The Husband of Julie Rive-King Tells a Remarkable Story.

A SEVEN COMPANY ARMY POST.

A Remarkable Story. Mr. King, the husband of Julie Rive King who played last night at the exposi tion building, related to a BEE reporter yesterday the story of his remarbable experience in Leavenworth.

'I don't believe,' he said "that I ever had such a remarkable time in my life. The way of it was this: My wife was engaged by the Y. M. C. A. branch in Leavenworth to play nine nights in that city. The contract was negotiated through the agent of the association, Mr. Aronson. When the engagement was closed, and I went around to get my money, Mr. Aronson was nowhere to be found, all the box office receipts were gone, and I was politely informed by the members of the association that they had no money for me. Mr. Aron-son, they said, was responsible for the contract, and I must look to him for my money. No one seemed to know where Mr. Aronson was, and what was more, no one seemed to care. One of the members of the association informed me that he had defaulted to a large amount.

'A remarkable feature of the occur rence was that I could not get my side of the story printed in the local papers at all. The Y. M. C. A. people had their story published all right enough, highly colored and badly twisted, but when I asked for the privilege of replying, not a single paper would grant my request. They were all afraid to. And what was more, I couldn't find a job office that would print dodgers for me, setting forth the tale of wee that I had to tell. Each printer assured me that he would like to do it, but he was afraid of being boycotted by the Y. M. C. A. In fact, I tried every way of getting my side of the story into print, but failed utterly and ignominiously. Upon coming to Omaha I placed an article detailing my experience in Leavenworth in the hands of the printer, with instructions to print me a large number of dodgers. These I propose to circulate in Leavenworth, as the last and only means of informing the public there just how my wife and I were treated. I have also commenced suit in the federal court at Topeka against the Y. M. C. A. of Leavenworth to recover the full amount on my wife's contract."

A SEVEN COMPANY POST.

The New Buildings at Fort Robinson-

Generals Crooks and Dandy left yesterday morning for Fort Robinson, to be gone several days. They go to that point to see about the crection of additional quarters for the officers and men of that post. About $20,000 altogether is to be expended in this direction. New buildings are urgently needed, and the work of construction will be pushed rapidly on.

General Breck stated yesterday morning that the regimental headquarters of the Ninth cavalry would be probably estab-lished at Robinson. There are now at that post four companies of infantry and three of cavalry. This is an increase of three companies over the old apportionment. Aside from the fact that the present quarters at Fort Robinson are entirely too small for this increased number of soldiers, the buildings are in bad shape and stand greatly in need of reconstruction and repair. Col. Stanton, army paymaster at Salt Lake City is in the city, greeting his old friends and associates in military life. He expects to remain here four or five days. Among other things, he will at-tend to his official bond which has to be renewed every three years.

MEN OF WAR.

What They are Doing in Time of Peace.

The annual election of officers of Custer post resulted as follows:

Commander, D. St. Geyer; senior vice, John A. Cuscaden; junior vice, W. S. Seavey; officer of the day, John B. Sawnill; chaplain, Emil R. G. Satis; quartermaster. John Koops, officer of the guard, Wm. Henn; surgeon, John E. Smith. Delegates to the department encampment, A. Allee, John A. Cuscaden; alter nates, D. L. Thomas and Patrick O'Hawes. Trustees, D. A. Hurley, D. St. Geyer and John A. Cuscaden. Commit-tee on soldiers' monument, M. J. Feenan and E. R. G. Satis.

The last committee is intended to see that all the unmarked graves of soldiers in the vicinity, as suggested in the BEE of Tuesday, are supplied with national

The department encampment will be held in this city some time in February, at which time it is expected not less than 1,500 soldiers will be present from all parts of the state. The leading members of the G. A. R. are devoutly hoping that citizens may be induced to make some effort in the way of a welcome to those who will then come among us. They hope for it as much for Omaha as they do for the soldiers, because they hold it as about time that Omaha should realize the fact that the presence of many strangers in the city means the financial advantage of many tradesmen. In time, too, it is to be hoped that the hotels will agree upon a reduced rate to all the vet erans, a practice and a compliment which has been tendered them wherever the encampment has heretofore been

A SKATING RINK.

