The hotels yesterday had special menus which would do credit to any metropolis. The necessary wedding permit was issued to Fred Busse and Lydia Geisler yesterday.

The only turkey served at the city jail yesterday was the one with an "n" in it, making it a turnkey.

The quadrille party given by the Cathohe ladies last evening proved one of the most enjoyable of the series. The net proceeds of the policemen's ball at Des Moines were $875, which will be divided among thirty officers. Most of the business houses closed for the greater part yesterday, and the city put on a Sunday look, except for the social entertainments and merry doings in the residence parts of the city. The business streets, public offices, etc., were unusually quiet. Miss Weirich had her dining rooms beautifully adorned vesterday with cut flowers and green plants and vines. The tables were spread most temptingly, in banquet style in fact, and the rooms being darkened, the lights burning brightly, the scene resembled a royal teast indeed.

In the accident on the Osceola Wednesday morning, the Hyers sisters com-bination were among the passengers. Fortunately most of the men were in the smoker, and thus escaped injury. Wal-lace King received a bad cut on the head. The ladies were badly shaken up. Mrs. Sam Lucas had her left arm broken at the elbow, Miss Freeman had her right arm broken at the wrist, and her head cut. Others were bruised, but none

Mr. H. C. Crowl and Miss Dora Jourgens were united in marriage yesterday morning at the residence of C. L. Zor-baugh, on Seventh avenue, Rev. G. W. Crofts officiating. Both of the parties are deaf mutes, and the ceremony was inter-preted in the sign language by Professor McDermid, of the insulution for the deaf and dumb, of which institution both the contracting parties were formerly pupils. The bride is a daughter of Mr. Leo Jourgens, one of the oldest and best known settlers of Mills county. Mr. Crowl is well known in this city and here they will make their home. The ceremony was a peculiarly interesting and impressive one, and the many friends present will be joined by others in extending the heartiest congratulations and well

MERRILY MATED.

WILCOX-DABNEY.
A very pleasant, modest wedding occurred at Oakland last evening, by which Mr. W. T. Wilcox and Miss Minnie Dabbey were made one in fate and fortune. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's parents by Rev. Mr. Wood, pastor of the Methodist church, and in the presence of a small company, the invitations being limited to the intimate friends. The bride is a young lady highly esteemed by her many friends, who cannot but regret that Oak-land is to lose her, but who also cannot but rejoice that so worthy a young man has won her. Mr. Wilcox for some time practiced law in Oakland, and won for himself an enviable reputation throughout this part of the state. He is now lo-cated at North Platte, Neb., which will be their home. He is a yoving man of marked ability and sterling integrity, and carmot but be successful in his chosen profession.

SHEPARD-GARDNER.
Yesterday afternoon there was a gathering of friends at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Gardner, No. 207 South First street, the occasion being the marriage of Mr. Frank A. Shepard to Miss Hattie Gardner. The ceremony was per-formed by Rev. T. J. Mackey, rector of St. Paul's church, and in accordance with the beautiful ritual service of that church. The attendants were Mr. Robert Mullis and Miss Ida M. Harris The invitations were confined to the relatives and imme-diate friends, and while the occasion was without ostentation or display, the event in all of its details was characterized by elegance and rare good taste in all the ar-rangements. Mr Shepard lived here for five years, coming here from Boston. He was, while here, connected with Hark-ness Bros., and speedily won and surely has held the esteem and confidence of has held the esteem and confidence of business circles, and socially has been no less a favorite. For the past two years he has been living at North Platte, Neb., and is now with a large clothing house there. The bride is a young lady who has many friends here, and worthily so, and has been also a very successful teacher in the public schools of the city. Mr. Shepherd is to be congratulated on having won so worthy a bride, while if half the well wishes expressed for her are realized, their lot will indeed be a happy and prosperous one. They left last evening on the Denyer train for their future home in North Platte, where they will home in North Platte, where they will within a few days be settled to house-keeping in their new home.

The Giving of Thanks.

The Presbyterian church was filled yesterday morning at the union services held there in observance of the day of giving thanks. The pastor of the church, Rev. A. K. Bates, opened the services with the reading of the president's proclamation, following it with a brief prayer, the congregation standing. Rev. Dr. Cooley read appropriate selections of scriptures, Rev. Dr. McCreary offered prayer, and the choir gave a very choice musical service. Miss Westcott served as organist and her opening voluntary was especially fine. The choir, consisting of the Misses Merkel, and Messrs. Treynor and Noble, rendered most excellently Millard's Te Deum. The solo given by Mr. Treynor as an offertory, "Charity," was very line. The Misses Merkel gave a most pleasing duet in which their voices blended with even more than usual sweetness. The ppening services included also the praccal giving of thanks by an expression of the pocket books, the proceeds to be devoted to the new hospital project.

