The Fisheries Dispute.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 .- The correspond ence sent to the house of representatives by the president yesterday, relating to the Canadian fisheries question, covers the period from December 8 to the present time. One communication from Lansdowne emphasizes the statement that the British government does not desire to curtail any of the privileges enjoyed by the United States fishermen in Canadian waters, but it observes that there were just grounds for the action taken in respect to the Nelson and Steel. November 3, the Earl of Iddesleigh writes to Minister Phelps saying Great Britain is desirous of a just settlement of the fisheries question, is sorry not to discover a spirit of mutual concession on the part of the United States and suggests submission of the details to a commission. On December 16 Lord Iddesleigh, in a communication to Min-lster Phelps transmits the apology of the Canadian government for having hauled down the flag of the Marion Grimes. Alluddown the flag of the Marion Grimes. Allud-ling to the seizure of the Everett Steel, Lord Iddesleigh says: "Her magesty's govern-ment greatly regrets that incidents alluded to should occur, and that they could only re-new assurances conveyed to you in my notes of the 30th ultimo, that whilst firmly resolved to uphold the undoubted treaty rights of her majesty's North American subjects, in regard to fisheries, there will be equally maintained the undoubted rights of the United States lishermen to obtain in Can-adian points under such restrictions as may be necessary to prevent their abusing the privileges reserved to them by the treaty," On January 26, Minister Phelbs writes to Lord Sallsbury, reminding him of the Importance, before the commencement of another tishing season, of coming to a distinct understand-ing between the United States government and that of her majesty relative to the course to be pursued by the Canadian authorities toward American vessels. Minister Phelps sets forth at considerable length the position maintained by the United States, characterizes the action of the Canadian government as harsh, unreasonable and unfriendly. He then says that the conduct of the government has been directed to obtaining a revision of the existing treaty, but its efforts have been of such a character as to preclude the pros-pect of successful negotiation as long as they continue and se-riously to endanger the friendly relations between the United States and Great Britain, and aside from the question as to the right of American vessels to purchase bait in Canadian ports, such a construction has been given to the treaty between the Iowa Draft Horse Breeders.

GRINNELL, Ia., Feb. 9.- | Special Telegram to the BEE. |-The leading breeders of draft horses in Iowa met here to-day and organized a state association. A constitution was adopted and signed by thirty-five leading breeders. It admits as members any resident of the state owning breeding or patronizing registered animals of recognized draft breeds—English, French, Belgian or Flemish.
During the afternoon the association discussed various questions connected with breeding and allied interests, and in the evening there was a public meeting addressed by Hon, J. B. Grinnell and others. The next regular meeting will be held at Des Moines during the state fair in September.

Killed Himself in Denver. DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 9 .- [Special Telegram to the BEE.]-December 8, 1886, J. L. Adams, a farmer of Rockwell City, disappeared mysteriously, leaving no trace save a letter to his wife, saying that she would never see him again. Search was made without success and it is thought he was deranged by a press of financial difficulties and had wandered off while in that condition. The case was given to a local detective, who sent out inquiries. This morning he received a letter from the Denver chief of police, saying that a man answering the description had com-mitted suicide and was found dead in the suburbs. The letter contained samples of his clothing, all of which seem to indicate that the man is Adams.

BOSTON'S BIG THIER. The Clerk of the Criminal Court Gets

Away with $200,000. Boston, Feb. 9,-[Special Telegram to the BEE.]-Rumors have been rife for several days past that an ex-official of this county was an embezzier of funds, and that the amount taken would reach far into the thousands. The official is John C. Leighton, for nineteen years clerk of the municipal criminal court of this city. The exact amount of the defalcation will not be known until an expert now at work on the books completes his pert now at work on the books completes his labors. It is estimated, however, the amount will reach $200,000, perhaps more. This estimate was given te-day by the auditor. Leighton was appointed in 1807, and it was only a few weeks ago that he resigned. His salary has been $2,000 until 1885, when it was raised to $3,000. He has always lived quietly, and it is matter of great surprise to friends what induced him to embezzle the funds. It is supposed stock susculation had something to do with stock speculation had something to do with it. He retuses to talk, Leighton's position was one of great responsibility, thousands of dollars were collected from these and costs passing through his hands. The court over which Leighton served as chief clerk is unwhich Leighton served as chief clerk is understood to do the largest business of any kind in the United States, thousands of cases of a criminal character being tried annually. It is said the clerks accounts have not been audited for years, either by the county auditor or by the justice of the court, and it is believed owing to gross negligence of these official, coupled with their belief in the honesty of the clerk, the amount taken has reached the proportions stated.

