BOTH CANDIDATES CONFIDENT.

It is almost impossible to state with certainty who is elected as congressman, the returns being so meager, but they indicate that Major Lyman, the republican candidate, is re-elected. He was quite confident last night that his majority would reach 800. Colonel Sapp placed the majority for Lyman at 1,000. On the other hand Colonel Kentley and his friends were confident that he would be elected by several hundred. They claimed the city by 500, and the county by as much more. That Council Bluffs would go democratic was a foregone conclusion

but the majority was variously estimated from 300 upwards, in most cases upwards. The democratic township ticket was so badly slashed and battered that several of the candidates gave up hope early in the evening. There was much local feeling on township offices, and each candidate made a personal fight for himself regardless of how the other town-

in favor of the proposed levy will reach

To-morrow evening the Baytists have a social gathering at the residence of Mrs. L. B. Crafts, to which all are invited. A team attached to a farm wagon be-came frightened near Kiel's hotel yesterday forenoon, broke and run, causing a demand for repairers.

Judge Aylesworth naturalized one Englishman, just before election, who had been in this country forty years, and had taken out his first papers in 1863.

W. R. Vaughan, was rustling around yesterday trying to convince his old ac-quaintances that he still had some influence in Council Bluffs politics. He was busy trying to slaughter some of his old democratic confreres.

William Bauerkaumper, one of the old residents of Lewis township, died yester-day morning at 1 o'clock. He came to this part of the west in 1850, and was aged 47 years. He leaves quite a large family. The funeral takes place at 11 o'clock this torenoon in the Plumer settlement.

The papers which lay such claims to fairness, and who take delight in calling the BEE vindictive, should resign such claims now. Not one of them has had the manliness to present both sides of the Home of the Friendless affair. The BEE is the only paper thus far that has been fair enough to give its readers both the adverse and the favorable report.

The loss by the burning of C. McGin-niss' candy and fruit store No. 224 Broad way, has not been settled yet, although the fire took place last May. The matter is now to go into the district court. Me-Ginniss has assigned his claim against the Hawkeye Insurance company to Simon Eiseman, who has commenced a suit against the company, claiming the amount of the policy, $1,200.

William Grover, of Chicago, has leased graph office on Main street, and will, in the room just north of the district telecourse of a week, open there a mer chant tailoring establishment. He proposes handling cloths extensively, and will make a specially of furnishing ma-terial and cutting garments for those who want to have their clothing made at home. Those who prefer can have him furnish the suits complete, but he proposes to sell the cloth, or do cutting, or furnish trimmings, as the customer may prefer.

Among the special objects of attention yesterday was a wagon, the white cover-ing of which was covered with sharp thrusts and muddy flings at some of the democratic candidates. The chairman of the republican committee publicly offers to disprove the statement that this irritating wagon was in any way a street parade devised or encouraged by the republican managers of the campaign. It publican managers of the campaign. It seems more than probable that it was an outgrowth of a well known feeling which has sprung up in the democratic camp against some democrats who succeeded in gobbling up nominations by processes which even among democrats were denounced as unfair and tricky. The Congregationalists, with the as-sistance of others, are planning to give a

The saloons kept their front doors closed, but there was some evidences that the bolts were not very strong on the back doors. Still there was little disorderliness and very few drunken men, until after the closing of the polls at 6 o'clock. The regular police kept on the alert, and special police were at each polling place, but during the day not a cingle com was repeated. single row was reported. There was a great deal of scratching of tickets. The count was therefore very slow and tedious, although the increase in the number of polling places facilitated the matter greatly. Mrs. S. A. Hall is prepared to do dress-

The Sewer Ditch.

