

THE CLOW-MCDONALD MATCH

Declared a Draw After Six Prettily Fought Rounds.

BASE BALL AND OTHER SPORTS.

Jones and Small—The Denver Convention—The Official Vote—Army Notes—The Barker Fire—Other Local.

The Clow-McDonald Match.

The glove contest between John P. Clow and Duncan McDonald drew a large crowd to Cunningham hall last night.

Two interesting bouts preceded the main event of the evening.

The first set-to of the evening was between Sidney Smith, of Oregon, and George Pueby, of Omaha. Smith was a light-weight weighing 135 pounds, while Pueby belonged to the feather-weight class at 108 pounds.

The difference in weight, the mill was a lively and interesting one. Both men succeeded in getting home some red hot blows.

The bout lasted four rounds and was declared a draw.

The next mill called out as contestants Prof. Day, of Toledo, and "Our Jack" Hanley. Four rounds were sparring, both contestants making a good display of science.

As neither man cared to knock his opponent out, however, the bout was devoid of any bloody or exciting features.

After a few moments intermission Professor Day reappeared, and the crowd with a fine exhibition of club swinging.

He went through some difficult movements and retired amid applause.

It was exactly five minutes after ten when the two principal contestants made their appearance in the ring.

McDonald was costumed in white tights and brown stockings, while Clow wore flesh colored tights and blue stockings.

Clow was selected to act as referee. "Baby" Barnes was chosen as judge for Clow and Ed. Rothery officiated in a similar capacity for McDonald.

Ed. Parker held the watch as timekeeper. McDonald was seconded by Jack Hanley, Clow by Harley McCoy.

At ten o'clock and fifteen minutes the two men were over and fought.

First round—The two men were pretty well matched was evident from the start, and neither one seemed to care to rush the fighting.

This round was taken up almost wholly by fencing. McDonald managed to get home with one straight-arm blow on Clow's mouth and break away before his opponent could return the complement.

Second round—More cautious sparring followed, neither man securing an advantage. Clow rushed at McDonald, broke down his guard and planted his right squarely on his nose.

McDonald tried to counter but Clow was a head and a hand ahead. McDonald then made a clever feint and hit Clow a lively stomach blow.

At a short interval Clow retaliated by again visiting his antagonists mouth with vicious left hand blows. The round closed with a lively exchange of blows.

Third round—Clow received a sound blow in the face from McDonald, which made him wince. No fighting to speak of in this round.

Fourth round—Clow made a rush at his opponent, and fisted him with a vicious blow on the neck. McDonald tried to return, but failed to reach Clow, who ducked under the arm and came up behind the former.

More feinting followed, and the two men clinched. In-and-in fighting, in which the contestants divided the honors.

Fifth round—Both of these were very tame. In the last round, McDonald rushed the fighting, but was met very handsly by Clow who gave him a contest to a finish before their merits can be properly judged.

THE OMAHA BASE BALL CLUB.

Frank Bandle to Manage It—The Club's Prospect.

George Kay and Frank Bandle left last night for Leavenworth to attend the meeting of the western league which will be held to-day.

Their object was to apply for the admission of the Omaha club into the league.

The league, as is now proposed, will be composed of the clubs from Kansas City, St. Joe, Leavenworth, Topeka, Lincoln, Hastings, Omaha and either Atchison or Des Moines.

The Omaha club will doubtless be a favorite in the league. It is understood that Frank Bandle will be chosen by the directors to manage the Omaha club.

No better selection could be made, as Bandle is one of the best posted base ball men in the west. He is a rustler himself and will have nothing to do with players who are not built the same way. He knows all of them and will be able to make a selection of players that will place Omaha in the lead from the first.

Players from all parts of the country have been making application to sign with the Omaha club and the prospect is that the splendid nine can be secured. A verbal contract has already been made for one of the best batteries in the west, although the announcement cannot yet be made.

Dwyer, it is understood, will be engaged as first baseman. This is disposition and it is he has few superiors in addition to being a batter and base runner of excellent standing.

White, one of the old-time members of the Union Pacifics, will probably be engaged as short stop, and no better man could be asked. An effort will be made to secure Charlie Dwyer for this position.

Now the Leadvilles is anxious to sign with the Omahas for '87. The committee appointed to secure grounds have several locations in view and expect to make suitable arrangements for desirable grounds in a short time.

BASE BALL "CHESTNUTS."

Have several standing offers but would rather play in Omaha.

I am considered a fine base runner and fielder.

Answer quick as others want me.

Have been offered $200 per month but would play for less in Omaha—like Omaha.