The sermon was delivered by Rev. G. W. Crofts, pastor of the Congregational church. It was one of the best discourses ever heard on such an occasion. It had among its merits that of brevity, the entire service lasting only an hour and a half, which was a relief from the old-time custom of dragging such services out into the hours, spoiling the dinners and ruining the patience. The sermon was closely listened to, and was full of fresh thoughts on such an old subject. Mr. Crofts seemed to realize that he had a big theme to handle and did not pro pose to exhaust it, nor exhaust the audience in attempting to do so. It would be a difficult task to give a clear idea of the discourse by any brief summary. It was full of bright passages, pleasing rhetoric, and bits of elo-quence. He briefly touched upon many reasons for the giving of thanks. Glimpses were given of the wonderful changes in the individual and natural life. The progress made by inventions of various kinds was strikingly illustrated. The glorious legacy of grand men and grand deeds which gave every one just pride at being an American, was another occasion for the giving of thanks. Iowans, especially, have occasion to be thankful for being residents of such a state, to which the speaker paid a glowing tribute. Not only were material blessings remembersed, but the spiritual ones also. He declared there were some men who could see nothing but a stock yard or a granary. There were rich blessings which came from what were called the trials and misfortunes of life. These were often the true blessings, developing beauties and strength af character, and wealth of true manhood. These trials were the chiselings of the sculptor, freeing the angel imprisoned in the rough, rugged stone; the purifying fires, without the use of which even gold was base, and by which it was made fit to form the scepter and adorn the coronet. After the recent and anorn the coronet. After the recent earthquakes some one sneeringly in-quired of an old colored woman: "Well, aunty, where, syour God now?" She re-plid: "I'se mighty thankful dar's a God that can shake de whol' worl." There was the true spirit of thankfulness, that she had a God who was able to do all thas a things. Same could only see God these things. Some could only see God in the sunlight, but the true child saw the smiling face, though hidden by a

As to the nation, he urged all to rest not content with its material wealth, nor to look to its future prosperity as depending upon its physical advantages. There was no need of anxiety as to its material blessings. They were abundant for all the future if rightly handled. The future of the nation really depended upon what ise was made of what God had given it Manhood was wanted. There was a great and growing demand for men, true men, of character and worth. The speaker took occasion to sharply censure those who came to this country from for eign lands, where they had been kept down, worked hard, received little pay and small comfort, and, on reaching here, instead of being thankful, began to dynamite factories and poison employers. Such should be taught their folly, and be made to join in the grand march onward With a united effort, by seeking God's blessing, and working in accordance with his plans, it would be sometime shown that the latter part of the nine-teath continuous as it is in all the continuous as it is in a continuous a teenth century, glorious as it is, is only one golden round in the ladder, reaching up to heaven, and upon which God's angels of mercy were passing up and down with blessings for all mankind.

Can't Afford School Books Some of the charitably inclined ladies have been investigating along a comparatively new line of helpfulness. It is discovered that there are a large number of children in the city who are not attending school because their parents do not feel able to purchase the necessary books. The expense of securing books is larger than many suppose. The amount might seem small to any one in comfortable circumstances, but to a poor family, struggling along to get food and clothing, with expenses naturally increasing during the cold weather, the schooling season, it proves a burden which some parents do not feel that they can add to their others, and the children are consequently kept at home. Several such instances have already been found. One family which just came here from Illinois, having several children, find that not one of the school books used at their old home will do now. For the smallest of the children it required an expenditure for new books of nearly two dollars, and other books would soon have to be purchased. As a result the children in the children is the children in the children in the children is result the children in the children in the children is the children in the childre to be purchased. As a result the children are being kept out of school until the family can provide themselves with other necessaries, leaving school books to the last. Some of the ladies who have been inquiring into some of these cases are surprised at the situation, and are in favor of taking some steps by which poor children may be provided with books. It is proposed to adopt some plan by which the real worthiness of the cases may be assured, and the books thus furnished them be simply loaned, so as to be used by other children when they have got through with them. An attempt will be made to secure funds for this purpose, and secure the co-operation of the school beard in the project.

which will without doubt be a permanent blessing to the community. It is proposed to lease a cottage for the present, and place in it a man and his wife, who will be fitted for the taking care of such patients as may be brought there. Those having the plan in hand have estimated that they will be able to go ahead with it just as soon as they are assured that there will be $50 a month pledgen for the first year. Mrs. Atkins and Mrs. Shugart went out on Wednesday and secured in pledges nearly four hundred dollars, to be paid in monthly installments during the year. One gentleman gave $100, and others smaller amounts. From this it seems that there will be little difficulty in ecuring abundant means to start the iospital. This community feels that I eeds such an institution, and by eac bearing his share, no great burden need rest on any. One gentleman, who with his wife, is planning to go to California the first of the month, to remain until spring, has been arranging to furnish one bed complete, so as to have it in readiness for the hospital as soon as the Winter Suits. A number of new suits have been begun in the district court, the term of which opens December 7. To-day is the last for filing. The docket is an unusually heavy one, and there is a very large amount of criminal business to be looked after. There is also a great batch of divorce cases.

