THE VIEWS OF FAIRY LAND.
 The Poor Farm Sold to Horace Everitt—Coasting Accident—Deeds Keep Speaking Louder Than Words.

A Night With Fairies.
 The opera house was again crowded last evening with a delighted audience enthusiastic over the enchanting "Naiad Queen." The fairy opera is rightly named. Few, even of those who had high expectations raised, but were surprised. Certain it is that nothing of a home entertainment has been presented here which was so full of merit, and nothing, either of home or foreign talent, which has equaled it in scenic effect.

The work of preparation has extended over weeks past, and the necessary drilling of over 200 persons has been an almost herculean task. Last evening the opera was presented with much more success than on the opening evening. There was less timidity on the part of the little folks, the dazzling novelties of the opening night had lost somewhat of their bewildering effects, and the participants were so much more at home on the stage that many of the causes of criticism were done away with. The audience was really wild with enthusiasm as the wonderful scenic effects were produced with lightning rapidity. The peeps at Fairyland were indescribable for beauty and grace.

The musical features of the entertainment were excellent. Some of the best singers in the city participate, and the solo work is in the hands of those fully competent. Mrs. J. G. Wadsworth, the Naiad Queen, is a comparative new resident of this city, but she has already won her way into popular favor by her wonderful voice. She has cultivated it thoroughly, and the ease with which she handles it, the sweetness, clearness and smoothness of tones calls forth merited admiration from the most critical auditors. Her acting is a little stiff and her manners a little too deliberate for a fairy queen, but her voice atones bountifully for any such defects.

The Merkel sisters, Misses Anna and Barbara, are always gladly welcomed. They have charming voices, and they always sing as if they really enjoyed it themselves. There is so much sympathy, inspiration and thrill in their sweet tones, and in duets their voices blend so perfectly, that the audience would be cold indeed which did not become enthusiastic over these gifted sisters. One represented the Goddess of Mercy, the other Justice. Another of this talented family, a younger sister, Miss Minnie Merkel, fully as promising in the musical line as either of the others, sang a very pleasing solo in her character as the gypsy fortune teller. A touch of timidity prevented her doing her best.

Mrs. J. A. Roff is given a prominent part, that of the daughter of wealth. She is a favorite singer here, and her appearance calls forth hearty applause. She has a brilliant voice, flexible, round and full, and with her happy face and graceful manners she captivates an audience as soon as she utters a note. Her part involves some difficult bits of acting, and she accomplishes these with great credit. As the wealthy and proud girl she pictures the scorn for the poor beggar woman, with whom she is suddenly made to change places by the will of the fairy queen. In her condition of tatters she pleads for mercy, and in the dual part does some very good acting. The sweetest and most touching scene of the evening is the charming act of the several floral tributes were presented her by enthusiastic admirers in the audience.

Miss Mattie Josselyn, as the child of poverty, merits special notice. She has a contralto voice, which she handles well in several short and pathetic solos.
 Mr. I. M. Treynor took the part of the sentinel of the queen. He has one of the clearest, smoothest and strongest tenors. It is always a delight to hear him, and in this opera there are numerous chances for the showing of his excellent voice. He won a full share of applause, and Miss Annie Miller as a merry Zingara, sang a pleasing solo.

Miss Bessie Squire took a prominent part, and for one so young, did wonderfully, surpassing even her friends. Her voice was excellent in song, but her acting, her grace of position, her ease of manner, were really remarkable. Professional actors could hardly have done better than she.

Belle Snyder, as a child of faith, sang a pleading for the boatman to take her across the lake in the storm, and with a clearness of enunciation which made every word audible to all. She took her part so naturally that the scene was one of the most pathetic of the whole evening.

Viola Burgess, as the blind girl, sang a touching song and carried out her part well.
 Miss Mary Clark, as queen of the gypsies, was charming, and the duet with Charles H. Brown, the king of the band, was excellent.
 Clem A. Herschell merits special mention for his excellent portrayal of the character of the boatman.

The choruses were better than on the opening night. It is difficult to train so many young voices so as to get the best out of them, but considering the large number the management may well be satisfied with the result. The costumes were rich and varied. The scenery was gorgeous, and some of the stage actions were wonderful. The drill of the Dryads, under the direction of Samuel R. Millour, was marvellous, and it seemed that the audience must have to be round after round of applause calling for repetitions of the charming evolutions, marches and tableaux.

