

The New York and Omaha Clothing Co., HOLIDAYS, HOLIDAYS, HOLIDAYS, HOLIDAYS, HOLIDAYS

Our Novelties.

In holiday goods consist of a vast number of beautiful and newly designed articles in Mufflers, Silk Handkerchiefs, Neckwear, Gloves, Fine Fancy Underwear, Fur and Seal Skin Caps, Night Robes in Flannel, Canton Flannel and Fine Handkerchief effect. A large number of Overcoats and Suits, suitable and bought expressly for the holidays. Fine leather and alligator Traveling Bags. Any one of these articles would make a very acceptable present, and one that will be appreciated.

Our Bargains.

For the holidays we have bought an enormous lot of Overcoats, Pea Jackets, and suits for boys and men. Beginning with the Overcoats, we are going to sell for the holidays only, a number of chinchilla and beaver Overcoats for $1, $5, and $6, that cannot be bought elsewhere for from $8, $10 and $15. The Pea Jackets we sell for $2.50, are worth at least $5. They are ALL WOOL AND FLANNEL LINED. A most suitable present would be one of our Jersey Office Coats which can be bought for $3, $4.50 and $5.50. Underwear, we will sell from 75c a suit to $15. A fine all wool worsted suit for $10, worth $15.

Our Stock

Our stock has never been in such a splendid condition to meet the demands of the people. Being entirely new and made expressly for us, there is not another stock of goods in the city so desirable to choose from. The stocks of Overcoats, Suits, Underwear, gloves, Hats and Caps, Ties, Shirts, Childrens' and Boys' Overcoats, Suits and Furnishing Goods, are as complete now as a large, well selected line of goods can make them.

Our Present

Something which has never before been done is what we are now doing, that is giving away an article that is not trash and worthless. We give to those who buy $15 worth or more, a gold headed cane, that is retailed at $3. This is something that you will not be given every day and you should take advantage of it.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS.

The Proceedings of Yesterday's Session of Nebraska's Educators.

A VERY GOOD ATTENDANCE.

A Large Number of Notaries Public Commissioned—General Thayer Addresses the Women's Relief Corps—Lincoln Happenings.

FROM THE BEE'S LINCOLN BUREAU.

The county superintendents' convention was in session through the day yesterday at the office of the state superintendent. The attendance at the session was creditable and the discussions long and animated. All aimed at resolutions looking toward changes in the law to simplify the present laws and engraft upon the legal lore of the state new laws to expedite and ameliorate the present condition of the school laws and school officers, and as the discussion would fore-shadow the general public. At this convention Superintendent Jones is presiding and County Superintendent McClusky of Lancaster, is secretary. The following county superintendents were in attendance: T. N. Hartzell, of Buffalo; E. A. Enright, Boone; L. E. Cooley, Butler; D. M. Amsherry, Custer; W. C. Dibble, Dakota; F. C. Tym, Dodge; James B. Bruner, Douglas; J. B. Sexton, Fillmore; W. D. Horham, Gage; E. B. Barton, Hamilton; C. A. Manville, Holt; E. B. Cowles, Jefferson; W. D. Compton, Johnson; F. D. McClusky, Lancaster; John T. Nesbit, Lincoln; B. W. Baker, Merriek; W. Rich, Nemaha; William Valentine, Otoe; Mrs. M. Jane Hopwood, Phelps; Charles Gates, Pierce; J. C. Rahn, Polk; John J. Faulkner, Richardson; J. D. French, Saline; S. C. Bond, Sarpy; Myron W. Warner, Seward; S. S. Murray, Sherman; E. M. Gallant, Thurston; A. S. Franklin, York. The convention is in its work taking up the school laws in a methodical manner and it is necessary will continue its session over until to-morrow, that the work that they will present to the legislature may be ratified because thoroughly considered in advance. Yesterday at noon the entire assembly adjourned upon invitation of Chancellor Mannatt to visit the new laboratory at the state university, which is the especial pride of all connected with that institution. And another feature of the superintendents' convention not to be overlooked is the delegation of a half dozen school book agents, who surround a county official at every turn and press for recognition their special books for the coming year.

NOTARIES PUBLIC.

