Mary Darling, who lives in what is known as the "Spring house," on upper Broady, had some altercation with another woman occupying a portion of the house, and was arrested for disturbing the peace. The other woman claims to have been hit over the head with a washtub, and so badly injured as to be washtub, and so badiy injured as to be unable to appear in court for a few days. The Darling woman was released, her husband putting up his overcoat as security for her appearance.

No decision has been yet made on the motion for a new trial in the Edwards case, and he is still being held in the county jail here. He is being closely watched, and would doubtless make a meak for freedom should be be given half a chance. It is rumored that the jailer discovered that a drill and some other tools had been passed in for Edwards' use the other day, but were confiscated before he got a chance to use them. The reticence with which the jailer wards off all queries on the subject rather confirms the belief that some such event has lately

The services being held in Broadway Methodist church every evening are so growing in interest that many are turned away nightly, the seating capacity not only being exhausted but standing room as well. Mr. Forrest is an earnest, in teresting speaker, and he is listened to closely by all. The indications are all in fayor of his making a great success here. He is eccentric, some of his ways are blunt and even uncouth, but there is a good deal of heart manifest, and as he said in his opening discourse he means business. Those who want to hear him should go early if they expect to get seats.

For Auld Lang Sync.

Last evening the Caledonia club celebrated the 127th anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns. Royal Arcanum hall was the scene of the festivities, and the occasion was so happily arranged and the arrangements so successfully carried out as to make the event one of the happiest of its kind. The banquet was spread in fine shape by J. W. Duncan, and the guests partook of it at an early hour in the evening. The toasts and songs followed, and then the tables being cleared away the room was given for the dancers. The bill of fare was unique and, like the programme for dancing, was Scotch throughout. It was as follows.

The Barleycorn War. There were numerous rumors afloat vesterday about the prohibition contest. It is reported that a raid was being made on the Neola saloons, and that Mayor Riley Clark was one of the prime movers in the attempt to close them up. Another report was to the effect that Minden was to be raided today, and that word had been sent out there to warn the saloon men in time to prepare. In the office of the clerk of the courts here were found three documents, which proved to be injunctions issued against August Hansen and August Kaven, Paul Jens and Frank Steinbert, and the third against Peter Ehlers. The lack of the necessary fees was a hitch which had not been settled yesterday afternoon, and it was understood that this would be satisfactorily arranged before to day. The injunctions were issued by Judge Conner, and are to be served to-day. It is understood that the persons named would come in here at once and take such legal steps as their attorneys should advise to get the injuncattorneys should advise to get the injunctions set aside if possible.

Another feature of the struggle came up before Justice Biggs yesterday. An attempt was made by the attorneys for some of the saloon men to get information concerning certain witnesses for the prosecution. It is claimed that two men, John Harmsen and A. R. Smith, have been around town gathering up evidence against saloon keepers, and buying liquors, and that they are to file affidavits in support of the injunction cases now started. The whereabouts of these two started. The whereabouts of these two men seems to be a mystery. The pro-hibitionists do not let the attorneys for the saloon men know anything about them, and, hence, proceedings were started to make them disclose the whereabouts of the two men. It is understood that a warrant has been is-sued for their arrest for perjury, and so soon as they can be located they are to be arrested. The matter came up first before Justice Schurz, and an at-tempt was made to force the attorney, Jacob Sims, to disclose the desired information. After some parleying the affair was dropped, Justice Schurz refusing to do anything more about it. Yesterday afternoon Justice Biggs was considering the matter. The petition filed was to compel the attendance of Mr. Sims, L. W. Tulleys, A. Overton and O. O. St. John to be examined under oath as to their knowledge of the whereabouts of Harmsen and Smith, 'Squire Biggs conluded he could not force the desired in formation out of the persons named, and now it is said that a like procedure will be begun before Judge Aylesworth. The skirmish is opening quite lively, and there promises to be a goodly amount of local litigation before any practical results are accounted. sults are reached.

Good Wheat. Last night L. M. Wheat, of Colfax, state master workman of the Knights of Labor, addressed a large audience in Masonic temple. Among the audience were a number of ladies. He is a fine speaker and his articulation very plain. City Auditor Kinnehan called the assembly to order and introduced Mr. Wheat who proceeded to show up the thin skinned aristocrats. He thanked Judge Gresham for not being thin skinned, for being incorruptible. He thanked God for another; that man is Senator Van Wyck, of Nebraska; he was also thankful for the defeat of Van Wyck and classed the defeat as a boomering which would come back on the corrup-tionists. He referred to the impossibility a men without a "barrel" being elected to the United States senate. After referring to several nations he took up Ireland, the land of landlords. Under the leadership of Gladstone and Parnell the success of Ireland is assured; that Ireland will be redeemed within ten years; first by intelligent organization and that organization put into action. He then took up this country and said: "American lands for American citizens only." He continued: We find a faction growing up, few in number, but mighty in power, the monopolistic power; when corruption creeps into common people we only have the carcass of a nation left we demand if Gould or some other capi talist and a common laborer come along together we demand respect to that honest toiler who is doing something to make the nation better; we find the great mass of the people are great in number, but weak in power, as they are not organized. Do you remember how the Russians laughed at the little army of the north? but it was well disciplined and organized, and won the battle To-day we have this monopolistic class organized. We have a few newspapers, who propose a kind of union between farmer or laborer and capital. We've had the employer living in his palace and the employed living in his shanty—a union as they suggest. He then answered union as they suggest. He then answered a number of objections made against the Knights of Labor, all of which were heartily applauded, during which he referred to the ballot as a defense the workingmen have, and that the Knights of Labor would take anarchy in one hand and monopoly in the other and strangle both; that Chicago and New York have more anarchists than the whole United States; that the Knights are not mind readers that the Knights are not mind readers and can't read a man, consequently occassionally one anarchist may get into the order but as soon as they are known they are bounced out. If the other secret orders will weed out their own gardens they will have no time to look after the Knights. As to politics, a true Knight never asks a candidate's politics but simply is he a man he can conscientiously support. We are accused of the boycott. When you go to a neighboring town to buy goods you boycott your own town, but I know you never do that in this city. I've known postoflices to be boycotted. A religious sect in South America who prayed for rain and it didn't come raised a boycott against God and didn't again pray for rain. The Knights of Labor use the boycott no more than others. He then referred to convict labor, saying he would give convicts labor which would in the least interfere and to foreign pauper jabor with which this country is invested. Remember that one stick is very easily broken but when bound together they are very hard to break; we must so con-

Bungling Burglars. Yesterday morning it was discovered that during the preceding night burglars had gone through the grocery store of E. Rosch on upper Broadway. The fellows were more on the sneak order than regular professionals, judging from the clumsy way of working. They had stolen a brace and drills at Waterman's carriage fac-tory, and had then gained entrance by removing a pane of glass in the rear win-dow of Rosch's store. The fellows helped themselves to a few cigars, some tobacco and other small articles, but the total loss will not exceed $20. They also tried to drill the safe, and succeeded in getting a hole through the first iron plate, and then quit, either being frightened away or discouraged.