The work on the sewer ditch has at last een completed, so far as the city claims the contract has been let. The contractor, Mitchell Vincent, has all the time insisted that his contract was for extending the ditch south of the city to a suitable outlet at the river. That question has been allowed to rest in the courts, where it was placed some time ago in accordance with an agreement of the city and the contractor. While there was still work to be done on the part of the sewer ditch concerning which there was no such dispute, the question has rested easy. Now, however, the work being completed, the city says that is all, while the contractor insists that he is entitled to the rest of the work. The demand was made on the council the other even-ing to have the city engineer lay out the route south of where the ditch now ends, and cross-section the same so that the contractor might continue the work. The request was not acted upon, and there the matter rests. It looks as if there was to be trouble over this contract, and that the question would only be set-tled by litigation. It is one of the most important matters now pending before the council, and yet one in which the eople generally seem to take little inter-State ticket 30: Keatly 101, Lyman 56, Matthews 65, Shea 91, Chambers 59, Thomas 97, Frum 31, Watte 89, Maxfield 125, James 68, Dailey 71, Williams 85, Field 63, Faul 92. most enjoyable and unique entertainment here on the 18th of this month. It will be a representation of an old-fashioned district school, the pupils in which will be among the best known ladies and gentle-men of the city. For these participants in the novel entertainment to carry themselves and their audience back to the days when they were school boys and girls will make an evening of peculiar enjoy-ment. The details of the programme will be made known in due time, but from the outlines of what it is to be, it is evident that the entertainment will be a rich one, full of merriment, variety and music.

The district telegraph boys were yes terday distributing political handbills, which seem to strike very hard some of the candidates and their friends. At the First precinct of the Fourth ward an attempt was made to drive the boy off, who was stationed there, and he was threatened with rough usage if he continued to distribute the obnoxious hand-bills. The officers of the District Telegraph Company notified the parties interfering with their messenger that any interference would result in the arrest and prosecution of the offender. The boys were simply doing what they were told to do by their employers, and the company was distributing these hand-bills, the same as they distribute any advertising matter. It seems that any one of ordinary sense would not attach the blame to the boys, or to the company, but to those who were responsible for the offensive handbills. The handbills purported to be the record of an officer who was again a candidate, and how the responsibility of this could be shifted onto mere boys, is a puzzler to sane men.

Yesterday morning Officer J. McMillan, of the transfer, while at his home, corner of Third avenue and Ninth street, noticed three men standing near there, and his long experience led him to conclude by their actions that a confidence trick was being turned. He noticed one of the trio hand a check to an old man in the party, and the old man give some money in return. Officer McMillan was satisfied at this move, that his suspicions were cor rect, and he jumped over the fence to nab the men. On seeing this sudden move the man who had received the money quickly handed it back to the victim, and took back the check. The two sharpers then started to run, going in different directions. The officer could not run in two directions at once very well, so he concluded to follow the on who seemed to be the chief actor. He gave the young man a lively chase, calling him to stop or he would shoot, but there was no stop. While the chase was being kept up the street car came along, and one of the passengers, who had a revolver, fired three times at the fleeing crook, and as the officer came np handed him the revolver np handed him the levolution to continue the shooting. Mc-Millan succeeded, however, in heading off the fellow and arresting him without shooting. On being taken to the station and searched, the young man gave evi dence of being a thorough crook. He had upon him two fine revolvers, a number of burglar tools, and a pair of nippers for turning door-keys, one of the best ever seen by the officers.

The old man, who so barely saved his maney, gave his name as Elias Lower. He was traveling with his wife from his home in Columbia county, O., to visit friends in Ida Grove, Ia. He came in on the early Kansas City train. The young man who was captured came in on the same train, and they got quite friendly and well acquainted. On reaching this city his young friend suggested that they had a little time on their hands, and they had a little time on their hands, and they had better walk out and get a little fresh air. During the walk a third party came up and asked his young friend for some freight or express charges—the old story. The victim was just accommo dating him with a temporary loan of $15 when the officer spoiled the game. Lower was very anxious to proceed on his journey, as his brother-in-law. August Roush, of Ida Grove, was expecting him, but the officers concluded to hold him and get his evidence before letting him go on his journey. Substantial abstracts of titles and real estate loans, J. W. & E. L. Squire. No. 101 Pearl street, Council Bluffs.

Yesterday's Election ...