The governor yesterday commissioned the following American citizens, resident in Nebraska as notaries public, this adding to the plethora list of these officials already in the state: Cincinnati, J. Ellis, Harvard; H. A. Kufus, Ravenna; O. J. Colman, Broken Bow; William Martz, Fremont; Benjamin F. Straflor, Fremont; F. E. Galbreath, Omaha; George E. Pritchett, Omaha; Edgar H. Scott, Omaha; John Hammond, Omaha; Frank E. Bell, Omaha; Geo. F. Russell, Omaha; Samuel S. Van Buren, Omaha; Dexter L. Thomas, Omaha; Edmund C. Lane, Omaha; Charles W. Kyle, Omaha; Franklin R. Joy, Odell; W. I. Fisher, Wynmore; John H. Wilsey, Grand Island; Charles B. Ford, Kearney; James A. Cline, Minden; E. P. Holman, Lincoln; George S. Smith, Lincoln; C. C. Carothers, Lincoln; Thomas W. Moore, Lincoln; Thomas C. Munger, Lincoln; William Holmer, Lincoln; Irvine A. Fort, North Platt; William Gareck, Norfolk; M. L. Hayward, Nebraska City; James I. Rhea, Holdrege; Henry C. Newman, Columbus; Andrew Anderson, McCook; T. C. Edgewood, Butler; Fred W. Harris, Ord; John A. Euthank, Arlington; Martin Burns, York. In addition to the fact that one of these appointments illustrates an ancient historical statement with slight variations in which a man named Cincinnati is called to be a notary public, the fact is apparent that Omaha and Lincoln are laying a foundation for a great real estate boom through the erection of notaries enough in those two cities to make every man his own real estate agent with power to draw papers, to swear and be sworn. As the notary's work is nearly confined to the line of notarial appointments it may not be an uninteresting statement of fact to recite that during the year there have been commissioned in the state a total of 1,067 notaries.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION.

Of the American Savings bank of Beatrice were filed yesterday with the secretary of state, the articles of incorporation in Nebraska City. The authorized capital stock of the bank is $100,000, the subscribed stock to be $50,000, divided into shares of $100 each, 100 per cent to be paid at time of subscribing. The increase to $100,000 capital stock to be made at any time by a majority vote. The indebtedness is limited to $20,000, exclusive of the deposits of the business. To be conducted by a board of three directors, the following named citizens of Beatrice are the incorporators: George H. Clark, Charles E. White and John Henderson.

The board of railway commissioners yesterday completed their report, which was handed over to the governor and will appear in print for the benefit of the legislature. The report is withheld from the dissecting gaze of the press at present, but it is learned that the report, in addition to the long summary of the two by four cases that have come before, will recommend that the commission be given power to fix rates in disputed questions, and that a rate that is to stand as prima facie until reversed by the courts. How this kind of a recommendation will strike the parties who have favored the latter far more for future development, but will evidently not be very satisfactory to the creators of that commission in that a change of that character would tend to make the commission of some utility. The report will be circulated, insofar as the statistical part is concerned, for there is little money to pay out for its printing.

Sheriff Johnson, of Valley county, was in Lincoln yesterday bringing with him as a candidate already elected for a year's term at the pen one William Corvin, who was sentenced for mortgaging property that did not belong to him. The Nebraska City precinct bonds voted in aid of the Missouri Pacific railway were placed upon record at the auditor's office yesterday. These bonds are running in the next two years at 5 per cent interest.

Commissioner and Mrs. Scott arrived home from Rushville, Ill., yesterday and go hence to Kearney to pass Christmas at their old home in that city. Representative J. N. Fuller, of Gage county, was at the capitol yesterday looking over the hall that will be built with masonry for a couple of months. An elegant crayon picture of the feeble minded institute at Beatrice has been received by Secretary Roggen.

GENERAL THAYER SPEAKS. At the meeting of the Women's Relief Corps in this city yesterday evening Governor Thayer addressed the large audience present, and was received with a great deal of enthusiasm. The appearance of the old veteran in a gathering of old soldiers is always noted for expressions of enthusiasm, and this was no exception. In addition to the speech by the governor, Colonel Woodward spoke and some very fine music was upon the programme. The ladies cleared a fine sum of money, which will be used in making Christmas times brighter for old soldiers needing assistance.

