There will be a conference of christian workers at the Y. M. C. A. held this afternoon at 3 o'clock. All interested in any phase of christian work are invited to be present. It is hoped that every pastor in the city will be on hand. The seats for Burbank to-night, at Masonic hall, are selling rapidly, and there is the assurance of a full house. Bur-bank is immense as a reader and im-personater and will give a rich enter-tainment for old and young. M. Phelan has been made to give bonds to keep him from turning Mike Nolan and W. S. Kelley into cold corpses. The threats were very bloodthirsty, and were inspired more from pop than by any determination of a sober brain and

The increasing activity in the real estate market is evident from the fact that one man bought a piece of property yesterday morning, and before noon had found a purchaser for it at an advance. Such an occurrence had not been recorded here in a long time. All the straws show boom. In the district court yesterday most of the time was taken up in hearing the evidence in the divorce of Sarah Larrison vs. Samuel Larrison. The plaintiff claims that the defendant had become so addicted to drink as to neglect his family. The attempt to secure the divorce is being strongly contested. Yesterday morning a small cyclone struck Broadway, and although the flurry of wind was very strong for a few minutes, there was no damage. John Lindt and Dr. Cook were whirled about several times and Dr. Cook's coat was blown off. It caused quite a commotion while it lasted, and the two gentlemen who were caught in it had a narrow escape from injuries.

The Fathers Dodge.

There was considerable expectation concerning the meeting of the city council last night, but the expectations were ruthlessly dashed to the ground, as the council held no meeting. There was a great crowd of property owners interested in the Tenth avenue project, and i was hoped that this would be settled. Then there was Mr. Sweeney, foreman of the Vincent contract, waiting for a chance to demand a final settlement with the city. The mayor, Aldermen Shugart and Danforth were the only ones who put in an appearance. There being no quorum, adjournment was taken without date. Alderman Straub put in an appearance for a few minutes, but he left before the call to order. Alderman Keller was at his store, and declared that it was an understanding among the alder-men that there should be no meeting. The mayor can call a special meeting. and may do so for this afternoon, but if not the council will probably not meet until the regular meeting in January. It looks as if the aldermen are dodging the Tenth avenue and the Indian creek matters, and hence there was a howl went up from the lobby.

Hard On Free Lodgers. The suicide in the city jail seems to have had the effect of badly frightening off free lodgers, who have been applying nightly for a chance to sleep there. The idea of trying to sleep in a place liable to be visited by the ghost of a suicide seems to till with fear the superstitious mind, and they even prefer to take their chances on the street. A colored woman came last night applying for a chance to sleep in the jail. She was shown to a room up stairs and one of the boys jo-cosely went up with a pail of water to wash up the blood, as he said. The colored woman turned a pretty fair white, and no explanations or assurance would She came forth with a bound and rushed down stairs, insisting that she would either sit up all night by the office fire or stay out in the street. A Shoemaker Arrested For Being Drunk Hangs Himself. A ROW WITH A HACKMAN.

The Doings of the City Fathers Last Night-A Variety of Council Bluffs Jottings-Personal Paragraphs.

Hung Himself in Jail. Yesterday morning some of the prisoners in the city jail discovered that one of their number, a man occupying what is known as the steel cell, was hanging by his neck. They gave the alarm, and the cell was opened and the man found to be stiff and cold, death having apparently come to him several hours before. He had hung himself by means of a red silk handkerchief, pieced out with a bit of cloth which he had picked up in the jail. The man proved to be one arrested Saturday night by Officer Dyer for being drunk. He gave his name as Joseph Visck, and claimed to be from Marshall-town. He had told some of the prisoners that he was a shoemaker by trade, and that he had a family. On his person when arrested were found several small articles, among them a receipt for a box of tools shipped by him over the Chicago Northwestern railway on Saturday to Marshalltown, and on which he had paid the freight, amounting to 50 cents. Two letters were also found, one written in Omaha on Metropolitan hotel paper. The man when arrested was foolish rather than ugly drunk. He had been drinking pure alcohol, and as he took the last there was in the bottle he threw it down on the sidewalk with such force as not only to break it, but to cause one of the pieces to fly into the face of a lady who was passing, causing a slight cut on her cheek. His arrest fol-lowed at once, and while in fail Saturday night he expressed a wish that he had revolver so that he might kill himself. During Sunday he kept walking the corridor constantly, and declared that he would starve himself to death. He ate but little, and when his supper was brought to him Sunday night he drank the coffee and gave the rest away. He said he had taken his last meal on earth, but little attention was paid to his

when his form was discerned hanging there in the aim light of the breaking A jury was summoned consisting of A. T. Whittlesey and Officers Beswick and Hendricks. They returned a verdict in accordance with the above facts and the body was placed in charge of the under-talk by the fellow prisoners, who deemed it but the expression of natural remorse felt on recovering from a de-bauch. During the night he carried out his threat hanging himself to the bars, his feet being but a few inches from the floor. He had apparently stepped upon the couch, arranged his own knot, and then swung off. No noise of a struggle was heard, and the first known of it was taker, Mr. Morgan. Yesterday afternoon in response to a telegram sent to Marshalltown the follow-ing reply was received: "Bury Visek. If any effects send to marshal here. L. E. B. Holt, coroner." It seeming that his family and friends do not care enough for him to have his body sent home, it will be buried here to day.

Mustn't Monkey With Hack-Drivers. The only exciting item on the streetsvesterday was a rumpus between Billy Martin, the hackman, and three passengers whom he had hauled from the transfer. According to Martin's story the three men, who were strangers, had some difficulty with him at the transfer, and one of them struck him once. In some way this was patched up, peace restored and Martin engaged to take the trio up town. On reaching Broadway, near Pearl street, the three got out, and the same one who had struck Martin at the transfer became again pugilistic, and refusing to pay the fare. A lively tight followed which drew a large crowd. Martin is said not to have been satisfied with knocking the noisy one of the trio down, but he kicked him afterwards. The fellow was badly punished, his eye being closed, and the blood flowing freely from his nose and mouth. The party, including Martin, were taken to the police station and charges lodged against them. Martin was not searched or locked up. The three strangers gave their names as S. F. Ross, H. W. Stone and C. C. Roberts. Roberts was the one who received the pounding and the kicking, and he was quite drunk. The others were sober, apparently. Roberts was the solution of the control The others were sober, apparently. Roberts claimed to have friends in Rapid City, Dak., and being out of cash telegraphed there for funds to help him out of the scrape. Ross had about $10, and the other but a little change. They will probably have a hearing this morning. There was considerable indignant talk among the bystanders at the brutal manner in which Martin punished his obstreperous bassengers, and there was a narrow escape from other fights following as row escape from other fights following as a result of the discussion. Some wit-nesses claim that Martin did not strike until Roberts had struck at him.

The Army Makes a Feint.

Last evening Dohany's hall was packed with those curious to witness the peculiar doings and services of the Sal vation Army. Towards the close of the meeting some little excitement was caused by the captain suddenly falling over in a dead faint. The audience was quickly dismissed and the young lady restored to consciousness.
