The elecutionary class of Professor A. S. McKnight is hereafter to meet in the Bloomer building, in the high school room, instead of the opera house. Yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother on South Sixth street, in the presence of a few intimate friends, Ernst Rolf and Miss Dora Wiese were joined in wedlock by the Rev. A. C. Doerfler. The newly-wedded couple left last evening for their future home in Young America, Carver county, Minnesota.

From the fact that some of the city officials even do not know how many voting precincts there are now in the city, it seems quite probable that very few of the citizens are capable of answering the question. The county board at its last session reduced the number of voting precincts in the city from nine to five, there being now one for each ward except the Fourth, which has two.

Joe Murphy's company arrived yester day morning, and went over to Omaha evidently preferring the hotel accommodations of that city. They preferred to appear here last evening and get the Council Bluffs shekels, however. This is no new trick with theater companies. It always causes a righteous kick on the part of Council Bluffs folks, who naturally think the notel accommodations here are good enough, and should be made use of by companies which appear before the public, and ask the patronage of Council Bluffs.

A lady en route to New York came over to this side yesterday prepared to take the Rock Island train for the east, and after reaching here she discovered that she had lost the through ticket purchased yesterday morning in Omaha. It was thought that she had possibly dropped it in the dummy train, and three boys who had been in the car, and who acted suspiciously, were taken to the city jail and searched. The ticket was not found upor them, and they were discharged. As the lady had no money with which to pur-chase another ticket, her situation was rather serious. She placed herself in communication with friends, so as to relieve her embarrassment.

TARIFF REFORM CLUB.

How Long It Takes to Make a Good Buggy-The Fire Record Shows the City to Be Favored-Brief Bits From All Around Town.

Making Good Buggies. When will my buggy be done?" was the New Year's question put to H. F. Hattenhauer by one of the numerous patrons of his large factory.

"About the 1st of March," came as a reply, and it rather opened the eyes of the BEE reporter, who in his innocence supposed that a buggy could be made in a jiffy. As the young man ordering the buggy expressed a desire to see how the work was progressing, the BEE man accompanied him with a curiosity to see for himself. The different parts of the buggy in different states of finish were shown up and closely examined. The customer evidently knew what he wanted, and was evidently getting it. He examined the wheels critically, and had a good opportunity for doing so, as there was no paint to cover the work. He looked at every spoke, noticed that the tire was so put on that it would stay for years, saw that the best kind of timber was in every part. The buggy box was also a special object of close inspection. also a special object of close inspection. The joints were all looked over. "Yes, that's the way to make a body," remarked the satisfied customer. "Those joints cannot ever give way." It certainly appeared that the buggy box would stand tor 1,000 years, and yet it was as light as one could wish for.
"We have to be doubly careful about the joints nowadays," remarked Mr. Hattenhauer, "for since tolks have got to using waterworks they give a buggy a o using waterworks they give a buggy a hard test. You see in washing buggies they often just fill the box itself, and then they don't wipe it out, but will leave water standing in it. No matter how tight you make a joint, a little water, if allowed to stand that way, is apt to work into the joint, and the least bit of water after it gets in will cause the wood to swell, and the first thing you know the joint gaps. That is only one of many little points of difference between a good buggy and a cheap one."

"What I like about the buggy," remarked the customer, "is the way you have ironed the body. With my old one the bottom kept coming out, breaking through. I see it cannot do with this That buggy could be dragged by a run-away, and cannot be torn apart, I don't Still the BEE reporter had not learned the whole reason why it should take so long to make a buggy. "Well, I'll tell you the chief reason. Besides doing all the other work, there is a good deal of time used in finishing. Why it takes from fourteen to sixteen coats of paint, and time has to be given for every coat to harden. There's where one of the differences comes in between a cheap buggy and a good one. You can make a buggy look pretty good to a man who don't know about it, but it will not stand the

Mr. Hattenhauer has his factory running the year round, and thus keeps a variety of vehicles always on hand, so that any customer who is in a hurry can get suited at once, just as well as to have a carriage made to order. His sales-rooms have a large number of road wagons, buggies, carriages, road carts, phaetons, in fact every style of vehicle, and of his own make. He has been here so many years, and his work has been so tested by time and wear, that the best guarantee that one asks for is to be assured that it is Hattenhauer's make. There are being finished up in the factory some new wagons for the Wells,-Fargo and the American Express com-wagons used by these companies, they are as thoroughly built as possible. "If you hear of any one who wants to get any of my finished work, just send them around. I'll give them some bargains just now. I can't, of course, give such prices as are asked for work thrown together just to sell. I couldn't afford to out out such work at any price, but I'll sell any of the buggies and carriages at lower prices than any such quality of work was ever offered here before. I'll make it really much cheaper than the ooteh jobs can be seld for when you consider the difference in the looks and the wear and tear.