A Scheme to Locate One in Omaha

-The Details. A number of gentlemen of this city prominent among whom is Mr. A. W. Patterson, of the Nebraska & Iowa Insurance company, are figuring on erecting an ice skating rink in this city. The scheme is to procure two lots somewhere in the center of the town, or as near thereto as possible, and erect a large building with all the conveniences of the rinks in larger cities. On the first cold night the interior will be flooded with water from the hydrants, and at each successive cold snap water will be allowed to cover the ice for the depth of an inch or two, so that in time the total thickness of the ice will be several feet. In this way the ree can be kept in good condition, it is believed, for the entire winter. There is no doubt but that such an institution would be well supported, and in fact would make money. At present there is no place for the lovers of this exhibarating past-time to disport themselves on, short of Cut-off lake, several miles distant.

The main trouble in carrying out the scheme, will be the trouble to secure the lease of the necessary lots at a reasonable figure. At present several sites are in view, among them being the vacant lots on the southeast corner of Thirteenth and Capitol avenue, those on the northwest corner of Thirteenth and Dodge, and those on the corner of Eighteenth and Farnam, opposite the county court house. It is probable that the rink will be located in one of these three places.

A Suspected Thief.

Officer Dempsey yesterday morning arrested James Boyd, who is suspected of having stolen $6 from a fellow lodger in a Tenth street boarding house,

It is the desire of the gentleman in charge of the scheme, to secure property with the privilege of a five years lease. The only ice rink which was established in this city, was managed in 1879-80, by a gentleman who is now in the real estate business. It was on a pond, which used to be on the site of the present B. & M. freight house. The rink was nothing but a high boarding, unroofed, nailed to 4x4 scantlings driven into the mud. This institution is said to have cleared for the genius who opened it over $1,600 inside of four months.

District Court. Yesterday morning Jno. L. McCague, executor of the will of the late Jos. Bell, yesterday asked for permission to sell some of the real estate belonging to the deceased, and valued at $60,000. The lia-bilities of the deceased's estate are about $12,000, for which there is but $4,000 in cash to satisfy. In the case of Josephine Kurtschmer J. C. Morrow and wife was concluded Wednesday evening, and the jury re-mained out all hight. Yesterday morning they were discharged, having been unable to agree. The suit was for $2,000 damages for alleged slander. Gilmore and Howard, two men charged with the burglary of a store near the cor-ner of Thirteenth and Dodge streets, were arraigned yesterday afternoon and pleading guilty were sentenced to two years each in the pen.

Thieves on the Street Cars. Wepnesday evening Mr. W. S. Stutsman boarded car No. 22, on the red line, which was so full of passengers that he could barely find room to stand on the inside of the car. Having no change, Mr. S. passed up through the car a silver dollar. After waiting a sufficient time, he asked for his change. No one knew anything about it. He finally worked his way to the front and demanded his change from the driver, who replied that he had passed the change back into the car, and that it was Mr. S.'s fault if he aid not receive the change. This morning, how ever. Mr. Stutsman was reimbursed by the company to the extent of ninety-five Fremont's Fire Water. Firm Marshal Lowry, of Fremont, was n the city yesterday and was met by a BEE reporter. He states that as soon as he returns an official test will be made of the new means of supplying water at that place for fire purposes. The old system, the Godfrey, proved unsuccessful, and the new one, while in some respects resembling the other, is thought to possess decidedly superior features. It consists of sinking thirty pipes in an area sixty feet square, in the earth, to various depths, all leading to an air chamber, with which, when water is needed, connectton is made with the pumps. These latter have a capacity of 1,000,000 gallons in twenty-four hours.

Hebrew Ladies. A meeting of the Hebrew Ladies Sewing society, for the purpose of working of working garments for the poor, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the synagogue. It is expected that a large number of the officers and mempers will be present; as there have been quite a number of applications reported to Rabbi Benson, and garments are argently needed.

Those ladies having old garments will aid the cause greatly in sending the same to the synagogue any day in the week— except Saturdays—between 2 and 4 o'clock when there shall be on hand persons to receive all donations.

Owing to some errors in regard to the dates of the lectures delivery on Sundays by Rabbi Benson, at the synagogue, a number of people called at the synagogues Sunday afternoon. For the information of the general public, these lectures will take place every first Sun-day in the month at 3 o'clock. The regular weekly lectures are delivered every Friday evening. Divine services at the synagogue commence at 7 o'clock. The public lectures are free to all. The discourse this evening will be the second of a series "On the Prominent University Heatens".

Hebrews in History. Police Court.