TOPICS OF THE TOWN. Deputy Sheriff Yeomans, of Cass, was in Lincoln yesterday on his way home from a trip down in Otoe county after one A. L. Hutchinson, who removed a span of mortgaged mules from Cass county without permission of the mortgagee. Mr. Yeomans found his man, who effected a satisfactory settlement and was sent to jail for further confinement.

J. W. Reed, a gentleman from one of the southern states, has been in Lincoln several days looking up business here. His relatives who intend coming northwest to enter into business, Mr. Reed is much pleased with Lincoln, and is only hesitating between this point and Wichita, Kan.

The up-town chambers of the town who have evidently been having a run of property has opened a new den in town that reports say is very elaborate and very private. Any sucker, however, whose brains are in his boots can probably find it if he wants.

The up-town offices of the Missouri Pacific and the office of the Pomeroy Coal company have been moved from the Richards' block to the corner room in the Alexander block, on O and Twelfth. The location is one of the most desirable in the city.

W. H. Martin, who has been a knight of the road for some time with the newspaper was reading away for dear life, when a stranger entered with two satchels and a tall girl, chuckled the baggage under a seat, and then a girl from another, and walked up to the man with the newspaper and asked:

"Mister, is there anything in the newspaper about coast defenses?"

"No, sir," was the reply.

"That's singular. Have they given up the idea, do you think?"

"I don't know what you mean, sir."

"You don't? When I been talking for the last year about building forts to protect our coast. I live down near the mouth of Tom's creek and I rather expect they'll build a big fort there. The way things are now England, France or Germany could declare war against us and land a force at Tom's river before we had our eyes open. They'd land right on my farm, and nobody knows the damage they'd do. Don't see anything about a fort at Tom's river, eh?"

"No, sir."

"Well, that's singular. If this government expects me to get down behind a rock with my old shotgun and keep Europe from landing at that point it's expecting a little too much of one man. I'd light to the death, of course, but the chances are that a hull navy could lick one night-sighted man. So the paper don't say anything?"

"Didn't I tell you no in the first place?"

"Say, maybe you don't care a copper about coast defenses?" exclaimed the two satchel man as a red spot appeared on either cheek.

"Not a copper, sir?"

THE LOST BRACELET.

An Audacious Robbery—The Thief Never Discovered.

Home Journal: One evening when Napoleon I was in all his glory, there was a grand gala production at the Grand opera, the Princess Borgnese, and her princely occupation the Grand opera. It is impossible for me to estimate, the very seats usually occupied by the claqueurs were filled with noblemen. The Princess Borgnese, the beautiful and accomplished Pauline, sparkled and shone in her box, eclipsing all around her by the splendor of her loveliness, as the sun does its satellites by the brilliancy of its rays. On her neck she wore a necklace, the diamonds and massive pearls of which, intertwined and blended with translucent art, still further enhanced her incomparable brilliancy. When she opened her box, there was a murmur of general admiration.

The imperial box opened in its turn and the master of the world appeared, saluted by these kings and princes with a shout of "Vive l'Empereur!" It was generally remarked that the emperor seemed unable to take his eyes off her sister-in-law, and appeared to be fascinated, dazzled, like the other occupants of the vast auditorium, with the marvelous brilliancy of the necklace. Suddenly the box of the Princess Borgnese opened and a young major presented himself, wearing the brilliant and silver uniform of the aide-de-camp of the emperor's stag. "Her majesty, the emperor," said he, bowing low, "adores the wonderful necklace worn by your imperial highness, and has expressed the liveliest desire to examine it closer."

The beautiful Pauline made a sign to one of her ladies of honor, who unclasped and detached the necklace from the princess's neck and placed it in the hands of the staff officer. The latter bowed gravely and disappeared. This episode occurred toward the middle of the second act, and the emperor and empress, and the third act concluded in its turn. The fourth act came and passed, and the entertainment concluded, yet still the necklace was not returned.