CONCERNING INTOXICANTS. Judge Shiras Decides Some Questions

Under the Probibitory Law.

An important case has just been decided by Judge Shiras, of the United States court. It is entitled Kohn & Heller vs C. H. Melcher; Wright, Baldwin & Holdane for the plaintiffs, and Lehman & Park, Rockafellow & Scott for defendants. The plaintiffs are wholesale liquor dealers in Rock Island, and the defendant is a druggist at Atlantic, Ia., having a permit from the county board to sell intoxicating liquors. During the years 1881, 1882, 1883 and 1884 the plaintiffs sold defendant about $6,500 of liquors, on which the plaintiffs claim $1,000 is still due. In the answer and counter claim it is averred that the liquors were sold in violation of the statute of Iowa, in that the same were sold by plaintiffs at the town of Atlantic, the plaintiffs not being authorized under the laws of Iowa to sell iquors for any purpose. The counter claim is brought for the purpose of recovering back from plaintiffs the amount heretofore paid upon the account, under provisions of section 1550 of the code of

The demurrer to the answer and counter claim presents the question, whether, under the statutes of lowa in force dur-ing the years 1881 and 1884 inclusive, persons residing and carrying on busi-ness as rectifiers and wholesale dealers in states other than Iowa, could lawfully sell intoxicating liquors to be resold for culinary, sacramental, medicinal and mechanical purposes to a registered pharmacist doing business in Iowa, and holding a proper permit authorizing him to sell liquors for the purposes named, provided the contract of sale between the non-resident wholesale dealer and the registered pharmacist was made within he state of lowa, and at the residence of the latter party. In the demurrer it is claimed that under the laws of Iowa none but citizens can secure a permit and the statute debarring them from this selling was in violation of the constitution of the United States in egard to commerce between states. In the course of the decision Judge

"An impartial examination of the several sections of the statutes of lowa on the subject of the sale of liquors for legal purposes, shows that the restrictions complained of were adopted, not for the pur-pose of securing an undue advantage to the citizens of the state, but for the purpose of preventing violations of the pro-hibitory law of the state, and although in to be resold for legal purposes, and in that sense commerce between the states may be affected, yet this is but an incidental result, and not a violation of the federal constitution, and being therefore yalid, it follows that a sale of intoxicating liquors made in Iowa, for any purpose, by a person not holding a permit to sell, is unlawful, and no action can be maintained to recover the price of such liquors. The demurrer to the answer is therefore

In regard to the other portion of the demurrer, in regard to the recovery of the moneys already paid on the account, the court says:

"In cases where the fiquors are sold to be used for legal purposes to a person having the right to sell the same, the vendee receives from the vender some-thing having, in his hands, a legal as well as actual value. * * The inhibition applies to the person, and not the prop-erty. The plaintiff not having the legal right to sell, could not make a legal con-tract of sale in Iowa, and hence coming nto Iowa to seek a recovery for the liquors sold, he cannot maintain the action, because he cannot show a legal contract with the defendant."

"The want of a permit rendered the vender legally incompetent to make a valid contract of sale, but he did not deliver the goods for the purpose of aiding liver the goods for the purpose of aiding the vendee in using or selling the same for any purpose forbidden by the law of Iowa, and he is not therefore open to the charge of attempting to introduce liquors into lowa to be used as a beverage, which use it is the sole purpose of the prohibitory law to prevent. He had deivered to the vendee liquors, which had a legal and actual value, in Iowa, in the hands of the vendee, to be used for law ful purposes. The contract of sale he could not enforce in Iowa, but did the nvalidity of the contract, caused by lack of a permit to sell on the part of the ven-dor, so far destroy his right in the liquor that he could not lawfully receive pay-ment therefor, voluntarily made in Illi-nois. If he could lawfully receive payment certainly the amount paid can not be recovered back in an action brought

Inderstanding that the counsel propose earrying the constitutional question presented by the demurrer to the answer to the court of final result, it would seem best to have all the questions in the case decided at once, and to that end the demurrer to the counter claim will be sus-

The Pottawattamic Club. To the Editor of the BEE: A number of gentlemen living in Council Bluffs and vicinity met Tuesday, January 4, for the purpose of organizing a tariff reform club for this locality.

