Yesterday the police cun in a singing darky, who delights in the name of "Happy Tom," and who was as full of music as he was of whiskey. He kept the jall merry until the stimulant had subsided, and the necessary slumber followed. One of his pet songs contains an account of the life and exploits of Jesse James, and consists of forty-seven verses, with a chorus for each. By the finish the chorus was worn rather thin.

From a paper received from there it appears that Mrs. Hanthorn was on last Friday about the house as usual, when about half past 10 o'clock a stroke of paralysis came upon her and she fell helpless upon the floor. Unable to arise she was compelled to be there until a few minutes past 12 o'clock. when her son John came home from work for his dinner. BOWERS USED THE PASS.

The Railroad Company Thought He Was Modest, but He Wasn't.

San Francisco Post: "The Union Pacific folks were awful glad when a certain mandied in Omaha the day," said one of the agents of that line "His one of the agents of that line, name was Bowers. About a dozen years ago he saved a train from running into a washout near his farm, and the Union Pacific folks felt grateful to him. Mr. Clark, who was then superintendent, but who is now with the Milwankee and St. Paul road, sent for Bowers and offered him $500. Bowers modestly declined the money, but when Mr. Clark proposed to make him out a pass good for the rest of his life he said he didn't object. When Clark was engaged making out the pass Bowers said: 'Would you mind making out the pass good for a friend? I might want to go to Salt Lake City some day and take a friend of mine down to see my uncle.'

"Of course. Mr. Clark felt so grateful he 'didn't mind' making it out good for a friend; in fact, he was willing to do most anything at that time. The pass was sent up to the headquarters, where it received the signatures of the president and general passenger agent and was returned to Bowers.

and general passenger agent and was returned to Bowers.

"Well, now, what do you think? For twelve years he has been riding from Omaha to Salt Lake City, from Salt Lake City to Ogden, and other points on the line, and never alone. He always had a 'friend' with him. The friend was usually some commercial traveler. In short, Bowers had made raifroad riding a regular business for the past twelve years. He made arrangements with vaa regular business for the past twelve years. He made arrangements with va-rious wholesale and jobbing houses to carry their men, and booked his engage-ments months ahead sometimes. When these failed he picked up stray passengers here and there. After paying his sleeping car and other expenses he had from $6 to $8 a day clear profit. Out of this profit he managed to amass a snug little fortune. He tried to use his pass on the limited expenses but the commany the limited express, but the company would not have it. When he did attempt it he was liable to be ejected between sta-tions, even if the train was going up grade. In fact, the company wanted to refuse to carry him at all, but its lawyer concluded the trial for damages would be too expensive. The traveling men are sorry howers has made his exit."

Two Young Fellows Brought to a Confession and Their Plunder Secured.

MAJOR WILLIAMS ON TRIAL.

The Methodist Men Give a Novel Entertainment-A Quiet Wedding - The Druggists Cases In Court.

Bagging Two Burglars. Wednesday night, Captain O'Brien, of the regular force, noticed a young man trying to dispose of a lady's gold watch. The young fellow went to Goldstein's pawn shop, and then visited the other Goldstein's, where O'Brien dropped in on him as he was trying to borrow $15 on the watch. The fellow claimed that the watch belonged to his wife, and at a wink from O'Brien, Goldstein told him that he would not lend the money to him on the watch, as it belonged to his wife and he had no business to pawn it. The fellow asked if he would lend the money to his wife, if she came in, and on being answered in the affirmative he said his wife would come in the morning with the watch to get the loan. O'Brien got into conversation with the young man, who did not know that he was an officer, and they had quite a chat together. O'Brien learned that his name was A. Woodford, and that he had a partner. He went so far as to walk about town with the officer and point out his partner, who proved to be Jimmy Sullivan, a still younger fellow, aged about nineteen, wao has already gained the reputation of being a crook. O'Brien took them both in charge and locked them up at the police station. On being searched there was found on them several clues to throw further light upon them.