Among the divorce cases filed recently s that of Martha C. Brunow against Fritz Brunow. They were divorced once before, and she secured considerable alimony. Then she concluded to re-marry him, and now she is fielde enough to seek another divorce and more alimony. She claims that he drinks too freely, and that he has abused her, once coming for ier with a razor, and threatening to put her beyond the reach of alimony.

Bell Brice wants a divorce srom William Brice, who, she says, is now in jail at Columbus, Neb., on a charge of burglary, and will probably not be able to be at the trial of the case. The most important of these is the case of Vinetta Vernon, in which she claims $12,000, on account of an accident which occurred in December, 1884. A Worthy, New Enterprise. The publishers' book sale, of which mention has been made before in these columns, opened yesterday at No. 347 Broadway, the store formerly occupied by the firm of Cocke & Morgan. The firm is composed of young men of enter prise and stability, and they propose making their permanent home here, and becoming a part and parcel of Council Bluffs. They have established themselves here because they have faith in the city and its future, and the methods which they are adopting clearly show that they mean to work for the interests of the city with which fley have become identified, as well as work for themselves, as is their bounden duty. They have an excel-lent showing of books, a larger and more varied one than was ever before made here. It is no old stock nor damaged one. The books are fresh from the publishers, and there is such an endless variety of binding and of matter that one cannot but find just what they want. Those who are looking for holiday gifts in this line should also improve this wonderful chance to make selections. The prices quoted are astonishingly low, in fact so low as to make the enterprise quite a sensational one, and causes the querry to come from many a looker-on, how can they be sold so cheap? It is proposed to sell these books at prices which will not only books at prices which will not only cause Council Bluffs folks to buy here, at home, but will also draw to the city a large trade in this line from the surrounding cities, villages and country. There are many holiday books, beautiful art books and the choicest sets of standard books, and the choicest sets of standard works, and even on these the prices are placed so low that the sale, although begon but yesterday, has already caused a sensation among those who have learned prices or seen the stock. The book sale is to be kept up for every day, and will prove an additional attraction for those who seek holiday gifts in Council Bluffs. The house is to be a permanent one, and as such it is welcomed

agement in its attempts to present bar-gains which will hold some trade, and induce trade from elsewhere to come to

Music and Ghosts. The entertainment given last evening in Temple hall by the Methodist society proved a great success and drew a large crowd. There were bountiful and tempt ing refreshments, a novel art gallery, and a weighmaster as side novelties. The stage programme was as follows. and was excellently rendered:

Our Country Mr. James Knotts, Oration

Carneval De Venice Benedict
Mrs. J. C Wadsworth, PART II.

By Band of Spocks and Phantoms.

Accompanists—Messrs. Officer, Westcott and Dale, Colonel L. W. Tulleys and H. E.

One of the chief features of the programme in point of real merit was the song given by Mrs. Wadsworth. This was her first appearance before an audience, and while there were high expecta-tions by those who knew of her reputation as a singer in her Illinois home, these expectations were more than met. She has a voice of wonderful sweetness and evident cultivation, and it is by no means weak. Her tones are as smooth as those of a flute, and her voice has the flexibility of a bird. The audience were entiusiastic, and rightly so. As an encore she sang "Maid of Dundee," which caused even more enthusiastic appraise than her first and really more difficult, and meritorious number. Council Bluff's may well feel proud of having such an accession to its musical talent.

The other musica entures of the enter-tainment were much better than are usually found in a local entertainment. The ghosts in their ghastly garbs made much merriment, and their music was taking. Some of the choruses were quite pleasing, and the novelty of their appearance disarmed criticism and entertained

Cupid in Church. At the close of an interesting address by Presiding Elder Blodgett, at Oakland last evening, in the Methodist church, there was a wedding, which while it did not come as a surprise, interested a large number none the less. The contracting parties were Mr. L. L. Greenwalt and Miss Lulu Wood, the daughter of the pastor of the church. There were a large number present, and the reception which followed gave opportunity for the many friends to express their congrat-