After a general discussion of principles and object for which the meeting was called, an organization was effected under the name of the Pottawattamic Tariff Reform Club of the Ninth Congressional district, and the following named gentlemen were elected officers of the same: Hon, W. H. M. Pusey, president; Mr. H. P. Butter, vice president; Mr. A. W. Rieckman, treasurer; Mr. J. L. Martin, secretary; Colonel J. H. Keatley, Mr. C. E. Anderson and Rev. T. J. Mackay, executive committee.

A conference of tariff reformers of Iowa having been called to meet in Des Moines on January 5, Mr. C. E. Ander-son was appointed delegate to attend the

It is the desire to make this club nonpartisan and all persons in the Ninth congressional district who believe that the tariff should be reduced and are willing o meet occasionally for a social discus sion of the subject and to aid in bringing the subject of such reform before the people in a practical shape are cordially in-vited to be present at the next meeting, which will be some time in the first week in February. In the meantime all such persons can send their addresses to the secretary, J. L. Martin, No 61, Avenue G, city, so that they can be notified of the time and place of next meeting.

As stated in the remarks, it is the de sire to make the club non-partisan, the more so now since the present congress has given the country to understand in unmistakable terms that the tariff must not be considered a party measure, but that the taxpayers must look to the intel-ligent, instructed and patriotic men from ooth parties for eventual relief.

Take the whole country over and I beieve that the consumers of eight-tenths of all the congressional districts are furnishing some people in the other two enths the means for running some losing business, and if this struggle on import taxation was taken out of party politics and settled on its merits, or rather by in terested parties of taxpayers and eaters, the congress of 1888 would be overwhelmingly for tariff reform.

Council Blaffs has been very fortunate in regard to fires during several years past, and especially in 1886. During that year there were only 36 fires.

During 1886 there were 36 fire alarms. of which 1 in January, 1 in February, 1 in March, 1 in June, 1 in July, 1 in September and 1 in October were false. The alarms were as follows: January 8, February 8, March 2, April 2, May 4, June 2, July 3, August 2, September 7, October 1, November 2. There was no fire alarm in December. The total loss during the year will not reach $15,000, which speaks for the good work of the department. The most serious fires were as follows: January 23, Cocke & Morgan's store; January 26, Cole's livery barn; March 26, Sander's residence; April 26, Baird's confectionery; May 24, Meginnis confectionery; September 5, Mrs. King's dwelling, and on September 22 the Emi-grant house at the transfer. Of the remainder the department succeeded in ex-tinguishing the flames without much trouble, though the fire at 'Gene Mottaz's butcher shop, June 10, gave promise of a lively time for a while. On the 26th of July a portion of the department were called to Neola. There are seven paid men, Messrs. Vorhis, Kuykendall and Bradley at the Rescue house, Govalt and Rapatic at the 4's on upper Broadway, and Nichelson and Fellows on Main street, all under the supervision of Chief Templeton. Besides these there are about a dozen minute men.

Rumors Concerning Tariff Action. NEW YORK, Jan. 4.-A Washington special to the Post says: "A movement is in progress among southern men who are in favor of a reduction of the surplus to form a combination by which the taxes upon fruit brandy and tobacco and its manufactures shall be abolished, and there is some expecta-tion that Randall will co-operate in this scheme. It is also said by democrats who ought to know that Morrison, during the holiought to know that Morrison, during the holi-day recess, has become convinced that it will be expedient for him to move again to con-sider the revenue bills, and that it is not im-probable that he will have a larger vote than ne had before. The fact that two New Eng-land republicans, nearly every interest of whose constituents is protected, voted for Morrison's motion, it is ascer-tained, has had a very considerable effect upon western republicans who, while having consistently voted with the protectionists for protection sake, have recently stated that if New England congressmen can afford to break rank upon this subject there is no rea-son why western men, the industries of break rank upon this subject there is no rea-son why western men, the industries of whose section are practically without protec-tion, should not also act as independent. A prominent New England congressman, who voted against the Morrison resolutions, says he has discovered that the feeling is quite prevalent in certain sections of the west and he is of the opinion that if Morrison shall again make his motion, the result will be dif-terent.