Barton Hiles and James Daily, two old bums who are regular police court patrons, were fined $10 and costs by Judge Stenberg yesterday morning. They were committed to the county jail. Three other men were fined $5 and costs.

John Summers, a man who had just been released from a term in the county jail which he had served for stealing a ot of caps from Bergstrom, had celebrated his release by a roaring debauch. He was sentenced by Judge Stenberg to ten days ih the county jail.

Daily is Here.

Mr. Wm. Daily, late United States marshal of this district, who, it is thought, might have been the victum of that name who perished in the explosion of the Jim White on the Mississippi Mondey last, was on the streets yesterday and stated his intimacy with the defunct steamer was an unknown quantity, and that he was consequently unable to have been blasted into eternity in the unceremonious man-

Citizens of the Sixth Ward. There will be a meeting of the citizens of this ward, in the parlors of the Sannders Street Presbyterian church, at 8 o'clock, sharp, on Saturday, December 18th, to protest against the saloon in the Harrold block, on Saunders streets. All interested in the movement are earnestly BY ORDER OF THE COMMITTEE.

Patti and Abbott.

Mr. Rosewater, editor of the BEE, upon his return from the east yesterday brought from Adelina Patti a message to Emma Abbott, for whom she has a high regard. The message was to the effect that Patti has brought from Europe a beautiful bangle as a present to Miss Abbott, to whom she will present it in person when hey meet.

A Diptheria Epidemic.

For the past several weeks diptheria has been raging at the deaf and dumb institute and one or two of the scholars have died. Some of the pupils who were well were sent home, and every precaution has been taken to prevent the spread of the disease among those who remain Twenty-Five Years Married.

Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Higgins celebrated their silver wedding at their residence, corner of Poppleton and Georgia avenues. The event was attended by a large number of the friends of the hosts, though the bestowal of presents was not permitted. Goes to Cincinnati. Mr. Christ Specht, the energetic manazer of the Western Cornice works, leaves this evening for an extended visit to Cin cinnati, where he will submit to medical treatment for a semi paralytic affection

THE TWO BURGLARS.

They Make a Confession and are Locked Up. Officers Ormsby and Captain Cormick returned vesterday afternoon from Council Bluffs with J. P. Suilivan and F. A. Woodford, the two men who confess to having committed the Davis robbery on North Sixteenth street yesterday morning. Both of them are hard looking customers. A portion of the stolen goods was found on their person. but the larger share was shipped by them to Ottumwa, Ia., in two trunks. The cheeks to these trunks have been secured, and the stolen goods will be shipped back from Ottomwa.

Yesterday morning the house of Wood-ford, near the scene of the burglary, was ed by the follicers who recovered of the stolen jewelry. Most of it searched by the stolen jewelry. Most of it was found sewed up in a bustle belonging to Mrs. Woodford. That lady claims that Sullivan gave her the jewelry.

WAS HE A MAN OF DESTINY?

lown Soldier Whose Wounds Frightened a Railroad Out of a Lawsuit.

One of the most remarkable railroad damage cases on record is that of D. H. McKinley, of Osage, Ia., against the Northwestern. McKinley was a huge man, powerful and athletic. One day, years ago, when it was customary to re-serve a car in each passenger train for ladies and their escorts, he left his sachel in a seat at Harvard, Ill., and returned to the platform to bid his friends good by. Upon attempting to re-enter the car the brakeman stopped him with the query: "Lady in the car, sir?" query: "Lady in the car, sur."
"No, but I have a grip."
"Can't let you in; it's against the

"Drat the rules!" and with that McKinley forced his way through the door. Just as he passed, the brakeman hit him a terrific blow on the left shoulder, fracturing the bone in three places. McKinley turned, picked the brakeman up with the right hand, dashed him to the floor, and nearly trampled the lungs out of him. Then he stepped into the first law office he came to and began suit for $25,000. The railroad attorney to whom the de-fense was committeed had some difficulty in looking up McKinley's record, until quite accidentally one day he met an old Iowa friend who was well acquainted with the defendant.

