances is anything but reassuring, and what the upshot will be if the king should yeto the revised constitution no one can foretell.

Atlanta Constitution: A prominent olored preacher of Dougherty county ad the misfortune of quarreling with his wife. During his peatential proba-tion thereafter he came across a small bag of red flannel securely sewed within the pillow upon which his reverend head had reposed. Thereupon he concluded that he had been conjured, and this was the cause of his domestic unhappiness. His first impulse was to throw the bag into the river. He changed his mind, however, and took the conjure bag to Mayor Wilder, of Albany, who reassured him by the information that the true purpose of the bag was to restore harmony in a divided household. This had the desired effect and husband and wife are now in the bliss of a renewed honeymoon.
