GLADSTONE ON TENNESSES.

The Grand Old Man Scores the Poet's Latest Production.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—New York Herald Cable—Special to the Bee.—This has been a gladstone day. His "two-seven" birthday, as it is called, went off prophetically, for the wares being sold all over the Kingdom in honor of the occasion. Gladstone numbered his favorite postal cards sent out to innumerable. The feature of the birthday, however, was his appearance in the Nineteenth Century for the purpose of crossing literary swords with the poet laureate, whom he made a peer. The latter's Jerusalem extolling boasts from the "grand old man." The latter eats the "cheese" and "Cosmos" into mince-meat. Extracts from the article would, unless given at great length, do it injustice, and a summary must suffice.