In one of their pockets was found a clipping from the Bee, giving an account of the burglary of the store. No. 805 Sixteenth street, occupied by Mrs. Davis, who was formerly in the jewetry business here. That burglary occurred Tuesday night, and the pres-ence of this clipping in the pocket of one of the fellows indicated that possibly they had some special interest in the event. An express receipt was also found show ing that a box had been shipped to Ottumwa and it appeared that this must contain the stolen goods. The fellows evi-tently intended to leave here for that place, secure the goods there and make way with them. Woodford was questioned closely as was also Sullivan, and from them was learned enough to satisfy the officers that they had committed the Davis burglary. In fact they finally admutted this practically. Officer O'Brien went over to Omaha on the late dummy train, and in company with Omaha officers, went to Woodford's house, which is only three doors from Davis' store, and made a search. Woodford has a wife and child. Mrs. Woodford denied all knowledge of the matter, but a quantity of silver table spoons were found, answering the description of those stolen. Something was thrown out of the windown while the officers were making the search. It proved to be a lady's bustle, and inside of this was found snugry packed away a quantity of jewelry, a bair of bracelets, eight rings, two pins, ear rings, a gold chain, etc. These were identified by Mrs. Davis as belonging to her. It was further learned that Wood-ford until lately had a restaurant, next door to Mrs. Davis' store, and was familiar with the details of the situation.

He and his wife were frequently in the store getting change or buying articles.

Lately he sold out his restaurant. Woodford in admitting that he was concerned in the burglary pleaded as an excuse that he had to provide for his family in some way, and being out of money and with no employment he was strongly tempted and fell. Sullivan has been a waiter in hotels, and says his home is in Dunlap, although he has worked in Umaha for some time past. The two young men agreed to go across the river without putting the officers to the trouble of getting a requisition. A telegram was sent to Ottumwa to have the mysterious package sent back here, and it will be found to contain the larger part of the stolen goods without doubt. The amount stolen was between three and four hundred dollars. It seems that there is

Doings in Court.

In the district court the jury yesterday morning returned a verdict of guilty against Harry Walbridge, the embezzling salesman of L. Kirsent & Co. There was not a single claim set up in his defense, except that the case should have been tried in Harrison county instead of in this county. The jury concluded that it would do its duty in the attempt to send the fast young man to a place of repentance, and not let the technicality avail him.

Yesterday a large portion of the time was taken up in the discussion of a motion to dismiss various cases brought against druggists and others holding county permits to sell intoxicating liquors. The arguments were numerous, and to those sufficiently versed in the law to appreciate the fine points drawn, it was intensely interesting. Judge Cole was present and resisted the motion, his argument being a masterly one, pleasing in rhetoric, and at times verging into the eloquent, while sarcasm was used cut-ting like a keen blade. Those support-ing the motions in the several cases were John N. Baldwin, who made the main argument, W. S. Williams, Frank Shian, Colonel Keatley and F. Benjamin.

After the motion was argued and sub-mitted, the case of Major Williams was called. He is charged with killing a fel-low confidence man named James Hughes, in the old Union Avenue hotel. There was much difficulty in securing a jury, and a special venire was made for lifteen additional ones. Col. Daily and J. J. Frainey are the defendant's attorneys. Three others were indicted jointly with Williams, but the only one who did not skip was George Gerspacher, who is here ready for trial. It was decided by the wish of the prosecution, to try them separately, and Williams first. This case will take some time in the trial, and while there is little or no doubt but that Williams killed Hughes, there seems to be much difficulty in securing the attendance of witnesses, and to get those who are here to tell what they really know. The prediction is quite common, that although there is so little doubt as to Williams guilt, yet that he will probably get clear on account of the lack of evidence to be secured.

Last evening the Methodists gave an enjoyable entertainment. This church society is winning a reputation for the novelty and success of their entertainments, and that of last evening certainly added to it. The programme opened with music by the church orchestra, consisting of L. W. Tulleys, E. S. Barnett, Paul Tulleys and Hugh Smith. Several war songs were also given as pleasing musical features. One of the choice numbers of the evening was the reading by Prof. McKnight. Despite the fact that he is in shattered health, and that his voice is but a shadow of what it was, he shows the marks of a true artist, and is wonderful in some respects. S. U. Stockman also gave a reading, which was excellently rendered.

A Novel Entertainment.

The really novel part of the entertainment was the supper provided by the men. The tables were well spread, and the cookery was such as to arouse no suspicion but that feminine fingers had been at work preparing the refreshments Those in charge of the cuisine were E. S. Barnatt, Henry Dale and H. P. Niles, Mr. Dale being the chief of the trio. The men served the tables, and in fact were the ones who entertained last evening in every respect, instead of the ladies.
