

HER MIND WAS DISEASED.

How Mrs. Lincoln Caused Her Husband's Untold Worriment.

WILD WAYS OF WIFE AND WIDOW

Jealous of Mrs. General Ord—The Green-eyed Monster in an Army Ambulance—All Around Insults—Scolding Shirts.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—The account of Lincoln's love-making in his history by Nicolay and Hay, seems almost ominous when read by the light of later knowledge.

The country knows, but has preferred to forget, the strangeness of Mrs. Lincoln's conduct at intervals after her husband's death.

THE MIND HAD BEEN DISEASED. This threw a light on circumstances until then inexplicable.

The first time that I saw Mrs. Lincoln was when she accompanied Mrs. Grant to the White House on her first visit there.

On the 26th of March a distinguished party from Washington joined them, among whom I remember, especially, M. Geoffroy, the French minister.

Mrs. Lincoln and Mrs. Grant were of the company. There was a military railroad car from the White House.

In the course of conversation, I mentioned that all the wives of officers at the army front had been ordered to the rear.

I tried to pacify her and to palliate my remark, but she was fairly boiling over with rage.

But the war was ended and the president and Mrs. Lincoln had returned to Washington.

Mr. Stanton had visited City Point, and I wanted to ask her some questions about the president's wife.

After the murder of the president, the eccentricities of Mrs. Lincoln became more apparent than ever.

THE SAME PARTY WENT IN THE MORNING TO VISIT THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

With her husband, as she was the wife of the commander of an army she was not subject to the order for return.

"What does the woman mean?" she exclaimed, and the doubtless the disclosure of the secret which her son must have long suspected.

One day there was a halt Major Seward, a nephew of the secretary of state, and an officer of General Ord's staff.

During all this visit similar scenes were occurring. Mrs. Lincoln repeatedly attacked her husband in the presence of officers.

Mrs. Lincoln never forgave him. A day or two afterward he went to spend the evening at a social gathering.

Mrs. Lincoln continued her conduct toward Mrs. Grant, who strove to placate her, and then Mrs. Lincoln became more and more angry.

but redeemed the unfortunate woman herself from the odium for which she was not responsible.

It was particularly pleasant to notice, not only the French, but also the English, when they were in the United States.

THE CENTER OF THE CONTINENT. Omaha's Geographical Advantages—More Railroads Needed.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 7.—To the Editor of the BEE: There are few persons who stop to think of the advantageous geographical position Omaha occupies in comparison with its competitors.

Another thing that interested me greatly was the fact that Omaha is not only a great railway center, but also a great manufacturing center.

Now compare Omaha's location with its nearer and more ambitious rival, Kansas City. The latter has claimed New Mexico, southern Colorado, Kansas, Indian Territory and Texas as peculiarly her own.

Omaha is about prepared to dispute her right to at least one-half of her boasted territory and leave her rival to divide the remaining one-half.

Omaha has the advantage of forty miles, then to Santa Fe, 300 miles. The advantage decreases as the line is extended farther south.
