A STOCK YARDS BANK. A Mach Needed Convenience to be Supplied in South Omaha. Ever since the epening of the stoc yards at South Omaha, those who have been doing business there have been under the great inconvenience of doing all their banking in Omaha. Under such an arrangement every man doing business there was compelled to make a trip up to the city every night to make his deposits, and as it was impossible for them to leave the yards until after banking hours, it was also an inconvenience to the banks to keep open so late. At last the stock yards people have taken a step in the right direction, and in a few days South Omaha will have a bank of her own. The stock has been taken by a number of well known capitalists among whom are the following: Wm. A. Paxton, John A. Creighton, P. E. Iler, John McShane, Herman Kountze, of Omaha; Kountze Bros., of New York, Sam Allerton and the Anglo-American Provision company, of Chicago. The capital stock has been placed at $200,000. The new bank will be known as the Union Stock Yards Bank of South Omaha. A meeting was held last evening for the election of a board of directors and other officers, but was ad-journed until the first of the week without any action being taken. The plans for the opening of the bank have been maturing for some time and everything is now ready, or nearly so. Workmen were en gaged in putting in the necessary railings and counters yesterday and the books and stationary are already printed. It is expected that the bank will open for business the middle of this week. The bank will be located in the southeast corner of the Exchange building, directly over the stock yards office, and in the room which was intended for banking purposes in the original plan of the building. The com-mission men are pleased at the prospect of having a bank in the same building in which they are doing business and will give it their unqualified support.

Clipping Horses. OMAHA, Nov. 19 .- To the Editor: I noticed in this evening's paper a letter from the executive committee of the Nebraska Humane society in regard to clipping horses. I had thought that any one who had considered the matter must have come to the conclusion that the winter was the only time that horses need elipping, but it seems not, or else this writer has written on the spur of the moment. I have owned and handled horses for years, and never have known of a horse being lost by clipping. If the gentleman who wrote the letter referred to above was to run a race would he run it with overcoat on or have the overcoat to put on after the race was over? He allows that God knows best in these matters. If so, why are not horses sent to us with shoes on? We do not doubt that God knows best, and we know He gave horse, but He also gave us intellect and it is our duty to use it. Now, take for example two fire horses, run them to a fire, blanket them while there, and run them back (one of these is clipped, one is not). Groom the best that can be done and what is the result? The clipped horse is perfectly dry in ten minutes, and if the other is a heavy baired horse he cannot be dried in an hour. Now which is the most likely to take cold? same rule will apply to every horse that has hard drives and good care. A horse that is not driven fast enough to perspire freely in cold weather should not be clipped. Horseman.

Some Political Incidents Gathered During the Storm. PLATISMOUTH, Nov., Nov. 19 .- [Corres pondence of the BEE.]-With scores of other unfortunate ones, caught away from home during the recent snowstorm. I was left in Lincoln the other day. While loitering in the lobby of a hotel awaiting the coming of the oldest inhabitant to tell that he "had never seen a storm so carly in Nebraska," across from me I saw the late lamented Howe receiving congratulations over his handsome majority of 7,000 less than McShane. The defeated gladiator from Nemaha seemed in the best of spirits. Charley Casey, a Pawnee politician, who believed Church would receive in that county 800 majority, was busily engaged in attempting to explain why that never before doubtful county gave him only 191 ma jority. Joe McDowell, of Jefferson, who died with his boots on for Paddock on a recent historic occasion, and who, it is said, would like to youch for his delegation this winter, also gave a willing ear to the latest explanation of the land slide under which Howe was buried. It happened that a train came in on the Atchison & Nebraska, on which was Colonel Colby from the state of Gage The meeting between the defunct con gressman and the colonel was a spectacle hat even made the cloak boy grin. Colby, but a short time ago, was as badly beaten when running for judge for his district, as was Howe for congress. and these often "scooped" and 'squelehed" ones looked worlds sympathy at each other. been charged, creating no se, that Colby had betrayed surprise,

Howe, and denied by the Omaha Reputs-The colonel of state militia fame said; "Why, Church, how do you do? This is the first time I have seen you since the battle. I understand that the Republi can has set me right regarding the charge that I had betrayed you. I didn't." The cloak boy grinned again, Gad Slaughter, who had been gadding around the city to see if his chances were good for clerk of the house, was there, but I did not see him embrace Howe with his old-time devotion and familiarity. As these mar pulators continued with their explanations. Judge Weaver appeared. Howe looked at him with a bunch of seorn larger than McShane's majority, quest the attorney to produce his evi-look which said: "I wish he would run In an interview with Mr. Howe, he said the story about McGrew resigning in Nemaha was a very wormy chestnut. He said he never had an idea of such a thing, and if McGrew did resign he would not be in the way, as he had other busi-ness to attend to this winter. Because Otoe county gave John I. Redick 375 ma-jority and McShane only 200 odd, Howe thinks Van Wyck betrayed him, and such is logic, with a very small "l." Jim Caldweil, a representative-elect, of Lancaster, a splendid boy, a good orator, but a little bit cranky on torial question, claimed that he would vote for a democrat before he would favor Van Wyck. Such intense loyalty would almost cause one to draw the conclusion that "Jeems" was favorable to the rail-

The next train coming to the city was from Chicago, and, strangely, Tom Ma-jors, the Peru statesman, came in. Upon his arrival Tom was interested in pur-chasing a shirt. Although Henry Clay Dean has tried for years to introduce, among politicians, a custom never to change shirts, Tom could not see the logic of his proposition, and accordingly yielded to the temptation. I interviewed Mr. Majors on the political situation, but he was absolutely mum. He said, how-ever, that he thought Van Wyck had great strength, and the contest was likely to be long and exciting. He was non-committal as to which one of the many candidates he would favor with his work and It was easily guessed from his conversation, as it was also from the con-versation of Howe, that if these two buried the hatchet, they left the handle

THE HOSPITAL PLANS. The Physicians' Report-Other Doings of the Commissioners.

The commissioners held a busy session yesterday afternoon, a fuli board being report. The report of the physicians, chosen to examine the plans of the several architects for the proposed county hospital, was received. It was as follows: OMAHA, Nov. 15, 1886,-To County Commissioners of Douglas county—Gentlemen: We, the undersigned members of your committee of physicians to examine the several plans of of physicians to examine the several plans of the proposed hospital from a standpoint of hygiene and utility, have found said plans best in our opinion in the following order mentioned: Cochran first, Mendeissohn second, Meyers third. We further take the liberty to suggest that some of these plans as incry are now presented are efficient in hygeine and utility, but either of them with some not very radical changes can be made efficient.
