CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKET.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—Fluctuations in the price of wheat were within limits. The opening was steady and rather quiet. Some tone was the feature of the market. May advanced from $1.45 to $1.50, but soon softened, and declined to $1.45 at 10 o'clock. The market was again very firm, and the 1 o'clock range was steady toward the top. May standing at $1.50, March 79c, and February 75c. Cattle were steady at the recent small decline, while some private advices were that the facts warranted the employment of stronger terms, and that the situation had considerably improved in the past day or two. New York was uneventfully firm and steady today. It was bullish and held high, and strong to suit the taste. California continues to decline, and mail advices from there are not encouraging to crop prospects. It is understood there were heavy purchases of wheat in this market last week and the week before for account of San Francisco speculators. The market is now having receded the fears of a crop failure on the Pacific coast. What effect if any the rains will have on the minds of these late purchasers remains to be seen. The bears think the stuff will come on the market, while the friends of wheat believe the existing strength of the situation will encourage owners to hold for substantial advance. An attempt was made early in the day to buy the market on new news, but as European securities do not budge the crowd would not where there was nothing to be done. The late firmness was due to export tidings from New York and to rumor proof that the receipts at primary points are dwindling rapidly, while the receipts at secondary points are not less than 1,500,000 bushels in the next visible probable. There was a lack of animation in the market today. Trading from first to last was of a light speculative character and the market ruled quiet, nearly all the time. The market was a little better than yesterday, but in general a further decline of 1/4 cent and at the close of the day the market was 1/4 cent higher. CHICAGO CATTLE MARKET.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The cattle market closed yesterday with many cattle in first hands and many in the pens that had been sold but not taken out. This made it difficult to get desirable pens this morning and many fresh arrivals in the pens. The offerings were very largely of thin and rough qualities and many people were surprised at the large proportion of low grade cattle to be seen in the pens. Trade in poor to fair grades of cattle was slow and of course unsatisfactory, but prices were steady. Yesterday's decline, well-bred smooth and fat cattle were scarce and sold quite readily at stronger prices. There were a few very extra cattle which sold at fancy prices. The general market today, though not notably better, was more active than yesterday, and there was at least an absence of yesterday's demoralized feeling. The market was fair and quiet, and there was a fair demand for good packing and shipping grades. Light grades of cattle rather than heavy were the feature. There were left last night and fresh arrivals today. A few fancy heavy sold at $1.40, $1.45 and $1.50. Light sorts, $1.30 to $1.40.