The Princess Borgnese took this for a characteristic freak of Marie Louise's. Next day, however, she asked if the necklace had passed the empress and whether she had found the setting and arrangement of the jewels to her taste. The empress was thunderstruck, for she had not seen it and had sent no officer for it as described. Napoleon, deigned to mix himself up in the affair, and he had the names of all the staff officers on duty the preceding evening ascertained. And then one by one, under some pretext or other, he had them called before his sister. She did not recognize one of them. They summoned the Prince of Orante, minister of police. A long council was held. Everything possible was done, but to no avail. The unfortunate duchess was ready to tear her hair in despair. Her keenest bloodhounds at work. His best detectives were literally worn off their legs, without result. As to their imperial master, he was literally worn over with rage, and was almost on the point of thrashing his chief of police. But neither the necklace (which was worth nearly a million) nor the audacious thief was ever seen again.

The Man from Tom's River.

M. Quad in Detroit Free Press: A lot of us was sitting in the depot room at Trenton, and the only man who had a newspaper was reading away for dear life, when a stranger entered with two satchels and a tall girl, chuckled the baggage under a seat, and then a girl from another, and walked up to the man with the newspaper and asked:

"Mister, is there anything in the newspaper about coast defenses?"

"No, sir," was the reply.

"That's singular. Have they given up the idea, do you think?"

"I don't know what you mean, sir."

"You don't? When I been talking for the last year about building forts to protect our coast. I live down near the mouth of Tom's creek and I rather expect they'll build a big fort there. The way things are now England, France or Germany could declare war against us and land a force at Tom's river before we had our eyes open. They'd land right on my farm, and nobody knows the damage they'd do. Don't see anything about a fort at Tom's river, eh?"

I'd light to the death, of course, but the chances are that a hull navy could lick one night-sighted man. So the paper don't say anything?"

"Didn't I tell you no in the first place?"

"Say, maybe you don't care a copper about coast defenses?" exclaimed the two satchel man as a red spot appeared on either cheek.

"Not a copper, sir?"

"I thought so from the start! You live out in Michigan or Indiana or Illinois, and are tucked away in some holler where the sheriff can't find ye, let alone an invader of our sacred sile! Oh, no, you don't keep!"

"Father!" chided the tall girl, as she half rose, but he turned on her with:

The Decline of Treating.
New York Mail and Express: As a reporter was standing in a saloon near the postoffice two young men entered. They were seemingly acquainted with each other, for they stood and chatted together for a moment. Then one of them proffered to the bar, ordered a drink, paid for it, and went out. The other did the same a moment later.

"Did you notice those young men?" said the white-aproned bartender after the door had closed behind them.

"What about them?" asked the reporter.

"Well, each of them paid for his own drink and drank alone. A year ago that would have attracted a good deal more attention than it does now. Then a man going into a saloon and meeting a friend would not think of drinking without asking the friend to join him. The fashion is changed now very much. The boys still 'sit them up,' but there is not so much treating back and forth as there was. Men meet in saloons just as in restaurants, and do not think of paying for each other's drinks any more than they do of settling for each other's dinners."

"Rather injurious to the saloon-keepers, isn't it?"

"Well, perhaps it is, but it's also a preventative of drunkenness. Formerly eight or ten persons come in at a time. One would treat and then each of the others would feel in honor bound to do the same. At the end of one round the group would feel in humor for another, and in the end all hands would have more than they would be capable of carrying properly. What caused the change? Well, you have me there! What causes changes in the fashions in trousers and hats? I suppose the fashions in drinking is changed in about the same way. Here's the genial purveyor of mixed drinks hurried to concoct something that would settle the nerves of a young man who had evidently spent the previous night vigorously if not wisely."

STATE OF OHIO. INSURANCE DEPT. OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT. COLUMBUS, O., NOV. 20, 1886.

Hon. John M. Pattison, V. P., Union Central Life Insurance Co., Cincinnati, O. My Dear Sir: According to requirements of the Revised Statutes of Ohio, compelling an annual examination of every Life Insurance Company incorporated in Ohio, I have the pleasure to report the result of the examination just made, in compliance with said statute.

I found your assets securely invested, and of the very best character, and your books and accounts a model of neatness and correctness, and the affairs of the Company in every way administered with economy and to the best interest of your policy holders.

It was very gratifying to me to notice in the annual report the increase of new business this year over last year, and the substantial increase of your surplus over that reported the 31st of December, 1885. It is with pride that I note the success of Ohio's only Life Company, and I can safely recommend it to any desiring reliable Life Insurance. With kind regards and personal esteem, I remain, Respectfully yours,

HENRY J. REIMANN, Superintendent.