The battle of the ballots occupied the attention of nearly all yesterday. The city had nine voting precincts, instead of the former four, and each of these formed a center for excited crowds of voters and electioneers. The new law preventing the congregating of persons within one hundred feet of any polling place, served as a check to many abuses which were common under the old law. Men could go up and vote without having their collars and button-holes pulled at to the last minute. What arguments were produced, and persuasions used, had to be before the voter started on the hundredfoot walk leading to the polling place. The effect of this new arrangement was evidently against the purchase of votes. Those who sell their votes are not to be trusted a hundred feet away, and those who in former years have had the reputation of buying votes did not seem to be ment watch.

ant. O. D. Kiplinger, with his wife and baby, returned yesterday from the east, where they have been visiting his old home in Ohio. G. W. Ciark, of Colorado, a nephew of T. A. Clark, is here on a visit to his aunt, and expects to remain a month before proceeding to New York.

Sheriff Farrell, of Mills county, and chairman of the democratic congressional committee, came in from Glen-wood last night to learn the latest returns from election.

Mrs. Dibble and daughter, who have been visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles Swan, left yesterday for their home in Marshall, Mich., accompanied by another sister, Mrs. Bostwick, of Ithaca, N. Y., who has also been visiting here.

Mr. Mansel Wicks left last evening for Texes to look after more railroad build-ing. He has been in this business since 1872, and has probably had to do with the actual construction of more miles of railway in that state than any other man. Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Kinney, who have been residing in Omaha, have concluded to take up their residence in Council Bluffs, and have leased the house owned and occupied by W. S. McMicken, No. 316 Platner street. Mr. Kinney is in the railway mail service.

Captain J. T. Anderson, of the merchants' police, returned vesterday from a northern trip, accompanied by his wife. Captain Anderson has been on duty day and night for a year past, and the two weeks' rest proved beneficial to him, as indicated by the scales, which show an increased weight of fifteen pounds.

On the previous occasion 1 thought it was Uncle Peter aliva; this time I knew it was Uncle Peter dead. I am not ashamed to say that I was broken up in a second. I per-spired and trembled, and I feit my hair erawling up. My first thought was to bolt, and the only reason I didn't attempt it was that I had not the strength to rise from my chair. It was a long minute and perhaps two of them, that we gazed at each other without a word or a move to break the spell. Then he dissolved as before, and i saw only vacancy where I had beheld his aged form. The first move I made was to dash across the room into the kitchen, and thence out doors, and, laugh at me if you will, I had not the courage to re-enter the house until I heard my aunt moving about. Then I went in and told her what I had seen, and together we entered the bedroom for a look around. On a shelf behind a box containing seeds was a paper, and I took it down to find that I had the missing will in my hand. How my uncle came to place it there we could not satify ourselves; but that was the family bedroom, and it might have been done in changing his clothes, or in a mo-ment of absent-mindedness. It would, of course, have been found sooner or later, but perhaps not until the spring house cleaning, and a great deal of trouble and aunoyance would have mean-

Omaha, who recently lost a beautiful and in-teresting daughter, aged about 15 years, by diphtheria, under the treatment of one of the best physicians in Omaha, writes to Dr. Jefferis, of this city: "Your remedy for diphtheria came too late, our dear daughter was dying when it was received. I am satisfied that her life could have been saved. Another one of our children who had the diphtheria, her throat was filled up with the putrid ulceration, we used your medicine and in tweive hours the disease was completely subdued. In the future we will keep your medicine at all times in our house. We feel that it saved the life of one of our chil-dren. We are very thankful to you, and only regret that we did not call on you sooner." From the Council Bluffs Daily Globe: M. A. McPike, editor of the Cambria (Ebens-burg, Pa.) Freeman, has been the personal friend of the editor of the Globe for more than twenty years, and is known wherever he is known as one of the best men living. His family was ravaged with diphtheria, and greatly dis-tressed. Some of Dr. Jefferis' Diphtheria Cure was used, and the lives of the rest of his child-ren saved.