Ice Gorges Work Havoc in Outlying Precincts.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.-Four hours' work by the fire boat Geyser broke the gorge in the south branch. The river there is late tonight receding, but floods northwest of the city, in Jefferson and Lake View, are assuming alarming proportions. There are three ice gorges in the north branch, none of which seem to be yielding, although repeated attempts have been made to break up the largest one with explosives. Belmont avenue bridge will go if the water raises six inches higher. At this point the river has overflowed its banks and, sweeping around the gorge, is inundating the country between Graceland and Eiston roads and Clybourn and Belmont avenues. At Clybourn avenue the water is rushing At Clybourn avenue the water is rushing across Belmont avenue like a mill race. All of the residents in that neighborhood have been forced to the upper stories of their houses. The south parks are badly flooded and the boulevards in the vicinity present the appearance of rivers. Though the enclosure of the Washington park jeckey club is comparatively dry, the country adjacent to it on the west and south is buried under a sheet of water three to four feet deep. From Sevwater three to four feet deep. From Seventy-first to Ninety-fifth street west of Cottage Grove avenue but little dry ground is visible. Nearly all the bridges over the Calumet river are in danger from ice.

THE STOCK MARKET. A Bullish Feeling Prevails and Prices Go Higher.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.- | Special Telegram to the BEE, |-The sentiment in regard to stocks was in the main bullish to-day. It was conceded that the strikes were in a fair way to be settled and the news likely to come out from now on, it was claimed, would be favorable to advancing the market. The various bull pools were quietly at work picking up stock without making any effort to advance prices. Pacific Mail was a conspicuous bull card, advancing above 56 on the announcement that a compromise with the Pansina railroad company had been effected which would save the Pacific Mail company a good many hundred thousand dollars yearly. The pool in St. Paul did a lively business in that stock around 92 and the point was freely distributed that it would sell about 95 this week. Some very bullish statements in regard to its earnings were promulgated. The strength in St. Paul and Pacitic Mail rave a tirm tone to the rest of the list. The coal stocks, however, were nervous early in the day on reports that Mr. Corbin had com-promised with the Reading employes, grantng an advance in wages. It was feared that this would cause further frouble with the employes of other roads. The market ruled rather heavy during the closing hours and there was some talk that several of the pool, notably the one in St. Paul, were liquidating. fersey Central made a gain of 3 per cent and Reading followed closely with an advance of 1 per cent. Pacific Mail closed at the top fig-ures and the Wabashes were also bull cards. The total sales were about 325,000 shares.

Several People and Many Horses Burned to Death at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Feb. 9.-A fire broke out between 11 and 12 o'clock to-night in the extensive livery stable of Jesse Arnot on Chestnut street between Ninth and Tenth, and running through the block south to Market street. The fire spread rapidly in the combustible material with which the stable was filled, and the entire building was soon a mass of flames. No very accurate information is available at this writing, but it is said that there were about two hundred horses in the stable, one-balf or more of which are said to have been burned. There were also a large number of fine carriages, burgles, hearses and other vehicles in the building, nearly all of which were consumed. After the fire had been under way about an hour, and while the firemen were making their way into the building, one of the high interior walls fell with a crash, burying several firemen and some speciators in the debris. It is not known how many burying several fremen and some speciators in the debris. It is not known how many persons were covered, but at 1:30 a. m. three dead bodies had been taken out, one of them that of Joseph Schimper, foreman of Engine No. 6. The two others are supposed to be those of stable hands, names unknown. Six persons are said to be more or less seriously wounded but their more or less seriously wounded, but their names cannot be obtained to-night. Efforts are now being made to recover more bodies from the runs. The loss on the stables is estimated to be about $150,000, with reported insurance of $50,000. But outside of this there will be numerou individual losses as quite a number of per-sons boarded their fine road stock at this stable and some of their losses will be very considerable. Definite information is ver neagre at this hour. LATER—John McGrath and John Finnerty, two firemen, were seriously hurt and taken to their homes, and William Finnerty, another fireman, who was holding the pipe on the second floor of the stable, jumped through a window and was crippled some.

Bomb Throwing in France. LYONS, Feb 9 .- Two bombs were simultaneously exploded in front of the police headquarters office in this city. The bombs struck against the railing and were thus prevented from expending their force on the building. At Stetienne, thirty-two miles southwest of Lyons, a bomb was turown at the police station. It exploded outside the office, but with such force that three officers within the building were seriously injured. Eight men have been arrested. Eight men have been arrested.

Although I admit Mr. Prince de-feated me fairly in our race Saturday night, am far from being satisfied that he can de eat me in another race of twenty miles, and l issue the following to Mr. Prince: I hereby challenge John S. Prince to ride a twenty mile bicycle race for $50 a side and gate receipts, said race to take place one week after my race with Mr. E. Bullock, and each party shall start on opposite sides of the track. The reason I make this proposition is that it is almost impossible to pass a fast man like Mr. Prince on so small a track at the finish of a race. By starting this way it will give both parties lots of room to gain or lose, and I think make us both make faster time, for by this way it is bound to be a fast race from start to finish. The Salvation Army.

Praying, singing, shouting, the gleam of knives and revolvers, the whiz of rocks and brick bats flying through the air, the crash of breaking window glass, the crying of women and the blasphemy of men-all these and a hundred other elements went to make up a meeting at the Salvation Army barracks on Jackson street last night. A reporter happened in there casually last night. What he saw literally defies description. It is all but incredible that such scenes could transpire in this supposedly civilized city of Omaha.