In fact no such entertainment has ever been given here before, and the audience are so delighted that there is no question about the house being filled every night. Those who want choice seats must secure them quickly.

The entertainment has so many children in it that it will be a severe strain on many of them. For these little folks to appear night after night for nearly a week will exhaust them greatly, and the parents and friends will have to take special precautions to prevent injury to health. The excitement and exposure, the work and the anxiety will make the little ones badly fagged out by Saturday night.

THE RIGHT OF WAY.
 The Provisions of the Ordinance in Regard to Tenth Avenue.

The following is the substance of the ordinance giving the right of way to the Union Pacific.
 The right of way is over, along and upon the alley in block 12 in Fleming and Davis' addition to the city of Council Bluffs, Ia., at the intersection of said alley with the Union Pacific railway transfer depot grounds, and from said intersection running east on said alley to the point where said alley intersects Indian creek sewer ditch; and over and across Sections 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, at which point said right of way herein granted to said company shall terminate, and thence commencing at a point on Tenth avenue at or near as practicable to the intersection of Fourteenth street with said Tenth avenue, and thence in, along and upon said Tenth avenue east to the intersection of said Tenth avenue and Sixth street, and the streets and alleys necessary to reach said Tenth avenue from the point of starting, upon the most practicable route; Provided, however, that in case a line across any portion of the lots in said blocks, 9, 10, 11, 12 and C shall be adopted, the Union Pacific railway company shall procure a right of way through, over and upon such lots of the private owners thereof.

 The Union Pacific shall lay its tracks before December 31, build and maintain a freight depot on the south side of Tenth avenue, between Sixth and Ninth streets, and the company shall be released from the obligation to maintain a freight depot on Broadway and Union avenue, but must maintain a passenger depot there as now.

It is especially stipulated and agreed that said Union Pacific railway company shall deliver and receive all its passengers at the union passenger depot which is now contemplated to be built by the Union Pacific depot and railroad company of Council Bluffs, except local passengers, which may be received and landed at the local passenger depot on Broadway, as above excepted and provided; but said depot to be built by the said Union Pacific railway company, or other persons, company or corporation, which said depot shall be located north of Tenth avenue and east of Eleventh street, and after said depot is completed and ready for use and occupancy, after the passage of this ordinance, and within eighteen months after the acceptance of the same by the Union Pacific railway company, and in the event the Union Pacific railway company should neglect, fail or refuse to comply with the foregoing conditions, then the rights and immunities granted in the ordinance shall be declared null and void, and all rights granted shall revert to the city of Council Bluffs, and it is further provided and stipulated that the said Union Pacific railway company shall abandon the proposed transfer depot, as a passenger depot, as soon as the above named depot is completed as aforesaid.

The written acceptance of the company must be filed within thirty days. There is also granted to the said Union Pacific railway company for the purpose of extending its line in an easterly and southerly direction, the right of way for one or more tracks in, and along Tenth avenue, across Sixth, Fifth, Fourth, Third, Second and Eleventh streets, and across Eleventh avenue, Twelfth avenue, Thirteenth avenue, Fourteenth avenue, Fifteenth avenue and Sixteenth avenue, and the alleys in the blocks between said avenues west of Third street; provided, that no railway tracks shall be laid or shall be built over and across the streets and alleys mentioned in this section until the right of way therefor shall have been acquired through private property intervening between the same, upon the route adopted by said railway company for the extension of its said tracks.

Secretary of State Enthusias.
 Secretary of State Jackson recently visited Council Bluffs and on his return to Des Moines was interviewed by a Register man there. The Register has poked a great deal of fun at Council Bluffs, but it will probably now be more cautious after receiving the following information from Mr. Jackson's own lips:

"The boom at Council Bluffs is a genuine one. It is due to several causes. First, I consider it but an equalization of values between the two cities. For instance, a business man residing in Omaha who wishes a residence must go out five or six miles west or south and then pay a high price. He can go two miles east, into Council Bluffs, and get as good a lot for half the price. The people have seen this, and when the project for the big bridge was put in tangible shape and the Union Pacific purchased a large tract of land in Council Bluffs, the Omaha people started the rush. The Union Pacific evidently intends to remove its shops across the river on the enormous taxes of Omaha, and I have no doubt is also preparing to move eastward to the markets by a line of its own. But the scenes in Council Bluffs are more like those in some wild, western speculative town than in an Iowa city. It is something remarkable, but the boom is genuine."