I am the only player in our club who made a home run in the season of '86.

THE BARKER FIRE.

An Interview With Architect Mendelssohn—Other Notes.

The destruction of the new Barker building continues to be the subject of general conversation on the street corners. Everybody has something to say about it, especially in regard to the rapidly with which it burned.

One reason why Mr. Mendelssohn, the architect, has to say will do doubt prove interesting to the public just at this time.

"The building was designed to be a slow burning structure," said Mr. Mendelssohn. "All the floors were to be decked with two inches of mortar, and all the flooring was to be filled at the base and top with mortar or concrete to prevent the fire from getting in and to cut off the channels of each floor; but unfortunately none of this work was in place. It was intended to begin with the second floor, but the building burned so rapidly that it was filled with rubbish of all sorts. It was full of lumber on the second story, flooring, doors, sash, scantling, and so on were all in place, with the following named military convicts, sentenced to confinement at that prison: Frank Sheppard and Clayburn Crumels.

The major and four companies will proceed to Ft. Robinson after the quarters are rebuilt to accommodate them, but two companies will winter at Ft. Bridger in the meantime.

The major companies of the Second infantry, comprising those of Capt. Miller, now at Ft. Robinson, and those of Capt. Keller McKee now at Ft. Niobrara, will come to Ft. Omaha this fall, thus making ten companies, the whole regiment at this post.

THREE STORES.

August Dornann and His Twenty Years' Experience in Omaha.

Away back in the sixties August Dornann, the well known Thirteenth street dry goods merchant, opened up a general store on North Sixteenth street, and amid the ups and downs of commercial life in a struggling city he has held his own for nearly twenty years.

He has moved into a large brick block on South Thirteenth, and about two months ago he took possession of his new and elegant block just across the street, which gives him three large store fronts, the numbers being 607, 609 and 611 South Thirteenth street. The building is a three story brick block and is occupied entirely by Mr. Dornann. He has placed therein a large and complete stock of dry goods, notions, cloaks, boots and shoes, clothing and furnishing goods; and during the regular season he sold the department of line millinery. Mr. Dornann gives employment to about twenty clerks and carries a stock of at least $100,000. He does a large business and is known far and wide for his honesty in all his dealings. Those who deal with him always know that goods are just as he represents them and that his prices are as low as any in the west.

By reference to his large advertisement in this issue it will be seen that he has quoted some extraordinary prices, and customers from out of the city need have no fears of patronizing him, as they are sure to be used as honestly as if they came personally to the store. His long experience in the business in the west gives him an enviable reputation and the best takes pleasure in saying a good word for him.

TEN PER CENT DISCOUNT.

On Account of the Fire at Fifteenth and Farnam.

The C. E. Mayne Real Estate and Trust company, on account of the fire last Friday evening, have suffered severe losses, and in conversation with C. E. Mayne in regard to how it affected him, he stated that as the loss was entire, there being no insurance whatever, that he would, in order to make some quick sales, place on the market Orchard Hill lots, as well as lots in Mayne Place and Mayne's Addition, at a discount of ten per cent from former prices.

This will last for only a few days, as the lots are being a great deal more money than is asked.

Orchard Hill is now in the heart of the residence portion of the city; the great number of houses erected there this year is astonishing. Hanson street, which runs through Orchard Hill, has been brought to grade, while the street cars have been extended out only three blocks from street cars. Mayne's Addition is still nearer the city while Mayne Place on Leavenworth street needs no comment. Leavenworth street will be paved in the spring to within three blocks of Mayne Place, and street cars are of easy access. Lots in Mayne Place are sold at a much lower figure than is asked for Hanson Place lots, while the latter are good advantages as the latter addition. Buy these lots now while you can get the discount.

Swedes For Prohibition.

To the Editor: In an editorial this week you said that the folly of the prohibitory resolution at Lincoln made possible the result of "republican defeat at our last election," and that "the foreign vote with few exceptions protested in the most effective way" against that folly "by casting their ballots for the democratic candidates." Now, as a foreign born citizen of Nebraska, and very well acquainted with the people in every Swedish settlement in the state, please let me inform you that, as for this class of foreigners at least, you have made a great mistake. The politicians of our nationality may be against prohibition, but our people in Nebraska or in Kansas and Iowa, are very much in favor of it. The great mass of the Swedish born citizens—and the number in Nebraska is over twenty-five thousand—has hitherto voted the republican ticket in the hope that their party would give us prohibition in this as well as in other states. When the time comes that the prohibitory amendment is submitted to a vote of the people, I do not doubt it will receive over twenty thousand votes of the Swedish born citizens in Nebraska.