"Why, McKinly," said the Iowa man,
"was one of the bravest, and at the same time one of the most unfurtunate of sol diers. If he hadn't the constitution of a cat he'd have been dead years ago; and if his wounds hadn't kept him in the hos-pital so long he would have graduated from the rebellion a brigadier instead of a captain. He was a marvelous fighter McKinley started out a private with the 8th Iowa in 1861. He led a charge at Blue Milis, Missouri, and was shot through both legs. He was promoted to a lieutenancy for gallantry, and upon leaving the hospital in July, 1862, was assigned to the 24th Iowa infantry then forming. His next setback was down in the Vicksburg campaign. At Champion Hill a shell exploded over him, one piece crushing through his face, near the right nostril, and lodging in his throat, another imbedding itself in his brain. Inserting a finger, he cooly picked the piece out of his throat and then collapsed. It took months and months to restore him. The iron never was taken out of his brain, and eventually a running sore came in the roof of his mouth. He rejoined us in November, 1863, at New Iberla, southwestern Louisiana. The day he returned to duty his company hap-pened to be stationed near the drum corps in dress parade. At the first beat on the drums an unearthly yell escaped him and he fell to the ground almost dead from nervous prostration. He was returned to the hospital. Again he set out in the spring of 1864 to join his command, which was following the unfortu-nate Banks through the Red river campaign. The steamer conveying him up the river was attacked above. Alexandria and riddled. He escaped with a butle and riadled. He escaped with a bullet wound through the right arm, but he had to go back to the hospital.

"I never saw McKinley again until our regiment got around in Virginia. He returned to us in the Sheridan campaign. By this time the boys had all come to regard him as a 'hoodoo;' and the first word that passed along the,' line was: 'McKinley is back; look out for a light,' The battle of Fisher Hill followed, but he went through it valiantly without suswent through it valiantly without sus taining so much as a scratch. Then we thought that perhaps he had struck the limit and his luck had changed. The night following we were pursuing the enemy down the turnpike. Everybody supposed there was a cavalry deploy ahead, and we were marching listlessly. waiting for the echos of an engagement.

As we were plodding up a defile a voiley ofartillery and enough musketry to keep it respectable company, struck us square from the front. The confederates were intrenched at the summit of the knoll which the pike crossed. Every one fell flat and crawled out the best way he could. The rebel were afterward dislogged, and retreated with our corps in pursuit. Among the killed and wounded McKinley was found. shot through the hip twice and his thigh bone broken. I was left with another drummer to take care of him until morning. He was placed with twelve other wounded men in a cabin at Edinburgh wounded men in a cabir at Edinburgh. About midnight Mosby, prowling in our rear, raided the town. Myself and chum crawled under the cabin. The guerrillas walked up to the door and fired a volley into the dying men. Eight of them were killed. At least a dozen holes were shot through McKinley's cot and covering, but he had received his last wound of the war, to the close of which he was contined in the hospital.

war, to the close of which he was con-lined in the hospital.

"The next time I heard of McKinley was at Cedar Rapids in 1867. It was du-ring the state fair. One morning, in scanning a local newspaper, I read that he was there representing the Beloit Rooting-Paper company. He was super-intending the unloading of a car load of the paper, for exhibition, when a careles running switch threw a car against the one in which he was working, knocking him down and breaking a leg. Two win-ters afterward his team ran away with him at Osage, and he had three ribs broken in the wreck."
"Any other easualties that you know

"I understand that he met with two se ious accidents when a young man, but I am not familiar with the details. "W-e-l-l, I guess we don't want any lawsuit with him if he did whip the rakeman.

McKinley was paid $20,000.

Hints for Christmas. Boston Journal: A lamp shade made of black lace is very delicate and dainty The figures of the lace are worked up in different colors of silk, and the shade is edged with a fringe of silk knotted twice. Another lamp shade is of a delicate imported Japanese lace edged with a bright carlet fringe.

Lunch tray covers are made of white inen with narrow fringe ornamented with golden oranges and green leaves cherries of the crocheted or braided linen thread are used, and makes most appropriate and handsome decoration for the inen cloths.

Doilies are made of very fine linen hem-stitched around the edge and fringed. The embroidery of tine silk in delicate colors, the yellow shades being preferred, consists of Japanese figures in the center of the doiley worked infine stitches, which used to be characteristic of our grandmothers' exquisite needle work. Some dollies are embroidered with borders of fine floss, but they are not so attractive as the fine silk-figured doilies Some odd pin cuishons can be made of yellow crepe in the shape of pumpkins. The creases of the pumpkin are marked with gilt thread, and the cushion is given with gilt thread, and the cusmon is given a large yellow satin ribbon bow in the place of the stem. Easel scarfs are made as gay as possible. Some scarfs which have been prepared for the Chicago Decorative Art society are of blue Japanese cloth figured in white and embroidered with all bright colored silk in more given.