The services were led by a young man with a very large nose, and a very coarse voice, who was arrayed in blue pants and a red shirt-the latter fitting his body closely, something similar to the garment used by athletes, and bearing in large letters across the front the words "Salva tion Army.

Next to him sat a woman in blue, wear ing a large Quaker bonnet with a ribbon inscribed "Salvation Army." Two girls of about eighteen years of age—rosy cheeked and strikingly pretty—looked demurely from under the shade of similar Quaker bonnets. They were also Salvation Army soldiers. A young man with a very ragged pompadour sat on the end of the bench. He pounded the drum and furnished the harmony for the occasion. The two girls sang. What they lacked in appreciation of the necessities of harmony they made up in earnestness. As the reporter took his seat, the young man with the drum jumped to his feet and commenced vigorously a refram something like this: The swearer may come,

The drunkard may come, They'll be welcome home to-day." "Oh! Rats!" yelled a boy in the rear of the hall.

"Let-'er-go-Gallagher!" shouted another The man with the red shirt jumped to his feet, and clapping his hands together, cried, "Praise the Lord! Praise the

"I know that some souls are being saved to night," remarked the pretty blonde, who was styled by her army comrades the "cadet," "because the devil is making such a fuss about it." Then she commenced to sing:

A little talk with Jesus sets it right, sets it right,
A little talk with Jesus keeps it right, in a low monotone, which was almost drowned by the beating of the drum. "Oh! Come off the perch, there!" screamed a blasphemous individual in the rear of the hall.

"That'll do now," said the captain, who seemed fast losing his patience, "if you don't keep still, young man, I'll have you put out!"

'Go to h-l, will you," returned the disturber in a much lower tone of voice. The redshirted captain did not heed this invitation to descend to the regions Plutonic, for he continued to exhort the sinners to come to the front and be saved At this juncture a loud kicking was heard at the door. The mob outside, nearly fifty strong, had passed beyond the control of three policemen who had been detailed as guards, and had, after some attempts to quell the riot, left in supreme disgust. The mob hurled itself against the door. Crash! Bang! Crash! gave away, and a motley throng of toughs flocked in. The sentinel at the entrance, as soon as the pressure subsided, swung the door to and barrieaded it with a piece of plank.

An old, white headed man in the audi ence came to the front at this point, and commenced to read the state law on the subject of disturbing religious meetings saying that the law and wound up by would be strictly enforced. "Hurrah for Council Bluffs," screamed the man in the rear, who seemed bound to disturb the meeting.

"For the sake of God, don't act this way. Remember this is the house of the Lord," said the pretty cadet, advancing to the edge of the platform, her lips twitching nervously.

"Feed her some saur kraut," yelled another disturber. This last sally was too much and a Salvation Army soldier rushed to the rear and announced that he would eject the disturber. The mob gathered about him and commenced to thump him vigorously. Dr. F. D. Wilson, who was in the audience, rushed to the rescue, and seizing the disturber fired him out doors. The mob was about to attack him when Mrs. Wilson raa back and throwing her arms around her hus-band afforded him a protection which

The crowd fell back. For a moment the disturbance was over. Then Mrs. Wilson tottered and would have fallen to the floor had not the arms of her husband saved her. She had fainted. She was given the benefit of fresh air, and in a few moments was re-stored. In the meantime the mob outside was hooting, yelling, some of them boldly flashing guns and revolvers. I was not deemed best to take the lad through such a crowd and she resumed her seat with her husband. All this time the "soldiers" in front were singing and praying and exporting. "The Lord will save us," cried one of them. "This is the devil's work," responded another.

The crowd outside grew bosterous again. They finally battered down the door and rushed in, blaspheming and hooting derisively. A brickbat was hurled through one of the windows, ploughed its way through the audience and struck a justice of the peace, who happened to be present, on the back of the head. He was not severely injured. One of the soldiers of the army went to the rear and tried to quell the disturbance. He was jumped on by a pugilist, thumped soundly and sent back to his associates, bruised and bleeding.

ARMY NEWS. A Big Sum For Fort Robinson-Major Smith's Illness.

General Dandy has received estimates from Fort Robinson of the new buildings which are to be erected at that post. They include a complete set of barracks for the men and quarters for the officers. It is not known whether these estimates will be accepted or not. They are now under consideration. General Dandy said to-day: "The sum of $75,000 has been appropriated for these buildings at Fort Robinson and we have promise of $25,000 more, if that extra sum is needed. As soon as the estimates can be made and accepted and plans drawn up the contracts will be let. Work will be commenced in May."

AFTER HER HUSBAND. A Wronged Wife Locates Her Husband in Omaha. A neatly dressed, good looking Bohemian woman appeared at the police station yesterday and asked for aid in bringing to justice her husband. Her story is that two years ago she was deserted in St. Louis by her husband, John Kratski, and left to the care of three young children. She had managed to toil along and make a living for herself and children by doing laundry work. A short time ago she learned that her hus band was living with another woman in Omaha. This information was furnished her by Omaha parties who had learned of her husband's perfidy. St. Louis friends furnished her with funds to pay her way to Omaha for the purpose of getting the law after her husband. said that her husband is running a saloon on South Thirteenth street, and is living with another woman.
